There will be six Fourth of July celebrations in Quincy during the coming three-day weekend — down in numbers but not in enthusiasm.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Board, said he does not know why some half dozen neighborhood organizations have dropped their smaller celebrations.

"Perhaps it's because there are fewer kids around now," he said. "Maybe it was the rainy weather during June."

The six celebrations that remain are spread evenly over the three days, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. They are:

Saturday, July 3
Merrymount Beach - 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., concert and Miss Merrymount Beauty Pageant, sponsored by the Merrymount Association.

Welcome Young Playground

- 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., field day, sponsored by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

Sunday, July 4
Faxon Park, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., field day, sponsored by the Adams Height Men's Club.

O'Rourke Field, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., field day, sponsored by the Morrisette Legion Post.

Monday, July 5
Fore River Field, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., field day, sponsored by the Ward II Civic Association.

Wendall Moses Playground - 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., parade and field day. Sponsored by the Squantum Community Association.

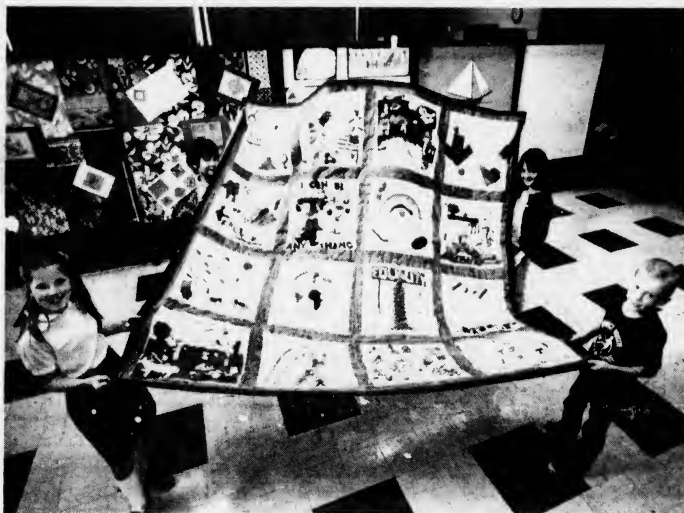

The Houghs Neck Community Council held its annual Fourth of July Field Day last Saturday at LaBrique Field.

Public Hearing, Vote Aug. 3 On Proposed Hours Rollback

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted Tuesday to hold a public hearing Tuesday, Aug. 3, at 10 a.m. on the controversial proposal to roll back the closing time of liquor establishments from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m.

The board also approved a motion by Fire Chief Edward Barry to put the matter to a vote immediately after that hearing.

The issue was on the agenda Tuesday, the last regular meeting before the summer recess, but no vote was taken because the board is under a restraining order obtained by counsel for six of the city's bars forbidding a vote on the question.

Atty. Richard W. Barry said the basis of the action was that there has been no notice of a public hearing prior to the meeting. He said he heard the issue was on the agenda through the media.

Atty. Barry said he is representing Nostalgia, (formerly the Beachcomber), Quincy Shore Drive; Quincy Bay Inn, Hancock St.; The High Rise, Maple St.; Joy King, Hancock St.; Duttons, Sea St.; and California, the Parkingway.

Atty. Barry also said there was no formal removal of the prior health commissioner, Dr. Robert McKeogh, prior to the appointment of Dr. M. Grace Hussey. Chief Barry cast the only vote against the Aug. 3 hearing. He wanted to hold the hearing earlier, but at least one license board member was to be on vacation prior to Aug. 3.

City Clerk John Gillis said the hearing will not be limited to one speaker from each side as in past hearings.

Dr. Hussey, who appears to hold the deciding vote, said she does not know how she will vote on the question.

She said she thought she knew how she would vote, but that she wants to keep an open mind for the upcoming hearing.

Dr. Hussey did not disclose her earlier inclination.

City Councillor James A. Sheets, who initiated the ordinance, said he has asked police that it be strictly enforced.

$100 Fine For Trespassing At West Quincy Schools

Persons caught trespassing on the grounds of the Gridley Bryant or Willard Schools in West Quincy after 10 p.m. are now subject to a $100 fine.

City Councillor James A. Sheets said he hopes the heavy fines will prevent vandalism to the two properties.

It's going to cost $150 to swim in two West Quincy quarries once the signs can be posted in Granite Rail Quarry and Swingle's Quarry.

Impact Notices In Fall 100% Reval Final Phase Starts July 6

By TOM HENSHAW

Appraisers from the State Department of Revenue will be in Quincy Tuesday, July 6, to begin the final phase of the 100 per cent revaluation process.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said it is possible that impact notices of the new valuations could be in the mail to Quincy homeowners and taxpayers by Sept. 1.

"This is good news," said McCauley. "I was concerned that the state would not be able to get around to us until August or September."

Even with the July start, McCauley said, the tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1983 might be late enough that estimated bills may have to be sent out for the second year.

The two elements of the tax rate are the tax levy and the total valuation of the city.

The tax levy is fixed by Proposition 2½ but the total valuation of the city will not be known until it is fixed and certified by the state.

McCauley said the state appraisers will be in the city probably for three weeks checking on the work of P.R.C. Jacobs, the Virginia firm that has been revaluing the city for the past two years.

"They'll probably kick it around for another week and find some minor things wrong," said the mayor. "We hope to have the impact notices in the mail no later than Sept. 1."

First The Caterpillars, Now The Mosquitoes

A request for city funds for mosquito control has been placed by Mayor Francis X. McCauley in the file of "good things to do if the state gives us more money than we thank."

The request was made by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell.

McCauley said that former Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh had placed an item of $31,000 for mosquito control in the Health Department budget for fiscal 1983 but the mayor cut it out.

"I'll take this," he said, indicating Brownell's request, "and other requests for appropriations for when the cherry sheet comes down and we see what additional funds we have."

Other requests in the wait and see hopper include:

— $150,000 to establish a data process department in the city. McCauley called it "sorely needed."

— $500,000 to fund the unemployment compensation account, which has fallen behind due to a change in the city's experience rate.

— $400,000 to fund the retention of 22 firefighters who may have to be laid off in September.

— An indeterminate sum to restore some of the massive cuts suffered by the School Department in the past two years.

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the July 4th holiday, The Quincy Sun will have an early news deadline for its July 8 issue.

Social, sports and general news releases should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. by Friday to assure publication next week.

McCauley Attends U.S. Mayors Meeting

Mayor Francis X. McCauley returned last week from the 50th annual Conference of U.S. Mayors in Minneapolis where he attended workshops in small business development and coping with urban crime.

The conference adopted some 55 resolutions including one in opposition to any change in the administration of Community Development Block Grants and Urban Development Action Grants.

Another resolution supports the continuation of full funding for elderly housing.

Lydon Sees Hotel Start In 18-24 Months

Planning Director James E. Lydon says he sees the possibility of groundbreaking for construction of a mid-sized hotel-conference center in Quincy within the next 18 to 24 months.

The hotel-conference center, which is recommended in a recent market study made for the Planning Department by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. of Boston, would be on the Old Colony Crushed Stone Co. land. Lydon said an unspecified hotel chain has been interested in the site in West Quincy hard by the Southeast Expressway.

The Peat Marwick survey concludes that "a 300 to 400-room hotel would be an appropriate facility size" consistent with the major economic development that is going on in Quincy.

The study noted that the city now has only 150 hotel or motel rooms, none of them affiliated with a major national hotel chain, and it has no hotel-conference facility whatsoever.

"The firms that would be most likely to develop or manage such a facility include Hilton, Holiday Inn, Sheraton, Stouffers, Marriott and Hyatt," said the survey.

"Based on the assumption that a proposed 300 to 400-room hotel conference center would be a suburban, high quality, major hotel chain-operated facility with a compatible quality restaurant and lounge area and sufficient meeting rooms to accommodate conferences of 20-300 people, a significant amount of business activity would be generated."

In addition to short-term employment opportunities during the construction period, said Peat Marwick, "an expected 150-200 fulltime jobs would be created to operate the facility," most of them at the low to moderate income level.

Such a hotel-conference center facility, the survey points out, would net the city a windfall of $61,320 in state aid in the first year if an 0.3 per cent hotel room tax is approved by the Legislature.

Lydon said construction of a hotel in the Old Colony Crushed Stone area would not rule out the possibility of a second hotel in downtown Quincy.

Boston Hotelman Robert Sage has for several years expressed an interest in building a hotel in the Ross Parkingway, provided plans for the Burgin Parkway Extension are followed through.

"Sage is still interested," said Lydon, "even without the Crosstown Connector, as long as there is a Burgin Parkway Extension."

Lydon said that Boston, which is now in a hotel "squeeze", expects to have 4,272 new rooms by sometime in 1985.

"If it wasn't for that," he added, "you could have expected to see three hotels in Quincy."

Board Approves License Handshakes Receives Welcome

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
After hearing words of praise and letters of commendation about the three young Quincy applicants, the License Board granted licenses Tuesday for a health food restaurant, Handshakes, in Quincy Square.

Timothy Cahill, Edward Graham Jr., and Joseph Irvine were granted common victualer and Lord's Day licenses for the restaurant which will open early next week at 8 Granite St., the former site of Crimson Travel Service.

A grand opening is planned for Friday, July 9.

"They're outstanding people," city councillor Leo Kelly said of the applicants.

Kelly said that the American dream has included the now elusive opportunity for young people to own a home, and to start businesses.

He urged the board to continue to offer young people the chance to start a business.

Councillor Patricia Toland also urged that the licenses be granted, and said that there would be enough customers to go around for the area's restaurants, some of which had opposed the proposal.

Former City Councillor Edward Graham Sr., father of one of the applicants, said, "I'm proud of them. I know the city of Quincy will be proud of them."

David Ezickson of Miller Stile Road said that encouraging young people to stay in the city would begin a rejuvenation process.

Letters of recommendation were received from Carmen Mariano, Quincy Public Schools, Office of Personnel, Business and Plant Facility, and from Martha Robinson of the culinary arts department of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

A letter from the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association board of directors also endorsed the venture.

After the license was granted, Atty. Peter Eleey who represented the applicants, said, "Now that the vote is over, we'd like to leave a sample of the menu for the staff in the council chambers."

"Put them in the city clerk's office," laughed John Gillis as he eyed the platters of croissants, bread, melons, strawberries, pineapples, and other items that were brought into the room.

Final Curtain Rings Down On The Strand

By TOM HENSHAW

The final curtain has been rung down on the 57-year-old Strand Theater, the big first-run motion picture house to three generations of Quincy movie goers.

The screen went dark Saturday following the last showing of the picture "Victor Victoria" and the building is in the process of being sold to the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

The demise of the Strand leaves the entire city of Quincy with only one active motion picture house — the Wollaston Theater, which is still showing movies on Beale St.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is one of those who remembers the days when there were three big theaters in downtown Quincy, the Strand, the Capitol and the Art, and two smaller ones, the State and the Adams.

"The Adams was the place where you'd go for the Saturday serials and the cartoons," he recalls, "but the big deal was to go to the Strand at night. I think it was 17 cents under 12."

McCauley said he has heard some talk that the old Strand is to be demolished and replaced for a short time by a parking lot but a spokesman for Quincy Mutual said there are no firm plans.

"We are still negotiating for the building," said the spokesman.

The 12,000-square foot Strand lot abuts the current Quincy Mutual parking lot and stands next to the former Scott Gordan Furniture showroom, which was recently purchased by the South Shore Bank.

The Strand, which was built in 1925 by former Mayor William A. Bradford and was in its heyday as the belle of Quincy movie theaters in the 1930s and the 1940s, when City Clerk John Gillis ushered there.

The first talking picture in Quincy — Vitaphone's "The Lion and the Mouse," starring Lionel Barrymore, was shown at the Strand.

The theater business in Quincy was hotly competitive in those days before television when free chinaware and bank nights were used to lure customers from one theater to another.

There was the Quincy Theater (later the Capitol), the Alhambra Theater (later the Art), the State (where part of Remick's is today) and the Adams, which occupied the old Quincy Arena.

Outside Quincy Center, there was the Wollaston Theater, the Regent in Norfolk Downs (where the Granite Cooperative Bank is today), and the Lincoln (formerly the Casino) in Quincy Point.

"My mother-in-law used to tell me about the Sea St. Dream Theater in Houghs Neck," recalled McCauley, "but you have to be a real old timer to remember that."

And now there is only the Wollaston left.

CVS Leaving Quincy Sq.

Dacey Brothers Seek Downtown, Quincy Ave. Stores

A special License Board hearing will be held Tuesday, July 6, at 2 p.m. to consider proposals from Dacey Bros. Dairy, Inc., for stores in Quincy Sq. and on Quincy Ave.

The Quincy Sq. location will be 1423 Hancock St., the site of a CVS store, and 305 Quincy Ave., on land to the left of Keltic Liquors.

According to Atty. Robert Macomber, the proposed stores will be different from the four other Dacey Brothers stores in Quincy in that they will have a deli for take out only. Hours will be 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week.

Macomber said that indications were that CVS would be leaving the Hancock St. location in August. He said his client would like to proceed with plans.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that Dacey Bros. only needs the board's approval for the deli section of the store.

Macomber indicated that the licenses for the delis were important to the proposals.

Austin Wickens, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, asked that the matter be delayed so that the membership could discuss the proposal.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that he would not mind meeting next Tuesday to discuss the proposal even though this week was the last regularly scheduled hearing before the summer recess.

Jeremiah J. Dacey, president, said that a cement building constructed by Ricciardi Co. would house the store on Quincy Ave.

Finn said that cars would be hidden until they came out of the parking area resulting in a "bad traffic problem."

Fire Chief Edward Barry agreed and said, "it's a bad area and people have been killed."

"The store would be safer more north than south," said Barry, "the liquor store will block the view."

Joseph Bates indicated to the board that he was selling that section of land to Ricciardi because of its proximity to Faxon Commons and Presidential Estates.

When asked if he could sell the property to the right of Keltic Liquors, Bates said that there was a proposal for 500 luxury condominiums behind the Presidential Plaza. As part of the arrangement, Bates said he would not put a food operation in the adjoining area.

"There's no question that the location would fly," said Barry, "but we have a responsibility to the people in the area and their safety."

City Clerk John Gillis said that if the location were moved further down Quincy Ave., there would be better visibility.

The applicants indicated they will work on the suggestion and report back to the board.

Summertime...and the Banking is Easy!

This is Quincy Cooperative Bank's drive-through facility at the new headquarters office, 85 Quincy Avenue, where you are invited to bank without getting out of your car.

You will find the drive-throughs convenient for most of your banking transactions, whether you are driving to or from work, or on an errand with the kids and the dog.

It's convenient because there are three lanes and the hours are the best you'll find: The drive-throughs are open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, and until 7 p.m. on Thursday. The Saturday hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Our Children Are Not Numbers

As all of you know, I have been a concerned and involved parent for many years. I have observed many changes in our School System - some positive and some negative. I have tried to speak out when I felt parents needed to be listened to. I am progressively becoming frustrated because it seems that fewer people listen to the concerns of parents. Who's prime concern is the education and welfare of their children? Some of us may not be educators and possess degrees, but we have an inner sense when things are not going well. What have we got to fight with? We band together and voice what we think should be the best for our children and no one listens. This has become progressively evident over the last few years.

I am not trying to put the blame on any one person. We have all made mistakes - this includes Parents, Staff, Administrators and School Committee. We can't let this devastate us. We have to fight for our children. Quality education (especially public education in this city) appears to be going down the drain.

I get sick of listening to numbers - that numbers don't justify this or that. Our children are not numbers. They are human beings. All children in the Quincy Public Schools deserve and should expect the same quality of education no matter what school district they live in. I will cite an example:

At Point Middle School, next year, there will only be 4 full-time staff members (in the major areas of instruction) and 11 - 1/2 time staff members (some assigned to teach in these same areas). People will argue that other Middle Schools will have 1/2 time staff but that is not critical if there are 2 to 3 full time staff to an area of instruction. To say that, because of numbers, a school has to accept 11 - 1/2 time teachers is wrong. What quality of education will these children have? What does a student do if he needs assistance in an area of instruction and that teacher is not around because he/she is being shared with another school and is not available? How does a staff member get to know students with this type of scheduling? There will be no sense of belonging and it will kill any feeling of dedication that these staff members have.

I feel there is something grossly wrong with the implementation of the Middle School concept. Why were parents not listened to when we asked for a one year delay? I feel we could have avoided some of the problems we are forced to face today. By putting in place this concept for the next school year, when we are not ready, we have only managed to tear into the strong core of quality we once had in this school system. We have staff against staff and elementary administrators against junior high administrators. Now we are faced with losing, to early retirement, two of the finest administrators this school system has. My question is why? The answer to this question is that things obviously are not going the way we are being told. Things are not as they should be. Things are not running smoothly. Who is going to suffer? It will be the children. Please ask questions! Find out what is going on and then please band together and try, before it is too late, to rectify these problems. Set aside your differences of opinion and work as one body to pull our system out of what looks like a downward track from which we may never be able to recover.

Now, Their Blood!

In his six months as mayor, Francis McCauley has built a reputation as a somewhat tough taskmaster.

There's work to be done, get it done. Not tomorrow - today! He gets in early, his department heads know they better be there, too. Get to the point, don't take all day about it. If a decision is to be made, make it - don't make a career of studying it.

They say he expects inspiration - and perspiration - from his staff.

And, now you might say, he wants their blood. And, they're gladly giving it.

McCauley himself is giving it, too, - to the Red Cross at the bloodmobile at Quincy Point Congregational Church. In fact, he's been giving it for quite sometime and recently donated his 13th pint.

Now he has his own City Hall group donating each eight weeks. They include: Administrative Assistant Arthur Foley, Executive Secretary Peter Kenney, City Solicitor William Golden, Planning Director James Lydon, and Gerry Kavanaugh and Susan Spellos of the Planning Department.

P.S. There are openings if you want to join up.

DON'T KNOW ABOUT you but we're a little disappointed that there isn't going to be more green at Quincy Center Plaza. We would have liked to see more grass and less concrete to give it a real park look.

McIntyre Mall beside City Hall is a beautiful spot. Quincy Center Plaza with more green would have made a pretty balance at the Granite St. end of Hancock St. like two pretty green bookends.

We are also sorry to see original plans for a water fountain scrapped. Word is that it was abandoned in fear that it would become a constant - and costly - target for vandals. That's sad.

OOPS: Last week in our item on ward coordinators for the Committee to Elect Michael Dukakis we listed Mary Coughlin as coordinator with Dale Musgrave in Ward 6. That was a typo gremlin. The name is Mary Gougian, former president of the Squantum Community Association. Sorry about that Mary.

Ward 2 Events July 5

The annual Independence Day festivities sponsored by the Ward 2 Civic Association will begin at 10 a.m. Monday, July 5th at Fore River Field.

Entries in the following field events will be at 10 a.m.: Sack race, three legged race, wheel barrel race, dashes. Immediately following the conclusion of the field events the doll carriage, horribles and bike parades will take place.

Prizes and awards will be presented throughout the day to the winners of each of the events, parades and contests. Free hot dogs, ice cream and tonic will also be supplied.

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING the recent kickoff party for Senator Paul Harold was Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, daughter of the late Robert F. Kennedy. She attended to represent her uncle, Senator Edward Kennedy to express his thanks for Harold's support in his Presidential campaign and to endorse Harold's candidacy for a third term.

HAROLD

ATTY. GEN. Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy will be honored at the Italian American Charitable Society's Gold Medal dinner Oct. 30 at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston.

Cesare Pietrangelo Jr., president of the society, said Bellotti will receive the medal "as an outstanding individual who, by his deeds and accomplishments, has contributed significantly to the Italo-American community and image nationwide."

BELLOTTI

Others who have won the Gold Medal Award in recent years have included Dr. Enrico Fermi, one of the developers of the atomic bomb, and former Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts.

The Rev. Msgr. Eugene P. McNamara, executive director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston, will receive the society's Pro Deo Award for his work on behalf of the underprivileged.

Pietrangelo said more than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the Gold Medal Dinner. Tickets may be obtained by calling the society at 389-0530.

Wollaston Man Serving On 'Old Ironsides'

By GLENN HOUSTON

As a youngster, Frederick J. Flores, 24, of Wollaston made his career decision -- to join the Navy -- and one of the experiences that helped form that decision was visiting the USS Constitution.

Petty Officer 3rd Class Flores, had another dream -- to someday serve on the Navy's oldest warship. He fulfilled that dream in February when he joined the Constitution's crew.

"I feel really good about being here," the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flores, 13 Sewall St., Wollaston, said. "I re-enlisted for orders to the Constitution."

"I grew up in Quincy and visited this ship often. I was impressed with the ship and the crewmen. I feel I'll really be doing something here."

Flores served on the destroyer USS Barry, homeported in Mayport, Fla., and later in Newport, R.I., before joining the Constitution's crew.

The 41 crewmen have to do all the work of a normal ship's company -- administration, supply, food services, managing the enlisted quarters and maintaining the condition of the ship -- in addition to hosting as many as 6,000 visitors a day aboard the Constitution, homeported at the Boston National Historical Park, the former Boston Navy Yard, in Charlestown.

As a ship's serviceman, Flores is the ship's barber. He is also responsible for several vending machines, financial records and helps issue the unique 19th century seamen's uniforms worn by the crewmen when they escort visitors or march as "Pikemen", the Constitution's marching unit. They are called Pikemen because they carry 7-foot spears, called pikes, that were used to repel unwelcome boarders from the ship.

"I was impressed with the uniform the crewmen wore when I came here as a kid," the 1976 graduate of Quincy Vocational Technical School said. "I feel proud to wear it. We're the only people in the Navy who have it."

Flores said there wouldn't have been anyone like a ship's serviceman aboard the Constitution in the 19th century. The cook took care of giving haircuts to the crew.

Besides being barbers, ship's servicemen operate and manage ship's laundries, dry cleaning plants and retail stores.

"I worked as a stock clerk at the Friendly Family Center before I enlisted," Flores said. "That's why I decided to become a ship's serviceman."

Flores learned his job partly through on-the-job training on the Barry and by attending barber school while he was aboard his first ship.

"The only comparison I could make between the Barry and the Constitution is that I was under way a lot on the Barry, and when the Constitution was a fighting ship it was at sea most of the time too," he said.

"I've made a North Atlantic and a Mediterranean deployment and trained in the Caribbean. Traveling helps you mature. I don't think, after meeting different people, eating their foods and learning their customs, someone comes back home the same person. I was a street kid before I joined the Navy. It has certainly quieted me down and given me a sense of responsibility."

Part of Flores' job on the Constitution is being responsible for the security and safety of his ship. He and his shipmates are trained to respond in case of fire or damage.

But the most visible part of his job is meeting the public. Before he could act as a tour guide he had to learn the Constitution's history, construction, and the artifacts on board.

"We have to know every inch of the ship," Flores said. "People point to something and say, 'What's that?' We have to be able to answer. I enjoy meeting the public and telling them about the Constitution."

The Constitution was built in Boston and launched in October 1797. Costing $302,718, it was as expensive to the nation's economy then as an aircraft carrier is today.

It was designed as a 44-gun frigate although it carried as many as 55 cannons. The ship was strong enough to defeat an enemy of equal size and fast enough to outrun a larger vessel.

It had almost an acre of flax sail on its three masts and a good wind could travel 15 mph.

The Constitution served in about 43 combat engagements against the French, Barbary pirates in the Mediterranean, and British in the War of 1812. It never lost a battle, never was

Merrymount Honor Roll Dedicated

Two Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Alfred Furniss and Mrs. John Kelly, unveiled the honor roll as thousands of Merrymount residents turned out on Independence Day morning for the ceremonies at the corner of Sea St. and Narragansett Rd.

The honored dead from Merrymount whose names appeared with a gold star on the honor roll included Roger F. Furniss, Theodore M. Jackson, Paul Kelly, Frederick Martin, Alexander McQueen, Frederick C. Murphy and John A. Stanton.

City Solicitor John P. Flavin was the principal speaker at the dedicatory exercises that highlighted Merrymount's 23rd annual observance of the Fourth of July.

Elsewhere on the Fourth in Quincy, the Davis St. Associates held a gala block dance the night before with about 300 dancing to the latest recordings. Edith Nicholl and Charles Corey won the elimination dance.

The Squantum Women's Club float, with costumes designed by Mrs. Albert D. Young, won first prize in the Fourth of July parade in Squantum. The day started with the flag-raising ceremony supervised by George O. Dixon.

Milk and ice cream were distributed to children at the Montclair Improvement Association celebration, which also featured movies in the Montclair School and a model airplane show presented by John Giorse and Arthur Muldoon.

HERO'S WELCOME

Mayor Charles A. Ross announced plans for the city to honor Marine Maj. Everett P. Pope, the first of its sons to win the Congressional Medal of Honor. John A. Sandblom, the veterans' aid director, was named to chair the committee.

Major Pope, whose father, Laurence E. Pope, lives at 155 Billings St., North Quincy, won the nation's highest decoration when he and his men repelled a Japanese attack on a Pacific island with stones when they ran out of ammunition.

Meanwhile, Marine Cpl. Walter G. Parker, 36, husband of Mrs. Geraldine Parker of 503 Hancock St., also was acclaimed a hero when he fell on three Japanese hand grenades in an Okinawa shell crater to save his buddies. He suffered body and leg wounds.

GAS STATION OPPOSED

A petition with 123 names of nearby residents was presented to the License Board in opposition to plans for a gasoline station at 632-636 Adams St. It was presented by Kenneth McIsaac, Mrs. Matthew Gindorf, Mario Ferrazzi and John Mitchell.

Mrs. Gindorf told the License Board that there already were eight filling stations within less than a quarter of a mile on Adams St.

QUINCY-ISMS

Samuel Wolf of 230 Quincy Ave., Quincy Point, complained that a deer was coming out of the woods near Winthrop Park every morning and eating the vegetables in his backyard garden.

Michael J. Mahoney was installed as the sixth president of the Quincy Lions Club. Francis X. Coleman of Dorchester reported to police that his pants and wallet were stolen while he was swimming in Fallon's Quarry. The fried clam plate was 65 cents and the fresh lobster salad $1.20 at Topsy's Chicken Coop, 1143 Hancock St., at the corner of Dimmock St. Mayor Ross filed nomination papers to run for re-election. The Senate Ways and Means Committee reported favorably on a plan to build a $4.5 million sewage treatment plant at Nut Island, Houghs Neck.

Mr. and Mrs. Michelangelo Tirone of 113 Elm St. were notified that their son, Marine Pvt. Salvatore Tirone, 19, was killed in action on Okinawa. President James C. Gardner presided at the monthly meeting of the City Employees Union Local 802 at William Bradford Hall. MDC Commissioner William Morrissey recommended a $23,000 appropriation to improve Old Colony Boulevard and provide shore protection for Quincy Shore Drive. Butter was 47 cents and 24 red points a pound at the A and P stores. Lt. Lloyd A. Oster of 10 Standish Ave., Wollaston, was en route home on the Navy Transport Hermitage after being freed from a German prison camp by Russian infantrymen.

Mrs. Ida F. Kramer of 72 Glendale Rd. filed nomination papers to run for the City Council from Ward 1. Robert H. Rimmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Rimmer of 84 Narragansett Rd., Merrymount, was promoted to first lieutenant at an Air Corps base in India. Mayor Ross advocated the erection of a new municipal hospital for chronic cases as a post-war project. "This Man's Navy," starring Wallace Beery and Tom Drake, and "Nothing But Trouble," with Laurel and Hardy, were playing at the Regent Theater in Norfolk Downs. Thomas D. Curtin, 50, prominent real estate man, died at his home, 52 Highfield Rd., Merrymount. Johnny and Phyllis were performing at the J and J, Inc., formerly Lucien's, 80 Copeland St., West Quincy. The Squantum Swimming Club beach on Dorchester St. was dedicated to the memory of Lt. Robert I. Nickerson, the first Squantum serviceman killed in World War II.

SINUS PROBLEMS AND TEETH

Q: I have terrible pain in my upper teeth, but my dentist says that there is no cavity and no abscess, and that the problem is probably in my sinuses. How can this be?

A: Because the sinuses extend very close to the roots of the upper back teeth, sinus and dental problems in this area can be confusing. In fact, the roots of the upper molars sometimes protrude into the sinus itself.

This can make it difficult to determine just where the problem is. (Usually, but not always) it is dental if the teeth are sensitive to cold. Sometimes a sinus infection will show upon a dental X-ray, and a diagnosis can be made in this way.

Occasionally, problems arising in the teeth can actually spread to the sinus. Severe infections in the upper molars may spread that way, particularly if a tooth with roots extending into the sinus has to be extracted.

Germantown Mother Receives Degree At Son's Graduation

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mrs. Marjorie Sullivan of Germantown watched her daughter, Elizabeth, graduate from William Smith College, Geneva, N.Y., in 1978.

"I'm going to do that one day," she said.

And true to her word, she did -- at her son Michael's graduation recently.

Mrs. Sullivan received a B.A. degree in psychology-education from Emmanuel College, Boston.

By special permission, she was awarded her degree during St. Anselm's commencement in Manchester, N.H. where her son received a B.A. degree in sociology.

Pleased that the two college's were able to make the arrangements, Mrs. Sullivan had nonetheless made sure her son had no objections.

"He thought it was a marvelous idea," she says.

A school nurse for nine years at the Point Webster, Pollard and Wollaston schools, Mrs. Sullivan was greeted with applause when she was awarded her diploma.

"It was the finale," she laughs, "and everyone was asked to hold their applause until the end."

Mrs. Sullivan, a widow, completed requirements for her degree during evenings and summers over three years.

An R.N., she wanted to further her education.

Since being graduated from Mass. General Hospital's School of Nursing, she had attended nursing seminars but found the requirements of college courses took a bit of getting used to.

Among the courses she particularly enjoyed were medical ethics and Irish history.

Quilt Making Project At Furnace Brook School

Students at Furnace Brook School, as part of the federally funded Project Interaction for Educational Equity, participated in a quilt making project this spring.

There were activities such as a movie presentation, displays of antique quilts, and demonstrations of various quilting techniques and patterns.

Nationally known quilting artist Michael James showed some of his works and discussed quilting as an art form currently enjoyed by both sexes.

Each class in the school designed and constructed an appliqued square around the theme of equity between the sexes. Decorative borders were added by parent volunteers, and every child signed his/her name as part of the design.

The squares were then assembled into a finished Commemorative Quilt which will be on display in the Furnace Brook School lobby now through June 25.

Furnace Brook School is one of seven "impact schools" in Quincy involved with Project-Interaction, a program intended to eliminate sex stereotyping and raise awareness of educational equity issues.

The Action Team organizing the event include: Kay Shea, Carol Grotrian, Pat Barry, Blane DiNuccio, and Janet Doyle.

In the spring of 1981, $1.9 million was awarded to replace heating systems, siding and roofing.

The Quincy Housing Authority, which administers the family housing project, hired a consultant who will have prepared plans and specifications in six to eight weeks. The project will then go out to bid.

Ed McHale, spokesman for the state's Executive Office of Communities and Development, said this is the second part of a

City Prepares MDC Challenge On Nut Island

The city of Quincy has begun to train its big guns, financial and political, on the polluters of Quincy Bay, particularly the MDC's sewage treatment plant at Nut Island.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has set up a task force, headed by City Solicitor William Golden, to establish a uniform anti-pollution policy in the city and enforce it by legal means.

The city Council was asked Wednesday night to appropriate $7,500 from next year's revenues to pay legal fees incurred by Quincy Shores Association, Inc., in its pollution fight.

Meanwhile, all but one of the city's beaches had been reopened by Tuesday after they were ordered closed June 11 when the bacteria count soared above the accepted 700 limits due to sewage pollution. The only beach that remained closed was Perry Beach in Houghs Neck, which is located in a little cove near the Nut Island plant where pollutants get caught in an eddy effect.

Winthrop Wade, director of Environmental Services, said samples of water were taken at Perry Beach on Tuesday and he was optimistic that recreation area could be opened on Wednesday. "The water looks awfully good," he said.

Members of the Golden Task Force are scheduled to turn in individual reports on their experiences with pollution tomorrow (Friday), when the task force holds its second meeting.

Members include Golden, Wade, the city's state reps and councilors plus Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey, Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and Assistant Solicitor Dean Nieastro.

"It is hoped," said McCauley, "that this task force can work closely with state officials to establish a policy that will terminate discharges from the sewage treatment plants."

"The task force also seeks to establish a long range timetable for the cleanup and enhancement of the bay which would be entered as a consent judgement enforceable against all institutional polluters."

"The committee has begun to assert itself already by requesting the MDC to closely monitor the coliform bacteria count along Wollaston Beach and take steps to prevent potential health hazards to swimmers."

shop locally.

Quincy Shores Association, in a letter to McCauley and City Councilor Leo J. Kelly requesting the $7,500 appropriation, said the money would be used to further "vigorous legal, educational and organizational efforts."

"Because of the inadequate maintenance and supervision of the present sewage treatment plants run by the MDC at Nut Island, these bay waters continue to be used as massive settling tanks for sewage," said the QSA.

"We can no longer allow this condition to continue."

"Our immediate goal is the improved performance of the present plant and our long term goal is the elimination of local outfalls into the fragile ecosystems of our bays."

Counsel for ousted Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh is asking the courts to determine that his client's termination by the mayor was illegal and that he be reinstated.

Atty. Richard W. Barry of Quincy filed a complaint for declaratory relief Monday in Norfolk Superior Court asking that the termination be ruled illegal because no cause was shown.

Barry asked that the courts, pending a hearing on the case, reinstate Dr. McKeogh to his position.

Dr. McKeogh was fired for what Mayor Francis McCauley called a violation of state law by failing to devote his entire time to his duties and maintaining a private practice on the side.

"Dr. M. Grace Hussey of Merrymount was named to the post of health commissioner effective June 21."

Rev. Arthur C. Magnuson Installed At Wollaston Nazarene

Wollaston Church of the Nazarene recently installed the Rev. Arthur C. Magnuson as assistant pastor, minister to youth.

Mr. Magnuson completed his Master of Divinity degree at Boston University's School of Theology. He specialized in historical theology, specifically on the impact of John Wesley's separation from the mystic theology of John Law.

A 1977 graduate of Eastern Nazarene College in Christian education, he is a native of Franklin.

Mr. Magnuson will assume responsibility for the ministry to junior and senior high youth at the church, and already has active spiritual and social programs under way.

Prior to coming to Wollaston, Mr. Magnuson served several other youth ministry positions. Most recently he and his wife, Genevieve, have been serving as house parents at an emergency shelter for runaway and abused adolescents in Beverly.

While at the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri, he served Faith Presbyterian Church as youth minister. Prior to that assignment he was youth pastor at Medway Community Church in Medway.

He will join the Rev. Russell Metcalfe, senior pastor, and the Rev. Clifford Hersey, associate pastor, in full-time service at the church.

For information on available programs for youth through the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, call the church office at 472-5669.

Reaches Break Even Point Wollaston Facility Records First Operating Surplus

James J. Collins, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners, announces the Wollaston Recreational Facility in North Quincy has reached the financial break-even point and will for the first time in its six year history have an operating surplus of approximately $10,000.

"The budget for Wollaston has been sharply reduced ($70,000) to $238,000 and income through June 30, will be approximately $248,000," Collins said.

"We have now proven that Wollaston can be operated as a high quality facility and still show an operating surplus. The days of an operating deficit are gone forever. John C. Nourse, Administrator of the facility, James Fitzroy, Superintendent and their dedicated staff can be rightfully proud of their accomplishment."

Nourse said "There are a number of reasons for the turnaround to profitability:

- "The complete cooperation and aid of the Norfolk County Commissioners who refused to give up on Wollaston and have fought a long battle to preserve this much needed 92 acre recreational, conservation area.

- "The Feb. 16 award of a beer and wine license to the facility by the City of Quincy which has increased play substantially.

- "Conversion of over 50% of the staff from permanent to seasonal employment.

- "Volunteer cleanup help provided by the dedicated students of Milton High School, Milton Academy and the 100-member Wollaston Recreational Facility Men's Association.

- "Cooperation from Judge Albert Kramer and Jack Williams, Business Liaison of the Quincy District Court for providing vital part-time community service personnel with over 450 hours of help.

- "Merger of the Development & Tourist Department with the Wollaston Recreational Facility."

Nourse also noted:
"We are currently operating on an income only basis but to provide further insurance that we stay within income only, legislation has been filed to operate the facility as an enterprise account similar to the Quincy City Hospital operation."

"The amazing thing about the progress of Wollaston," Nourse said, "is that we have financially survived the worst spring weather in history including a 14" snow storm on April 6th that shut us down for 5 days plus, four weekends in a row that produced very poor golfing weather."

"Wollaston has a very bright future," said Nourse, "we intend to operate it as a profit-making business. Right now we are conducting a professional study on the feasibility of the installation of an alternate energy source, a windmill, to reduce our $17,000 per year cost of electricity. If it proves to be practical as anticipated there is 50 per cent state aid available under a new state energy program."

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsweil

WEEK OF: JULY 1

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Week signals the start of a financially upbeat cycle coupled with an increased workload. Property matters may be stalled temporarily. Close relative becomes surprisingly stern.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Vocational aspects highlighted, with your work atmosphere improving significantly. Romantic entanglement becomes knottier before this situation improves. Domestic tensions are easing.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Ponder over recent romantic/career/educational turns before making any drastic moves. It's easy to act from the heart only. Stay alert to promising opportunities for making extra cash.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Recent disappointments are all but forgotten during this financially and emotionally positive week. If the happy trend is to continue, remember to learn from past mistakes.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Financial road is paved more smoothly, with fewer surprise expenses. Moderation is the key in romance as well as in health. If entertaining, a casual affair is your safest bet.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

You may feel let down having completed a major task. A change is probably much better than a rest now; favored for Cancerians are travel, redecorating, and learning a new skill.

LEO - July 23-August 22

You may have difficulty conveying important ideas; try a light touch for a change. Be prepared for unpredictable weather - and unpredictable moods, especially from younger relatives.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Important platonic friendship is developing through the week. Academic and vocational interests are accented, but spend more time arranging priorities and discussing short-term goals.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Follow up on recently launched projects; some of your instructions may have been "misunderstood" - conveniently. Friends are touchy if you criticize their choice in people, books, movies - anything.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

New interests spotlighted; you may find yourself joining anything from a bridge club to a class in dance aerobics! After a lull, relationships are again highly satisfying.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Partners act on hunches while your own ideas are rooted in logic - an unbeatatable combination. Good week to do preventative maintenance, from the smallest gadget to the largest.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

There are hints of job opportunities, but be quick to spot them. Vacation plans may be rearranged to your ultimate delight, but don't look for any shortcuts this week.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Willingness to help others is your most splendid quality. Imagination is alive, need for security is sometimes extreme. Next six months spotlight travel and career. New assertiveness helps you attain a personal goal early in 1983.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 1st, actor Farley Granger; 2nd, actress Cheryl Ladd; 3rd, director Ken Russell; 4th, actress Gina Lollobrigida; 5th, showman P. T. Barnum; 6th, singer Della Reese; 7th, actor Vince Edwards.

All-American Softball Reunion

A Sentimental Journey To Chicago For Mary Pratt

By TOM SULLIVAN

Forty years ago Chicago Cubs owner Phil Wrigley opened up an avenue of professional sports for girls and women. It was the girls' All-American Professional Softball League.

In that first summer, the late Ralph Wheeler, then schoolboy editor for the Boston Herald, contacted three Massachusetts girls who had played for the Boston Olympets, a team that operated out of the Boston Garden in the summers of 1939 and 1940.

The three, pitcher Mary Pratt of Quincy, one of the finest woman athletes ever to come out of this area; third baseman Maddie English of Everett and catcher Dorothy Green of Natick, thanks to Wheeler's efforts, joined the All-American League and all had fine careers.

Next Thursday, July 8, the three women will be in Chicago for a four-day reunion of the league. It is expected that 250 former players will attend from all over the United States and Canada.

The league operated for 10 seasons and Mary Pratt pitched for five years, playing for Rockford, Ill., and Kenosha, Wis. Maddie English played for Racine, Wis., and Dotty Green for Rockford.

Mary has been a physical education instructor and coach in the Quincy school system for 37 years. English is also a teacher and Green is employed by the State Correctional system in Framingham.

"I began as a shortstop but was advised by Howie McHugh (Celtics publicist for many years) that I would never be a shortstop, throwing left-handed," said Miss Pratt. "I decided to try pitching."

She had several fine seasons in the All-American League and one season won 21 games.

"The league began with four teams and eventually expanded to eight," she said. "It was started as a means of providing a substitute for the Triple A teams in the mid West, who at the time had to curtail play during World War MEMORY LANE — Back in 1940 Mary Pratt, probably Quincy's finest all-around female athlete, was the top pitcher and one of the leading batters for the Boston Olympets softball team. Mary later starred in the mid-West in the All-America Conference.

II. It began basically as the game of softball but in the latter years it became baseball played on a shortened diamond."

The reunion resulted from the combined efforts of former players, fans and league officials. A newsletter, with a current circulation of 250, has been compiled each month for the last year and a half by a former Michigan fan. As a result of this publication, the whereabouts of hundreds of former players, managers, officials, umpires, etc., have been determined.

The teams were coached by men who brought a great deal of baseball experience to the league. Among them were former major league stars Marty McManus, Jimmy Foxx and Max Carey.

"The league operated for 10 years and a great deal of its success was due in measure to its unique organization," Miss Pratt said. "Strict dress codes on and off the field, league rules and strong directorships within each city provided a firm financial base of support."

"In its latter years Mr. Wrigley withdrew his support and a former associate recently said that with his withdrawal, many standards were lowered, which led to the decline of the league."

Miss Pratt who played for many Greater Boston softball and basketball teams, has coached both sports in high school and junior high school.

She was an outstanding bowler in addition to her softball and basketball prowess and for many years has been one of New England's top basketball referees.

• Junior Farm League

Braves, Pirates On Rampage

The Braves bombed the Giants, 19-3, in the Junior Farm League as Sean Berg pitched a six-hitter, blanked the Giants after the first inning, had three hits and made two outstanding plays.

Peter Whyte, Tom Sullivan, Brian Haggerty, Steve Buccella and Dennis Carroll had key hits.

For the Giants, Tim Collins, Carmen Oliva and Jennifer Cook had two hits each.

The Pirates walloped the Dodgers, 18-3, pounding out 16 hits while Mike Baylis and winning pitcher Matt Kelley combined for a five-hitter and struck out six batters each. Jason Radzevich had three hits as did Baylis. Steve Sumpter and Mike Lally had two each and Mark Kelleher, Kelley, Ron Last, Billy Lydon, Billy Curry and Steve Pearson one apiece. In the field Last made three good plays, Baylis and Kelley teamed up for a double play and Steve Carroll made an outstanding play.

The Pirates had another big hitting day as they collected 17 hits in outslugging the Cubs, 14-11, with Curry the winning pitcher.

Carroll had three hits, Kelleher, Baylis, Last, Sumpter and Curry two each and Kelley, Radzevich, Chris Polito, Lally and Pearson one apiece. Polito, Kelley, Baylis, Carroll, Last, Sumpter, Kelleher and Lally all had fine plays in the field and Radzevich, Mike Boylen, Pearson and Lydon also played well. Chris Stenman pitched well for the Cubs.

The Angels ended their season in impressive style as they annihilated the Indians, 31-10. Jimmy Flaherty was the winning pitcher.

Every Angel had at least one hit with Flaherty having five, including two homers, Peter Kelley and Richie McDonald having homers and Robbie O'Connor two triples. For the Indians Phil Cosgrove had two long homers and Mike Spadorcia played a strong two-way game.

12 Quincy Girls Compete In U.S. Volleyball Championships

Twelve Quincy girls recently returned from the U. of Tennessee, where they participated in the U.S. Junior Olympic Volleyball championships.

The players were chosen at tryouts in April from the New England Juniors volleyball program directed by Art Carmichael. After training for two months, they, along with players from other Massachusetts communities, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, left to represent New England in the championships.

New England juniors is a fairly new program that already involves hundreds of junior high and high school players under the direction of several high school and college coaches who donate their time to the development of the players and program.

Last year two teams went to Omaha and this year, after the program had been expanded, seven teams went to Knoxville.

Being a first experience for many girls on the seven teams, the N.E. teams did not fare too well in the playoffs, going against much more experienced players.

The best showing was by the New England A team for girls 15 and under, which finished third, losing to Burbank, Ill., in the semifinals.

Having finished with competition, the players were given free use of the U. of Tennessee campus facilities, including a beautiful outdoor pool. Most visited the World's Fair located only three blocks away or watched the Mobil AAU National Track Championships, also hosted by the university.

Nancy MacDonald of Quincy High represented Quincy on the New England 1 team for girls 17 and under.

On the A team for 15 and under, there were Christine Gallery of Quincy High, Sandy Dunn of Central Junior High and Mia Gonzales of Abp. Williams.

On the B team for 15 and under were Karen Marnell of Central and Lori Hanley of Fontbonne Academy.

Playing for the Diggers, 13 and under, were Stacie Nigro, Marlo LeVangie, Carolyn Keddy, Marivie Escano and Stacey Carvalho, all of Central Junior, and Pamela Austin of Sterling Junior High.

Quincy's Chris Prendiville was an assistant coach for the New England 1 team.

Boating, Sailing Program Registration Thursday

The award-winning boating and sailing program of the Quincy Recreation Department will open for eight weeks with registration today (Thursday) at the William F. Ryan Boathouse at Black's Creek.

Entrance to the boathouse is the road adjacent to Adams Field that runs through Pageant Park to the boathouse parking lot.

Recreation Director Barry J.

Welch said that the program is open to all Quincy residents on a fee basis. The instructional program will be divided into age and skill classes. Youths aged 8-16 who have passed a qualifying swim test will be offered classes in rowing, sailing, and canoeing from beginner to advanced levels. This program will be offered daily from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Interested applicants may take the swim test at any of the 11 swim stations or at Lincoln Hancock Pool.

Adults may participate in the program daily from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m. Adult and family sailing is conducted on weekends. Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday hours will be noon to 6 p.m. On a limited basis, special adult instruction may be arranged during the day for adults who work evenings.

Swimming Schedule

The Quincy Recreation Department announces the weekly schedule of swimming instruction for the city's beaches.

Week of July 1-2:

Thursday, July 1, high tide 8:57, Beach hours: 12 - 6, REGISTRATION for all classes.
Friday, July 2, high tide 9:29, Beach hours: 8 - 1.

Brigham Bats Wollaston Jrs. To Championship

Bob Brigham had three hits, scored two runs and batted in another to lead the Wollaston Junior Legion baseball team to a 6-3 victory over Morrisette to win the Eastern Norfolk County championship at Adams Field.

The two teams were tied for first place with five wins and three defeats apiece when the remainder of the season had to be called off to give the local titlist an opportunity to take part in the playoffs leading to the national tournament.

Morrisette collected 11 hits off Mahn, the Wollaston pitcher, including two each by Ray Cattaneo and Warren Mills, but clutch pitching by Mahn and the defensive play of shortstop Dave Burke, who handled 13 chances, kept Morrisette at bay.

The lineup for Coach George (Bootsy) Chapman's Wollaston nine included Hammond 2b, Cahill cf, Mahn p, Casey 2b, Burke ss, Spear c, Carpenter rf, Brigham 1b, Erickson lf.

The lineup for Coach Pryor Hall's Morrisette club included Mills 2b, Halloran rf-1b, Salvucci cf, J. Cattaneo 3b, Leone c, R. Cattaneo ss, Doherty rf, Miller lf, Burrill 1b-p, Reynolds rf, Marini p.

The same two teams had wound up the regular season with a 5-5 tie, which was saved for Morrisette when Ray Cattaneo came up with an unassisted double play in the ninth inning with what would have been Wollaston's winning run on third base.

A few days earlier, Wollaston had spoiled Morrisette's bid to go ahead in the title chase when Buster Spear, Phil Hammond, Charles Cahill, Bob Carpenter and Jack Casey put together five hits for five runs in the seventh and a 6-3 victory.

McCAULEY NO-HITTER

Eddie McCauley pitched a no-hitter and struck out seven and Dom Scanlon bolted a double and a triple as Sacred Heart of Don Quincy blanked St. John's 7-0 in a CYO league game at Kincaide Park.

The Sacred Heart lineup included Worthley 2b, Scanlon rf, Hines ss, McGuigan c, Duval cf, McCauley p, Keaney lf, McCabe 1b, McOnville 3b.

The St. John's lineup included Salvaggio 2b, Pettenelli lf, McCallum 3b, Dinardo p, Gambino 1b, Crosta rf, Panarelli ss, Salvaggio cf, Pasquale ph, Salvaggio c.

COMETS WIN

Southpaw Dick Kelly scattered 10 hits and his teammates erupted for five runs in the seventh inning as the Comets overwhelmed Robbie Williams' Sacred Heart team, 8-2, in a Quincy Park League game at Kincaide Park.

The Comets lineup included Koury 2b, McKinnon 2b, Kerr rf, Hall 1b, Bandini lf, Driscoll c, J. Frazier ss, C. Frazier ss, Gagne 3b, Mahoney cf, Kelly p.

The Sacred Heart lineup included Johnson ss, J. Donovan 1b, Sweeney 2b, Creedon cf, R. Donovan rf, M. Donovan 3b, Higgins lf, McGuigan ss, Murphy p.

PHYLLIS AWAITS CALL

Phyllis Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Morris of Mayflower Rd., Squantum, was back home after several weeks of tryouts with the Kenosha-Racine, Wis., team in the midwest women's professional softball league.

Phyllis, a recent graduate of North Quincy High School, was told she would be called as soon as there was a vacancy on the team. While she was there, she met Mary Pratt, a former Wollaston resident now pitching in the midwest.

SQUANTUM SAILORS WIN

Edward Gallagher of the Squantum Yacht Club drove his Bomber to a narrow victory in the Hustler Class in the annual Independence Day regatta at the South Boston Yacht Club. Joe Carven's Arawak, also of Squantum YC, was victorious in the Indian class.

BRAVES WIN TWO

Butch Nioman's three run homer in the 10th inning enabled the Boston Braves to whip the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 in the first game and Tommy Holmes hit a pair of homers to run his consecutive hitting streak to 28 games in an 8-7 Braves' win in the second.

SAUNDERS BACK IN ACTION

Jeppie Saunders, longtime manager of Fore River baseball teams, out of baseball for the first time in many years, was reported putting together an independent team to tour New England during the month of August taking on all comers.

SPORTS BITS '45

Jean DeForest won her second round match in the 17th annual tennis tournament at the Faxon courts. The Boston Braves were seeking approval of the War Production Board to put lights in Braves Field.

The first miniature golf course was built in 1929 by Garnet Carter; he called it the "Tom Thumb Golf Course."

A-N, Sterling Girls Softball Co-Champions

The Atlantic-North and Sterling junior high girls' softball teams finished as city co-champions this spring with 6-2 records. Both of Sterling's losses were to Atlantic by 18-5 and 11-6 scores.

"This year's team was one of my all-time best despite the fact that three of our starters were seventh graders," said A-N coach Gail Raftery.

Raftery cited the outstanding performances of center fielder Michelle Cenreves, shortstop Noreen Connolly, catcher Melissa D'Angelo and starting seventh grade pitcher Ann Anderlonis.

Other players were Tricia Grant, Peggy Heim, Patti Sullivan, Debbie Thomas, Maryellen Heim, Jennifer Killeen, Nancy Leonard, Anisse Rodriguez, Colleen Hannon, Katy Wilson, Carolyn O'Reilly, Theodora Kyrans, Stacey Barnes, Beth Pacino, Julie Weitbrecht and Tammy Powers.

"The entire team gave its best effort in each and every game and was a credit to Atlantic Junior High School," Raftery said.

Leading the pitching for Sterling, coached by Jerry Quintiliani, was Colleen Phillips with a 5-1 record. Leading batters were Terry Duggan, .643; Chris Cucinatta, .583, and Beth Veneto, .548. The team batting average was .500.

Sterling defeated Central, 19-12 and 22-16; Point, 9-5 and 15-5, and Broad Meadows, 12-11 and 21-10.

The starting team consisted of pitcher Phillips, catcher Marie Cedrone, first baseman Terry Duggan, second baseman Donna Campbell, shortstop Capt.

Rounding out the squad were Suzanne Carroll, Darline Derbes, Nadia Derbes, Brenda Mitchell, Kathy Smollett, Kathy Thomas, Diane Deweaver, Tricia Brown, Ginny Duggan, Susan MacGregor, Susan Parry and Kim Parzych. Carol Ahola was scorer.

At the post-season pizza party hosted by Quintiliani, Cucinatta received the Most Valuable Player trophy, Terry Duggan received the trophy for best batting average and Veneto was given the Best Sportsman Award. The players will receive letters and certificates and they will buy their own championship jackets.

"The girls did a tremendous job this year and I would like to thank the teachers and parents for supporting the girls and attending the games," Quintiliani said. "The support was a great boost for the girls."

Bunnies - Castaways All-Stars Win, 11-9

The annual Houghs Neck Women's Softball League all-star game was held last week with the team comprised of the Bunnies and Castaways topping the team made up of the Hustlers, Sea Gals and Neckers, 11-9.

Playing for the winners were Donna Brill, Nancy Carmody, Ruthie Galligan, Michelle Hebb, Maureen Maher, Nancy McQuinn, Laura Miller, Terri Provost, Jayne Reynolds and Jeanne Reynolds.

The losers were comprised of Kathy Carmody, Maura Doherty, Mary Gallagher, Helen Gleason, Jeanne Holler, Mary Kamb, Maureen McCourt, Mal Morrell, Sue Pacetti, Yvette Shaw and Ann Sullivan.

The league officials extend their thanks to the all-star coaches, Jimmy Gilmore, Ed Kelly, Stan Provost and Rick Tatum, the umpires, Joe Pacetti and Priscilla Little.

Jones, Lomano, McHugh Power Quincy Savings, 14-8

Phil Jones had four hits, Bill Lomano a grand slam homer and Jim McHugh a three-run homer to back up some clutch pitching by Joe Pacino and give Quincy Savings Bank a 14-8 victory over Division 1-leading Hancock Bank in the South Shore Bankers Softball League.

Trailing, 6-2, going into the third inning, Tom Quinn's club exploded for four runs to tie, then added seven runs in the fourth. For Hancock Kevin Cahill had a homer and double and Bill Guerard had four hits. Charlie Cahill pitched well in relief.

Bay Bank won its fourth game in a row and moved into second place in Division 1 by upsetting Division 2-leading State Street Bank, 6-4. Bay Bank scored twice in the last inning for the win.

South Weymouth Savings Bank crushed Quincy Co-Op, 29-2, with Al Catania pitching a strong game. Len Smith and Ron Baker paced the offense for South Weymouth, which is starting its move into playoff contention after a slow start.

South Shore Bank outslugged Atlantic Data, 15-11, with Rich Delmote, Charlie Mallette and Roger Madison sparking the winners.

The standings: Division 1: Hancock, 7-2; Bay Bank, 5-4; South Shore Bank, 5-5; Atlantic Data, 2-7. Division 2: State Street Bank, 6-2; Quincy Savings, 4-5; Quincy Co-Op, 3-5; South Weymouth, 3-5.

Houghs Neck Rebounds To Win 4

Houghs Neck bounced back from its first loss to win four games in a row in the Quincy Babe Ruth League. All games were played within a week due to the many rainouts.

Houghs Neck topped the Elks, 8-4, with Joe Ciardi pitching a six-hitter for his first win of the season. Dave Zuroms continued his torrid hitting with two doubles. Pat Hennessey, Ciardi and Tim Collins had two hits apiece and Collins four RBI, giving him nine in the last three games. Mike Farrand and Tommy Logan had two hits each for the Elks.

HN scored all its runs in the last two innings to overcome a 3-0 deficit and defeat the Police, 5-3, with Tom Elsmore the winning pitcher and Mike Morris the loser. Elsmore pitched four shutouts in three games and gave up only two hits.

Collins had a double and single and drove in three runs, while Dennis DeCoste, Rob Steen and John Carroll all contributed to the win. Dennis Cronin had two hits for Police.

Houghs Neck scored five runs in the sixth to overhaul Golden Print, 8-5, with Hennessey the winner with a four-hit, eight-strikeout relief effort. He also had three hits and two RBI. Ciardi had two hits and an RBI. Zuroms a booming double, and Peter Furtado, Greg McGlame, Elsmore, Collins and Steen also had hits. Bob Nichols of Golden Print had a triple and Mike Minichello a double. HN came up with two double plays.

HN had returned to the win column with a 6-0 victory over VFW as Zuroms pitched a four-hitter and struck out eight. Furtado had three hits including a triple and Hennessey had three hits including a double. HN pulled off three more double plays.

Elks In Wrong Streak

The Quincy Elks baseball team continued to find the going rough during the past week in the South Shore Coast League, losing three games to drop its record to 3-10.

The Elks have made some roster changes, dropping some players and adding new ones and hope to improve over the second half of the season.

They will play at Randolph tonight (Thursday) at 6 o'clock and will host Canton next Tuesday night at 8 at Adams Field.

The Elks lost to the South Shore Phillies of Hingham, 5-1, scoring their only run in the fifth inning when Mike McCormick singled and raced to third when the ball eluded the left fielder and scored on Mike Hall's single. Todd Mills and Tom Eames had the only other hits. Jack McInnis was the losing pitcher.

The Elks bowed to Abington-Rockland, 6-1, with Eames the losing pitcher. The lone run came when Jamie Walsh walked, stole second, moved to third on Dave Swallow's infield hit and scored on Paul Barressi's sacrifice fly. Steve Millane and Brian Condon had the only other hits.

The Braintree White Sox topped the Elks, 5-1, with Paul McConville taking the loss. The Elks left 10 men on base and scored their only run in the seventh when Condon singled, moved up on an infield out and scored on Dan Boyle's single. Condon had two hits and McCormick and Boyle one each.

Kurt O'Sullivan of North Quincy, who played for the Quincy team last season, pitched five-hit ball and struck out seven for the White Sox.

Registration Begins Thursday For Basketball Camp

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration beginning today (Thursday) for a week long basketball camp for boys and girls ages nine to 13.

The camp, a new program for the Quincy Recreation Department, will be conducted rain or shine July 12 - 16, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. It will feature individual instruction and a counselor ratio of 1 to 10.

According to Quincy Recreation Director Barry J. Welch, "this program has been designed to give city residents a low cost alternative for youngsters who desire specialized instruction in sports but who can not afford the high cost of residential sports camps."

Camp director for basketball are two local coaches; Brian Buckley, head coach of basketball at Quincy Junior College, and Paul Bregoli, head coach of basketball for girls at North Quincy High School.

In addition to their head coaching experience, both men have worked at basketball clinics and camps for many years.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department Office on a first come first served basis. Enrollment will be limited to insure the quality of instruction.

Locations of the clinics will be announced after enrollment at several sites may be used. Cost of the program is $15.00 for the week.

800 BIKE FATALITIES

Last year some 800 children were killed and over 38,000 injured in accidents between bicycles and motor vehicles. 75% of these accidents took place between April and September and children between 10 to 14 had 50% more accidents than those below 10. The problem seems to be that children consider their bicycles as toys rather than vehicles. Here are some tips which may prevent needless tragedies.

Ride with the traffic, on the right side of the road, not against traffic on the left. Walk bikes across heavily travelled intersections. If you ride in a group, travel single file, not side by side. Use hand signals to show the direction you intend to turn. If riding at night, have a working white light in front, red light in the rear and reflective tape on the fenders. Attach a basket if you carry books or packages so you can use both hands for control.

Wollaston, Morrisette Rebound

The Wollaston Legion baseball team which had lost three games in a row after winning two of its first three games, bounced back Monday night with one of its best two-day performances to end Hingham's four-game win streak with a 1-0 victory to improve its record to 3-4.

Meanwhile, Morrisette, which had lost its first game at Weymouth after five wins in a row, rebounded with a vengeance Monday night, bombing Canton, 18-2, to stay tied for first place in Zone 6 with a 6-1 record.

Morrisette and Wollaston played last night (Wednesday). Morrisette will host Randolph Friday at 8 at Adams Field, and will play at Braintree next Tuesday at 6.

Wollaston will be at Norwell Friday at 6 and will play at Holbrook Monday night at 8:30.

Andy Eames pitched a three-hitter and struck out five for Wollaston Monday. The only run of the game came in the top of the seventh when Jim Kelly singled, Mark Righini reached on a fielder's choice, Righini took second on an overthrow and scored the winning run on Steve Hogan's double. Kelly also had a long double off the left field fence.

Wollaston played errorless ball with Steve Spencer making some outstanding catches to keep Hingham off the board. The infield, sparked by Mike Venna at second and Bob O'Brien at shortstop, came up with several key plays.

Before losing three in a row to Randolph, Holbrook and Brockton, Wollaston had upset Canton, 3-1, with Dan Dunn and Joe Conti combining for a two-hitter and striking out 13.

Kelly singled two runs in the first and also drove in Venna with the other Wollaston run. Jack Brown had two hits and Righini, Kelly and Spencer one each.

"We had a few bad games, but I honestly feel we can now beat any team in our league," said assistant coach John Belcastro, who handles the team along with Dick Travers.

Wollaston's roster comprises Hogan, O'Brien, Mark Hubbard, Brian Gibbons, Bob McElaney, Keith Smith and Kelly from North Quincy High, Eames, Spencer, Dunn, Conti, Bob Campbell, Righini and Frank Reynolds from Quincy High, Venna and Tom Corliss from Don Bosco, Vin Cristiani from B.C. High and Brown from North Quincy High and Northeastern.

Morrisette unleashed its most potent attack of the season Monday night to defeat Canton with unexpected ease. Canton had been playing fine ball and had handed Braintree its only loss. Paul Earle, pitching fine ball for 4 2/3 innings, and Kevin Whalen combined for a four-hitter.

Jim Bandera had four hits, Brian Reale, who has hit safely in every game, had two doubles and drove in four runs, Jack Bolster had three hits, by Mark Fitzgerald, who struck out seven. Bandera was the losing pitcher.

In its previous game Morrisette topped Milton, 12-5, with Earle pitching 4 1/3 innings and Mike Notarangelo the last 1 2/3. He struck out two.

Jeff Timberlake and Bandera drove in six runs between them. Bandera having four hits, John Balzano had two hits.

Earlier Morrisette had handed winless Quincy a 7-4 setback with Mike Marshall the winning pitcher and Jim DiPietro the loser.

Balzano and Bolster had two hits each to pace Morrisette, while Jim Uastin had three hits and Paul Quigley and Sean Martin two each for Quincy.

Burgin Platner Wins 17th, Boston Gear In Hot Streak

While Burgin Platner continues to roll along with a 17-0 record in the Junior Baseball League's American League, Boston Gear is red hot and, following four wins during the past week, has opened up a big lead in the National League with an 11-4 record.

Gear exploded for nine runs in the fifth inning and topped the Elks, 13-5, with Steve Rabs the winning pitcher, combining with Matt Furtado. All of the Elks' runs were unearned. They gave up four hits, struck out eight and walked seven. Gear trailed, 5-3, after four innings but collected seven hits in its nine runs in the fifth. Shawn Craig capped the scoring with a home run. In the sixth.

Gear had 14 hits, sparked by Craig's homer and double and Nancy Fluke's base clearing triple and single. Danny Piccinni had two singles, Chris Higgins a double and single, Rabs two singles, Mike Kiley a double and Furtado, Mike Leonard and Mike Paccetti a single each. Kiley, Paccetti, Furtado and Piccinni made outstanding plays in the field and Danny Gilmartin, Jimmy Glynn, Pat McDonough and Jimmy Collins all played well.

Gear went two extra innings before defeating Houghs Neck, 8-6, when Furtado hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Chris Higgins pitched six strong innings, but Furtado pitched the last two innings to earn the win. They combined to scatter 10 hits, struck out eight and walked only three. Again, all the losers' runs were unearned.

Gear had 12 hits with Furtado having his game-winning homer, a double and single, Craig had a double and two singles, Higgins two singles, Rabs a key triple and single, Flukes and Leonard a single each. Paccetti, Rabs, Furtado, Craig and Paul Adams played outstanding defense and Kiley, Glynn, Gilmartin, McDonough, Collins and Piccinni played strong games.

Gear was out-hit and out-played by Keohane's, but pulled out a 7-4 victory thanks to a six-run second inning. Rabs was the winning pitcher, despite giving up 13 hits. He struck out four and walked two.

Furtado had an inside-the-park grand slam homer and Higgins, Leonard, Craig and Flukes had the only other Gear hits, all singles. McDonough and Adams starred on defense and Glynn, Piccinni, Paccetti, Mike Cronin, Collins, Gilmartin and Kiley played fine ball.

Gear, the defending city champion, had seven runs in the second and eight in the fifth as it outlasted Bryan VFW, 19-15. Furtado was the winning pitcher. Due to the heavy schedule caused by many rainouts, Gear was forced to start 10-year-old Glynn and he did a good job, but was the victim of sloppy support. He was relieved by Furtado, who was hurt by walks but settled down. The pair gave up 13 hits and 10 walks, but only seven of the VFW's runs were earned.

Gear had 14 hits, 10 off fireballer Dan Overyb and four off Mike Ainsley. Flukes had a game-winning grand slam homer, Higgins had three singles, Furtado a double and single, Craig a triple and double, Adams two singles, Leonard two singles and Paccetti one.

Gear trailed, 14-7, going into the bottom half of the fourth but scored four runs and then exploded for eight in the fifth. Contributing to the win were Piccinni, McDonough, Gilmartin, Glynn and Collins.

Ainsley had a homer, double and two singles for VFW, Jimmy Roberts a double and single, Rich Connelly two singles, Kevin Caldwell a homer, Overyb two singles and Mike Noonan a double and single. Ted Stevenson played well at shortstop.

Burgin Platner improved its record to an amazing 17-0 with a 20-1 bombing of Colonial Federal. Mark DiMattio pitched a two-hitter struck out 10 and didn't give up a walk.

DiMattio also had a big night at bat with four singles and a double, Billy Murphy hit for the cycle (homer, triple, double and single), Robbie McDonald had a triple and two singles, Steve Kavol three singles, Wayne Chambers two singles and Sean Burke, John Quilan, Bobby Thomas and Steve Romano a single each.

Burgin also blasted Remick's, 20-9, collecting 20 hits and leading, 13-0, after two innings. Remick's rallied for nine runs in the fourth but that was all. Robbie McDonald came in to pitch and retired the next nine batters, eight by strikeouts.

Robbie McDonald also had three doubles and a single, Tom McDonald a triple, double and single, Chambers four singles, Murphy a double and single, Kavol a double, DiMattio and Brian Mosher two singles each and Chris Boudreau and Steve Nieters a single apiece.

For Remick's Jay LePasio had a homer and single, Jay Rodrigues two singles and a double, Joe Steen two singles and Lance Panaro, Matt Toland and Ken Runge a single each.

Burgin topped State Street, 5-2, with DiMattio getting his sixth pitching victory, a three-hitter. He gave up a single and double to Joe Dineen and a single to Rico Cinquerrano. He had 12 strikeouts and he continued to hit well, raising his average to .512.

State Street opened with two runs in the first. Burgin scored once in the second on Quilan's single, stolen base and DiMattio's single. It tied the game in the third when Mosher singled, was forced at second, Robbie McDonald doubled and Quilan singled. Burgin won it with three runs in the fifth on Mosher's double, Quilan's single and Tom McDonald's triple.

Rotary rolled over Keohane's, 15-1, behind the two-hit pitching of John Pennellatore, who struck out five and walked only two. Rotary's 12-hit attack was led by Mike Mullaney, who drove in eight runs with four hits, including a grand slam homer and a base-clearing double. Pennellatore had three hits and Tony Anderlonis, Brian Kelly, Joe Mulvey, Dave Murphy and Kevin MacDougal all had hits. Rich Golden, Matt Collins, Bill MacDougal, Dan McDonald and Mike Bartkas played well.

For Keohane's Jim Bryan and Joe Lowry had the hits, Chuck Hughes caught a good game and Craig Wright and McGowan turned in outstanding defensive plays.

Kiwanis snapped a four-game losing streak with a 7-3 victory over Foley Chrysler-Plymouth. T. J. Steen pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13. He also led the attack with his fourth homer of the season, a two-run blast over the left field fence. Eddie Flavin and Ryan Hersey each had a double and Ronnie Hersey, Paul Meehan and Sean Butland had hits. Ronnie Fletcher played a strong game at shortstop.

Kiwanis also topped State Street, 8-4, with Ryan Hersey pitching a six-hitter. Billy Bellew played an outstanding game at third base, starting two fast double plays.

Bellew had two doubles, Fletcher a double and single, Flavin a double and single, Meehan and Matt Hurley two singles each and Ronnie Hersey a single. Marty McGowan and Steen played strong defense. Fletcher lifted his batting average to .659, which includes seven home runs and 27 RBI.

For State Street Robbie Hubbard played fine defense, while Dineen and Austin had two singles each.

The standings: AMERICAN LEAGUE: Burgin Platner, 17-0; Foley's, 11-5; Kiwanis, 10-6; VFW, 8-8; State Street, 7-9; Remick's, 5-12. NATIONAL LEAGUE: Boston Gear, 11-4; Colonial Federal, 7-9; Houghs Neck, 7-10; Keohane's, 7-10; Rotary, 5-11; Elks, 3-14.

State Budgets

The fiscal 1983 State Budget is on the Governor's desk for his signature or suggested changes. He has 10 days to make up his mind on the matter. One extremely important aspect is new local aid to the City of Quincy which will total over $7.1 million dollars, which can be used to help ease the impact of Proposition 2½.

The Legislature has also acted on a supplemental budget that would continue funding of some state boards and agencies through June 30 of fiscal year 1982. The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to report out this year's Capital Outlay Budget. The Capital Outlay Budget will include bonding authorization for buildings and other large scale building and equipment purchases.

The State wide condo bill is still tied up in the House Committee on Bills in 3rd Reading, chances of further action on the bill is not expected in all likelihood until after the July 4th recess.

If I can be of assistance, please don't hesitate to call me at home - 328-0900 or in the State House at 722-2470.

Hancock Bank Honors Poster Contest Winners

William E. Kelley, president of Hancock Bank, recently hosted an awards ceremony for winners of the bank's "First Annual Preservation Pride Contest."

The contest featured posters depicting "Older Homes - Today's Pride".

Kelley presented bank book awards of $50 to the four first prize winners: Laura Pullman, David Marinelli, Barbara Jones and Russell Kemp.

Awards of $30 were presented to second prize winners Paul Kirk, David Gardiner and Brian Gannon.

Third prize winners presented $20 awards were Darren Simonelli, Oscar Jara and Violetta Kambanis.

Mayor Francis McCauley congratulated the winners.

Jane Ford of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services presented awards to the winners in appreciation of their pride in the community.

Kathryn Burns from the New England regional office of the National Trust for Historic Preservation commended Kelley for his bank's involvement in sponsoring the contest during National Historic Preservation Week.

The award winning posters were on display at the Hancock Bank, 1495 Hancock St.

Gravestone Display At Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society has opened a new photographs exhibition, "Remembrance of the Just: Early New England Gravestones," which will continue through Oct. 31.

According to the Society, the exhibition "explores the folk art, iconography, stone carving, epitaphs, and conservation of gravestones from the 17th and 18th centuries."

The photographs, by nationally known Daniel and Jessie Lie Farber, are part of the collection of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Entry Forms Available For Miss Quincy Bay Pageant

Entry forms are available for the 1982 Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant to be held Friday, July 16, at 9:30 p.m. on a portable boardwalk on Hancock St. in front of Hancock Bank, Quincy Square. Contestants will compete for more than $4,000 in prizes and the honor of reigning over this year's Quincy Bay Race Week.

The pageant, co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, will highlight the annual sidewalk bazaar July 15, 16 and 17.

Pat Jones is chairman of the pageant which is open to South Shore single girls age 16 or older.

Entry forms are available at the QCBPA office, 1416 Hancock St., South Shore Yacht Clubs, and more than 70 downtown Quincy member stores and businesses.

Contestants will be judged in evening gown and swimsuit competition and for overall poise.

The field of contestants will be narrowed down to five finalist who will be judged on question responses.

In years past, several well known modeling agencies from Boston and New York have sent representatives to observe and scout the contestants.

This year, professional make-up consultations will be provided by Mary Kay Cosmetics.

The past four years of pageants have drawn more than 120 contestants from 18 South Shore towns with crowd estimates in excess of 20,000.

The Neighborhood Club of Quincy will host the annual dinner party for the contestants Tuesday, July 6, at 6 p.m.

The 1982 panel of judges and pageant emcee will be announced later.

Registrations Still Accepted For Beechwood Programs

boarded by the enemy and never had a cannonball go through its sides.

The British were responsible for giving the ship its nickname, "Old Ironsides". In battle with the 38-gun frigate HMS Guerriere in 1812, shots were seen to bounce off the Constitution's outside planking. One British sailor shouted, "Huzzah! Her sides are made of iron."

"The sailors back in those days had a pretty rough life," Flores said. "They took a bath every five or six months and lived and ate on the dark, airless berthing deck. They slept in hammocks. Each man shared his hammock with at least one other man. One would sleep while the other stood watch. The food was awful -- salted meat and dried vegetables. With living conditions like that I probably would have jumped ship."

"They had a unique way of preventing men from deserting. It's a story the visitors always react to."

"When a sailor died, his body was sewed into a spare hammock, and he was buried at sea. Several men deserted the ship by faking death and cutting their way out of the hammock after they were thrown overboard to swim to shore. They came up with the 'snitch stitch' to prevent faking. The last stitch in the hammock went through the man's nose."

The Constitution more often came closer to destruction at the hands of its own people than it ever did in battle. In 1830 it was reported unseaworthy and condemned to be broken up. A poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes, "Old Ironsides", aroused public feeling and the ship was rebuilt.

Partly restored again in 1905 as a result of public sentiment, it was not completely restored until the 1920s. Funds raised largely through the nationwide support of school children were matched by federal money.

From 1931 to 1934 the Constitution was towed 22,000 miles, pulling into 90 ports and hosting 4 1/2 million visitors.

Since 1934 Old Ironsides has made its home in Charlestown. As many as 750,000 visitors a year walk the wooden decks of the oldest commissioned warship afloat.

"I think seeing the Constitution makes people feel proud of this country," Flores said. "They have a chance to see where the Navy originated and get a feel for what sailors went through in those days."

"It's easy for me to imagine myself being a sailor back then. I just wish we could do what they did and take her sailing."

Flores won't be able to fulfill that dream, but he will ride the ship in open water during its annual "turn around" cruise on July 4th. The Constitution is moved into Boston Harbor by tugs, fires a 21-gun salute to the nation and is returned to its berth facing the opposite way so it will weather evenly.

"Serving on the Constitution will be one of the high points of my career," Flores said. "Right now, I plan to stay in the Navy for 20 years. After I retire, I'd like to return to the Wollaston area and open my own barber shop."

CITY OF QUINCY
IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 166A ORDERED:

June 21, 1982

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows:

That the Revised Ordinance of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows: In Chapter 16. Sewers, Vaults and Cesspools, insert after Article 11. Sewers, the following New Article:

ARTICLE III SEWER USE ORDINANCE Section 14 CALCULATION OF SEWER USE RATES

The City shall implement an Ad Valorem Sewer Use Fee for use of the City's sewerage system effective July 1, 1982. Such fee shall be collected in the following manner from the following three classes of users:

1. MAJOR INDUSTRIAL USERS -

Users who discharge more than 25,000 gallons per day into the sewerage system shall be classified as Major Industrial Users. These users shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual use of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on the actual water use.

2. TAX EXEMPT USERS -

Users who are exempt from Real Estate taxes shall be classified as tax-exempt users. Users in this classification shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual wastewater loading of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on their actual water use.

3. SMALL COMMERCIAL AND RESIDENTIAL USERS -

Users who are not exempt from Real Estate taxes and who do not discharge more than 25,000 gallons per day of sewage into the sewerage system shall be classified as small commercial and residential users. Users in this classification shall pay their share of wastewater treatment costs in proportion to their actual wastewater loading of the sewerage system. Users in this class shall be charged based on their assessed valuations.

Sewer Use fees shall be reviewed biannually to reflect changes in operating costs and revenue requirements.

Section 15

COLLECTION AND DISPOSITION OF RATES

The Treasurer and Collector shall receive and collect all sewer rates and any other income and place same to the credit of the Sewer Division. All fees collected under this ordinance shall be dedicated and used to pay for the operation and maintenance costs, bonded debt and interest costs and Metropolitan District Commission costs incurred by the City of Quincy Sewer Division of the Department of Public Works. All revenues received by the City as a result of Sewer User Fees and not spent on operation and maintenance costs, bonded debt and interest costs and Metropolitan District Commission costs shall be placed in a sewer reserve account.

PAYMENT

All bills for sewer use shall be due and payable each year to the Treasurer-Collector on July 1 and January 1, except as to Major Industrial Users, who shall be billed on a monthly basis.

Section 17

POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE COMMISSIONER

The Commissioner of Public Works shall have full supervision, direction and control of the Sewer Division and shall make such rules and regulations for its government as may be deemed advisable.

Section 18

OBLIGATIONS TO METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COMMISSION

The City agrees to accept and adhere to the Metropolitan District Commission Rules and Regulations covering the Discharge of Sewage, Drainage, Substances or Wastes to Sewerage Works within the Metropolitan Sewerage District, which have been established in compliance with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

The City of Quincy, Massachusetts, through its Department of Planning and Community Development, is seeking proposals for engineering services for The Nathaniel Hunting School Demolition Project.

SCOPE OF SERVICES

The scope of services for this Project shall include the following:

1. Preparation and provision of specifications for demolition of The Nathaniel Hunting School.

2. Preparation and provision of specifications and drawings for all earth work related to the demolition.

3. Provision of supervision during project implementation.

PROPOSAL REQUIREMENTS

The proposal shall be prepared for the above work and shall include the following:

1. Definition of the specialized experience and technical competence of the firm and its personnel.

2. Definition of the firm's background and specific experience in projects of a similar nature.

3. Definition of the firm's size and organizational structure.

4. Description of the firm's past record of performance on contracts with other government agencies, public bodies and private industry, including within the description such factors as control of costs, quality of work and capability to meet time schedules.

5. Definition of the firm's capacity to perform the work, including any specialized services, particularly considering the firm's current and planned work load.

6. A statement of the firm's understanding of the work to be performed, including time and cost estimates of performance of each step on the project.

7. Submission of materials and documents produced as a result of the performance of work of a similar nature.

8. Definition of the compensation necessary to provide the services requested.

The proposal shall be prepared for the above described work and submitted to James E. Lydon, Planning Director, Department of Planning and Community Development, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, on or before 4:00 P.M. on July 9, 1982.

The contract to be awarded under this Request for Proposals to be funded through the City of Quincy Community Development Block Grant Program. As a result, it shall be subject to compliance with all regulations of the Department of Housing and Urban Development on Community Development Block Grants (24CFR, Part 570), and all other applicable City, State, and Federal regulations.

The City of Quincy reserves the sole right to evaluate the submitted proposals, waive any irregularities therein, select the candidate with whom to negotiate and/or reject any and all firms which have submitted proposals.

The City of Quincy is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

City Receives Private Parking Proposals

Proposals for the takeover of the city's parking facilities in the Ross Parkway by a private company were scheduled to be opened yesterday (Wednesday) by Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir.

Denvir said 16 or 17 sets of specifications had been taken out but as of Tuesday night none had been turned in.

"That's not unusual," he said.

"Most proposals turned in at the last minute."

Denvir said he regarded eight of them as "serious proposals" from major parking companies like Kinney and Meyer.

"I expect that eight to 10 of the companies will make proposals," he said.

Denvir said the proposals will be studied and the best features of each adopted and the job put out to bid once again.

"The target date for private operation of the Ross Parking area is October so that we can be ready for the Christmas season," he said.

Job To Be Taken Out Of Civil Service

Hansen Named City Personnel Director

By TOM HENSHAW

Donald W. Hansen, 33, of Weymouth, executive assistant to Police Chief Francis X. Finn, has been named to the $24,450 a year post as personnel director of Quincy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he has requested that the position be taken out of Civil Service and the duties expanded beyond personnel to include such related matters as data processing.

Hansen, who has spent five years as a civilian employee of the Police Department, succeeds Mary McGinty, who retired last week after 28 years of city employment, 11 as personnel director.

Hansen takes over the job Monday, July 19.

"This has been a Civil Service position," said McCauley. "We have requested that it be taken out and subject to appointment by the mayor so that my successors will be able to appoint their own people."

The mayor said he assumed that, if the post is taken out of Civil Service, it would be a one year appointment similar to that of treasurer, expiring the first Monday in February.

"I believe that taking it out of Civil Service will upgrade the position," he said.

McCauley said Hansen was chosen out of some 80 candidates and he indicated that he clinched the post when "he expressed a willingness to go beyond personnel."

"He is flexible," said the Mayor. "He can be useful in other areas. We have to do things like this with Proposition 2½."

Hansen joined the Police Department five years ago as the director of the federally funded ICAP program. His efforts have brought some $1.5 million in federal money to Quincy police.

He was making $26,000 a year in the police job, about two-thirds in city funds and one third in federal grants.

Hansen said he had reached a point in his professional career where he was willing to take a pay cut to further his opportunities. He is about to receive a law degree in July and will receive a law degree next June.

"Civil Service law is a good opportunity," he said. "I also regard this as a chance to join a progressive administration that will make the best use of my talents."

"The experience I have had with the Police Department will go a long way to help me in the new job."

Chief Finn said he will name a successor to Hansen but that the

Parking Fines Refund To Start Aug. 1

A red-faced city plans to start refunding illegally collected parking surcharges after Aug. 1.

Some $140,000 in such surcharges were collected on the basis of $5 for each $2 ticket since Nov. 1 before the city discovered that it did not have the legal authority to do it.

Persons who paid the penalties may obtain their refunds by sending requests to the City Parking Clerk, giving name, address, registration number and ticket number.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that the city does not have $140,000 in the till to make the repayments but he expects the City Council will appropriate a sum from other accounts.

"The Council probably will hold a special meeting July 28," said McCauley. "By that time we will get some idea of how much money we will have to refund."

"We don't expect that everyone will apply for a refund. Some people may have moved away and some probably just won't bother with it."

McCauley said the $140,000 has been listed as an estimated receipt in the fiscal 1983 tax-setting process and the refund will have to be charged to the revenue of fiscal 1983.

"There will be less money somewhere else in the budget," he said.

Market Break

Police are investigating an early Tuesday morning break at the Shawmut Market, 24 Chestnut St., in which a front window was broken to gain admittance.

Some cigarettes were taken from a display case but, police said, it was not yet determined what had been stolen.

Color TV Missing

Sheila Fordham of Field St., Quincy Center, reported to police that she returned home about midnight Monday to find a side door to her apartment open and a 19-inch color television set valued at $300 missing.

Reagan Wreath To Honor John Q. Adams

Emissaries from President Ronald Reagan will deliver a specially prepared wreath made at the White House to the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq., July 11.

The wreath will be placed upon the tomb of John Quincy Adams on the occasion of his 215th birthday.

The public is invited to witness the simple ceremonies at 10 a.m.

Junior, Senior Report Cards Must Be Picked Up

Parents and students are reminded that fourth quarter report cards are to be distributed at the Junior and Senior High Schools.

Report cards are not being mailed at public expense.

Report cards for students who have completed grades 7-11 may be picked up at the school of attendance on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, July 7, 8, and 9, between the hours of 9-11 a.m. and 1-2:30 p.m.

City Pays Dues Over Kelly's Objection

With only Councillor Leo J. Kelly dissenting, the City Council last week appropriated $12,000 to pay dues for the city's membership in four organizations.

The vote was unanimous on $2,500 for membership on the MBTA Advisory Board and $1,000 for memberships in the Automatic Labor Relations Service.

Kelly voted no to $6,500 in dues to the Massachusetts Municipal Association and $2,000 for membership in the U.S. Conference of Mayors. He said he thought it was a waste of money.

A citizens study committee has recommended that the salary of the mayor of Quincy should be boosted from $25,000 to $48,500 in line with the salaries of mayors of similar sized cities.

The committee also recommended that the pay of parttime city councilors be raised from $3,000 to $4,500 a year.

Committee Chairman Charles Pearce said the $48,500 figure represented a compromise among members, some of whom thought the mayor should get more than $50,000 and others less than $40,000.

The committee also held that the mayor's job should be considered fulltime; no increase is necessary in his office staff; and his salary should be reviewed every two to four years.

The last time either the mayor or the City Council received a pay hike was in 1973 when the mayor went from $10,000 to $25,000 and councilors went from $1,500 to $3,000.

Council Balances Books For Fiscal '82

The City Council last week tidied up the city's books for the end of the fiscal year by transferring $480,013.12 from the "have" departments to the "have nots."

It was a customary transfer from those departments having surplus from fiscal 1982 to those that had overspent their budgets.

The biggest transfer went into street lighting, the sum of $150,000 to make up a deficit caused by an underestimate of lighting expenses in the 1982 budget.

Another large transfer, $144,363.75, went to unemployment insurance, whose account was decimated when the charges to the city were boosted from 0.2 per cent of payroll to 1.3 per cent.

A total of $102,561.93 went into the pension account to cover the abnormally high expense of paying bonuses for early retirement in lieu of Proposition 2½ lay offs.

Laser Therapy At Hospital First In South Shore Area

The Ambulatory Care Department at Quincy City Hospital has introduced a new service, Laser Therapy.

This is the first such service to be offered by a hospital south of Boston and north of Providence, R.I. At Quincy City, the procedure will be used in the areas of ophthalmology and dermatology on an outpatient basis.

The word Laser is an acronym for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation." Its name is a thumbnail description of how a laser works and what it does.

A primary difference between a laser and all previous surgical instruments is that the instrument never needs to touch the surgical subject. This "action at a distance" factor makes possible all types of work that could not be attempted before because of physical inaccessibility of the operating site.

Some procedures now become non-invasive, since physicians can reach the site of interest through body openings rather than through incisions.

One of the most successful and well established medical uses of lasers is in ophthalmology. It is effective in the treatment of diabetic retinopathy, open and closed angle glaucoma and senile macular degeneration (SMD) which is leaky blood vessels in the retina and the leading cause of blindness among the elderly.

Dr. Brent Lambert, of Hingham, an Ophthalmologist at the Quincy City Hospital medical staff, said "the argon laser treatment is a 10-minute outpatient procedure which seals the blood vessels." He added that, "patients with SMD should be aware that blurred vision, distortion, and blank spots in the central vision are early warning symptoms of leakage."

In the area of dermatology, the utilization of the laser light is also effective. Because argon laser light is green, it is absorbed by red pigmented material.

Pore wine stain is a condition (often affecting the face) in which a patient will have a large reddish area only a few cells deep. The argon laser beam will destroy the red pigment leaving the area with a more normal appearance.

The condition is without any medical consequences, but individuals often suffer great psychological distress. Plastic Surgeon, Dr. W. Gerald Cochran of Quincy City Hospital "does not recommend its use on children, but prefers to treat them when they are teenagers, as they would respond better to treatment then."

Other dermatological conditions amenable to laser treatment at Quincy City Hospital are removal of tattoos and repair of spider nevi (areas of raised red dots with radiating tiny blood vessels).

According to Hospital Director, James E. Lowenhagen, the purchase of the Laser was made as part of a $2 million bond issue used to purchase and update the medical equipment at Quincy City.

Being a new service and the first of its kind in the South Shore area, for further information, you can call the Ambulatory Care Department at Quincy City Hospital at 773-6100.

Bicycle Thefts Alert In Wollaston, N.Q.

The Wollaston and North Quincy areas have been hard hit with bicycle thefts.

Lt. William Murphy, Quincy Police Department Crime Prevention Officer, reports 30 bicycles were stolen in the two areas during May and June.

He urges owners to lock their bicycles when not in use and to take advantage of Quincy's "Operation Identification", the program for engraving valuables with social security numbers. Engraving equipment is available at police headquarters.

Lt. Murphy, a veteran of 26 years service was recently assigned to crime prevention by Chief Francis Finn to assist in implementation of the Quincy Crime Awareness Program (Q-CAP).

Q-CAP was developed by Donald Hansen, the chief's executive assistant, to revitalize the neighborhood watch and other crime prevention programs. Q-Cap is funded by a grant from the Commercial Union Insurance Company.

The City Council last week appropriated $7,500 to pay legal expenses incurred by Quincy Shores Association, Inc., in its fight to prevent pollution of Quincy Bay, chiefly from sewage discharges at the Nut Island treatment facility.

Councillor Leo J. Kelly said the appropriation is similar to that made for the Committee Against Airport Noise (CAAN) in its fight against the noise of airplanes taking off from Logan Airport.

A Tribute To John Cheever

By ED SPARGO

As an incurable sentimentalist where my native city is concerned, I join countless thousands in mourning the passing at age 70 of a Quincy product, John Cheever, the Pulitzer prize-winning author and one of America's pre-eminent storytellers.

Even though I never had the pleasure of meeting the gifted gentleman, called by many admiring literary critics "the Chekhov of his time."

But several years ago I wrote him at his long-time home in Ossining, N.Y., enclosing a copy of an original health plan which I foisted on all innocent, unsuspecting folk who have the misfortune to cross my path. Together with copies of sentimental verses I thought he'd like.

"You and I share many things in common years ago," I informed John Cheever. "We both were born and raised in Quincy... with a strict Episcopalian upbringing..."

We both enrolled at Thayer Academy in Braintree where headmaster Stacey Baxter Southworth ("Uncle Stacey" to the kids) held a tight rein... we both considered ourselves "lousy students"... and neither of us was graduated... you being "asked" to leave school when you were caught smoking... while I very foolishly dropped out, using my father's sudden death as a cop-out. But there the similarity ended," I pointed out, "one of us 'made good'."

Several weeks later came a short note from Ossining-on-the-Hudson reading:
"Nice to hear from the old home town and he brought up-to-date on happenings there. My thanks for the thoughtful enclosures. I've often wondered what makes us old Quincyites. Ruth Gordon included, so randy. Must be the sandy clams we dug at Wollaston Beach in those wonderful days of our youth."

I treasure the reply from the gentle man who wrote so eloquently about the joys, fears and frailties of New England (often Quincy people and family members) in his best-sellers, and whose roots were deep in local soil.

Expelled from school for smoking he had left his family's big Victorian home at 123 Winthrop Avenue, Wollaston Hill, at an early age and headed for New York — with the grudging acquiescence of his parents. "I up and left" Cheever would say years later, "because I was damned if I'd be supported by my mother's (Mary Cheever's) gift shop in Quincy Square, after the stock market crash of 1929 wiped out father's shoe company." His parents' unalterable view was, "New York is bad; if you have any character you will be content with Quincy — and Boston."

May this illustrious son of Quincy find eternal rest as he sleeps beside his parents on a grassy hillside at First Parish (church) cemetery in Norwell, some 15 miles from the Wollaston home where he was born.

"We are such stuff as dreams are made of," reads the inscription on the Cheever family tombstone. Those dreams live on in a form we can all share — the magic of his fiction, much of it Quincy-oriented Eeley, Harold For Congress?

If Congressman Brian Donnelly should ever decide to run and be elected mayor of Boston who would succeed him in Washington?

Donnelly has been rumored a potential candidate but why he would want to be mayor of Boston is a baffling thought. In fact, why would anyone — outside of Kevin White — want to be mayor of Boston? Well, would you?

But say if somewhere down the road Donnelly should become mayor of Boston who would be his successor in Washington?

ELEEY

Two potential candidates, no doubt, would be Governor's Councillor Peter Eleey and State Senator Paul Harold.

The two Quincy Democrats would be pretty strong contenders. Both would like to be the Congressman from the 11th district. Harold served as an intern in Congressman James Burke's office some years ago. He likes Washington.

If Eleey were to be the next Congressman from this district it would be sort of fulfilling a one-time family dream.

Eleey is the nephew of Sheila and former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre. McIntyre for many years was considered her apparent to the Congressional seat while it was occupied by Jim Burke.

But, by the time Burke retired, McIntyre had become Massachusetts Senate counsel and had been out of the political limelight for sometime. He considered running but decided against it and backed Donnelly.

McIntyre, while a young mayor and state senator, really wanted to one day go to Washington. But the timing was off.

There would be a flock of candidates if Donnelly gave up his seat. Among them as possibilities: former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now clerk-magistrate of Quincy District Court; present Mayor Francis McCauley; Dist. Atty. William Delahunt; Sheriff Clifford Marshall; Reps. Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey.

But they may all have to do some patient waiting. It's hard to believe that Donnelly would want to be mayor of Boston — in the next few years, anyway.

SPEAKING OF ELECTIONS. Quincy's next city one is still more than a year away but there already seems to little movement on the political front.

William Arienti, a member of the Conservation Commission, reportedly is contemplating a run for City Council at-large. The 20-year-old Arienti who lives on Quarry St., is an assistant to the state librarian in the State House.

How Councillor Joseph LaRaia fares in his bid for Norfolk County clerk of courts this fall, could have a bearing on Arienti's final decision.

A few other hopefuls will also be closely watching LaRaia.

TWO WELL KNOWN Quincy families have brand new Navy ensigns. Brian Reidy, and Michael Nee have been commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve after completing the ground school training phase at the Naval Aviation School in Pensacola, Fla.

Brian is the son of Timothy and Eleanor Reidy of Whitwell St. Eleanor is Mayor Francis McCauley's personal secretary.

Michael is the son of James and Dianne Nee of Crabtree Rd. Squantum. Dianne is the former secretary at the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

TWO OF THE best PR men in the business — Paul Schofield and Frank Kerr — are back together again. The two former newsmen headed press and legislative relations for General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard back in the 1960's. They then went their own ways and are now reunited after 13 years.

Kerr, who most recently was communications manager at Bath Iron Works shipyard in Maine has joined Schofield's Boston-New York communications agency as a partner and executive vice president. Schofield is president. Schofield at one time worked for the Boston Globe and Kerr for the old Herald Traveler.

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Lianne Johnson of 35 Arthur St., West Quincy, wins a T-shirt. Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association?
2. Which of the following mayor of Quincy was never elected to that post by popular vote: Thomas S. Burgin? David S. McIntosh? Amelio Della Chiesa?

3. Poplar St. is in what section of the city?
4. True or false: The Fore River Shipyard was founded in Braintree by Thomas A. Watson and moved to Quincy in 1900.
5. What Quincy landmark is located at 14 Beale St., Wollaston.

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Dr. M. Grace Hussey is the new public health commissioner of Quincy.

2. Quincy Bay Race Week was started in 1938.

3. Porter Lane is in the Squantum section of the city.

4. False. Quincy's mayor under the Plan E form of government were Thomas S. Burgin, David S. McIntosh and Amelio Della Chiesa.

5. The Strand Theater is located at 12 Chestnut St.

Only 3 Proposals Received On Parking

The city has received only three proposals from private companies to take over management of the municipal parking lots in downtown Quincy.

Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir said all three proposals contain some form of validated parking.

Proposals opened Wednesday morning included those from Kinney Systems of Boston, Robert E. Bates Parking, Inc., of Boston, and Metropolitan Parking Systems, also of Boston.

Denvir said he and Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, will read the proposals over the weekend and discuss them with Mayor Francis X. McCauley next Thursday.

Denvir said he was disappointed in the small number of proposals that were made. He said 17 sets of specifications were taken out and he expected proposals from eight or 10 companies.

The next step, he said, will be to examine the best features of the proposals and possibly rebid them with amended specifications.

"Or," said Denvir, "if one of them is so good we can't turn it down we will probably accept it."

Suspicious Phone Calls Harass Residents

If Joe Cabot or Dr. Warren call, hang up.

A resident of Butler Rd., Quincy Center, reported to police that he received a call from a Joe Cabot, who said he was selling aluminum siding for U.S. Steel Co. in Akron, Ohio.

He asked a lot of questions about the hours during which residents of the neighborhood work and what their plans were for the weekend. U.S. Steel in Akron said it had no Joe Cabot in the area.

A resident of Hamilton St., Wollaston, reported a call from a Dr. Warren of University Hospital who started asking personal questions for a poll.

University Hospital in Boston said it never heard of Dr. Warren and the complaint from Hamilton St. was the second from Quincy in a day.

Police said they have had several complaints about Dr. Warren in recent weeks.

Skywriting remains legible for five to seven minutes.

City Settles $60,000 In Claims, Judgements

The City Council last week appropriated $60,000 from next year's revenues to settle 16 claims and judgements against the city, one of them a landtaking dating back to 1968.

"This more or less wipes out the slate and moves us up to date on such settlements," said City Solicitor William Golden.

The judgements and settlements, which total $59,952.13, include:

Janice A. Wick, $567.38, her vehicle was struck by a Water Department truck Sept. 30, 1977.

Joseph L. Fasci et al, $6,139, landtaking on Upland Rd. in 1968.

Henry J. Dondero et al, $400, property damage to fence by city snow plow Jan. 8, 1977.

Anastasia M. Arrigal, $1,950, personal injury suffered in a fall on Parkingway Dec. 8, 1979.

Sabina Stenberg, $3,000, personal injury suffered in a fall on Hancock St., May 15, 1979.

Thomas Donahue, $1,500, personal injury and property damage caused by a street defect on Newport Ave. Aug. 27, 1980.

Forrest Davis, $4,123.92, property damage due to water main break on West Squantum St. March 10, 1978.

Jeanne F. Barry, $1,101.10, personal injury suffered in a fall on Willow St., Aug. 9, 1976.

Dooley Plastics, $358.81, property damage to company vehicle struck by city sander Jan. 21, 1978.

Kevin S. Murphy, $5,550, property damage to automobile caused by fire engine Feb. 6, 1979, and resulting personal injuries.

Rita Shaughnessy, $4,200, personal injury suffered in a fall on the sidewalk near 571 Hancock St., Oct. 30, 1979.

Hilda Goldstein, $600, personal injury suffered in a fall on Chestnut St., May 19, 1981.

Estate of Frank Palumbo, $27,511.92, land taking on Ricketts St., April 16, 1974.

Jim's General Glass, $1,000, window-glazing at the Vocational Technical School. Suit filed in 1978.

Charles Killeen, $450, property damage to vehicle struck by police car June 26, 1979.

Atlantic Fuel Oil Co., $1,500, property damage to company vehicle caused by water trench dug by city on Dec. 16, 1981.

Hearing July 13 On Eaton Dismissal

A hearing will be held Tuesday, July 13, at 1:30 p.m. in the City Solicitor's office on the dismissal of Owen J. Eaton from his $26,000 post as water superintendent.

Eaton, 52, lost his job last last week when Mayor Francis X. McCauley named Sewer Supt. Russell P. Eranio, 54, to head the new combined Division of Sewer, Water and Drains.

McCauley said Jay MacRitchie, the city's equal opportunity officer, will act as designated hearing officer.

"It is a step that is taken routinely when a city employee is laid off," said the mayor. "Sometimes the employee shows up to contest his dismissal."

Sometimes he does not."

Eaton indicated that he plans to fight his dismissal but he declined to comment on the case and he refused to say who will act as his counsel at the hearing.

While Eaton was classified as laid off, McCauley said, he is still eligible to "bump" another city employee with less seniority, possibly for the job as sewer foreman.

The Mayor said Eranio was chosen over Eaton to head the new combined division on the basis of seniority. Eranio has worked for the city since 1951, Eaton since 1954.

Eaton is also a close friend of Daniel G. Raymond, whom McCauley defeated for Mayor in 1981 but the mayor denied that politics was involved in his ouster.

Eaton contributed at least $190 to Raymond's campaign, while his wife, Dorothy, is listed as giving $50 to the McCauley campaign. Eranio contributed to both campaigns, $100 to McCauley, $20 to Raymond.

Eaton, who was named to the Civil Service post in 1972 by then Mayor Walter J. Hannon, said he was told six weeks ago by Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and McCauley that he would retain his job after the July 1 merger.

McCauley said no such assurance was given.

State Starts City's Revaluation Process

Thomas Sweeney, a representative of the State Department of Revenue, arrived in Quincy Tuesday to start the preliminary work for state acceptance of the city's 100 per cent revaluation.

"He told me," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, "that his crew will be here next Tuesday and spend about two weeks in the field checking on the reval work of P.R.C. Jacobs.

"He said he expects the job to be done about July 26 or 27 when a report will be assembled. By the end of July we will be able to call in and find out how reval looks."

After that, said the Mayor, the city will be faced with the major decision of classification of properties as residential, business and commercial.

"If things go smoothly," he said, "we will be able to get the 1983 tax bills out before the Nov. 1 deadline. If it goes any longer then we may have to send out estimated bills again."

Recently passed legislation give cities permission to send out estimated bills again this year.

Quincy Buttonhole Session At Chamber

The South Shore Chapter of Commerce will sponsor a "Quincy Buttonhole Session" today (Thursday) 5 to 7 p.m. in the chamber offices, 36 Miller Stile Road, Quincy.

The mayor and city council as well as other local Quincy officials have been invited to the cocktail reception.

The event is similar to the annual legislative session, but with local Quincy city officials.

The chamber hopes to provide an opportunity to the Quincy business community to get to know elected and appointed officials on a more personal basis and to discuss, informally, some of the concerns and goals in doing business in Quincy.

Those interested in attending are asked to call 479-1111.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Rickover Lauds Fore River Built USS Long Beach

Navy Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, an advocate of a nuclear Navy, said the Fore River-built nuclear frigate USS Long Beach "marks an historic first step in the development of our nuclear-powered surface fleet."

Rickover, writing at sea from the Long Beach en route home from sea trials, said in a letter to Quincy Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa:

"Once her potentialities are understood the Long Beach may well have the significance for surface naval warfare that the (nuclear submarine) Nautilus had for undersea warfare."

"The ship made her design full power, in fact, she exceeded it."

HEDGES HONORED

Col. Charles W. Hedges of Quincy was awarded the Massachusetts Medal of Merit for his "outstanding leadership as a senior officer" in the State Air National Guard.

Hedges, a former Norfolk County sheriff and state senator, received the medal from Gov. John A. Volpe during ceremonies at Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod.

SPANISH WAR VETS

Mayor Della Chiesa discussed the possibility of using the Spanish War Veterans home on High School Ave. as a Senior Citizen Drop-In Center with Welfare Commission Anthony Venna.

Axel Johnson, past commander of the John A. Boyd Camp, USWV, said the Camp once had 260 members and was now down to 28, only 12 of whom lived in Quincy. The oldest, he said, was 86.

"I am the baby of the post," said the 80-year-old Johnson.

LANGUAGE PROBLEM

It took City Clerk John Gillis nearly an hour to accomplish the three minute chore of filling out a marriage intention form for Harry Karl Berglund and Maria Rosa Uria, both of Houghs Neck.

Seemed Berglund spoke only Swedish, Uria only Spanish and Gillis only English — and the interpreter wasn't really well versed in any of them.

PEA SOUP FOG

A heavy fog described as "pea soup-like" descended upon the South Shore, isolating hundreds of boats at sea and flooding Coast Guard switchboards with phone calls from anxious relatives.

Paul Jardin of 63 Lenox St., Houghs Neck, anchored his 21-foot cruiser with four others aboard near Minot's Light and the boat dragged anchor in the fog perilously close to the rocks.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor John F. Collins of Boston assured Mayor Della Chiesa that Boston was making every effort to eliminate the smoke nuisance from the South Boston dumps that had been plaguing Squantum and North Quincy. . . . Parking meter receipts for June were placed at $9,243.33, an increase of 70 per cent over June of 1960. . . . Atty. George V. Flavin of 78 Hilma St., Montclair, was named to a $10,000 post on the State Public Utilities Commission. . . . William A. O'Connell observed his sixth year as chairman of the Quincy Shipbuilding Committee. . . . "Butterfield 8," starring Elizabeth Taylor, Eddie Fisher and Laurence Harvey and "Where the Boys Arc," with Connie Francis, was playing at the Art Theater. . . . City Forester A. Warren Stewart reported that someone stole $100 worth of manure from the Forestry Department's stock pile on Penn St., South Quincy. . . . Pic. Michael Cleary, 19, of 117 Doane St., Germantown, returned home after 26 months with the Army in Germany. . . . Joseph N. Gildea, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 6, explained his plan for the merger of the Park and Recreation Boards at a meeting in the Montclair Men's Clubhouse. . . . Sacco was at the "Back Room Barrel House Honky Tonk 88" at Louis Cafe 1269 Sea St., Houghs Neck. . . . David A. Mulholland, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Mulholland of 29 French St., North Quincy, became the first Quincy resident selected for the Peace Corps when he was directed to leave for the Philippines July 29. . . . Chuck roast was 49 cents a pound at the Shop 'n Save, 20 Independence Ave., South Quincy. . . . The 17½-acre Faxon Estate at the corner of Adams and Whitwell Sts. was sold to Sevenel, Inc. for development into 25 house lots. . . . Quincy and three adjoining towns filed suit in federal court in New Haven to prevent the state from taking over 10 miles of Old Colony Railroad track for a rapid transit system. . . . Paul A.M. hunt of 57 Ellington Rd., Wollaston, was sworn in as an assistant district attorney for Massachusetts. . . . Mayor Della Chiesa appealed to residents to help police fight vandalism after a new $900 protective wire fence was torn down at Field and Wildes quarry. . . . Janet M. Ward of 76 French St., Wollaston, and Alice A. Swirbalus of 38 Holmes St., North Quincy, were certified by Civil Service for appointment to $2,925 jobs as clerk-typists at City Hospital. . . . Ace-In-The-Hole, a 31-foot day cruiser built for Milton Yakus of Quincy, was the first boat launched at Boston Harbor Marina in 30 years.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Would You Like To Get Back Part Of Every Dollar You Spend Shopping?

You can... when you SHOP AT HOME!

Most people know they usually get better values and service when they shop at our local stores.

But did you know when you shop at home you also get back part of each dollar you spend? Here's how: spending more at home means more money in the form of wages to local merchants and their employees.

More wages mean more taxes for local government, mean more and better community services and improvements, mean a stronger and healthier economy all around.

Shop at home for better values, better service, a better community and more jobs!

Keep part of the dollars you spend . . . SHOP AT HOME!

Obituaries

Frederick L. Farrell, Sr., 67, Retired Auto Salesman

Funeral services for Frederick L. Farrell, Sr., 67, of Quincy, a retired car salesman, were held Tuesday at Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Mr. Farrell died July 2 at Quincy City Hospital.

He was a long time Quincy resident.

Born in Boston, Mr. Farrell was a 1933 graduate of Quincy High School and attended Burdett College.

A veteran of World War II, he served in the U.S. Air Force.

He was formerly employed by South Shore Buick and President

Chevrolet, Quincy.

Mr. Farrell was a member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, Bryan VFW Post, Quincy, and Indian Orchard Masonic Lodge of Springfield; past president of New England Grotto Association and past monarch of Taleb Grotto.

He is survived by his wife, Edith C. (Fagerlund) Farrell; two sons, Air Force Sgt. Frederick L. Farrell, Jr., of California and James M. Farrell of Quincy; a daughter, Mrs. Judith C. McCarthy of Quincy; and one grandson.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Thomas B. Henihan, 69, Printer At Boston Globe

A funeral Mass for Thomas B. Henihan, 69, of Quincy, a printer in the composing room of the Boston Globe, was held Tuesday in St. Agatha Church, East Milton.

Mr. Henihan died June 30 at Quincy City Hospital. He had lived in Quincy for 29 years.

Born in Cambridge, he was employed at the Globe for the past 40 years.

He was a member of the Boston Globe Typographical Union, Quarter Century Club and bowling league.

Celebrant of the funeral Mass was his brother, Rev. Charles Henihan of St. Mary's Church, Randolph.

He is also survived by his wife, Dorothy F. (Rebello) Henihan; two daughters, Carolyn O'Brien of San Diego, Calif. and Nancy Magner of Plymouth; two other brothers, Paul Henihan of Hingham and Francis Henihan of Cambridge; four sisters, Mary D. Cahill of Hingham, Marion Murphy of Billerica and Agnes Raukauskas and Madeline Lorenson, both of Cambridge; and six grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Thomas F. Gorman Sr., 80, 'A Fireman's Fire Chief'

"He was a fireman's fire chief, always interested in the city of Quincy," said City Clerk John Gillis of former Quincy Fire Dept. Chief Thomas F. Gorman Sr. who died Saturday at age 80.

Mr. Gorman died at Milton Hospital after a long illness.

A funeral Mass was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

City officials and others responded with tributes to Mr. Gorman at the news of his death.

"Obviously," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, "the people of Quincy are saddened by the loss of Chief Gorman."

"I recall him as chief when I was first on the City Council. He was also chairman of the License Board and he did an excellent job. He was very fair to everybody."

"Not many people remember that he was a police officer for a while before he got on the Fire Department."

"I'm sure everyone wishes to extend their sympathy to his family. I notice that his son, Capt. Thomas Gorman Jr., is on the promotion list for promotion to deputy fire chief."

"I guess it's fair to say that public service runs in the family."

"It is with deep regret that I note the passing of retired chief Thomas F. Gorman after a lengthy illness," said Fire Chief Edward Barry.

"I have known him for 55 years, and worked under him for more than 20 years when he was chief of the department."

"He was a dedicated fire officer and always had a sincere interest in the fire service and its many related organizations."

"My condolences are extended at this time to all the members of his family on their loss."

"His name and efforts will be remembered and his family can be proud of his contributions to the fire service," said Barry.

"He was a personal friend of mine for about 40 years," said Gillis who succeeded Mr. Gorman as license board chairman.

"He appointed me as a temporary fireman in 1946, and was known as a devoted father and a very religious man, deeply involved in St. John's Parish."

"He had compassion for the underdog, and was always fair in all decisions."

"My family and I extend our sympathies to the Gorman children. This is a great loss to the city of Quincy."

Born July 2, 1902 in Boston, he was educated in Quincy schools and was graduated from Quincy Trade School.

Prior to being appointed to the QFD on Oct. 3, 1925, he had been a Quincy Police Officer.

He was promoted to lieutenant in 1934, captain in 1938, deputy chief (military substitute for Deputy Chief Peter Creedon) to permanent deputy chief in 1944.

He served as fire chief from Nov. 7, 1947 to July 2, 1967 when he retired.

During World War II, he worked at the Fore River Shipyard as part of the war effort in addition to his fire dept. shift.

He was a member of the International Association of Firefighters, the New England Fire Chiefs Association; the Quincy Firemen Relief Association and Firefighters Local 792.

He was also a past president of the Associated Fire Chiefs of Massachusetts and a member and past president of St. John's Holy Name Society, Quincy.

Mr. Gorman was an instructor at the State Fire Academy for 10 years.

Husband of the late Mrs. Katherine A. (Clark) Gorman, he is survived by two sons, Quincy Fire Captain Thomas F. Gorman Jr. and Daniel S. Gorman, both of Quincy; three daughters, Doris F. Gorman of Quincy, Patricia A. Plourde of Weymouth and Mary L. Thomas of Braintree; a brother, Walter R. Gorman of Quincy and nine grandchildren.

Members of the fire dept. served as honor guards at the services. Pallbearers were Deputy Chief William Barron, Deputy Chief Herbert Rourke, Deputy Chief Joseph Jackson, Lt. Walter Clare, Lt. Joseph Varraso, firefighter Joseph Lemieux.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Alfred J. Shilouskas, 63, Machinist

A funeral Mass for Alfred J. Shilouskas, 63, of Quincy, a machinist at Cummins Diesel Company, Dedham, was held Saturday in St. Ann's Church.

Mr. Shilouskas died July 1 in Milton Hospital after a long illness. He had lived in Quincy for 35 years.

Born in Boston, he had also lived in South Boston and Dorchester.

He is survived by his wife, Isabel (Ryan) Shilouskas; two daughters, Sandra Cashman of Marshfield and Natalie Henshaw of Chicheston, N.H.; five grandchildren; two nieces and one nephew.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Cancer Society, 277 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

Karas Jinx

Randolph Drops Morrisette Into 2nd Place, 6-3

Morrisette Legion baseball team ran up against its jinx pitcher, Randolph's Mike Karas, last week and fell into second place in Zone 6 when Karas topped Morrisette for the third time in two years, 6-3.

The loss dropped Morrisette to 7-2.

Earlier Morrisette had defeated Wollaston, 8-2, as Mike Morris earned his third pitching win of the season.

Wollaston came back to tie Norwell 6-6, in a game halted by darkness.

Morrisette will play at Brockton Friday at 6 o'clock, will be at Norwell Monday at 6 and will host Holbrook next Wednesday night at 8 at Adams Field.

Wollaston will play at Milton

Friday at 6, will host Weymouth Monday night at 8 at Adams and will be at Canton next Wednesday at 6.

Morrisette took a 3-1 lead over Randolph, scoring three runs in the first on a hit batter, Brian Reale's single, John Balzano's double and Steve Peecevic's single.

Randolph, which had scored a run in the first, added one in the third on four walks and an error, scored twice in the sixth on two more walks and two singles and finished with one in the seventh.

Paul Earle was the losing pitcher, being plagued by wildness. Reale hit in his eighth straight game.

In the win over Wollaston,

Morris pitched five-hit ball, walked three and struck out three.

Morrisette scored three times in the third when Jim Bandera walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored in Reale's infield hit. Reale stole second, Balzano walked and Marty McLoughlin tripled.

In the sixth Jack Bolster and Morris walked and Chris Baker tripled to center for two more runs. In the seventh McLoughlin and Peecevic reached on errors and scored on Bolster's single.

Wollaston scored its only runs in the third and fifth innings.

Jim Kelly pitched well for Wollaston but had control problems. O'Brien had two hits.

10 Track Club Members Qualify For Regional Meet

McPhee Football Coach At North

Ken McPhee, a former North Quincy star himself and an assistant coach at his alma mater for the past 10 years, has been named the new head football coach at North.

McPhee succeeds Dave Burke, another former Raider standout, who resigned as coach following the 1991 season.

McPhee, who was assistant under Burke and Ralph Frazier, also played for the old New England Colonials.

McPhee was defensive coordinator for the North teams and was largely responsible for the varied defenses the Raiders used.

Ken, who was assistant softball coach this spring, also has been an assistant track coach at North.

North Girls Softball Prospects Bright For '83

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy girls' softball coach Lou Ioannilli is eagerly looking forward to next season. And with good reason.

This spring, with just three seniors, the Raiderettes, who dropped three of their first four games, went 9-3 the rest of the way and finished with a 10-6 Suburban League record.

"The girls did just a fantastic job and I can't wait until next season," said Ioannilli. "The underclassmen really came through for us and, once we got our early catching problems straightened out, we rolled."

The North girls finished up last week with a 5-2 victory over Newton North.

Junior Karen Boutlier pitched a three-hitter and ended with a 4-2 record.

Junior Lisa Julian drove in four runs, three with a bases loaded triple that broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning. Laurie Barba, one of the three seniors and a league all-star selection, had driven in the first run with a sacrifice fly.

The other two seniors were pitcher Elva Redd (6-4), a league second team all-star, and reserve third baseman Maureen Berry. Sophomore outfielder Mary Holleran batted .484 and was the league's number three hitter. She also was a league second team all-star.

Third baseman Julian batted .444 and made the all-star team and Patty McKinnon played a solid shortstop and hit .367.

Boutlier, in addition to pitching well, had a .467 batting average.

Outfielder Sue Ayles batted .340 and played well in the field and Debbie Kiley batted .300, had excellent speed and was outstanding in center field.

Lisa Tenaglia, who filled in at third and second, was an excellent defensive player. Sophomore catcher Cheryl Murphy came along well and was outstanding over the second half of the schedule, and Karen Merrigan and Ann Sousa, who came up from the junior varsity at mid-season, played well.

The Quincy girls finished their season earlier with a 7-9 record.

The First Ladies' Cheryl Carmody batted .471 and was the league's No. 4 hitter, while first baseman Janet Witham made the league second all-star team.

4 Somersault Center Gymnasts Compete In Junior Olympics

Four gymnasts from the Somersault Center on Farrington Street, Quincy, traveled to Princeton University last week to compete in the USGF National Gymnastics Junior Olympic Championships with more than 200 boys from across the country.

Mark Arnold and John Hill competed in Class I (16-18) and Gerry Haran and Carlton Noble competed in Class II (13-15). They took part all week in compulsory and optional routines and the top six in each event made the finals on Saturday.

Arnold and Hill had tough competition at the Class I level. Hill was 67th after the compulsory and moved up to 46th after a good showing in his optionals. Arnold placed ninth on the still rings and finished up 44th in the all-around.

In Class II Haran had a tough first day as he tried to go for the ultimate in his high bar routine and missed. He came back strong the next day as he moved from 66th to 43rd overall and showed one of the better optional high bar routines for his age group; Noble did a fine job, placing 12th in the all-around with two good days of routines. On parallel bars he made the finals and won the sixth place medal. He also qualified for the National Training Camp in Pennsylvania.

The Somersault Center is running a co-ed camp beginning July 12 and continuing through August. For information please call the center at 328-9405.

Fordie Pitts Bows In State Amateur Golf

Fordie Pitts of Wollaston lost the first three holes in a pouring rain, then played Dave Sullivan of Norfolk even the rest of the way only to bow out, 3 and 2, in the semi-final round of the State Amateur Golf Tournament at Oak Hill Country Club in Fitchburg.

It was the fourth time in seven years that Pitts had been eliminated in the semi-finals.

Sullivan won the first three holes with pars and then Pitts recovered from the shaky start to win the seventh hole with a birdie, and the fourth and 14th holes with pars. Sullivan fired two-over-par golf for the 16 holes.

Pitts, a Scituate hardware supplies salesman, gained the semi-final with a thrilling 1-up victory over Barrie Bruce, a Tufts College junior, in a match that required the best shot of the tournament on the 18th hole for Pitts to clinch the win.

With Bruce already on the green, trailing by one shot, Pitts used a No. 3 iron to hoist himself from the rough onto the green within 12 feet of the pin to set up the putt that halved the hole. Pitts had Bruce four-down at the end of 10 holes.

Pitts' teammate at Wollaston, 17-year-old Dave Marad, ran into veteran Walker Cupper Ted Bishop of Pine Brook on one of his better days and lost in the quarterfinal, 8 and 6. Bishop, a former national amateur titlist, had five birdies in the 12 holes.

WINS FIRST RACE

Lawrence Richardson's 26-foot Thunderbird, Shady Lady, sailing her first race only four days after she was launched, captured the third annual Remick Race, the opening feature competition of Quincy Bay Race Week, with a corrected time of two hours, 58 minutes, 42 seconds.

Shady Lady got to the starting line late but her ability to point high enabled her to climb through most of the fleet on the long windward leg to Thieves Ledge. She rounded the ledge in third place and finished fourth in elapsed time.

A thin spray of rain and a thick fog spoiled the annual Marine Parade feature of race week, which was to have been led by the 172-foot minesweeper, USS Direct. But the commanding officer, Lt. Cmdr. Stephen P. Douglas Jr. decided not to risk grounding in the poor visibility.

USS Direct was the first U.S. naval vessel ever assigned to participate in the annual Quincy Bay Race Week.

NORWEGIAN TENNIS WINNER

The Quincy Tennis Club's men's singles title went out of the country for the first time when young Bent Aasnaes, an MIT student from Norway, bested the defending champion, Dr. Phil Maloney of Quincy, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, on the Glendale Rd. courts.

Then Aasnaes took Bob Palik as a partner and they defeated the team of Jack Carter and Wayne Schell of West Newton, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, to win the double titles and a clean sweep of the two top championships in the principal summer tournament at the club.

NO-HITTER FOR MCGILVIRAY

Ted McGillivray pitched the first no-hit, no-run game in the history of the Quincy Junior League championships in leading the Elks to a 5-0 win over Wollaston Federal. Only a fourth inning walk marred the performance in which McGillivray struck out 14.

BONFIGLIOLI FANS 15

Ron Bonfiglioli struck out 15 and allowed only one hit as the Wollaston Merchants defeated the VFW, 3-0, in extra innings in a Quincy Babe Ruth League game. The Merchants scored three runs in the eighth inning on two errors and a single.

CHERIANI RETAINS TITLE

Ezio Ceriani, a Fore River supervisor from West Quincy, successfully defended his club championship at the Furnace Brook Golf Club, defeating John Hackett, 5 and 4. Ceriani and Hackett were teammates on the Furnace Brook team in the Norfolk County Four-Ball League.

VARNEY, CAPORALE STAR

Pete Varney hit a double and a long home run and Johnny Caporale pitched a five-hitter as the Service League All Stars whipped the Business League All Stars, 6-0, in Quincy Junior League action. Varney drove in four of the six runs.

SPORTS BITS '61

Dick Warren allowed Weymouth only three hits in pitching the Quincy Junior Legion baseball team to a 7-1 victory . . . Paul Pender of Brookline returned home from London after losing his world middleweight championship to Terry Downes . . . The Morrissey Club of Quincy, New England semi-pro football champions, started practice sessions under Coach Dan Mahoney at Upper Merrymount Park . . . The club was planning to hold a contest to select a "practical and colorful" nickname for the team. . . Bob Willis was high scorer with 10 points as North Quincy beat St. John's 27-21 in summer basketball action.

• Junior League Baseball Rotary Upsets Gear, Edges Bryan Post

Rotary upset Boston Gear, 7-4, in the Junior Baseball League after falling behind, 4-0, in the first inning.

John Pennellatore pitched a five-hitter, walked four and struck out seven. After allowing hits to Mike Paccetti, Steve Rabs and Mike Kiley in the first inning, he allowed only two more hits to Matt Furtado and Chris Higgins the rest of the way.

Rotary had nine hits, Mike Mullaney having two singles and a double, Bill MacDougall a double and single, Pennellatore a hit and two RBI, Joe Mulvey two singles and Tony Anderlionis a single. Defensively Dan McDonald, Mullaney, Mulvey and Bill MacDougall stood out.

Chris Higgins pitched well for Gear and struck out seven. He also fielded his position well, throwing out six Rotary batters.

Rotary also edged Bryan VFW, 7-6, with Pennellatore hitting a three-run homer over the center field fence in the last inning for the victory. Mullaney had two hits including a long home run over the left field fence, Rich Golden had a double and MacDougall, Anderlionis, Brian Kelly and Mulvey had singles.

Mike Bartkus and Matt Collins turned in fine defensive plays, while McDonald and Pat O'Donoghue handled the catching chores well. MacDougall, who relieved Mulvey in the fifth inning, struck out three and allowed two hits and was the winning pitcher. Mulvey allowed five hits and struck out five.

Flame throwing Dan Overby struck out six for VFW. Kevin Caldwell had a double and single and Ainsley had a double.

Boston Gear bounded back from its loss to Rotary with an 8-2 victory over State Street, scoring seven runs in the fifth inning.

State Street scored two unearned runs in the first, but Gear scored once in the fourth, then came the explosion. Kiley led the offense with double and single, Higgins and Shawn Craig had two singles each, Nancy Flukes and Paul Adams had doubles and Mike Leonard a single. Gear's defense straightened out after the first inning with Adams marking a spectacular unassisted double play and Paccetti, Furtado and Jimmy Collins making fine plays. Also playing well were Mike Cronin, Jimmy Glynn, Danny Piccini and Danny Gilmartin.

For State Street Joe Cappadona had three singles, Billy Dineen a double and single, Danny Steele two singles and Bob Austin, Bob Hubbard and Mark Abozio a single. Hubbard and Mike Walsh played excellent defense.

• Junior Farm League

Pirates Win N.L. Title

The Pirates defeated the Braves, 8-3, to win the Junior Farm League's National League title.

Mike Baylis was the winning pitcher and struck out 15. He also fielded his position flawlessly. Ron Last had a homer, Kelly Baylis and Steve Pearson three hits each and Jason Radzevich, Steve Sumpter, Bill Lydon and Bill Curry one each. David McLoud, Steve Carroll and Chris Polito played well defensively.

For the Braves Sean Berg pitched well.

"I would like to thank all the boys for a wonderful season," said Coach Paul Kelley. "I want to thank the parents for their fine support and Ralph Radzevich, my assistant, for all his help. Good luck to the boys who will move up next season and to those returning I say keep practicing for next season."

Peggy Burchell Wins Hockey Letter At NU

Peggy Burchell of Quincy won her letter as a member of the Northeastern University women's hockey team.

The sophomore played in all 23 games last winter at left defense, scoring a goal and adding an assist.

Coach Don MacLeod said, "Peggy made the adjustment to defense and did a decent job. She has a good shot, which she developed this season."

Burchell is a 1979 graduate of Quincy High, where she lettered in basketball.

She played on the Quincy Youth Hockey Association girls' A team from 1973-79. She played in the Quincy Women's Softball League and made the all-star team in 1981. She also was a member of the Koch Club Bowling League.

McKinnon Joins Weymouth Pirates

North Quincy High shortstop Patty McKinnon has joined the Weymouth Pirates softball team as a utility infielder.

She joins two North teammates, pitcher Elva Reid, who has a 2-1 record and a 2.00 ERA, and outfielder Mary Halloran, who is batting .583 with two doubles and a home run.

Also playing for the Pirates are catcher Sue Dacey, who is batting .438 with a double and a home, and her sister Judie, from Quincy High.

A year ago three Quincy girls played for the Pirates and had the chance to play in the National

Senior Girls Fast Pitch championships at Santa Maria, Calif. Too old to play this season are Diana Gelante and Cheryl Scanlon, Sue

Dacey played in the championships.

The Pirates will play at Dracut Sunday at 1 o'clock.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

BOAT EXPLOSION HAZARD

Every summer, the boating industry has its share of accidents, many are fatal. But the most terrifying of all boat disasters is the explosion that can demolish an inboard motor boat. How does this happen?

When a battery is being charged, it gives off highly explosive hydrogen gas. The gas is lighter than air and can get trapped under a closed hatch. All it takes is a spark to set off the holocaust.

Here's a tip from the Boating Industry Association. Whenever you charge the battery of an inboard or inboard-outboard motor boat with an external charger, leave the engine compartment open or ajar.

Any storage battery should always be well ventilated while being charged to prevent the buildup of explosive gas. And extreme care should be taken to keep sparks and flame away from it.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welky, D.M.D.
THE DENTIST AS DETECTIVE

Q: In a murder mystery I read, a victim was identified by his teeth. Can a dentist really do that?

A: We usually think of the dentist as a professional treating patients in an office. However, dentists have a variety of skills which can be useful to law enforcement agencies. One who uses these skills is called a forensic odontologist.

Dental records are often used in identification of bodies — even when the bodies are badly decomposed. Why? Because teeth are the hardest tissues in the human body, and because most people have a dentist with detailed individual records of their mouths. Dentists are usually called in after tragedies such as airplane crashes to aid in identification of victims. Even when no dental records are available, an examination of the mouth can tell us a good deal about an otherwise unidentifiable body.

Analysis of bite marks has also become a source of legal evidence, particularly in homicide and child abuse investigations.

At Chamber Breakfast

Sears, Card, Lakian Assail State Government

By TOM HENSHAW

State government, as it is currently practiced by mostly Democratic officeholders, was battered from Berkshire to Barnstable at last week's South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast.

The assailants were the three Republican candidates for governor John Lakian, a Westwood businessman; Rep. Andrew Card of Holbrook; and John Sears, former state rep, city councillor of Boston.

Sears noted that he drove to the breakfast at the Lantana in Randolph by way of the Southeast "Distressway."

"We were behind a truck that was spilling junk all over the road in clear violation of the law that says junk on the back of a truck must be covered," he said.

"Just wait and see how long it takes the elderly alcoholic uncles of some state senators who work for the Department of Public Works to go out and pick that up."

Lakian, who received the endorsement of the Republican state convention for the GOP nomination, said that a recent poll showed that 73 per cent of the people of Massachusetts think their government is "lousy."

"Recreation of the two party system is essential for us to survive as a functional democracy," he said. "Part of my agenda is to re-establish the Republican party in state government."

"You can vote the rascals out because two-thirds of them are never opposed."

Card said the most important problem in the state is the lack of leadership in the executive branch of state government over the past eight years.

"The legislative branch has kind of taken over and runs the state," he said. "It's a real problem. You didn't elect Tommy McGee and Billy Bulger governor but the positions they occupy run the state."

McGee is speaker of the House and Bulger is president of the Senate.

The three candidates, who were fresh from a statewide televised debate the night before, were reluctant to attack each other.

Lakian noted that he was the only candidate for governor who has never held any public office before.

"Every single person who is running for governor has been on the public payroll a good part of their entire lives," he said. "The problem in this state is that we elect men to high office over and over again who come from one profession, public service."

"I'm not afraid to call myself a politician," responded Card. "Most politicians call themselves public servants but we need good politicians who understand and appreciate people."

Art Historian Returns To Main Library July 14

Art historian Shirley Glubok returns to the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center on Wednesday, July 14, at 7:30 p.m.

She will present a slide talk, "Knights and Castles," a glimpse into bygone days for adults and for children age eight and older.

Author of more than 40 books on art history and archaeology for young people, her books cover such topics as the mummies and tombs of ancient Egypt, the stone monuments and metalwork of ancient Peru, and the history of the newspaper comic strip in America.

For each book she writes, she recruits a "junior literary advisor" to read the manuscript and help select the works of art to be photographed. She has traveled extensively researching material for her books.

She has been a classroom teacher, and is well known for her gallery talks at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art. Her slide talk at the Thomas Crane Public Library in March drew a capacity audience of children and adults.

A reading list of her books and books on knights and castles is available at all library buildings. The books themselves will be displayed and may be borrowed July 14 when she speaks.

Aldo Saluti Retires From Quincy Savings Bank

A varied career ranging from supervisor at Bethlehem Steel's Quincy Yard to banking came to a close recently when Aldo M. Saluti retired from Quincy Savings Bank after 30 years.

Saluti, a Quincy native, and 1937 graduate of Quincy High School, joined Quincy Savings Bank as teller in 1952, three years after he was graduated from Bentley College, Waltham.

He became an assistant treasurer in 1965, a corporator of the bank a year later, and an assistant vice president in 1973.

Until his retirement, Saluti was a customer service officer, a position that allowed him to use the selling skills he acquired in the 1940s at Sears Roebuck and Atlas Supermarket in Quincy.

Saluti has long been active in local organizations, including the Sons of Italy and Knights of Columbus.

He is treasurer of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy and serves on the finance committee of the South Shore Viking Club.

BOUQUET OF BALLOONS sent by his grandchildren marked Aldo M. Saluti's last day at Quincy Savings Bank before his retirement after 30 years.

Saluti is also a past president of the Holy Name Society at St. John's Church in Quincy, where he serves as president of the St.

Vincent de Paul Society.

Saluti and his wife, Sally, live in Braintree. They have 10 grandchildren.

Philip Lawrence Named To Savings Association Committee

Philip J. Lawrence, president of Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association has been appointed to the 1982 Committee on Development for Smaller Institutions of the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

The League is the principal trade organization for the savings and loan business and represents more than 4,000 associations in the U.S.;

the second largest type of financial institutions in America specializing in attracting savings accounts for investment primarily in home mortgage loans.

Luciano Room Opens At Dayce's Place

Bob Luciano, for 14 years head chef at The North River House in Hanover, has opened his own restaurant, The Luciano Room at Dayce's Place, on Sea St.

Luciano, a Quincy native, said he planned to "offer family dining at affordable prices," which will include weekly specials.

Robbie Fuel Co. Gets New Home

The Robbie South Shore Fuel Co., displaced from its Penn St. offices by the Burgin Parkway extension, has purchased a site for a new headquarters.

According to Gordon E. Paige of Flavin & Flavin, realtors, the new site is two acres of business-zoned land on Howard St. at the East Braintree-Quincy line.

Gordon was broker for the sale to J. Brooks Robbie, owner of the fuel company by the former land owners John and Jessie Johnson.

According to Paige, the land is near the Quintree Mall and the General Dynamics Shipyard.

Richard Cohen Appointed To Granite Bank Group

Richard B. Cohen, president of C.G.I. Management, Inc., of Chestnut Hill, has been appointed to the security committee of the Granite Co-operative Bank.

Cohen, who is involved in property management and development in the Greater Boston area, is experienced in evaluating real property on the South Shore.

Computer Firm Relocates Here

Sam Virk, president of P. Delta, Inc., a computer software development firm, announces the relocation of its main offices from Cambridge to St. Anne's Rd.

LaRaia Fund Raiser

The Committee to Elect Joseph J. LaRaia Clerk of Courts will hold a fund-raiser Sunday, July 11, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the National Fire Protection Association on Batterymarch Park, West Quincy.

Tickets at $12.50 may be obtained at campaign headquarters, 251 Washington St., Quincy Point, or by calling 471-9668 or 471-9669 or at the door.

James Triglia New Owner Of Johnson Motor Parts

James G. Triglia of Quincy is the new owner and president of Johnson Motor Parts, Inc., 65 School St., Quincy Center.

Triglia purchased the automotive parts business recently from his father-in-law, Edwin Johnson who started the business over 40 years ago.

Active in the company for over 20 years, Triglia also serves as president of Suffolk Warehouse.

He will run the automotive parts business with his son, Jimmy.

Johnson is semi-retired but will remain with the corporation part time.

Triglia is married to the former Elizabeth Johnson.

JAMES G. TRIGLIA

FIRST AMERICAN BANK has joined with radio stations WHUE FM and AM in sponsoring an ongoing "Landmark Contest". Listeners are invited to recommend local landmarks for reading on the air. A weekly winner is selected and a grand prize winner will be drawn in June. Shown above at a recent drawing are from left, Ed Forry, Bank Marketing Officer; Paul Kelley, WHUE general manager; and Court Queen, WHUE account executive. Entry blanks for the contest are available at any bank office. Grand prize winner will be a round trip air fare and lodgings in Boston for one week for two persons from anywhere in the continental United States. Weekly winners receive a gift certificate to Lily's restaurant in the Faneuil Hall Market.

Leo M. Kelly EE&G V.P.

Leo M. Kelly, general counsel and clerk of the corporation for EE&G, Wellesley-based "Fortune 500" company involved in high technology, has been elected vice president by the Board of Directors.

A former Quincy resident he now lives in Cohasset.

Harbor Marina Restaurant Gets Patio Extension

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The license Board approved a request Tuesday for extension of the license for Port O' Call Restaurant at the Boston Harbor Marina to include two out door patio areas with seating for 128 additional patrons.

But if problems with noisy customers don't improve, the extension will not be renewed beyond the 30 day probationary period.

Manager Robert J. Sweeney told the board that the seating capacity was being increased from 85 due to expansion of the two patio areas and a new raw bar.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that he has received complaints of noise from people as far away as Lansdowne St. in Squantum.

Finn said there is a rumor that a tough crowd which was evicted from the Beachcomber has moved on to the marina.

He also said that complaints have come from boat owners and residents, and that reportedly a man was thrown in the water one day and almost drowned.

"If its anything like they tell me," said Finn, "there is a lot to be desired with the management."

Walter J. Hannon of the marina said that additional police details have been added, and that the main problem is with the parking area.

After the license was granted, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald cautioned Sweeney not to exceed the stated capacity.

"That's what happened at the Coconut Grove," said MacDonald.

The license was granted subject to approval by the Fire, Police, Health and Building Department.

Quincy Sq. Location Out

Dacey Bros. Set For Quincy Ave.

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
There won't be a Dacey Bros. Dairy going into the soon to be vacated CVS store in Quincy Sq., but the applicants were given the go ahead Tuesday for a store at 275 Quincy Ave.

Jeremiah J. Dacey, president, withdrew without prejudice his application for common victualer and Lord's Day licenses for 1423 Hancock St. at the special License Board meeting this week.

Atty. Robert Macomber, representing Dacey's, said than an existing tenant of the building, Anodyne Medical Services, will occupy the space by right of a clause in the lease.

Macomber also said that, as the board suggested last week, the Quincy Ave. store would be located to the right, rather than to the left, of Keltic Liquors.

"That will be a far superior location for everyone concerned," said Fire Chief Edward Barry who along with other board members had been concerned about traffic problems at the original proposed site.

Joseph Bates, owner of the property, confirmed that there would be no problem in selling the land from the right of the liquor store to Circuit Road.

Bates said the transaction would not conflict with a covenant made for 500 luxury condominiums behind the Presidential Plaza.

He also agreed with a license board request to put in writing his intention to clean up the area which Building Inspector Allan MacDonald called a "damn mess".

Ricciardi Co. will own the land, said Macomber, and the two buildings to be constructed.

Macomber said Dacey's will be located in part of an L shaped building which will be constructed during the first phase of construction.

Steve Ricciardi said that the other tenant in the building, construction of which is to begin in about 60-70 days, would be a retail type operation. He also said the area would be paved and landscaped.

Ricciardi said that construction of the second building would not begin until a tenant was found.

Macomber said last week that, unlike the other Dacey Bros. stores in Quincy, the new one will have a deli for take out only.

Hours will be 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week.

Construction must begin within 90 days, and sprinklers must be installed to maintain the shrubbery as stipulations of the license.

A Tourist Guide

City Of Quincy

Massachusetts

Office of The Mayor

Welcome To Historic Quincy

WELCOME TO QUINCY, CITY OF PRESIDENTS:

As the Mayor of Quincy, it gives me great pride and pleasure to welcome you to the City of Presidents. Quincy has the distinction of being the birthplace of the only father and son combination to hold the highest office in the land, John Adams, second President of the United States and his son, John Quincy Adams, sixth President. Their contributions and that of other members of the Adams family to this country are inestimable.

You will be able to visit the birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams on Franklin Street and the impressive Adams Mansion on Adams Street which housed four generations of the Adams family starting with John and Abigail in 1801.

In the pages ahead, you will read about other places and other men and women who have played important roles in the history of our city and country. I think you will agree with me that Quincy is rich, indeed, in historic heritage. I urge you to visit our City Hall, both old and new, and while you are in Quincy Square, you should visit the First Parish Church, and a recently declared U.S. Landmark, Hancock Cemetery, which are all within walking distance of one another.

I hope your visit to Quincy will be a rewarding and memorable one.

Sincerely yours,

Francis X. McCauley

After Faithful $175,000 Rehabilitation

John Quincy Adams Birthplace Reopens

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace, which is open to the public for the first time in three years following a $175,000 rehabilitation job by the U.S. National Parks Service. The nearby John Adams Birthplace is still closed while undergoing a restoration of its own.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Parks Service on May 1, 1979, after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The USNPS started off by repainting them as they were in 1807, when the last Adams lived there.

For more than 80 years, they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research by the new owners turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula. The John Adams Birthplace was painted white.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

"The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it," says Wilhelmina S. Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site and once secretary to Brooks Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copied from those in his second law office in Boston.

BLUE CHINA that John Adams purchased for his wife, Abigail, in Holland is a feature of the dining room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

"Brooks Adams always thought that books could go anywhere," explains Mrs. Harris.

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

"The furnishings lack only Abigail's writing desk," says Mrs. Harris. "But we know where it is. It's owned by an Adams descendant in Oregon and we have permission to reproduce it."

Finished restoration of the John Adams Birthplace is in the indefinite future, depending on the amount of money the National Parks Service has available for the work.

WRITING DESK in old law office is where John Adams composed first draft of Massachusetts Constitution in John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

GRANDFATHER CLOCK and a painting of John Adams adorns a quiet corner of the sitting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The Adams Cottages

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents who are father and son stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was restored by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1681 was discovered under the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Parks Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces are at 133 and 141 Franklin St. The John Quincy Adams Birthplace has been restored and is open to the public for the first time this summer. It is open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 15 with guided tours at no charge. The John Adams Birthplace is closed to the public while rehabilitation work is going on. An interpretive program is given on the grounds free of charge between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Quincy Presidential Trail

The Adams Birthplaces are an important stop on the newly designated Quincy Presidential Trail, a 10.5-mile route that takes the visitor through the 17th and 18th Century locales associated with the lives of the Adams family.

Historic sites along the trail include the Adams Mansion, Dorothy Quincy Homestead, Adams Academy, First Parish Church, Adams Crypt, City Hall, Hancock Cemetery, the Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, First Commercial Railroad, First Ironworks, Col. Josiah Quincy House and Moswetuset Hummock, House and Moswetuset Hummock, most of which are described in this magazine.

The Quincy Presidential Trail is a National Recreation Trail, the seventh in the state of Massachusetts and the 625th in the nation.

QUINCY'S PEOPLE

After the lapse of the Granite Industry, Quincy had only one major resource left to utilize -- her people. We do not have gold under the surface of our soil or oil deep within. What we do have is a populace that has depended upon its skills, imagination and resourcefulness. Our people have a faith in progress and a sense of responsibility to a modernizing world. What once began as a remote trading post has grown beyond its contribution to the glass, steel, railroad, granite and shipbuilding industries to become the modern office mecca and financial center of the South Shore. Our progress is a tribute to our people.

ADAMS MANSION NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The Adams Mansion

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"... it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow."

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed and warm than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of one Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was at first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith. "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Parks Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site, located at 135 Adams St., is open to the public from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents with children under 16 admitted free.

The Adams Family

HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

2. JOSEPH ADAMS (1626-1694), son of Henry, farmer and maltster of Old Braintree.

3. JOSEPH ADAMS (1654-1737), son of Joseph, who married Hannah Bass, a granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

4. JOHN ADAMS (1691-1761), son of Joseph, farmer and selectman of Old Braintree, known as Deacon John.

5. JOHN ADAMS (1735-1826), son of Deacon John and second President of the United States.

5a. SAMUEL ADAMS (1722-1803), revolutionary firebrand; great, great grandson of Henry and cousin of President John.

6. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS (1767-1848), son of John, sixth President of the United States.

7. CHARLES FRANCIS

ADAMS (1807-1886), son of John Quincy, minister to Great Britain during the Civil War.

8. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS II (1883-1894), son of Charles Francis, state legislator and thrice candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

8a. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS II (1835-1915), son of Charles Francis, historian and founder of the Quincy school system.

8b. HENRY ADAMS (1838-1918), son of Charles Francis, author of "The Education of Henry Adams."

8c. BROOKS ADAMS (1848-1927), son of Charles Francis, the last Adams to live in the Old House in Quincy.

9. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS III (1866-1954), son of John Quincy II, mayor of Quincy and Secretary of the Navy under President Hoover.

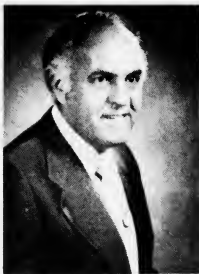

10. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS IV (1910-), chairman of the board of Raytheon Co.

Business is soaring in The Sea Belt.

The South Shore of Massachusetts

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce firmly believes that our area offers great advantages to business and industry. Hence, we have created the term we call "The Sea Belt" ^(TM). The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts running from Boston to Plymouth, offers a rather unique geographic, social, and recreational opportunity for businesses to expand and relocate.

Through our affiliate, The South Shore Economic Development Corporation, we are helping individual business grow through small business loans.

The tourism industry in the coastal South Shore Communities needs not only individual but also collective action with creative regional approaches. Quincy has recognized this need.

QUINCY YESTERDAY - with America's historical roots of democracy and industry, makes it potentially one of the most exciting historical cities in the United States.

QUINCY TODAY - where pride in our city has led to planned economic development where tourism play a part and the past and present blend through a sense of dedication and tradition.

QUINCY TOMORROW - a city that is broadening its scope for the future. Tourism is a viable economic industry and defines the Chamber's objectives of creating jobs and promoting business. The "Sea Belt" of New England, the South Shore of Massachusetts, will not be a short-lived phenomenon. We can say, to all concerned, that we are justifiably proud of our past and very confident of our future. Call on us:

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Col. John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs; a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and downtrodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

HANCOCK CEMETERY

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity. "God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later in November, 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chappel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelwright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by convenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56 — which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate — and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of its benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them.

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

Still an active Unitarian church, it is open to the public for tours from May 15 through the Saturday after Labor Day, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are accepted. There is a charge of 50 cents per adult for organized tour groups, which should make an appointment at least one week in advance. Tours of the church at other times during the year may also be made by appointment.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see"?

There are 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. but they pronounce it "Quin-see".

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee', including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass. the first Quincy was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth President John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincy's in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

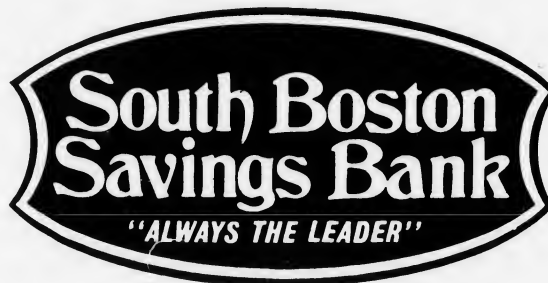

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-zee".

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

Abigail Adams Wife, Mother Of Presidents

Mrs. John Adams, the former Abigail Smith of Weymouth, is the only woman to be wife of one president and mother of another --- and she could have been grandmother of a vice president.

Husband John was chief executive from 1797 to 1801; son John Quincy occupied the White House from 1825 to 1829; and grandson Charles Francis Adams ran for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

An early advocate of women's rights, Abigail Adams once wrote to her husband, John:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

HIGHLIGHTS

1. Town Hall: City Hall of Quincy Architect and builder, Solomon Willard. Completed November 1, 1844. Built of Quincy granite.
2. Adams Academy. Site of the birthplace of John Hancock, the Patriot. Erected in 1871. Now the home of The Quincy Historical Society. World War I statue and memorial. Bust of Hancock. Historical exhibit.
3. Adams National Historic Site. Built in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall. Purchased by President John Adams in 1787, and occupied by four generations of the Adams Family.
4. Dorothy Quincy Homestead. Dating from 1685, it was the home of four generations of the Edmund Quincy family. Home of Dorothy Quincy who married John Hancock.
5. Woodward School. Founded by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward in 1869 to educate Quincy-born girls.
6. Milestone Marker. The Neponset Turnpike (now Hancock Street) gave people a shorter route to Boston. This milestone (almost illegal) marks 7 1/2 miles from Boston. An older milestone across the way, on Adams Academy grounds, marks the miles on the old route via Milton.
7. Old Court House. District Court of East Norfolk was established in 1872. This courthouse, built in 1912, has been replaced by a modern building on Chestnut Street.
8. Quincy Junior College. Formerly the Coddington School built in 1909, then a "modern" elementary school.
9. Bethany Church. Built in 1928 in Gothic style, its gargoyles, four feet long, are the longest in New England.
10. Thomas Crane Public Library. Designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, foremost architect of his era. Commissioned in 1880 by Albert Crane in memory of his father.
11. United First Parish Church. A fine example of the Greek Revival period designed by Alexander Parrish and constructed in 1828. John Adams and his wife Abigail, and John Quincy Adams and his wife Louisa Catherine are buried in the church.
12. Hancock Cemetery. Dated around 1640 and named for the Reverend John Hancock, father of the Patriot. The oldest headstone is dated 1666.
13. Post Office.
14. Christ Church. Oldest Episcopal parish in the city.
15. St. John the Baptist Church. Roman Catholic.
16. Christ Church Cemetery.
17. Birthplaces of John Adams and John Quincy Adams. The nation's only father and son presidents. The two saltbox farmhouses, undergoing restoration by the National Park Service are a brief walk down Franklin Street.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commercial Railroad In U.S.

It was the darndest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6½ feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 37 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crotchety, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally, architect

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year round, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

The Thomas Crane Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial -- preferably a library -- to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestley and the foremost American architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I cannot guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty or taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees.

It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

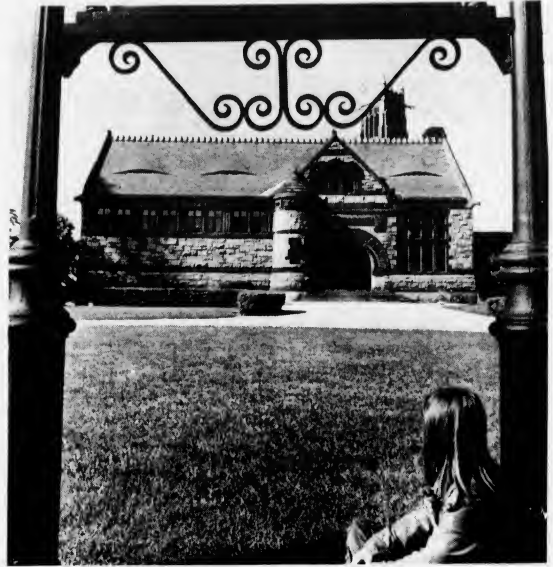

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism -- "Food will win the war," they said -- the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, year around, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, October through May.

Dorothy Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd. on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later vice president of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is open to the public May through October, Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4 p.m.) There is a $1.50 admission charge for adults, 25 cents for children.

A fitting memorial . . .

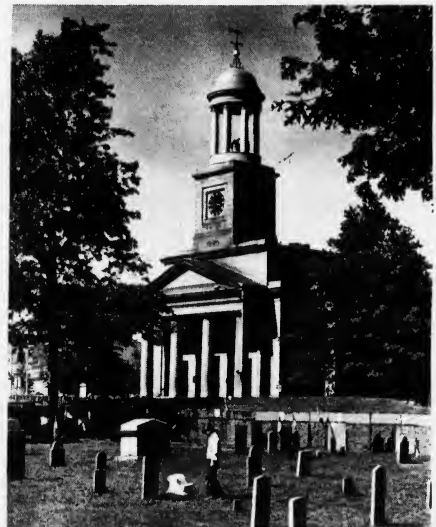

John Quincy Adams occupied the White House in 1828 when United First Parish Church, the Stone Temple, was built of Quincy granite, a fitting memorial to the enduring work of the men who founded the state and the nation.

Two presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, are buried side by side in vaults in the grotto of the Church.

The cornerstone of the Stone Temple was laid on June 11, 1827, and in it was placed a silver plate with the inscription: 'A temple for the worship of God, and for public instruction in the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.'

Historic Hancock Cemetery in the foreground is the final resting place of early Quincy settlers and patriots among them Col. John Quincy for whom Quincy was named and Rev. John Hancock, a minister of First Parish Church and father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

John Winthrop, Jr. Blast Furnace

First Productive Iron Works In U.S.

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River (now Furnace Brook) in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods."

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England."

The first iron was turned out in 1644 but young Winthrop was fired from his 100 pounds a year job the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. The Ironworks itself didn't last much longer.

The ore from which the iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook was not a high quality product. It was bog iron from the nearby swamps. Making it proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England as cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy ironworks a paying proposition. It didn't work.

The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works north of Boston in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650, it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

The foundation of ironworks in Quincy has been restored on Crescent St., next to St. Mary's Cemetery in West Quincy. It is open to the public year around 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Her husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year-old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles 5, and Thomas Boylston 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth president of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public free of charge.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrowhead (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Taratines of Maine, a war in which Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantom), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Adams Academy

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day for their were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second president of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body — 25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 from 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar schools" and warned that "no pupils are desired whose parents do not intend to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Everett, an aimable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett who signaled the passing of Adams Academy — and many other 19th Century classical prep schools — at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone came forward and plunked down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms. The museum is open all year, Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. The library is open Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. There is no admission charge.

City Hall

Seat Of Government For 137 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite in Quincy Square has been just that for the past 137 years, the nerve center of government for first the town and then the city.

It was in the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a president of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard — who received $280 for drawing up the plans and superintending construction for five months — the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3½-story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

HISTORIC Quincy Trust Building, constructed in 1917 at the corner of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave., forms a solid setting for the Tag's Furniture and Sleep Shop of today.

Josiah Quincy Homestead

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall mast of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775. General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquillia" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family -- Col. John Quincy, the great grandfather of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

The Josiah Quincy Homestead is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-mile marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

City Contends Seniority Only Issue

Politics Charged In Owen Ouster

By TOM HIENSHAW

Counsel for Owen Eaton hinted Tuesday that there were political considerations behind the ouster of her client as water superintendent of Quincy.

Attorney Deirdre Harris of Boston told a Civil Service hearing at City Hall:

"We are trying to establish that there was a systematic effort by Mr. Anderson and Mayor McCauley to eliminate those who disagree with them politically."

Eaton lost his job as head of the Water Division when the department was reorganized in a Sewer, Water and Drain Division by Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and McCauley.

Miss Harris did not have a chance to pursue the point as the hearing was recessed at 4:30 p.m. until 9:30 a.m. Wednesday morning.

David Grunebaum, the city labor negotiator who handled the city's case at the hearing, cautioned Miss Harris that only seniority was at issue in the hearing.

Sewer Supt. Russell Eranio, was selected over Eaton for the new post of superintendent of the combined sewer, water and drain department only on the basis of seniority, he said.

"Mr. Eaton's competence is not at question," he said. "This is a consolidation of departments for economy. The one who got the position was the senior of the two."

Grunebaum also objected to Miss Harris' use of the word "termination" in regard to Eaton's dismissal.

"He was laid off with all rights to reinstatement," he said. The McCauley administration has maintained that Eaton can bump down into the post of general foreman if he wishes to do so.

Commissioner Anderson testified that the merger of the Water and Sewer Divisions and the Drain Section of the Highway Division was accomplished to save the city money.

"I felt that we could get by just as well with one instead of two superintendents," he said. "I felt that one superintendent was more than adequate for 86 men in the department."

Miss Harris attempted to show that the new department really didn't save money because three new jobs were added but Anderson testified that the jobs were transfers of old ones.

Anderson had just testified that Helen Duffy, administrative assistant to the commissioner, "did not care for" some of the transfer procedures when Grunebaum objected.

It was at that point that Miss Harris made her charge of politics, adding that her line of questioning was "to show tht the abolition of Mr. Eaton's job was not done in good faith."

Miss Harris and Grunebaum

School Cutbacks Affect 107

By JOHN NOONAN

School committee members commented it was a sad day for Quincy schools last week as they voted to demote, dismiss, or layoff some 107 professional staff members effective at once.

The committee voted to dismiss 82 teachers, school nurses, education specialists, and audio visual technicians bringing to 700 the total number of professional persons who services have been terminated during the past 3 years.

The board also voted to demote

15 principals and assistant principals because of the advent of the middle school system in September.

The voting on the latest groups of employees became so difficult at one point that Committeeman Christopher Kennedy asked if it was necessary for School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon to read the listing of names each time.

Kennedy said it was not only a sad day for all concerned but that it was especially difficult, almost cruel, to require that the school board members sit and listen to the litany of names being read each time a vote was necessary.

Creedon, whose brother Eugene Creedon, an elementary school principal was on the list, replied that the rules and regulations of Civil Service required certain steps had to be taken when the job status of the individuals was being affected. Reading the names in an open public meeting was one such step.

The steps were taken upon advice of the school legal counsel, Murphy, Lamer, Murphy, represented at the meeting by Atty. Edward Lenox.

Other requirements included notification of all affected employees with a return receipt requested. Each employee was informed of the option to request an open or closed meeting before the full board prior to any action on the status of their jobs.

Reasons for the job actions taken were attributed to Prop. 2½, declining pupil enrollment, budget restrictions, and school closings.

Ralph Maher Named To Housing Board

Ralph J. Maher, 44, of 72 Gardiner Rd., West Quincy, city plumbing inspector, was sworn in Thursday as the governor's appointment to the Quincy Housing Authority.

Maher succeeds Mrs. Lolita Harris McCreary, who resigned, for the remainder of the five year term that expires March 18, 1984.

Comfort Station Open During Sidewalk Bazaar

The municipal comfort station in the Hancock Parking area will be open today (Thursday) through Saturday during the Sidewalk Bazaar in downtown Quincy, announces Mayor Francis McCauley.

The station was closed last year because of economic reasons.

It is expected to be reopened in the fall as part of a contract for validated parking in downtown Quincy.

Helicopter Down

Joe Green and the WBZ traffic helicopter were forced to land by engine trouble in West Quincy last week and the craft spent the night in the Antonelli Iron Works yard. No one was reported injured.

A few weeks ago, the WHDH traffic 'copter was forced down in the nearby Old Colony Crushed Stone property and several years ago the WEEL helicopter crashed on Station St., killing three people.

No QHA Meetings During July

Administrator John Comer announces that the Quincy Housing Authority will not meet during July.

The next regularly scheduled meeting will be Aug. 18, at the office of the Authority, 80 Clay St., Wollaston, Mass.

Fun, Bargains Featured At 13th Sidewalk Bazaar

Three days of fun and games and shopping values starts today (Thursday) with the 13th annual downtown Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Starting Thursday through Saturday night, Hancock St. will be closed to vehicular traffic and become a pedestrian mall with 37 booths of shopping values, wandering minstrels and shows.

The main event will be the Friday night coronation of Miss Quincy Bay of 1982, who will reign over Quincy Bay race week in August.

Beth Streng, the student from Eastern Nazarene College who won last year, will be on hand to crown her successor in the pageant, which will be held on a portable board walk in front of the Hancock Bank starting at 9:15 p.m.

Dr. Pierce To Head Pennsylvania Jr. College

Dr. Edward F. Pierce, who is resigning from the $40,800 a year post as president of Quincy Junior College, will begin a new position in August as president of Mt. Aloysius Junior College, Cresson, Pa.

Pierce, 55, announced his resignation in May, and no reason was given. The resignation is effective Aug. 6.

Since July 1, he has been

Returning to entertain the crowd for the second year will be an old fashioned organ grinder, Bob Delvental of West Roxbury, with his monkey and 135-year-old organ.

Other features of the three-days of festivity include:

— Grimace and the Hamburglar, two characters from the McDonald's stable. Grimace, a huge purple Teddy bear, plays with the youngsters while the Hamburglar passes out coupons and small toys.

— The Moonwalk, a big balloon tilted loosely with air, which closely approximates conditions on the moon to youngsters bouncing and struggling on its surface.

— The Coca Cola Robot, a 3½-foot peripatetic Coca Cola can with a head resembling R2D2 of "Starwars" fame, that will be roving the area singing Coca Cola songs.

— Dale Dorman, the personality from Channel 56 and Kiss 108 radio will broadcast live from a platform in front of the Hancock Bank from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

— Cheezo the Clown, accompanied by a mechanical mouse that talks to the youngsters and blows up balloons for them.

— Baron Hugo, famed band leader from the days of the Big Bands, and his orchestra will perform in concert Friday from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and for the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant.

— The Ronald McDonald Show, "Miles of Smiles" will entertain the small fry with magic and other tricks twice this afternoon and three times Friday.

— Quincy's Young World Exhibition will perform their gymnastics, and Big Bird, direct from Sesame St. will wander through the crowd as emissary from the Quincy Eye Associates.

— There will also be a dunking stool, the Milton Band, Michael Smith's Irish Lace Dancers, the Joy of Movement Dancers, the Matrix Color Guard's drill exhibition.

Radio personality Jimmy Jay, a disc jockey from WEZE and host of the syndicated radio show "Righteous Rock and Roll," will perform from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. tonight near the Hancock Bank.

On a more serious note, City Hospital will have a booth from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. near the QCBPA office to hold a blood pressure clinic.

HIGH AND DRY — Jennifer Dwyer, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Dwyer of 161 Beach St., Wollaston, sits dejectedly in the half completed backyard pool her parents had ordered for her this summer. According to Mrs. Margaret Dwyer, work on the $11,000 pool was begun May 25 and the pool company said it would be completed in 21 working days. This is as far as it has gone. Jennifer is now cooling off these days at a YMCA summer camp instead.

Christy's Clerk Foils Holdup Attempt

A man wearing an orange ski mask and possibly carrying a .357 magnum handgun tried to hold up the Christy's Market at 721 Hancock St., Wollaston, Saturday night but fled when the clerk refused to open the register.

The clerk told police she saw the man putting on the ski mask outside the store and turned off the power to the register. When he demanded money, she said, she told him to get it himself because she couldn't open the register.

The man, who was described as about 5-foot-9, 150 pounds, wearing a red shirt and light-colored jeans, fled toward Clay St. in a blue car.

A blue car was also the escape vehicle for a man in a blue ski mask who held up Sangealos Liquor Store, 391 Washington St., Quincy Point, about 15 minutes later.

Man Robbed Near MBTA Station

Edward Valenti, 18, of Quincy told police Monday he was robbed of $12 in cash, $68 in food stamps and personal papers by three men who accosted him near the Quincy Center MBTA station.

Valenti said he was walking on the walkway to the rear of the Hancock Cemetery when the three came up behind him, jabbed a sharp object in his lower back and demanded his wallet.

They fled toward Granite St.

Saturday night.

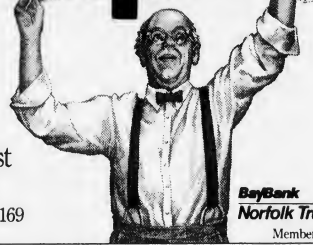

He was described as about 5-foot-4, thin, wearing a white shirt and carrying a handgun. His car left down Arnold St. with three other occupants inside.

Further details of the Sangealos holdup were not available.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one person in a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz.

1. What is the name of the director of Quincy City Hospital?
2. The only mayor of Quincy ever to win election to that office unopposed was: Thomas S. Burgin? Amelio Della Chiesa? James R. McIntyre?
3. Langley Circle is in what section of the city?
4. True or false: Quincy is farther north than London, England.
5. What well-known Quincy landmark is located at 728 Southern Artery?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Austen Wickens is the executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.
2. David S. McIntosh was never elected mayor by popular vote.
3. Poplar St. is in the Adams Shore section of the city.
4. True. The Fore River Shipyard was founded in Braintree by Thomas A. Watson and moved to Quincy in 1900.
5. The Wollaston Theater is located at 14 Beale St., Wollaston.

Muriel: Profile In Courage

Muriel Chandler was never a complainer or a quitter. And she never felt sorry for herself.

As administrative assistant to former Mayor Arthur Tobin she always made visitors to the office feel comfortable and welcome.

And if they had personal problems she made sure that someone would help solve them.

Her infectious laugh helped make it a happy office despite the municipal burdens and tensions of any given day.

Those who really didn't know her would never suspect she had cancer, had had three major operations and had been fighting the disease for 10 years.

When those who learned for the first time that she had cancer and told her they were sorry, she would tell them not to be.

"I'm lucky," she would say cheerfully. "I like my job and I get to meet a lot of nice Quincy people, and governors, congressmen, state and city officials."

If a department head came into the office feeling down because something had gone wrong, Muriel would cheer him up.

And if she herself might be having a down moment or two, someone like The Sun's Tom Henshaw would bring her bouncing back by showing up sporting a baseball cap, a Hawaiian shirt, with clashing pants, loud orange socks and maybe sneakers.

Henshaw is considered a pretty fair reporter. But a fashion style setter he is not.

Muriel put up a courageous fight -- but Saturday she lost. The day before in Sidney Farber Cancer Institute Arthur Tobin and Jim McIntyre visited her and held her hand. They had their own battle with tears. Her husband James had told them time was quickly running out. It did, a few hours later.

Several weeks ago, Senate President William Bulger sent her a personal letter and a poem that really pleased her.

Arthur Tobin knew her 12 years. She had been his secretary when he was state senator and before that secretary to him and to City Solicitor

Harry Pavan in the latter's law office. She at one time was secretary to the late Atty. Louis George.

had a smile."

Everyone who knew her, adored her. Like Congressman Brian Donnelly.

When Tobin was trying to get federal funds for the garage behind Quincy Center Plaza, Donnelly visited his office.

"I really came over here," Donnelly said, "for some of Muriel's home made corn chowder."

Muriel lost her battle with cancer. But because of her and friends who admired and loved her, others may win their fight.

Muriel was most appreciative of the doctors and nurses and other employees at Quincy Farber and their concern for her.

Two years ago her friends -- many of whom you know -- decided to do something in her name. They established the Muriel Chandler Education Fund at the hospital by donating $2,000.

This year they had planned to give her a party on her 57th birthday June 22 but she couldn't make it. She was back in the hospital. So, instead, they raised another $2,000 and donated it to the fund at the hospital.

Interest from the fund, explains Tobin is used to help bring doctors from around the country -- the world, too -- to Sidney Farber Cancer Institute to give symposiums here on the newest methods to fight cancer. The money, for example, is used to pay the travelling expenses of the doctors coming here.

The Education Fund made Muriel very happy. Because of it, she knew that her own battle against cancer really wasn't in vain.

She may have lost, herself.

But because of her and her friends and family, someone else is going to win.

GASOLINE NOT A CLEANER

Today, despite the availability of relatively safe and efficient cleaning agents, some people still use gasoline to clean clothes, floors, paint brushes, machine parts -- just about anything.

Gasoline is designed to burn. It vaporizes readily and the vapors can be exploded. What does it take to make gasoline vapor burn? Only air and a source of ignition.

Because the pilot light of a furnace or heater is hidden from view, do-it-yourselfers frequently forget about it as an ever-present source of flame and ignition. An open flame isn't the only source of ignition for gasoline vapor. The electric arc that occurs when you flick a light switch or pull an electric plug out of a wall socket can ignite vapor. So can the sparks from an electric drill's motor.

As you can see, it's easy to start a fire with gasoline -- that's what it's made for. But, fortunately, it's even easier to follow this precaution: Don't use gasoline for cleaning!

A Farewell To Central

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Over the past 19 years I have had the professional privilege of being associated with one of the finest school systems in America.

During those years of service to Quincy Public Schools I had the pleasure of being assigned to Central Junior High, truly one of the most unique schools in existence. While serving at Central, I was honored by my election to the position of Assistant Principal, in which capacity I worked closely for 11 years with Vin Moscardelli, one of the most outstanding administrators in our system. For all of these good fortunes, I am very grateful.

It is now time for me to move on to other pursuits and to attempt to reach new goals. To all of the students, the parents and the staff of Central Middle School, I wish continued success, achievement and the best of luck. Hang in there - Keep smiling!!

South Shore Bank Making Plans For Old Strand Theater

Officers of the South Shore Bank are deciding what to do with their newest acquisition — the 57-year-old Strand Theater across Chestnut St.

Bank President William B. Austin Jr. announced Monday that the bank had purchased the theater for an undisclosed sum through the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

"We are working on plans for the building now," said Austin, whose bank recently purchased the Scott Gordon Furniture Co. building next door to the theater to handle planned bank expansion.

"Whatever we decide for the theater building will probably tie in with the Scott Gordon building," said Austin, "but it would be premature for me to say anything until we have looked at all options."

He said one of the options could be to tear the building down.

"The bank has some real estate needs," he said. "It would not be economical to have a piece of property like that lying around idle for a long period of time."

Austin said it is not unusual for the bank to purchase the property through a representative such as the Quincy Fire Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

"When we learned that the theater was for sale, it made sense to incorporate that property into our plans for the future," said Austin. "We are grateful for the important assistance Quincy Mutual gave us in acquiring the property."

Meanwhile, workmen are busy removing interior fixtures from the building, which was built in 1925 by former Mayor William A. Bradford and was in its heyday as the belle of Quincy theaters in the 1930s and 1940s.

Some of the old seats were hauled away by Arthur Chandler, owner of the Wollaston Theater, now the only motion picture playhouse remaining in the city of Quincy.

Navy Assures Repair Work At Victory Plant

Forrest I. Neal, president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, received word from Cong. Louis A. Frothingham that the Navy plans to retain the Victory plant at Squantum as a repair base for destroyers and submarines.

"Received personal assurance from Assistant Secretary (Franklin D.) Roosevelt that no change would be made at present in the status of Squantum Victory plant," said Frothingham in a telegram to Neal.

Earlier, Neal charged that valuable machinery from the Squantum plant was being shipped to Norfolk, Va., a move that would seriously cripple the ability of the Victory plant to function as a repair base.

Neal and Chamber Secretary Alfred N. LaBrecque claimed that the removal of the machinery was the first step to dismantle the plant and move future repair work to bases in the south.

More than 2,500 men could be employed at the Squantum plant if it were properly used, said Neal. In 24 hours it could be made ready to handle 54 destroyers and a like number of submarines.

City To Inspect Boston Parking Facilities

Arthur W. Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, will head a delegation of Quincy officials and businessmen on a trip to Boston Thursday to inspect validated parking facilities.

The delegation will leave Quincy at 9:15 a.m. and inspect facilities operated by the Robert E. Bates Parking Inc., in downtown Boston and by Kinney Systems in Government Center.

Making the trip will be Foley, Purchasing Agent Robert F. Denvir and Robert Colman and Mark Bertman, merchant members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Bates and Kinney are two of the three firms that filed proposals for the operation of a validated parking system for 1,500 cars in the John Hancock and Ross Parking areas.

Foley has already inspected a parking area at Deaconess Hospital in Boston that is run by the third bidder, Metropolitan Parking Systems.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has said that he hopes to have the parking areas open under management of one of the three systems sometime in the fall. Merchants will help pay for the operation.

Included in the contract will be free parking for shoppers in downtown stores, a charge for others using the parking area, and operation of the municipal comfort station closed since last year.

Politics Charged In Owen Case

exchanged rather testy remarks during the hearing.

Eaton's counsel started the proceedings by questioning the qualifications of the hearing officer, Jay McRitchie, the city's equal opportunity officer.

McRitchie apparently satisfied her when he said that he used to hold hearings when he was employed by the State Corrections Department and that he had held about a dozen Civil Service hearings as part of his current job.

Miss Harris contended that in spite of the fact that he had seniority over Eaton, Eranio had never been in the Water Department and there were certain areas in which he had no experience.

She called as witnesses in Eaton's behalf, Fire Chief Edward Barry and City Councillors Theodore DeCristoforo and Patricia Toland.

Barry testified that the Fire and Water Departments worked closely together and that Eaton "performed his position very capably. He used his specialized knowledge to advise me on certain matters."

He said he had no opinion of Eranio's work since he had no reason to deal with him.

DeCristoforo called Eaton "one of the finest department heads in the city of Quincy. Mr. Eaton is a friend of mine; a very community-minded person; a fine gentleman."

"I know nothing detrimental to Mr. Eranio," DeCristoforo added.

Mrs. Toland testified that she was "disappointed in the decision to eliminate Mr. Eaton's job. He represents the efficiency in government that we need."

She said she knew one of the superintendents would be eliminated when the fiscal 1983 budget came before the City Council last spring but she did not know which one.

"I would have had a problem voting for the budget if I had known that it was Owen Eaton's job that would be eliminated," she said.

Anderson also testified that Eaton had never been told that he would retain the superintendent's job when the two divisions were merged.

"Mr. Eaton asked the mayor that question point blank," he said, "and the mayor's response was that he had not made that decision yet."

Anderson said he "went out of my way to tell him that he had an equal opportunity for the job as anyone else."

S.S. Coalition Picnic Sunday

The annual picnic of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights and the Randolph Fair Practices Committee will be held Sunday, July 18 at Walton Pond State Park, Bay St., Taunton.

All members and friends of both organizations are invited to attend. There is a $3 charge per car for the use of the park, which includes swimming (with life guard), playground, and picnic areas. Everyone is asked to bring food to share for a pot-luck.

The picnic will be the first opportunity for many Coalition members to meet their newest staff member Deborah Gibson, recently appointed to the position of Housine Counselor.

15 Retirees Honored By Boston Gear

A buffet and dance was held recently at the Ridder Country Club, Whitman, for 15 employees who recently retired from Boston Gear.

Over 225 people, including fellow workers, associates, and many former retirees were in attendance.

Eleven of the 15 who were feted had over 40 years of service. Grand total for the group was 565 years. A lot of reminiscing was done recalling past experiences during careers at Boston Gear.

John Flanagan, president, thanked the retirees for their long and dedicated service to the company, and wished them good health and happiness in the years ahead.

William Inglis, production manager, and Kent Osborne, manufacturing manager, acted as M.C.'s and presented each retiree with a gift.

The following is a list of the retirees, their years of service, and last position held prior to retirement.

Joseph McCracken, 46 years, foreman; Edward Williams, 45 years, product manager; Edward Ranta, 43 years, tool design specialist; Joseph Marchesiani, 43 years, senior computer operator; George Hatfield, 42 years, foreman; Donald Cannon, 42 years, purchasing secretary; Frank Gaines, 41 years, foreman; Paul Remick, 41 years, foreman; William Donna, 40 years, supervisor quality control, Louisburg, NC; Leander Coots, 40 years, foreman; Clarence Roberts, 31 years, senior quality control engineer; George Field, 30 years, manager quality control; Harry Kingston, 26 years, finance specialists; Mildred Wilcox, 10 years, nurse.

36 To Compete For Miss Quincy Bay Title

Thirty six local area young women will compete for the title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1982 and more than $4,000 in prizes Friday at 9:30 p.m. in downtown Quincy.

The beauty pageant, highlight of the annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, will be held on a portable boardwalk in front of Hancock Bank on Hancock St.

The new queen, who will be crowned by last year's winner Beth A. Strenge of Wollaston, will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week Aug. 4-8 and win the lion's share of the prizes. The three runnersup will also share in the prizes.

The pageant is co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Master of ceremonies for the fourth year will be Tom Kennedy, WHDH radio personality. Music will be by Baron Hugo and his orchestra.

Radio TV talk show host, Avi Nelson, will return as a celebrity judge.

Other judges will be Tracy Hart, Miss Quincy Bay of 1980; Bernie Reisberg, president of the QCBPA; Bernard McCourt, executive director of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association; Ron Zoolek, executive director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Contestants will be judged in evening gown and swim suit competition and for beauty and poise. They will be escorted by commodores of the Quincy Bay Race Week associated yacht clubs.

Pageant chairman is Pat Jones, head of Agency Plus, Dedham.

The Neighborhood Club of Quincy hosted the annual dinner party for contestants last Tuesday.

The past four years of pageants have drawn more than 120 contestants from 18 South Shore towns with crowd estimates in excess of 20,000.

The contestants, in alphabetical order, are:

Elaine Akoury, 16, Quincy; Pam J. Bocchino, 18, Braintree; Lisa Beth Boettcher, 18, East

CANCER OF THE MOUTH

Q: I've read about self-examination for cancer. What should I look for in my mouth?

A: Cancer of the mouth should be among the easiest to cure, for many lesions are plainly visible while still small. Unfortunately, most people don't check their own mouths periodically. By the time the tumor is large enough to cause obvious problems, it is often too late for cure.

Cancer of the mouth can strike anyone, but most victims are men over age 50. Smoking, (especially cigars or pipe), tobacco chewing, heavy drinking, and a history of syphilis are predisposing factors.

Any unexplained bleeding or lump in the mouth, any sore which lasts over a week, or any dark spots (other than normal racial pigmentation) should be checked by your dentist immediately. Dentists receive special training in detecting oral cancer, and a cancer check should be a part of every examination.

Dentists work to save teeth every day. By early diagnosis of oral cancer, they can save lives.

Muriel Chandler, 57, Administrative Assistant To Former Mayor Tobin

State and city officials were among those attending the funeral service for Mrs. Muriel Chandler, 57, of Weymouth, administrative assistant to former Mayor Arthur Tobin Tuesday at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Mrs. Chandler died Saturday at Sidney Farber Cancer Institute, Boston, after a long illness.

Born in Boston, she had lived in Weymouth for 33 years. She formerly lived in Newton.

Mrs. Chandler recently retired as executive secretary to the Quincy Housing Authority. She was also active as clerk of Quincy Point Congregational Church.

She was a member of the Norfolk County Legal Secretaries Association and 7499 Reserve Officers Association Ladies.

She is survived by her husband, James G. Chandler, Jr.; a brother, Robert T. Danker of Weymouth; an aunt, Nathalie Roberts of Quincy; two nephews, Christopher E. Danker of Littleton and Mark R. Danker of Hanover; a niece, Debra A. Troia of Weymouth; one grandniece and one grandnephew.

Mayor Francis X. McAuley ordered the flags in the city to fly at half-staff Monday and Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Chandler.

"She was a lovely lady," said Arthur H. Tobin, clerk-magistrate at Quincy District Court, whom Mrs. Chandler had served as confidential secretary and administrative assistant for 12 years in private law practice and city government.

"She touched the lives of everyone who came in contact with her. In spite of her pain and suffering, she brought laughter and joy to others. She was a tremendous good and loyal friend. I'm going to miss her."

Rev. Winston Clark, pastor, officiated at the service.

Rev. Peter Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, and Fr. William McCarthy of St. John's Church took part in the service.

MURIEL CHANDLER

Among those attending the wake and funeral were former mayors James R. McIntyre, Walter J. Hannon, Arthur Tobin and family, Rep. Thomas Brownell, Rep. Robert Casoli, City Councilors Theodore DeCristofaro, Leo Kelly and Patricia Toland, City Clerk John Gillis, assistant clerk Thomas Burke, former executive secretary George Riley, former Tobin secretaries Nancy Noble and Susan Gustin, CETA head Paul Ricca, Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Also, former Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, Helen Duffy, assistant commissioner of Public Works; John Cattaneo, John Comer Quincy Housing Authority, Frank Terranova, Edward Graham, Sen. Joseph Walsh of Dorchester; associate senate counsel George Kenneally, Governors Councilor Peter Eley, Joseph Donovan, associate commissioner of the state DPW; Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of Park and Recreation; former city auditor Charles Shea; Larry Falvey of the probation department at Quincy Court; City Building Supt. Herbert Blake; Dave Keefe, Quincy Cablesystems; Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun; superintendent of housing maintenance James D'Olimpio, as well as many other employees of the housing authority, treasurer's office, city hall and police department.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy Center. Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Donations in her memory may be made to the Quincy Point Congregational Church Memorial Fund or to the Sidney Farber Cancer Institute Muriel Chandler Fund.

Roberta Tocchio, 29, Car Accident Victim

A funeral Mass for Roberta Tocchio, 29, of Middleboro, a former Quincy resident who died in a car accident Saturday night in Fall River, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Mary Tocchio of Quincy and the late Mr. Licurgo Tocchio.

Miss Tocchio was killed when the car in which she was riding struck a tree and overturned on Route 24. She was thrown from the car and died at Charlton Memorial Hospital, Fall River.

Born and raised in Quincy, she had also lived in Plymouth.

She is survived by two daughters, Jessie and Ann Melissa; her mother, Mary; three sisters, Joanne, Helen, and Mary; and three brothers, Alfred, Laurence and William.

Funeral arrangements were by Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St., South Quincy. Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

John C. Wayland, 71, Retired Shipyard Employee

A funeral Mass for John C. Wayland, 71, of Quincy, a retired employee at the Charlestown Naval Shipyard, will be held today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mr. Wayland died Monday at New England Baptist Hospital after a long illness.

He had lived in Quincy for 22 years.

Born in Boston, he had also lived in South Boston.

Until his retirement six years ago, Mr. Wayland was a heavy equipment specialist at the shipyard.

He was a member of St. John's Holy Name Society, the Canton Council, Knights of Columbus, and the South Boston Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Alicia Lee (Pelligrini) Wayland; a son, John F. Wayland of LaSalle, Ill.; a daughter, Paula J. Porcaro of Quincy; and seven grandchildren.

Visiting hours were scheduled for 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) at Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Boston College High School Athletic Fund, Morrissey Boulevard, Boston.

Richard E. Carlson, 62, Former Inventory Clerk

A funeral service for Richard E. Carlson, 62, of Quincy, a former inventory clerk for Gillette's, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St.

Mr. Carlson died Sunday at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

He had lived in Quincy for 40 years.

Born in Virginia, Minn., he was employed by Gillette's for 26 years. He is survived by two sons, Richard E. Carlson Jr. of Quincy and William H. Carlson of New Haven, Conn.; a brother, Clarence H. Carlson of Quincy; and three grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

French Student Works With Classes At NQHS

Pascale Entz, a college student from Lyon, France worked with foreign language classes the final term at North Quincy High School.

She used slides and photos of France, as well as current newspaper and magazine clippings, to tell about life in her country and compare it to daily life here.

Pascale said that American students were lucky to have a choice in the subjects they take. In France, she said, there is very little choice and students have fewer chances to explore a variety of subjects.

While in Quincy, Pascale has been living with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Georges V. Line of North Quincy. She is doing some traveling before returning to France this summer.

North Track, X-Country Teams Honored At Banquet

The North Quincy boys and girls cross-country and track teams were recently honored at the annual awards banquet at Valley's.

Quincy native Patti Lyons Catalano, America's outstanding women's distance runner, was the guest speaker.

Special guests included Principal Peter Chisom, Assistant Principal Eileen Feeney, Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, City Councilor Patricia Toland and School Committee Vice Chairman Christopher Kennedy. Also at the head table were coaches Lou Iozzi, Bart Petracca, Mike Burie, Doc Doherty and Jeff Hennessy.

Rich O'Brien received the MVP Award for boys' cross-country. Nancy McCarthy was MVP in girls' cross-country. Paul Seagraber received the coaches' award for boys' cross-country and Sheila Barrett the coaches' award for girls' cross-country.

In spring track Rich Palma was the boys' MVP. Michelle Millane the girls' MVP. Jim Kennedy, winner of the boys' coaches' trophy; Deirdre Donovan, girls' coaches' trophy; Scott Fano, boys' unsung hero and Linda Kennedy, girls' unsung hero.

Karen Lindenfelzer, who will attend the U. of Lowell in the fall, received a $500 scholarship from the North Track Boosters Club, which was presented by Coach Iozzi. This is the largest scholarship ever awarded by a boosters club to an athlete in the Quincy Public Schools.

The coaches presented seniors, who completed the three-year program, engraved pewter mugs and the seniors, in turn, presented gifts to the coaches.

Door prizes included key chains, T-shirts, a camera and a gift certificate for track shoes donated by Colman's Sporting Goods. Palma was the winner of the certificate.

Track bags were presented to Dan Anderson, Debbie Kiley, Diane Flynn and Mary Gannon for their fundraising efforts.

A slide show was arranged and presented by assistant coach Doc Doherty, a former North star.

All athletes received letters and jerseys or jackets, school record holders received certificates and members of the girls' state champion teams received MIAA certificates. Senior girls who placed in the state meet were presented caricatures and Palma was awarded the "Dr. Pressure" Trophy.—TOM SULLIVAN.

Scots' Soccer Unimpressive In U.S. Debut

Players from the Fore River team scored all three goals for the losers as the touring Third Lanark All-Scots soccer team from Scotland defeated an all-star Massachusetts team, 6-3, on General Electric's Little River grounds in Lynn.

Judge Cogan, the well-known sportsman from Quincy Point, attended the game and he was not impressed by either the play of the Scottish team or by the $1 admission fee that was charged to get into the grounds.

"You are not going to boom soccer in this part of the country by charging the public $1 to see a game they don't understand," he said.

Cogan said that Andy Wilson of the Scottish team, who was being called the Babe Ruth of soccer, "did not show me where he is in Babe Ruth's class. As for the famous goaler Brownie, I did not see any medals on him, either."

"Our little friend, Jimmy Farquhar, and Joe Black played just as fine a game and a little better than the famous Scottish Stars," Cogan opined.

TIGERS CLAIM CROWN

The South Quincy Tigers, led by their star battery of Edward "Reddy" Lewis the catcher and Morris "Mush" Lubarsky the pitcher, were laying claim to the South Shore championship among teams averaging 15 years of age after winning seven games in a row.

Lubarsky had just finished a season with the Hancock School team for which he hurled three no-hit, no-run games.

QUINCY KNIGHTS LOSE

The Rose Croix Knights of Columbus baseball team came up with five runs in the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie and go on to a 9-4 victory over the Quincy K of C. The winners got 14 hits off Venna, the Quincy pitcher.

The Quincy lineup included: Cario ss, Gillis 2b, Ford cf, Bryan 3b, Keohane rf, Walsh lf, Mahoney c, Golden 1b, Venna p. Keohane had two of Quincy's six hits, one of them a double.

MOHAWKS DUMP WATSON

Henry Johnson held the Watson AA of Baintree to five hits and Bonafine got a freak home run on a bunt as the Mohawk AC trimmed the Watsons, 5-1, at the Ward 4 playground. An earlier game between the two teams wound up in a 12-inning tie.

MOHICANS WIN

The Quincy Mohicans scored four runs in the ninth inning on four singles and an error to upset the East Weymouth Lakesides, 9-5, behind the five hit pitching of Almquist. Lakesides had won 15 of their last 16 games at home.

The Mohicans lineup included: Lubarsky ss, McDon:ld 1b, Jacobson cf, Gosselin rf, Carlson 3b, Williams 2b, Nelson lf, Curtin c, Almquist p.

WATERS TOPS FIELD

D.B. Waters, the club champion, turned in a 75 for low gross in the opening round of the 18-hole medal handicap tournament at Wollaston Golf Club. The largest field in the history of the club, 138 golfers, teed off but only 10 players broke 80.

RIVERSIDES IN ROUT

Maloney and Hanet hit home runs to lead the Riverside AC to a 21-9 victory over the Nutshell Rovers on the Ward 2 playground. Riversides got 10 runs in the top of the ninth to clinch the victory, a warmup for the big game with the Bigelow AC.

QUINCY YC SAILING

William E. Howe's "Wolf" took honors in the 15-foot class and E. Singelton's No. 7 won the Snowbird class in the weekly races at the Quincy Yacht Club. Joseph L. Whiton's "Edith W" and James LeCain's "Jumbo" were only a second apart among the 15-footers.

SPORTS BITS '21

Lloyd Keith won the boys swimming match and his sister, Alice, captured the girls race during Women's and Children's Day at the Wollaston Yacht Club. . . Zanowski saved the game with a sensational catch in center field with the bases loaded as the Riverside AC beat the Oakland AC, 8-6, at Fore River Field. . . Frankie Rouillard was starring at second base for the Mohawk AC. . . Charles Francis Adams was racing his R-class "Rogue" with his daughter and the son of Thomas Nelson Perkins as crew.

Women's Softball All-Star Game Saturday Night

The Quincy Women's Softball League will hold its annual all-star game Saturday night at 6:30 at Fore River Field with a party and dance immediately following in the Fore River Clubhouse. Positive ID is required.

Shea's Formica leads Division A with a 12-2 record, followed by Trainor's Truckers, 10-3; Fowler House, 11-4; Kane's Place, 10-4; Luke's Lounge 1, 7-6; Morrisette Post, 6-8; Dee Dee's, 4-8; Beau's Place, 4-9, and Darcy's Village Pub, 3-10.

In Division B Leisure Graphs leads with a 12-2 mark, followed by Washington Tap, 10-4; Luke's Lounge II, 9-4; Kelly's Pub and Grub, 8-5; Balducci's 7-8; South Shore Bank, 7-8; Port O Call, 6-7; Quincy Co-op, 6-7, and Lydon and Russell, 4-10.

Koch Women Finish With High Records

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League closed out its 27th season recently with some of the highest scoring recorded as 10 of the 40-member loop finished with a 90 average or higher.

Captain Edie Maher and her teammates captured a close championship rolloff victory by qualifying with a first half triumph in the standings.

Other members of the winning team included Elaine DeLuca, Sandy Ricketts, Joanne Vaughan, Ellen McAdam and Shirley MacNeil.

June Hillier scored top average with 101.6 and tied for high single with 136. She accomplished the task with 161 spares and 28 strikes. Following a close second was Debra Koch with a 101.4 average and high three string total of 366. Debra fired 167 spares and 30 strikes.

Others in the top 10 included Linda Bowes, 97.4, Maureen Robertson, 94.3, Edie Maher, 92.5, Linda Carpenter, 91.5, Denise Nolan, 91.1, Shirley MacNeil, 91.1, Pat Murphy, 90.8 and Carol Johnson, 90.7.

Women are invited to join the league in the 1982-83 season as spare or regular bowlers.

Boston Gear Wins N.L. Title

Boston Gear clinched its second straight National League title in the Junior Baseball League with an easy 20-0 victory over Remick's.

Chris Higgins was the winning pitcher, having one bad inning, the sixth, when he gave up seven runs. The heat was getting to him but Gear had a 20-2 lead at the time. He allowed 11 hits, struck out seven and walked six. He had a four-hitter going into the sixth.

Gear pounded out 21 hits, batting around in three of the six innings. Paul Adams had a triple and three singles, Nancy Flukes a single, double and triple, Higgins a towering homer and a single, Matt Furtado two singles, Mike Leonard two singles, Mike Paccetti two ground rule doubles, Shawn Craig a double and single and Mike Kiley and Steve Rabs two singles each.

Furtado and Jimmy Glynn made outstanding defensive plays, Furtado making a diving catch with his back to the plate, falling down with two outs and the bases loaded, and Glynn knocking down a line drive at first base on what looked like a sure hit, stepping on first and throwing to second for a double play to end the game. Also playing key roles in the win were Danny Piccini, Pat McDonough, Danny Gilmartin, Mike Cronin and Jimmy Collins.

Jay Lespasio paced Remick's with a home run and two singles. Jay Rodriguez had a single and double, Mike Toland two singles, Lance Panaro, Derek O'Brien, Joe Steen and Chris Abate a single each. Panaro was the losing pitcher, with Mike Toland pitching well in relief. Lespasio and Rodriguez were outstanding on defense.

Kiwanis won two games during the past week as it heads for the playoffs.

Kiwanis rolled over the Elks, 13-3, as T.J. Steen pitched a two-hitter while striking out 14 batters. Kiwanis collected 13 hits, five of them being home runs.

Ronnie Hersey led the attack with two homers and a single, Ronnie Fletcher had his eighth homer and a triple, Steen had his fifth homer, a double and single, Matt Hurley had a homer, a single, Chris Noble two doubles and Billy Bellow a single. Noble also played well behind the plate.

Kiwanis also topped Keohane's, 11-6, as Fletcher pitched a five-hitter. Kiwanis played excellent defense with Paul Meehan at second base, Noble catching and Bellow at shortstop especially outstanding. Bellow had what proved to be the game-winning hit, a two-run double in the fifth inning. Fletcher drove in four runs with two timely singles, Steen had a triple, double and single, Hersey two singles, Noble a double and Eddie Flavin a single. In 19 games Fletcher is batting .690 with eight homers and 40 runs batted in.

Rotary kept its playoff hopes alive with an 18-3 romp over the Elks with Joe Mulvey and Bill MacDougall combining for a four-hitter. Mulvey allowed two hits and no walks and struck out five in three innings, while MacDougall allowed two hits and no walks and struck out six in the last three.

Rotary had four home runs, two by MacDougall and two by John Pennellatore. Pennellatore also had a double and drove in eight runs. It was the fourth time he has had two homers in a game. Mulvey had two hits, Mike Mullaney had three and Rich Golden and Dan McDonald one each. Pat O'Donoghue did a fine job catching. Dave Murphy and Matt Collins starred on defense.

Rotary also topped Houghs Neck, 11-6, pounding out 16 hits with eight players having hits. MacDougall went three for three including two doubles, Mulvey had a double and single, Murphy a double and Golden and Danny Ward singles. Promising 10-year-old Tony Anderlison also had a hit. Pennellatore was four for four including a triple and Mullaney had a double and two singles.

Pennellatore was the winning pitcher, going four strong innings before giving way to MacDougall in the fifth.

Faces Quincy Friday Morrisette Rebounds To Win 3 Straight

The Morrisette Legion baseball team bounced back from three losses in a row to win three straight and take a two-game lead in Zone 6.

Morrisette leads with a 10-4 record, with Weymouth and Brockton tied two games behind. They are joined in Zone 6 by Hingham, Quincy and Norwell. Braintree is the Zone 6-B leader with a 10-2 mark. Also in Zone 6-B are Wollaston, Holbrook, Randolph, Canton and Milton.

Morrisette will face Quincy Friday night at 8 at Adams Field and will host Milton Tuesday at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette walloped Norwell, 9-3, Monday night at Norwell with Mike Notarangelo and Mike Marshall combining for a five-hitter. Notarangelo pitched 5 2/3 innings, giving up five hits and all three runs, while Marshall pitched perfect ball for 1 1/3 innings.

Morrisette scored two in the first inning, three in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Jim O'Toole had three hits, including a homer, and drove in two runs. John Balzano had two hits and two RBIs and Chris Bunker two hits and two RBIs.

Morrisette won a big one Sunday night, upsetting Braintree, 6-5, in 11 innings to avenge an earlier 11-2 walloping. It was only Braintree's second loss in 12 games.

Braintree scored once in the first, once in the second and three times in the fifth. Morrisette scored three runs in the second and tied the game with two runs in the seventh.

Morrisette won it in the 11th on Balzano's single and two errors.

Shortstop Brian Reale pitched the last three innings, allowing two hits and striking out five, to get the win.

Morrisette earlier had snapped its three-game losing streak with an 8-2 victory over Brockton, with Paul Earle pitching a three-hitter.

Bunker had two triples and drove in two runs, O'Toole, playing his first game, had two hits and two RBIs, and Earle had three hits and two RBIs and scored three times.

In its previous game Morrisette had bowed to Braintree, 11-2, for its third loss in a row. Marty McLoughlin had two hits for Morrisette.

Pirates Sweep Doubleheader

Fast-pitch softball returned to Welcome Young Field in North Quincy Saturday night with Cathy Reed, player of the year in Division 2, sharing the mound with Elva Reed in an awesome display of pitching as the Weymouth Pirates swept a doubleheader from Sports ETC.

The latter team is made up of outstanding players from Arlington, Revere and Wakefield. The team is the Division 1 state champion.

The Reeds allowed only three earned runs on the night while striking out 12.

Sports ETC's top pitcher, Rene Najarian, could not make the game and Lisa Sliwinisky, a 16-year-old from Revere matched Cathy Reed pitch for pitch for three innings of the first game. The Pirates finally broke through in the fourth as Mary Holleran Walked, Gia Barressi had a hit and run single, both moved up on a passed ball and Holleran scored on Kelly Conville's grounder. Barressi moved to third and scored on Cathy Reed's sacrifice fly to center.

The visitors wasted no time in getting the runs back with Tina Morello bringing home Sliwinisky and Smith with a triple.

The Pirates added four runs in the fifth on only two hits, and the losers scored twice in the seventh.

The Pirates easily won the second game as they pounded out 18 hits. It was the first time the visitors had played under lights.

Chip Cataldo and Conville had two singles and a double each. John Hampton had three hits and the team's top hitter, North Quincy's Holleran, had two hits as did Linda Patricuin and Cathy Reed.

Patty McKinnon hit a number of sharp line drives but had only one hit thanks to fine defensive play by the losers.

McKinnon, Holleran and the Reeds are all from North Quincy. After the games the Sagamore Inn hosted a party for the girls with soda and pizza from Balducci's.

The Pirates will play at Lexington tonight at 6:30.

• Babe Ruth League

Morrisette Down Firemen, 8-6

Morrisette scored twice in the sixth inning to top the Firemen, 8-6, in a Babe Ruth League game, with Jack Outerbridge the winning pitcher. Dave Phillips was the loser.

Morrisette opened the scoring with five runs in the top of the second when Outerbridge led off with a double and Paul Canavan, Paul Connolly, Ed Flynn and John Cristiani singled. The Firemen bounced back with six in their half on five hits, all singles, and three Morrisette errors.

Morrisette tied it in the fourth on singles by Rick Kelley, Flynn and Cristiani and they won it with two in the sixth, with Kelley having a long triple and Cristiani singling him home with the winning run. Cristiani stole second and third and scored an insurance run on an error.

Cristiani had three hits, Kelley, Canavan, Outerbridge and Flynn two each and Connolly one. Ricky Dondoro and Tim Morrison made outstanding defensive plays. Outerbridge shackled the Firemen except for the second, allowed eight hits and struck out seven. Dave Phillips and Shawn McArdle played well for the Firemen.

Houghs Neck won its seventh straight game, bombing Barry's, 13-1, behind the combined two-hit pitching of Pat Hennessey, Dave Zuroms and Greg McGlame. Hennessey went three innings, allowing one hit and striking out four. Zuroms worked two, allowing one hit and fanning four, and McGlame went the last two, giving up a run, no hits and striking out three. Hennessey and Joe Ciardi had two hits each and Tom Elsmore, Tim Collins one each. Ciardi, Zuroms, McGlame, Mark MacDonald and John Carroll each walked twice.

Houghs Neck also defeated Granite City Electric, 6-3, with Ciardi the winning pitcher and John Flynn the loser.

Granite City took a 2-0 lead in the first but Ciardi then blanked them until the seventh inning. Meanwhile, HN exploded for five runs in the fourth with Zuroms walking, McGlame having a single, Tim Collins hitting a triple, MacDonald squeezing in a run and Carroll and Hennessey singling. HN picked up an insurance run in the fifth on a walk to Zuroms, a stolen base and an RBI single by McGlame.

S.S. Coast League

Elks Edge Randolph, 6-5

The Quincy Elks baseball team continues to have trouble in the South Shore Coast League but last week edged Randolph, 6-5, for their fourth victory of the season.

The Elks will be home to Randolph next Tuesday night at Adams Field. Next Thursday night they will play at Hanover.

Brian Condon's single with two men on got by the Randolph rightfielder and all three runners scored to give the Elks their win.

Mike McCormick had three hits and 2 RBIs. Artie Roberts, Mike Hall and Paul Barressi had two hits each and Steve Millane, Tom Flaherty and Bob Bolster one each. Bolster and Paul McConville combined to pitch a five-hitter with McConville getting the win in relief.

Sunday the Elks were walloped by the Braintree White Sox, 10-4, with Tom Eames the losing pitcher.

Jack McInnis had two 385-foot home runs for the Elks. McCormick had a triple and an RBI and Hall, Roberts, Jamie Walsh, Rick King and Dave Swallow had one hit each.

March Of Dimes Golf Classic July 19

The Mass Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation invites the public to attend its second annual Miller High Life N.F.L. Players Association Celebrity Golf Classic July 19, at the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton.

New England Patriot Don Hasselbeck will host the event and coordinate this year's participation of the Patriots and other N.F.L. players.

Co-sponsoring the event are the Miller Brewing Company and the Burke Distributing Corporation.

Proceeds from the Golf Classic will fund birth defects research and prevention programs in Eastern Massachusetts.

According to March of Dimes Chapter Executive Director, Joseph Hanlon Jr., "Thanks to the generosity of the Miller Brewing Company and the Burke Distributing Corporation, tickets to this year's Golf Classic will be one hundred percent tax deductable." "We hope," he added, "that many golf enthusiasts will join us in what promises to be an enjoyable and exciting event."

In addition to the New England Patriot celebrity players, former Celtics Jim Loscutt and Bob Brannum will play, along with former Celtics' Coach Tom Heinsohn and Celtics' assistant coach K. C. Jones.

Each person attending will receive a continental breakfast, a N.F.L. Players Association sweater, hat and bag tag, a personal photograph with a celebrity, and more.

Companies wishing to support the March of Dimes are encouraged to purchase tee or gown signs, which will be displayed during the Golf Classic.

Those wishing to receive information about the Celebrity Golf Classic should call the March of Dimes at 328-3657 in Quincy or write the March of Dimes, 265 Willard St., Quincy 02169.

5 Residents On U-Mass/Boston Teams

Five Quincy residents were participants on the 1982 University of Mass/Boston intercollegiate teams this spring.

In the initial season of Beacon baseball, sophomore Phil Caggiano, a 1980 graduate of Quincy High School, paced the team with a .385 batting average. In addition, Caggiano stroked three home runs and tied for the top spot in runs batted in with nine. "As a D.H. and infelder," said Head Coach Tony Fucillo, "Phil was just super. He always seemed to get his bat on the ball."

In addition to his diamond exploits, Caggiano is an outstanding student. A Criminal Justice major with a 3.88 grade average, out of a possible 4.0, he was the recipient of the UMass/Boston Alumni Association Scholar-Athlete Award for Baseball. Phil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Caggiano, 90 Chubbuck St., Quincy.

Two other Quincy players also saw action for the UM-Boston baseball team, Kevin McKinnon, a 1980 graduate of Boston College High School, and freshman Tom Smith, a North Quincy High 1981 grad. McKinnon, sidelined for much of the season with injuries, batted .286, while Smith batted .222 and played flawless outfield, handling 27 chances. Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinnon, 26 Hawthorne St., Quincy, while Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith Sr., 170 Davis St., Quincy.

In softball, Jodi Silver, another Quincy resident, led the team in hitting with a .434 average. The 1979 graduate of North Quincy had eight RBIs. "Jodi really swung the bat for us this season," said Head Coach Maggie Bagarella, "and had many key hits."

On the season, the Beacons had a record of 8-5, and won their final three in a row and six of the last seven. Jodi is a junior, majoring in art, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melven Silver, 21 Williams St., Quincy.

With the consolidation of Boston State with UMass/Boston, the fine Boston State Lacrosse program became part of the Beacons lineup and the winning ways continued. Overall, the "Stickmen" were 10-3 and with an 8-0 record in New England Colonial Division play, captured the Division championship. The team also qualified and competed in the ECAC New England Division III Tournament.

Quincy resident and 1980 graduate of Archbishop Williams High School Tom Henry was a key factor in the team's success. From his "middle" position he netted five goals and added five assists. "Tom was a real steady and heads-up player," observed Head Coach Gordie Webb, "he was rarely out of position and worked very hard." A sophomore majoring in Management, Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Henry, 158 Potman St., Quincy.

Further information can be obtained by calling John Shirriff at 878-9046.

CP Holds Softball Tourney

The Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. recently held an open softball tournament in Quincy for the benefit of the handicapped children of the South Shore area.

Twenty-four teams from Quincy and surrounding towns played in the tournament. Phil Gerety of Weymouth was the tournament director and, with the cooperation of Ray Cattaneo of the Quincy Park Dept., coordinated and scheduled all the games. The fine condition of the fields and the effective lighting made it possible for the games to be played late into the night.

Through the generosity of the Sheraton Tara in Braintree, a free weekend for two was the first prize to the winner of the raffle with tickets to a Red Sox game as second prize.

The Boce Club of Hyde Park won the tournament, defeating The Hook of Medway in the title game. The Dams of Quincy, managed by Richard Mason, finished third.

AN EMPTY GRAIN ELEVATOR on Liberty St., South Quincy, was torched last week resulting in a two alarm fire which had Weymouth and Boston fire companies assisting Quincy.
(Quincy Sun photo by Mary O'Keefe)

Fire Dept. Still Seeking Grain Elevator Torcher

"We're still trying to get a lead on who set it," said Quincy Fire Department Deputy Chief Carl Valenti of the two alarm fire last week at an empty grain elevator on Liberty St., South Quincy.

"It was set," said Valenti, "and we're pretty sure it was by vandals. We don't think it was by an arsonist because there was nothing to gain," said Valenti who explained that the building was in the midst of being demolished. It has since been knocked down.

The building built during the Civil War, was recently bought by the state and was scheduled to be torn down to make way for the Burgin Parkway link between Quincy Square and Route 3.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said that an eyewitness reported seeing someone throw what looked like a torch into the back of the 150 foot high building.

The individual who threw the torch was with several other people, Barry said.

Weymouth and Boston fire companies assisted Quincy.

An earlier two alarm fire at the site appears to have been set by youngsters, Valenti said.

F.H. Crane grain company used the building as a grain elevator for many years. South Shore Tile Co. occupied the building until March.

Sylvia Roberts SSARC Officer

Sylvia Roberts of Quincy has been named this year's co-treasurer and corresponding secretary for the Workshop Parents and Friends Group of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens. She also serves as recording secretary of the association's board of directors.

The SSARC, headquartered in North Weymouth, has served Quincy and other South Shore residents for 31 years.

Farmers Market Opens Friday In Hancock Parking Lot

Massachusetts grown vegetables, herbs and flowers will be available at the Quincy Farmers Market, located in the John Hancock parking lot, Fridays, 2 to 6 p.m. beginning this week.

Ed Swenson, president of the Mass. Federation of Farmers Markets, said: "The farmers markets bring fruits and vegetables to the consumer the same day it's picked, so it's one of the freshest products you can buy."

"The consumer gets to meet and talk with the farmer, and find out how the food is grown.

"You not only cut out the middleman, and build a good relationship with the farmer - you also are helping the local economy and yourself by purchasing these native products."

The Quincy Farmers Market is one of 43 market state-wide which bring fresh, Massachusetts-grown produce directly to the consumer. The open-air markets have come a long way since 1976, when there were only seven market locations.

There will be a free door prize drawing.

For more information on Quincy Farmers Market, contact Nancy Dowling at 479-6056.

For a complete listing of farmers markets across the state, contact the Department of Food and Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02202.

WEEK OF: JULY 15

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Shaky relationship begins to stabilize once you take off those rose-colored glasses. Learning new skills and unearthing hidden talents make this a potentially rewarding week.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Someone may be out to steal your glory. Be firm but not shrill in taking a stand. Expensive family responsibility is beginning to shift away from your direction.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Your positive traits are powerful. You know them, now capitalize on them. Legal or health matters may have hidden expenses. You're unusually receptive to cultural events.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

You're ready to step into the future, accepting a new-fangled machine or an offbeat relationship. Money is a bright note on the weekend; you realize a true bargain.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

It may be time to give some structure to an informal arrangement and set down your terms in writing. Senior-level people may contact you on a casual level.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

A scholarly week. You're engaged in philosophical discussion or an educational trip. Intuition is high through the weekend. Visits are much warmer than expected.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Pencil in for hobbies and recreation; both can enhance your personal life. Watch tendency to divulge too much information - even to your most trusted allies.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Virgo's streak surfaces, and if it's too prominent you may miss some choice business opportunities. Creativity's a highpoint; you express ideas well through different media.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

You may be deceived; see that fine points of any agreement are entirely in your grasp. Monday-Tuesday are favorable for launching creative project and locating lost items.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Finer work for dealing with troublesome people, improving home surroundings, negotiating legal agreements. Romance is quiet - your partner may need time alone or with old friends.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Good week for publishing stories or selling small items. Counterbalance a tendency toward carelessness by double checking your work and looking everywhere before you leap.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Your sense of humor helps break the ice during a formal and socially important event. Playing a waiting game doesn't get you far, romantically. Again, humor is highly helpful.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Positive traits: ability to make people feel instantly at home; thrift; resourcefulness. Negative? You're changeable - and sometimes quite unforgiving. Income can increase by early 1983. Interestingly, your values become less materialistic.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 15th, singer Linda Ronstadt; 16th, dancer Ginger Rogers; 17th, actress Diahann Carroll; 18th, singer Paul McCartney; 19th, singer Vikki Carr; 20th, actress Diana Rigg; 21st, violinist Isaac Stern.

Revolving Fund Approved By School Board Over Mayor's Objection

Despite strong objection from Mayor Francis McCauley School Committee last week voted 6 to 1 to create a $20,000 revolving fund within the school department.

Similar revolving funds have been set up by Quincy Junior College and the City Hospital when monies taken in are retained rather than sent along to the general fund of the city.

McCauley objected on the grounds that it was not the proper time to vote this type of fund because the budget for 1982-83 had already been approved by the school committee.

The money is generated by the culinary department and various shops of the Vocational Tech School. Rather than turn the funds into the city's general fund the money is used to purchase additional supplies for those units.

2 Beaches Closed By High Bacteria Count

Two beaches in Houghs Neck and Wollaston remained closed to swimming Tuesday while Public Health Department officials analyzed a new count of bacteria taken from the waters.

Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey ordered the beaches closed last Friday when the coliform bacteria count went over the 700 that is the accepted safety standard.

Dr. Hussey said the section of Wollaston Beach at the foot of Rice Rd. had a count of 2,000 and Perry Beach at the end of Parkhurst St., Houghs Neck, had a count of 800.

Both beaches were tested again Monday and Dr. Hussey said a decision on whether or not to reopen them would be made about 12 noon yesterday (Wednesday).

All beaches in Quincy were ordered closed on June 11 when extremely high bacteria counts were discovered due to an overflow of sewage at Nut Island and Moon Island.

Perry Beach was the last reopened on June 30.

3-Day Workshop For Middle School Staff

By JOHN NOONAN

A three-day workshop for school department personnel who will staff the middle schools this coming school year is scheduled for Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2.

The workshop was recommended by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creodon with the approval of the School Committee. Estimated cost will run between $15,000 - $20,000 dollars which will come from available funds within the school department.

Committee member Nicholas Verenis, strongly objected to the money to be expended for the workshop on the grounds that it was a manipulation of funds and he would not go along with such an expenditure in view of the action taken earlier to dismiss or layoff school personnel.

Both Mayor Francis McCauley and Supt. Creodon rebuked Verenis for using the term manipulation of funds.

McCauley and Creodon said that during the course of the school year certain funds earmarked for specific use, such as salaries, becomes available because they are not used for the purpose intended. These funds are then transferred to other accounts or used by the superintendent for emergencies or other such use.

Verenis was the sole objector to the spending of the money for the workshop. The school board members all agreed that the workshop was essential to the establishment of an efficiently run middle school system.

$1,207,300 In New Wiring

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura issued 84 permits for wiring estimated to cost $1,207,300 during the month of June and collected $5,469 in permit fees.

The major project for which a permit was issued in June was a new $11 million, 10-story office building at 100 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Purpura reported issuing 32 certificates of approval to the Mass Electric Co.

He made 120 inspections, noted 13 defects, made seven reinspections, one fire call and one court appearance.

Miss Quincy Bay Is Crowned

CHERYL A. TYNER, 24, of Hyde Park, first runnerup in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant, takes her walk down the runway in a gown she created.

LISA E. STEWART, 19, of Quincy, second runnerup in the Miss Quincy Bay Pageant, is the center of all eyes in the bathing suit competition.

'Picture Brighter But...'

$2.5M Aid May Not Save Fire Jobs

By TOM HENSHAW

The city of Quincy will receive some $2.5 million more in state aid than it planned on but even that may not be enough to save the jobs of 22 firefighters who face lay offs after Labor Day.

"The picture is brighter," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley Tuesday, "but it would be premature to make a statement right now."

"The schools and the fire department were heaviest hit by cuts in the fiscal 1983 budget and we will certainly give priority attention to them. But we are not making any commitments now."

The McCauley Administration had planned on getting some $5.3 million more in state aid this year and that figure was programmed into the budget for the current year.

The Cherry Sheet for state aid released last week, however, showed an increase of $7.1 million plus a decrease of $727,000 in charges for an actual increase of $7.8.

That's $2.5 million more than expected.

McCauley cautioned that, that is not really the final figure since many of the items listed on the tax recap sheet are estimates and must be firmed up around the Proposition 2½ tax levy.

"We've still got to get the numbers together," said the mayor. "We should have a bottom line by the first week in August in time to put a package together for the City Council."

McCauley cited such items as a $200,000 snow deficit among those that will cut into the available funds.

Once the actual figure is obtained, said McCauley, the city will be faced with getting up $500,000 to cover the rising costs based on the rate of unemployment claims against the city.

The mayor said he should know long before the Labor Day deadline whether or not the city can afford the $400,000 needed to retain the 22 firefighters who face layoff.

McCauley said the $7.1 million increase in state aid had been talked about since last May but the pleasant surprise on the cherry sheet was the $727,000 slash in expenses charged to the city.

They include:
County assessments, down $331,478.
State assessments, down $3,186.
MDC assessments, down $256,691.
MBTA assessments, down $135,891.

In all, the city will receive $23,628,416 from the state, including $8,872,864 in school aid distribution and education reimbursements, and $14,295,101 in general government receipts.

Eaton Files Civil Rights Court Suit

Owen Eaton has filed suit in U.S. District Court charging that the city of Quincy, Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson violated his civil rights when he was ousted as water superintendent.

Hearings on the suit was scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) before Federal Judge Robert Keeton.

The substance of Eaton's suit is that the proposed termination of the water superintendent's job was politically motivated and violated his freedom of speech and freedom of political association.

Mayor McCauley said he is aware of the suit but would have no comment.

Eaton lost his superintendent's post when the Water and Sewer Divisions and some other parts of the Public Works Department were merged into a Sewer, Water and Drain Department.

Sewer Superintendent Russell Eranio was given the job of superintendent of the new department.

Eaton's suit seeks an injunction to prevent the merger of the departments until he has a Civil Service hearing and seeks an unspecified amount of damages against the city.

The suit also charges that state law was violated in that Quincy, as a city of more than 60,000 people, requires the person in charge of drinking water to have a Grade 4 license.

Testimony brought out at a hearing before Jay McRitchie of the city law department indicated that Eaton has a Grade 4 license while Eranio does not.

One other man in the Water Division, the general foreman, William Maver, also has a Grade 4 license but, it was testified, he is on sick leave and plans to retire at the end of the year.

Eaton's suit charges that his replacement as head of the Water Division is less qualified and was named without regard to merit or competitive examination as required by Civil Service.

The suit alleges that terminations in the city government since the beginning of the year have been made for political reasons from among those who supported Daniel G. Raymond for mayor against McCauley last year.

The same charges were made last week at the hearing before McRitchie, which was held to obtain evidence on which McCauley could reverse or reaffirm his decision to dismiss Eaton.

Late witnesses at the hearing included Joseph McCoy, a plumber, and Bart Caggiano, a storekeeper, both of whom said they were laid off at the Water Department. Both said they supported Raymond.

Earlier, Eaton himself told the hearing that he feels his ouster was a political move by McCauley and Anderson. He said he too had supported Raymond.

Eaton said he will not accept a lower position in the newly merged Sewer, Water and Drain Department. He has the right to bump down to the post of general foreman.

"The position (of water superintendent) is mine and I will go as far as I have to to retain it," he said.

stand-up success by most merchants despite the blistering 90-degree heat that descended upon the city.

The three-day event was sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

"It was fantastic," said Dave Moreau, manager of Woolworth's. "It was at least the best in four years by a considerable margin. Thursday in particular was dynamite."

"Perhaps if it was not so hot we would have done even better."

On the other side of the scale, Burt Cook, manager of Tag's

Discount Furniture and Sleep Shop, said he thought the heat cut into his business.

"The weather hurt," he said. "It was basically the heat. In my business, if it is too hot people will wait before buying furniture. I was still pleased with the way it went, though."

"Business was comparable to last year," said Cindy Ryder of Ryder's, the drapes and curtains shop. "But Saturday was not what we expected. Thursday was very good and then it dropped off."

"I'm sure it was the heat because the people just weren't there."

Ed Elkins of The Shoe Trap figured business was up about 20 per cent over last year in his store due to a lot of traffic brought in by the Sidewalk Bazaar.

"The figures were a little ahead," said Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry. "But personally I think there was less traffic. It wasn't due to the heat, either."

"We did the major part of our business on Thursday and I think the really smart shoppers have come to learn that the bargains are the best on Thursday."

"Every year it's so hot I don't think the weather hurts or helps anymore."

Dick Liebert of Hart's Jewelry said he feels he did not get as many shoppers in the store as he hoped.

"The heat killed it, just the heat," he said. "But we would have done 25 per cent of the business if it wasn't for the Sidewalk Bazaar."

"We never really get much out of it," said Jack London of Quincy Furniture, "but it brings people in who get to know Quincy. I think it went off well in spite of the heat."

One merchant who thought the whole thing was just great was Jack Kerrigan of Baskin Robbins Ice Cream.

"It was the best in 10 years," he enthused.

"The Stop and Shop people were out during the days. The beauty contest brought people in on a hot Friday night. The Kiss 108 show made a better Saturday. The kids are my type of customer."

"After all, the Sidewalk Bazaar in July is my Christmas."

Burgin Pkway Extension Runs Into Snag

The long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension apparently has struck a minor snag in the State Department of Public Works.

The DPW wrote to the Planning Department recently that it is concerned about traffic congestion that may result at the intersection of the extension and Granite St.

The construction timetable for the Burgin Parkway Extension has been uncertain ever since the demise of the East-West Connector, which was to have taken some traffic off the Extension into downtown.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the State DPW will have to make studies of the traffic and air quality standards where the Extension is due to meet Granite

St. McCauley indicated that the study may be pushed by the pro-East-West Connector people. "I know that certain people still want the connector," he said, "but that decision has been made. The connector is dead as long as I am mayor of Quincy."

McCauley said he doubts if traffic at the intersection of Granite St. and the Extension will be a serious problem.

"The Extension will take traffic off Hancock St.," he said. "It will make for a freer traffic flow. But of course all I can go from is the common sense point of view."

"We're saying to the state, 'Do what you have to do.' The Extension has got to be a plus for Quincy. We feel the project is viable without the connector."

Walk For Animal Rights July 31

The Quincy Animal League will sponsor a Walk for Animal Rights Saturday, July 31, announces League President John H. McDuff.

Purpose of the walk, he said, will be to draw public attention to the fact that Harvard researchers are still seizing lost or abandoned pets from the Quincy pound for experimentation despite City Council resolutions unanimously opposing such seizure.

McDuff said: "Harvard had indicated they would not come where they were not welcome, but they are still seizing Quincy dogs every week, dogs who will die a slow and painful death at their hands. At least 50 Quincy dogs have been taken so far this year. We hope to send a clear message to Harvard that they are not welcome here."

The walk will assemble at the corner of Elm St. and Quincy Ave., in front of Christ Church at 11 a.m. and proceed up Hancock St., ending at McIntyre Mall at noon. McDuff urges all persons interested in animal rights to support the League by joining the walk, and also by joining the League itself.

MERCHANDISE AND SHOPPERS crowded Hancock St., turned into a pedestrian mall for three days during Sidewalk Bazaar.

Firefighter Rescues Child, Parents In Houghs Neck Blaze

Firefighter Robert Batson broke down the door to a second floor apartment Monday morning and rescued 2-year-old Sean Faherty from his crib as fire ravaged a house at 1236 Sea St., Hough Neck.

Batson also led the youngster's parents, Debby and Timothy Faherty, to safety as they were unaware of the fire that started in a first floor apartment shortly before 2:30 a.m.

Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Two other families, Terry Casey and her three children, and Ralph and Elaine Browning, also fled the flames.

Several fire fighters were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation and exhaustion in the high heat and humidity.

Kenneth W. Recanzone 'Ken From The Sun'

By TOM HENSHAW

The nameplate on his desk said simply, "Ken from The Sun," and that's how he was known to scores of Quincy storekeepers who looked forward to his weekly visits.

It took a while to recall that his full name was Kenneth W. Recanzone and he sold advertising for The Sun in such a breezy but sincere manner that you were a friend rather than a customer.

Thus it was something more than just a shock last Wednesday when Ken died in Carney Hospital, Dorchester, a week and a half after he suffered a stroke while vacationing in New Hampshire.

"He was always doing something for somebody else," said Austin Wickens, director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, and his close friend for 30 years.

Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth had this tribute:

"Ken was a gentleman. He never spoke an unkind word about anyone. He always looked for and found the best in everyone."

"He was a good family man."

KENNETH R. RECANZONE

He loved his wife, Margaret, and young son, Ted. And he thought the world of his father-in-law.

"He had a zest for life and knowledge. He took special courses evenings and at the time of his death was learning computers."

"He enjoyed his work. If employees had theme songs, his would have been "Whistle While You Work". Storeowners he called on knew it was him coming through their door without having to look up because he would be whistling."

"At the end of the day he would leave with these words: 'I must go home to my dear wife who loves me.'"

"She loved him. We loved him. Everyone who knew him, loved him. He was that rare person that doesn't come along in life often enough."

The joy of his life was his son, Teddy, 13, with whom he spent months building a tree house and he was ready to take on the whole town of Milton when someone suggested they didn't have a building permit.

By the nature of his job, Ken collected parking tickets like some people collect stamps. He paid them all promptly. Or rather, his father-in-law did.

"He gets a kick out of it," explained Ken.

And, indeed, Ed Sinclair, 92, did get a kick out of it for their relationship was far closer than most fathers and sons-in-law.

Ken was a fine horseman until he injured his hip when he was thrown from the horse he had for 18 years. He never rode again. He had the aging, ailing animal destroyed rather than see it suffer or come to harm at another's hands.

Ken worked for many years for Sears Roebuck until his retirement as advertising manager a few years ago. A native of Boston, he lived in Milton most of his later life.

He leaves his wife, Margaret S. Recanzone, former Milton correspondent for the Patriot Ledger; a son, Edward Sinclair Recanzone; and his father-in-law, Edward Sinclair, all of Milton.

Funeral mass was celebrated Saturday in St. Elizabeth's Church, Milton, and burial was in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Divine Word Missions, 184 Beacon St., Boston, 02116.

Marilyn S. Grossman, 58, Wife Of Mike Grossman

Services were held Wednesday, July 14, in Temple Israel of Boston for Mrs. Marilyn S. Grossman, wife of Mike Grossman of Chestnut Hill, Brookline.

Mrs. Grossman, who was active in many charitable and philanthropic organizations, died July 13 at Faulkner Hospital, Jamaica Plain, at the age of 58.

In addition to her husband, she leaves two sons, Robert S. and James B. Grossman; and a granddaughter, Melissa A. Pearlman.

Burial was in the family plot in the Hebrew Progressive Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Vincent J. Behenna Retired Truck Driver

A funeral Mass will be celebrated today (Thursday) for Vincent J. Behenna of Squantum, retired truck driver and school department employee.

The Mass will be at 10 a.m. in Star of the Sea Church, Squantum. Burial will be in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mr. Behenna died Monday at New England Medical Center, Boston after a long illness.

A resident of Squantum for 30 years, he was born in Somerville and had lived in Cambridge.

A World War II Army veteran, he was employed 30 years as a driver for the Retail Stores Delivery Company. Following his retirement in 1974, he worked in the Quincy School Department until earlier this year.

He was a former member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Council and was a member of Teamsters Local 25.

Mr. Behenna is survived by his wife, Dorothea T. (Sheehan) Behenna of Squantum; three sons, Stephen J. Behenna of Quincy, Raymond M. Behenna of Cambridge and Thomas E. Behenna of Boston; a daughter, Lorraine M. Behenna of Quincy; seven brothers, Elmer Behenna of Quincy; Joseph Behenna of Natick, Brother Guy of Milton, William Behenna of Belmont, Robert Behenna of Somerville, Peter Behenna of Torrance, Calif. and Brother Eugene of Utica, N.Y., and a sister, Alice McRae of Hull.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations in memory of Mr. Behenna may be sent to Cancer Research, New England Medical Center Hospital, Box 231, 179 Harrison Ave., Boston, 02111.

Mrs. Margaret T. Flaherty, 88

Mrs. Margaret T. (Cronin) Flaherty, 88, of West Quincy, died Sunday in Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a brief illness.

Born in County Kerry, Ireland, she had lived in West Quincy 53 years.

Wife of the late Patrick J. Flaherty, she is survived by two sons, James F. Flaherty of West Quincy and Joseph P. Flaherty of Milton; a daughter, Ann Walsh of Milton, a sister, Sheila Duggan of Ireland and seven grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday in St. Mary's Church. Burial was in Hall Cemetery, West Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St.

Ida L. Riley, 77

Ida L. Riley, 77, of Quincy died last Saturday at Quincy City Hospital following a long illness.

A funeral Mass was said Tuesday in St. Ann's Church, Wollaston. Burial was in St. Michael's Cemetery, Roslindale.

Born in Peabody, she had lived in Boston before moving to Quincy 30 years ago.

She is survived by two nephews, Richard Riley of Squantum and William Oliver of Braintree and four nieces, Dorothy Peters and Joyce Delgado, both of Quincy; Gail Harris of Groton, Conn. and Barbara Stefano of New London, Conn.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

MAURICE ZACK sold t-shirts at the Book Bobby Block Party held recently by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library to raise funds for a book security system.

Book Bobby Drive Raises $10,000 For Library Book Security

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Library Book Bobby Campaign which seeks to buy an electronic book security system for the library has raised more than $10,000 in pledges and contributions according to Jack Wigandt, campaign chairman.

The latest donation comes from the Quincy Savings Bank which donated $300 to the cause.

The biggest single source so far has been $7,000 in federal block grant money which Councillor Patricia Toland discovered was available for such purposes. About $1,000 was raised the night of the campaign kick-off party at the library in April, where Mayor McCauley, honorary chairman of the drive, spoke to the assembled friends and wrote the first check received that evening.

As part of the campaign buttons depicting a bobby's hat are being sold to spread the word about the campaign, and adult and children's T-shirts with the library logo displaying the crane from the Crane family crest. All of these are available at all libraries in the city. Buttons are for a $2 donation and T-shirts are $6 each or free with a $25 or greater donation to the campaign.

The citizen initiated campaign to raise $25,000 to protect the books in the city's libraries, was only kicked off officially in April.

1,129 Names Collected Urging Nuclear Weapons Freeze

Some 1,129 names were collected from two petitions during the Sidewalk Bazaar urging a U.S. Soviet Union nuclear weapons freeze.

There were 579 names on a petition to be sent to Congressman Brian Donnelly and 550 on one going to President Ronald Reagan.

The figures were reported by Carol Brainerd, chairman of the Quincy Committee For A Nuclear Weapons Freeze.

The petitions urge the adoption of a Congressional resolution on a nuclear weapons freeze.

Mrs. Brainerd said the committee which was created just two months ago earlier had collected 1,103 signatures in other areas.

During the Sidewalk Bazaar where the committee had a booth, $201 was raised from bumper stickers and buttons calling for the nuclear weapons freeze.

The resolution stresses that the freeze should be verifiable.

Former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre was among those manning the committee booth.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one person in a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the city personnel director?
2. Research by H. Hobart Kelly, historian of the Quincy Historical Society, indicated that the first name of Capt. Wollaston, the original settler of Quincy, was: Robert? Elijah? Richard?
3. Plymouth Ave. is in what section of the city?
4. True or False: The city of Quincy gets its drinking water from the Metropolitan District Commission system.
5. What well-known Quincy landmark is located at 44 School St.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz.

1. James E. Lowenhagen is the director of Quincy City Hospital.
2. Thomas S. Burgin was the only mayor of Quincy ever to win election to that office unopposed.
3. Langley Circle is in the Wollaston section of the city.
4. False. London, England, is farther north than Quincy.
5. The Quincy Oil Co. Ocean Terminal is located at 728 Southern Artery.

Will McCauley Run Unopposed?

The next city election is a long way off and anything can happen between now and then.

But as of this week there are some political observers who think Frank McCauley might — just might — run unopposed for re-election next year.

McCAULEY

BURGIN

That's happened only once before in the city's history. Mayor Thomas Burgin had no opposition in 1940.

Right now everything seems to be falling into place for McCauley. He's had a six months honeymoon with the City Council.

"It's not so much a honeymoon," says Administrative Assistant Arthur Foley. "It's just a good marriage."

McCauley projects an image of a man who knows what he is doing, is in complete command of the ship, is cool, and calm.

He also projects a no-nonsense, business-like approach to running the city.

And he likes the job. In fact, he seems more outgoing, and more relaxed than when he was a city councillor or a school committeeman.

His wife, Sandra, seems to enjoy her husband being mayor. Despite the burdens of the office, their home life is calm and being mayor has not interfered with it.

But of course, it's a long way to Election, 1983. And anything can happen.

Just one stormy major issue can upset a political applicant or pull the rug out from under an incumbent mayor.

McCauley still has the impact of 100 per cent revaluation lurking in his near future. It could hurt not only McCauley but members of the present City Council.

A lot of people are going to be hit hard when revaluation is implemented. Especially those living in older homes that have been assessed at no more than 40 per cent since the 1930's-1940's. And many people on fixed incomes are now living in them.

It could become quite an emotional and angry scene. And those in office — regardless of how they feel about 100 per cent revaluation become the targets of the people's wrath. Throw them out!

But maybe it won't be that bad. And maybe McCauley, if he continues to ride as smoothly as he is right now, will be considered a re-election shoo-in.

And if he has opposition, it may be only token, rather than a major challenger.

Right now, it is beginning to look that way. But an incumbent mayor can never feel safe because he never can be sure what may suddenly come around the corner.

HUGO

OLD FRIEND Baron Hugo, like Ol' Man River, just keeps rolling along. He still knows how to please a crowd as he did Friday night with his musical group, first in concert and then at the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant.

Baron, incidentally, says if you're a big band era fan, don't give up. It may yet make a comeback. The young people are beginning to appreciate the music of the big bands, he reports.

He notes, for example, he'll be playing at a wedding soon in which the young couple selected for their wedding dance — Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade."

A BOSTON HARBOR

cruise fund-raiser for Rep. Michael Morrissey is set for Saturday, July 31 aboard the Provincetown Steamship Authority's "The Bay State". The vessel will leave Boston Harbor Marina at 7:45 p.m. and return around 10:15. Music and entertainment. Tickets $10 per person.

MORRISSEY

FRIENDS OF Ron Van Dam of the Bargain Center will hold a testimonial for him Tuesday, Aug. 10, at the Bryan VFW Post. Social hour will be at 7 p.m. with dinner at 8 p.m. There will be dancing to the music of Sal Blanco's Orchestra. Tickets for a $10 donation are available at the Bargain Center or by calling Bob Edgar at 472-1414.

Limit On Small Claims Court Suits Increased

The limit on suits in small claims court has been increased to $1,200 under new legislation now in effect, State Senator Paul D. Harold reports.

The new law, raises the limit to bring suit from claims of up to $750 to the new $1,200 ceiling.

Harold said suit may be brought within the $1,200 claim figure, even if the suing party is asking the court for double or triple damages, which are provided by law in some circumstances.

Small claims courts, which operate informally and generally do not require the parties to hire lawyers, operate in each district court.

McGee Commends Cerasoli

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Massachusetts begins its 1983 Fiscal Year with a state budget in place which addresses many of the major concerns of the people of the Commonwealth. And an important share of the credit for this year's successful and smooth budgetmaking process is due to Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli of your District.

It is important to understand that close to two billion dollars, or nearly one-third of the entire state operating budget, will be returned to local cities and towns through either direct dollar aid or through programs paid by the State. This includes $155 million in new state aid to cities and towns this year, eighty percent of that in cash assistance.

Also included in the Fiscal 1983 Budget are a series of provisions designed to improve the delivery of various state services. For example, a pilot program of personnel reforms has been instituted. Additional funds have been allocated for the Office of the Handicapped; for state agricultural development; for safe housing, rental assistance and fuel assistance for the elderly. State aid to libraries has been increased.

And public higher education budgets have been increased by more than $43 million.

There are literally hundreds of other such items which we hope will aid the local property tax payer and the users of public services.

Many other dollars have been earmarked to help offset expected cutbacks in federal aid to local, regional and state programs.

Your representative has played a key and positive role in helping make this year's budget effort a successful one.

Friends Of Martha Donaghue Planning Oct. 2 Tribute

Martha Donaghue, a promising North Quincy High School gymnast, has always been known for her determination to be the very best she could be.

It was evident in her development and success in gymnastics. It is no less evident in her courage in dealing with a crippling injury.

While performing last January, Martha slipped from the parallel bars. In the fall, she fractured her neck, leaving her paralyzed. A recent operation gives hope that Martha may regain partial use of her arms.

Despite her confinement to a wheelchair, Martha graduated with her class and plans to attend Boston University in the fall. She graduated with distinction and as a member of the National Honor Society.

Martha, her mother and father, Marge and Dave Donaghue; and her six brothers and sisters, have given years of service to the boys and girls of the West Quincy district of the Koch Club in its baseball and softball programs and have been dedicated members of the community.

Neighbors and friends of Martha and her family are planning to hold a fund-raising dance to help defray expenses of a specially equipped van. The effort is appropriately called the "Martha Donaghue VAN Club".

The dance will be held Oct. 2 from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. at "The National Fire Protection Association" building, Batterymarch Park, Quincy.

For information on where to purchase dance tickets, call 479-0668 or 479-9587.

Donations can be made to the "Martha Donaghue VAN Club Fund" c/o Bay Bank, Norfolk County Trust, 552 Adams St., East Milton, Mass. 02186.

The next meeting of the committee will be held July 29, at St. Agatha's rectory. All are welcome.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Eastern Mass Replaces Trolleys With Modern Buses

John I. Donovan, chairman of the public trustees of the Eastern Mass Street Railway, said modern bus service will replace street cars in Quincy in a very short time.

The only stumbling block, said Donovan, is an old World War I agreement with the Navy that the company supply street car service to Quincy Point. The company was negotiating with the Navy to modify the agreement.

During World War I the Navy financed construction of the Quincy Point street car service to provide better transportation to the Fore River shipyard. Eastern Mass agreed to repay the Navy on a per capita passenger basis.

"It has been our hope," said Donovan, "that all trolleys should be eliminated from our system and last year a start was made on the South Shore when buses were substituted for street cars on the Houghs Neck line.

"Our general counsel has been of the opinion that for us to remove trolley service without permission of the Navy would be a technical violation of the present contract we have with it."

PNEUMATIC SCALE STRIKE

Some 400 production workers at the Pneumatic Scale plant in North Quincy went out on strike when negotiations for a new contract broke down, the first such walkout in the 52-year history of the company.

The men were summoned from their jobs after the 11 p.m. shift by Anthony J. Bettini, president of the Local 444 of the CIO Production and Distribution Workers, which was seeking a 20-cent hourly wage hike and three vacation weeks after 10 years.

NOISE ABATEMENT PLANNED

Mayor Charles A. Ross conferred with Capt. Otto O. Smoot, commanding officer of the Squantum Naval Air Station, and they announced a new plan to counteract the noise of planes taking off from the base.

Capt. Smoot said from now on planes will gain altitude over the Neponset River and make no turns until they reach 1,000 feet or more and then follow the water to skirt the city.

FORE RIVER SHIPS NEEDED

Admiral William H. P. Blandy, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, indicated that the Navy still has need for the unfinished ships at the Fore River shipyard, the heavy cruisers Des Moines, Salem and Northampton.

"In any overseas campaign where we take the offensive we would need a fleet whether the other fellow has one or not," said Admiral Blandy on a visit to Boston.

QUINCY-ISMS

Eleven girls and one boy from Quincy returned home after a 12-day educational vacation in Harlem, co-sponsored by the Quincy Point Congregational Church and Grace Congregational Church in Harlem. . . Maude Hurd of Quincy, a secretary in the Quincy Electric Light and Power Co., was a member of a party of women who were returning by boat from Nahant when they spotted the first whale seen in Boston Harbor in 300 years. . . Hamburg was 39 cents at the Meateries, Inc., 1388 Hancock St. . . Ten Quincy veterans were named permanent firemen — James W. Gerry, Russell J. Barry, Cornelius E. O'Connell, Thomas F. Maguire, Charles H. Daley, George D. McEachern, Lester Haslett, William A. McGunagle, Patrick J. Sullivan and Lawrence J. Ready. . . Selden Gary Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrender C. Negus of 44 Russell St., North Quincy, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army at Fort Benning, Ga. . . Dr. Edwin E. Smith, city bacteriologist for 25 years, left for Goldsboro, N.C., to take a job as assistant to the district health officer of Wayne and Green counties. . . Ice cream was 59 cents a quart at Hunter's, 537 Sea St., Houghs Neck. . . The 72-foot ketch Ticonderoga, built at the Quincy Adams Yacht Yard, was first over the line in the 366-mile Marblehead to Halifax race in 50 hours and 30 minutes. . . A strike of East Coast shipyard workers idled 7,000 members of Local 5 at the Fore River Shipyard for the fourth week. . . Two salmon, weighing about 75 pounds each, caught by members of the Quincy party attending the Elks convention in Portland, Ore., were shipped to Quincy to be eaten at a lodge dinner-meeting. . . Attending the convention from Quincy were Francis E. Cole, Fred N. Krim, Larry Antonelli and Samuel G. Craig. . . "The Yearling," starring Gregory Peck, Jane Wyman and Claude Jarman Jr., was playing at the Strand. . . Joseph Mula of Quincy and John F. Nihen of Dorchester, aerographers at the Squantum Naval Air Station, spotted a flying disc moving at 300 miles an hour about 8,000 feet over Milton. . . DuBois, both of Quincy, were assigned as trainees to the Universal Military experimental unit at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Morrissey Asks MDC Crackdown At Wollaston Beach

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has asked that the MDC Police crack down on gangs of youths that continue to violate the law by drinking on Wollaston Beach.

"Not only is public drinking a problem, but in some areas, neighbors are faced with excess noise emanating from the beach, which goes on well into the night," said Morrissey in a letter to Commissioner Richard Nylan.

Morrissey has asked that the MDC Police use its special unit which has been highly successful in past crackdowns of problem areas along the beach.

Bicycle Thieves Strike Again

Thieves who have been decimating the bicycle population of Quincy in the past few weeks struck for two more bikes over the weekend and may have been spotted attempting to steal a third.

Jonathan Twining of Eastern Nazarene College reported to police that his 10-speed boys' bike was stolen from Burger King on Granite St.

The manager of the Burger King said he saw two men checking out the bike before the theft and they drove off in a yellow Plymouth.

About an hour later, an employee of Hair and Things, 397 Water St., reported that she scared off two men as they were sawing through a lock cable on a bicycle.

They drove off down Copeland St. in a yellow car.

Jason Riley of Payne St. South Quincy, reported his 10-speed bike was stolen shortly after Saturday midnight from the side of his house.

2 Teenagers Injured In Cycle Mishap

Two North Quincy teenagers were injured Monday night when they were thrown from their motorcycle after it struck a curb at East Squantum and Deerfield

Sts., Squantum.

Joseph T. Crosby, 19, of Hancock St., and Jacqueline Pike, 18, of Aberdeen Rd., Squantum, were treated and released at City Hospital.

The two were able to retrieve the dog with the help of Abraham Allen, owner of the parking facility in Mattapan where Trainor's 1973

Crosby told police he swerved to avoid a bus that stopped suddenly in front of him. His motorcycle hit the curb and both he and his passenger were thrown to the ground.

Lincoln Continental was found aripped.

Allen heard about the dog's theft, and volunteered to act as an intermediary with whoever might have taken the dog.

Mr. Puff, who was given a bath after his ordeal, is reported in good shape.

Mr. Puff Returned Safely

Mr. Puff, a 7-year old pure white miniature poodle taken from a car stolen last week from outside of the Cathay Pacific, North Quincy, has been safely returned to his owners.

After paying $500 cash for the dog's return, Marica Giaquinta and John E. Trainor, of 64A and 64

Faxon Rd., North Quincy, retrieved the dog Friday night in the parking lot of Grossman's, Quincy Square.

The two were able to retrieve the dog with the help of Abraham Allen, owner of the parking facility in Mattapan where Trainor's 1973

EXAMINING TISSUES

Q: My dentist said he wants to take a scraping of my cheek. Why?

A: There are a large number of conditions which can affect the soft tissues of the mouth. Most of them aren't serious. However, cancer can occur in the mouth. These cancers and pre-cancerous conditions may look suspicious, but sometimes appear harmless even to a trained eye.

The only way to tell for sure if a condition is cancerous is to remove tissue surgically and examine it microscopically (biopsy). It isn't practical to perform surgery on any abnormal gum condition, but it is possible to get some information by simply scraping the surface of the mucous membrane and examining the scraped surface cells microscopically. The practice of examining these cells is called exfoliative cytology.

While not 100 per cent effective, exfoliative cytology is useful as a screening tool. It enables dentists to examine tissue without surgery. If this test raises further suspicions, a surgical biopsy specimen can then be taken.

Morrisette Bows Wollaston Legion Wins 3 Straight

The Wollaston Legion baseball team had a good week with three straight Zone 6 victories and won its biggest game of the year Monday night when it exploded for six runs in the seventh inning to surprise Randolph, 7-6, and knock Randolph out of first place in its division.

Wollaston, in improving its record to 6-9, had previously topped Brockton and Milton.

Meanwhile, Morrisette had a rough week, losing to Holbrook and Quincy to drop its record to 10-6 as it remained in a neck and neck battle with Weymouth for first place in its division.

Morrisette will play at Canton Friday at 6 and will host Wollaston Monday night at 8 at Adams Field.

Wollaston will host Holbrook Friday at 8 at Adams and will play Morrisette Monday.

Wollaston trailed Randolph (14-3), 6-1, going into the bottom of the seventh Monday night. Frank Reynolds and Brian Gibbons had bases loaded singles in the inning and Danny Dunn also had an RBI single. The winning run scored when Randolph's top pitcher, Tom Audette, walked a batter with the bases loaded.

Vin Cristiani went in to pitch in the second inning and shackled Randolph the rest of the way to get the win. Steve Hogan caught a fine game. Jack Brown had some outstanding catches in left field and Rob McElaney sparked at third base.

Wollaston had only two hits but came back to beat Milton, 7-6, in eight innings. Wollaston tied the score in the seventh but Milton took a 6-5 lead in the top of the eighth. Three walks and a wild pitch on which two runners scored, won the game in the bottom half. Mike Venna and Jim Kelly had the only hits as Wollaston took advantage of walks and errors and stole five bases.

Earlier Wollaston had edged Brockton 2-1, with Kelly pitching excellent ball. He allowed only two hits but was wild as he walked six and hit a batter.

In the first Steve Spencer walked, stole second and scored when the shortstop threw wildly on Brown's grounder. Kelly singled and later scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly.

Morrisette suffered its most frustrating defeat last Friday as Quincy, which had only one win over Wollaston previously, took a 6-0 lead and held on for a 6-5 victory.

Morrisette scored three runs in the fifth, had the bases loaded but failed to score in the sixth and in the seventh, scored twice but had the bases loaded when the game ended.

In its previous game Morrisette dropped a 5-2 eight-inning decision to Holbrook. The teams were tied at 1-1 after the regulation seven innings.

Paul Earle pitched fine ball for Morrisette, allowing five hits and striking out six. Holbrook took a 1-0 lead in the second but Morrisette tied it in the sixth on John Balzano's towering home run over the 356-foot sign in left field at Adams Field.

Holbrook then exploded for four runs in the eighth. Morrisette added a run on back-to-back doubles by Scott Mele and Chris Bunker.

Elks Drop Pair In Coast League

The Quincy Elks lost two more games last week in the South Shore Coast League, but played their best game of the season in losing to the South Shore Phillies, 3-2.

The Elks scored in the first inning on Bob Biagini's triple and a wild pitch. In the seventh, with the Elks trailing, 3-1, Steve Millane singled and pinch hitter Brian Condon doubled him to third. A walk filled the bases and Biagini singled to left, scoring Millane, but Dave Swallow was thrown out at the plate to end the game.

Paul McConville was the hard-luck losing pitcher. Biagini and Rich King had a triple and single each. The outfielders, Millane, Jamie Walsh and Mike McCormick made several outstanding catches.

The Elks lost to Rockland-Abington, 9-6, with Bob Bolster the losing pitcher. Artie Roberts had two singles, Danny Boyle a triple and single and two RBIs and Jack McInnis, Walsh, Condon and Paul Barresi a single each.

Track Club Presents Awards

The Quincy Track Club concluded its spring program recently with the annual awards cookout at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Every member received a certificate and 52 received notices telling them that they will be moving up to the traveling team, which is for the more talented and experienced athletes.

The following received trophies for outstanding performance: Age 6, David Palmieri and Regina Murphy; 7, Steve O'Brien and Kara Feeney; 8, Jason Radzevich and Maggie O'Donnell; 9, Anthony Stafford and Kelly Canniff; 10, Keith Gott and Holly Rendle; 11, Patrick McNamara and Marisa Zona; 12, Mike Connelly and Sandra Libby; 13, Bill McCobb and Kim Ellis; 14, Pat Nee and Lisa Lynch.

Trophies for the most improved boy and girl went to Vincent DiGiacomo and Michele Healy.

The club thanks Ed Rogers, Linda and Jim McNeill, Carol Traficante, Pat and Betty Murphy, Jerry Libby, Karyn Reilly, Andrea Missa, Esther Parker, Tracy and Terry Parker for helping make the event a success.

The QTC, in conjunction with the Quincy Recreation Dept., is hosting the Hershey Youth Program tryouts yesterday (Wednesday) for the boys and today for the girls at 6 o'clock at the stadium. The club will bring its high school athletes this weekend to Brown University for the NEAC Junior Olympics.

Track, Field Camp Registration

The Quincy Recreation Department will begin registration today, (Thursday) for a week-long track and field camp for boys and girls age 9-13.

The camp will be operated rain or shine Aug. 9-13 from 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. The camp, second of the summer, will feature individual instruction and a counselor/participant ratio of 1 to 10.

The camp staff for track and field will be headed by Jeff Hennessy, director of Quincy Track Club and 1981 RRCA Coach of the Year. With Hennessy will be Paul Doherty, assistant track coach at North Quincy High School, Mike Burke who finished seventh in the 1977 Boston Marathon and also assists the North Quincy High School track team and Brian Donahue a nationally ranked shot putter for the University of Texas and former Globe and Ledger All Scholastic.

Activities at the camp will include, event testing, areas of specialization, distance running, throwing events, sprints, and jumping events as well as mini meets and specialized lectures.

Recreation Director Barry Welch, noting the success of the basketball camp held earlier this summer said he sees the track and field camp as a continuation of a low cost alternative for persons who desire specialized instruction in specific sports but who can not afford the high cost of residential sports camps.

Registration will take place at the office of the Quincy Recreation Department on a first come first served basis. Enrollment will be limited to insure the quality of instruction. The camp will be conducted at Veteran's Memorial Stadium, or North Quincy High School in the event of rain. Total cost of the program is $15 for the week.

Woodward Leads Perkins Loop

Woodward Springs leads the Roy Perkins Softball League with a 10-3 record.

Following are Caldwell's, 5-3; South Shore Buick, 8-6; Sixty Niners, 6-6; Foley Chrysler, 5-5; North Quincy Taxi, 5-6; Misfits, 5-7; and Ben Gay Bombers, 2-10.

Weary Morrisette Bumped By Walpole From Legion Tourney

The strain of playing eight pressure-filled tournament games in nine days caught up with the Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team and the boys bowed to Walpole in an 18-9 slugfest in the quarterfinals of the Legion playoffs at Adams Field.

Southpaw Lou (Cookie) Marini, on the mound for Morrisette for the third time in four nights, ran into a streak of wildness, walking four and trailing 7-1 in the third when he was relieved by Jim Gosselin, who with Bill Corcoran was touched for seven runs in the fifth.

Shortstop Ray Cattaneo and third baseman Joe Hughes led Morrisette's 13-hit assault on Walpole pitcher George Campbell with three hits apiece. Cattaneo had a home run, a triple and a single while Hughes had a double and two singles.

The Morrisette lineup included: Gosselin, lf, p, rf; Hughes, 3b; Cattaneo, ss; Leone, c; Marini, p; lf; D. Campbell, lb; Corbin, lb; White, lb; Sacchetti, cf; Granville, rf; Corcoran, p; Pineau, 2b.

In previous playoff games: Carl Leone smashed a single double to deep center field in the last of the 11th inning to score Cattaneo with the winning runs as Morrisette eliminated Milford, 4-3, in a gruelling five-game preliminary series. Two of the games ended in ties.

Morrisette evened its series with Walpole at one game each with a 9-5 victory after Corcoran gave up four runs in the first inning and then settled down to retire 18 batters in a row. Two of the Walpole runs came in as a result of strikeout pitches that eluded catcher Leone.

Marini tossed a three-hit shutout in the opener of the Milford series, won by Morrisette 2-0 as Fran Pineau singled home Charlie Sacchetti with one run and then came in himself with the second on a base hit by Marini, all in the fifth inning.

SQUANTUM STOPPED

George McCall's Sagamore Plebes halted pitcher Jack Wallace's winning string at six games with a 4-2 victory over Squantum in a South Shore League game that featured an unusual first inning play in which an intentional walk was turned into a double play.

With Jack Casey on third and Rab Warstler on first, the Sagamores decided to walk Ralph McLeod. But pitcher Bud Freberg made his fourth pitch too good and McLeod belted the ball to left. Cecil Kilrain caught the fly and threw out Casey trying to score.

The Sagamore lineup included: Saunders, ss; Ferguson, 3b; McDonald, 2b; J. Donovan, cf; Erickson, c; Kilrain, lf; Ferris, lb; Pettinelli, rf; Mathieson, ph; Freburg, p.

The Squantum lineup included: Casey, 3b; Warstler, ss; McLeod, cf; Wallace, p; Rinaldi, 2b; Forbush, lb; J. Frazer, c; Mullin, lf; Gumpwright, p.

CHIEFS NEAR FLAG

The South Quincy Chiefs drew nearer to their second straight Quincy Park League pennant as Manager Ed Daley pitched them to a 3-2 victory over the South Shore Veterans. Bud McKenny tripled home two runs for the Chiefs in the first inning to send them on their way.

The Chiefs lineup included: T. Belmont, ss; McKinnon, 3b; A. Belmont, 2b; Kerr, cf; McKenny, c; Shattuck, rf; Lang, lb; Sleep, cf; E. Daley, p.

PITTS CADDY CHAMP

Little Fordie Pitts ran off five straight pars in the afternoon round to overcome a two-stroke deficit and retain his caddy championship at Wollaston Golf Club by defeating Dick Manning, 6-and-5 in the 36-hole final.

HALIFAX RACE VICTOR

The Quincy-built ketch Ticonderoga, owned by Alan Carlisle of East Islip, N.Y., won the first postwar sailing of the Marblehead to Halifax, N.S., race, sponsored jointly by the Boston Yacht Club and the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron.

SPORTS BITS '47

The Boston Red Sox returned from a road trip 12½ games behind the New York Yankees amid reports of desension on the team and an alleged fight in the dressing room between Johnny Pesky and Dom DiMaggio. . . Bert Nogler, a member of the North Quincy High School golf team, turned in a four-over-par 77 for low medal score in the Wollaston Golf Club caddy tournament. . . Johnny Bregoli of the Braintree Orioles was leading the Quincy Park League in battle with a .387 average. . . Bob Holland, shortstop for the Quincy Comets, was one of two South Shore players selected to play in a Greater Boston all star game at Braves Field. . . Eddie McCauley chalked up his 10th victory of the season as his Sacred Heart team defeated South Weymouth Legion, 4-3, in a Park League game. . . Charles Adams, Ken Campbell and Paul Kendrick of Wollaston and Joe Carson of Furnace Brook were entered in the New England Junior Golf Tournament at Woodlawn.

Burgin Wins A.L. Crown

Burgin Platner has clinched the Junior Baseball League's American League championship with a 19-2 record, joining Boston Gear as division winner. Gear previously wrapped up the National League crown. Burgin finished with the best record in the league.

The two division champions, Folley Chrysler-Plymouth, Kiwanis, VFW and Rotary have qualified for the playoffs, the six teams with the best records qualifying.

Burgin walloped Keohane's, 10-2, with Tom McDonald winning his eighth game and clinching the division title. Robbie McDonald had two doubles and a single, Tom McDonald a home run and double, Chris Boudreau a double and single, Brian Mosher and Mark DiMattio a double each and John Quilan, Billy Murphy, Steve Kahl and Bobby Thomas a single apiece.

Burgin also upset Gear, 6-3, scoring five runs in the fifth inning. Mark DiMattio pitched well before leaving the game in the third and Robbie McDonald finished up. They combined for a five-hitter.

Tom McDonald had two singles and a double, DiMattio three singles, Brian Mosher two singles and Robbie McDonald, Quilan, Bill Murphy, Steve Nieters and Sean Murphy a single each. Burgin had two double plays by Quilan, Murphy and Tom McDonald to halt Gear threats.

Gear outlasted Folley Chrysler-Plymouth, 10-9, with Chris Higgins the winning pitcher with relief help from Nancy Flukes, making her pitching debut. Higgins had a seven-hitter going into the sixth inning but had to come out to the oppressive heat.

Flukes and Higgins had two doubles each, Matt Furtado a double and single, Steve Rabs a double and Shawn Craig and Mike Leonard a single apiece. Jimmy Glynn, Danny Gilmartin and Flukes were outstanding on defense. Craig caught a fine game. Also playing well were Mike Cronin, Mike Paccetti, Danny Piccini and Paul Adams.

Gear and Foley also finished a protested game, picking up in the top of the fifth inning with Gear at bat. Gear won, 13-10, with Rabs the winning pitcher.

Gear, upset by Colonial Federal in the first game of the year, bombed Colonial, 17-4, last week, featuring seven-run rallies in the third and fifth innings. Furtado was the winning pitcher with a seven-hitter. Rabs did well in a short relief stint.

Gear pounded out 17 hits with Paccetti having two doubles and a single, Leonard two singles and a double, Craig a double and two singles, Rabs a double and two singles, Flukes two singles and Higgins and Piccini a single each. Also playing well were Pat McDonough and Jimmy Collins.

Joey Russell and Eric Aboud shared the pitching for Colonial. David Adams had two singles as did Bob McManus, Bob Keddy had a double, Mike Watt a double and Mark Armstrong a single.

Kiwanis blanked Houghs Neck, 6-0, to finish with a 15-7 record, as Eddie Devlin pitched a one-hitter and struck out eight. He also helped his own cause with a home run and two singles.

T.J. Steen hit his sixth home run and a single, Ron Hersey two hits and Timmy Roche a hit and a fine defensive game. Darrin Simonelli played well in the outfield.

Kiwanis also edged Gear, 12-11, with Steen striking out 13. He was the victim of some sloppy defense early in the game as Gear scored seven unearned runs.

For Kiwanis Ronnie Fletcher had a bases-loaded triple, Matt Hurly had his fourth home run, a triple and a double, Chris Noble a triple and double, Steen two singles, Hersey a triple and Flavin a single.

Rotary outslugged Colonial Federal, 18-14, to gain the final playoff berth in the American League. With six games left Rotary appeared to have little chance to make the playoffs but came back to win its last six games and clinch the last spot.

John Pennellatore had four hits including a home run over the right field fence, his seventh in the last six games. Rich Golden was two for two, Bill MacDougall had a double and single, Mike Mullaney a double, a single and two 10-year-olds, Pat O'Donoghue and Tony Anderionius (double) had key hits. Bill MacDougall was the winning pitcher in relief of Pennellatore. Matt Collins and O'Donoghue played well behind the plate and Kevin MacDougall, Brian Kelly, Dan McDonald and Dave Murphy had strong defensive games.

Matt McNamara had four hits, including a home run for Colonial, Doug Armstrong had three hits, Bob Cuddy and Mike Watts two hits each and John McManus a double. McManus also played well on defense.

Rotary romped over Keohane's, 12-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Pennellatore, who also had two home runs and two singles. Smooth fielding Dan McDonald had two singles, Mullaney had two singles and Joe Mulvey and Bill MacDougall had solid hits.

Kevin MacDougall made two sensational catches in right field, Anderionius made a fine catch and throw to complete a double play, Dave Murphy made an excellent catch behind second place and Matt Collins played well at third. Chuck Hughes, Craig Wright, John Balducci and Baker had the hits for Keohane's.

Junior All Stars Game Thursday

The annual Quincy Junior Baseball League All-Star game will be played tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at McCoy Field.

Pete Cappola and Ralph Mosher will manage the American League teams and Dan Duncan the National League's.

The American League roster comprises Tom McDonald, Mark DiMattio, Brian Mosher and Bill Murphy of Burgin Platner; Ron Fletcher, T.J. Steen and Matt Hurley of Kiwanis; Kevin Caldwell, Dan Overby and Jack Mullen of Bryan Post VFW; Dan Biagini, Sean Gately and Bill Mulken of Folley Chrysler-Plymouth; Bob Hubbard, Peter Tufts and Mark Gillooly of State Street; Jay Lespasio, Jay Rodriguez and Joe Steen of Remick's.

Playing for the National League will be Steve Rabs, Matt Furtado, Shawn Craig and Nancy Flukes of Boston Gear; John Pennallatore, Mike Mullaney and Joe Mulvey of Rotary; Bob Higgins, John Henry and Mark Lindenfelzer of Houghs Neck; Chuck Hughes, Dan Jaehning and John Balducci of Keohane's; Matt McNamara, Bob Keddy and John McManus of Colonial Federal; Mark Malloy, John Davis and Steve Carey of Elks.

Boat Owners Urged To Join Operation ID

Harbormaster Ralph Hood and his 23 unpaid volunteer assistants are encouraging all boat owners to join Operation ID, sponsored by the Quincy Police Crime Prevention Bureau.

This is a community section program in which boat owners borrow an electric engraving tool from the Police Department and place their Social Security numbers on items likely to be stolen.

Each participant is also given a set of decals to be affixed to the boat and equipment warning would-be thieves that all valuables are marked.

The city of Quincy recently beefed up its coastal patrols so that Harbormaster Hood and his assistants patrol Quincy Bay virtually around the clock.

These men are trained in water safety as well as crime prevention and first aid. All are longtime residents of Quincy and most are members of yacht clubs.

They patrol in their own boats and are able to keep contact with shore by radio. More than half of them are licensed to carry firearms.

Hotshot District Championships Start July 26

The Quincy Recreation Department will continue with its participation in the National Pepsi Hotshot program with district competition at four locations for local playground winners.

The Hotshot Basketball Competition is nationally sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola Company. The local sponsor is the Pepsi-Cola Company of Milton. The Quincy competition is the first step towards a national championship final at the NBA Playoffs in 1983. In recent years, Quincy has had participants advance to the East Coast Regionals in Philadelphia.

Pepsi Hotshot is a one minute competition which involves shooting baskets from five "Hotspots" marked on one half of a basketball court. The competition is open to boys and girls age 9-18 years.

Quincy District Playoffs will feature the playground winners and runners-up in each of the three age groupings.

Spectators are invited to watch these playground winners compete in the District Championship according to the following schedule:

July 26 at Welcome Young, July 27 at LaBrecque, July 28 at Fenno St. and July 29 at Elm St. All district playoffs are scheduled for 10 a.m.

• Babe Ruth League

Morrisette, Elks Win

Morrisette walloped Local #1139, 12-2, in the Babe Ruth League, scoring eight runs in the third inning.

John Cristiani pitched a three-hitter in the sweltering heat and struck out nine.

Tom Connolly hit a mammoth three-run homer in the fifth inning. Paul Canavan was three for three and has played exceptional ball since being called up from the International League. He is the team's leading batter. Connolly also had a single and others with hits were Cristiani, Steve Perdios, Tim Morrison, who also had three walks, Ed Flynn and Rick Dondero.

Flynn, Jack Outerbridge, Chris Doyle and Connolly played outstanding defense.

Morrisette also defeated Hancock Bank, 12-7, with Outerbridge the winning pitcher. He allowed 11 hits in the extreme heat but struck out 11 and walked only one. Trailing, 10-1, Hancock scored four runs in the bottom of the third and each team added two runs the rest of the way.

Doyle caught a fine game for Morrisette and also led the attack with three hits. Connolly and Outerbridge had two hits each and Ricky Kelley, Morrison and Dondero had the other hits.

In the sixth inning Dondero was hit by a vicious drive and had to leave the game. He was replaced by Neil Hatfield, who played well at third base. Connolly made a great catch.

Playing well for Hancock were Andy Lenhart, Steve Higgins and Mark Abboud. The Hancock pitchers gave up 15 bases on balls, 11 in the first three innings.

The Elks defeated the VFV, 3-1, in 10 innings with Tom Logan picking up the win in four innings of strong relief of starter Bob Carty. Eric Rokeby pitched a fine game for VFV, going the entire 10 innings.

VFV scored its run in the top of the first and the Elks tied it in the bottom of the seventh when Carty singled, stole second, moved to third on a double play and scored on Bob Reynolds' first of two singles. In the eighth inning Dan Baker saved a run with a great one-handed catch in center field.

In the bottom of the 10th Al Martel doubled and Mark Simonelli, who caught a fine game, belted a home run over the right fielder's head to win it.

Dan Kelley at shortstop made some fine plays and had a double. Matt Ostiguy and Billy Connolly also stood out on defense.

The Elks also edged Hancock Bank, 7-6, coming from behind with four runs in the seventh inning. Kelly was the winning pitcher, going all the way.

The Elks continued their winning ways with a 9-8 decision over Morrisette. The Elks lost a 7-0 lead when Morrisette took the lead in the top of the seventh, 8-7. Then Martell, who was the winning pitcher, hit his second triple of the game to drive in Kelly, who had singled. Martell scored the winning run on Ostiguy's perfect squeeze bunt. Martell also had a single and a walk.

The Elks topped Golden Print, 16-11, in a loosely played game in 100-degree heat with Mike Ferrand getting the win in relief of Baker and Logan. Baker had a homer, Martell had two singles and Connolly, Ostiguy, Simonelli and Kelly had hits. Also having a hit was Logan, a 13-year-old, who had been playing outstanding ball.

The Elks played their last four games with only nine players due to injuries and vacations.

The lone reserve was Bob Laracy, who has a broken right arm but was available if needed. Two other 13-year-olds, Brian Roche and Bob B ubenzik have also played well.

Openings In Boating, Sailing Program

The Quincy Recreation Department announces it has openings in various programs at its William F. Ryan Boating and Sailing Facility at Black's Creek.

Quincy residents may enroll in a variety of courses including sailing, rowing, and canoeing for the summer season. The popular adult evening sailing instruction has been expanded to include daytime classes held on week-day afternoons.

The usual evening hours from 4 to 8 p.m. will still be offered and openings exist for membership to the adult class.

Adults must be 17 years of age and will be taught the skills of sailing on dry land and by utilizing the department's fleet of 10 O'Day widgeon sail boats.

Recreation Director Barry Welch also pointed out that the Department has canoes available for use in the wide variety of creeks which make up the Merrymount Park area. Instruc-

Registration for the Houghs Neck area will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 19 and 23 at the Houghs Neck Community Center.

Tickets are $3 and will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. There is limited space for adults.

PREVENT CHILD BURNS

Parents can prevent many tragic childhood burns by exercising caution and educating their youngsters to the danger of fire. Parents should make certain that matches and lighters are kept out of reach of the tot. Any forgetfulness in this regard could easily lead to tragedy.

Similarly, young children should be kept away from kitchen stoves, heaters and fireplaces. Never leave a toddler alone in the kitchen where he might be tempted to turn on the stove or in the living room where there is a fire in the fireplace.

Always turn pot handles in to prevent children from pulling scalding liquids over on themselves.

Education can begin by the time the child is two years old. At this age the child must be still given 100 per cent protection against major fire hazards, but he can be taught the meaning of "hot" and learn respect for fire through educational experiences.

Miss Quincy Bay Wants To Do Hospital Work

By TOM HENSHAW

Christine McGrath, 18, of West Quincy figures she just couldn't lose the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant last Friday — not with the "Italian Bazooka" in the crowd cheering her on.

The "Italian Bazooka" is Mark DeLuca of Dorchester, who recently had his first professional boxing match.

He and the hazel-eyed beauty have been dating for the past few months.

"If I can sit through his fights," said Chrissie, "he can sit through my pageants. He's very proud of me. That's what he told me."

Chrissie sat through Mark's first ever pro fight a couple of weeks ago in Freeport Hall, Dorchester. The "Italian Bazooka" lost. Film clips of the fight were shown on the 11 o'clock news.

"I didn't like it very much," said Chrissie. "But if it's what he wants, I support him. I know that he supports me in what I want."

Chrissie got a lot of support from the crowd of some 2,000 who watched her receive the crown from last year's winner, Beth Strenge.

She will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week, Aug. 4-8.

Runnersup in order were Cheryl A. Tyner, 24, of Hyde Park; Lisa E. Stewart, 19, of Quincy; Diane Lee Savoie, 18, of Randolph; and Marie R. Rugnetta, 21, of Braintree.

Chrissie is a 1982 graduate of Quincy High School, now attending Laboure Junior College in Boston with aspirations to be a respiratory therapist.

"I want to work in a hospital," she said. "I feel like doing something for this world. Maybe later on I'll pursue a nursing career. We'll see what happens."

She'd rather not be a doctor.

"I want to be married and have children," she said. "There's no time for that if you're a doctor."

She's not hung up on women's lib, either, although she can understand why some women get involved.

"I like to be treated like a lady," she said, "but I don't want to be taken advantage of, either. I don't understand why women don't get the same pay as men."

"I suppose if the tables were turned the men would be fighting, too."

Since graduating from Quincy High School in June, Chrissie has been working at Athlete's Foot, a sporting goods store in South Shore Plaza while attending Laboure.

She is the middle one among the five children of Barbara and Harold McGrath, three girls and two boys.

Linda, 23, is a medical secretary at Tufts New England Medical Center, Boston, and Kathleen, 21, left Monday for basic training with the Air Force at Lackland Field, Texas.

Ricky, 16, is a junior at Archbishop Williams High School and Stephen, 14, attended Woodrow Wilson School in Boston.

It was Chrissie's second beauty contest. She was second runnerup last winter in Carol McCole's Model of the Year Pageant. She was named Miss Photogenic in the contest.

Now she's No. 1.

"I hope I'll have a chance to thank all the people of Quincy who supported me, even the one's I didn't know," she said.

And that includes the "Italian Bazooka."

Children's Theater On Cable Ch. 3 July 26

Quincy Community Television, Ch. 3, will cablecast "Cinderella-More-or-Less", a play produced by the Children's Theater Workshop Monday, July 26, at 8 p.m.

The play, based on the popular Cinderella tale and recently performed at the Woodward School for Girls Auditorium, was written by Diane Purdy, founder and director of the theater group.

Before Monday's program at 7:30 p.m., Ch. 3 will feature a special profile of Miss Purdy. Ann Mundy, director of Programming at Quincy Cablesystems, will interview Miss Purdy about how her theater got started, where she gets inspiration for her characters and why dramas can enrich the lives of young people.

The program will be repeated Friday, July 30 at 2 p.m.

Also scheduled for the week is baseball on Thursday, July 29 at 7:30 p.m. as Morrisette Legion Post meets Wollaston in a repeat of a game taped June 30 at Adams Field. Quincy resident Kevin Cahill announces the game.

In addition, a featured program for July 26 at 9:30 p.m. is "Inside Quincy", a program produced by summer interns at Quincy Community Television. This program, the first in a summer series, is produced by students at area colleges and local high schools.

On Tuesday, July 27 at 7:30 p.m. Massachusetts Secretary of Consumer Affairs Eileen Schell will appear in a repeat of a call-in program taped late in June. Dr. Schell answers viewers' questions about condominium conversion, car financing, smoke detectors, as well as other questions on consumer issues.

QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS recently co-sponsored the Atlantic Book of World Records Contest to promote equal educational opportunities. Boys and girls competed in all phases of athletics and academics. Grand prize was a year's membership to the South Shore YMCA. From left, are chairman Patricia Garrett, winners Noreen Connolly and Mark Scanlan, and Jackie Whitcomb, administrative assistant, South Shore YMCA.

MDA Swim-a-thon Set For July 29

The annual Quincy Swim-a-thon for Muscular Dystrophy will be held Thursday, July 29 from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

The event is being sponsored by the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee in co-operation with the Quincy Recreation Department.

The swim-a-thon is open to swimmers of all ages with a 200-lap limit.

Jerry Lewis wrist watches will be given to the boy and girl turning in the most pledge money. Jerry Lewis visors will be presented to everyone turning in $25 or more in pledge money.

Every participant who turns in pledge money will receive a citation of merit from the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Deadline for turning in pledge money is Friday, Aug. 20.

Pledge forms and instructions are available at Quincy city playgrounds, swim stations, the Lincoln Hancock pool and The Quincy Sun.

WEEK OF: JULY 22, 1982

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
You're at your outgoing brightest and it's a lovely time to attract new friends and admirers. One important caution: you're easily impressed by superficial trappings.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
A week for budgets and balance sheets — and stretching a dollar becomes your newest challenge. After the weekend you make headway convincing supervisors of the wisdom of your ideas.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
New ideas need polishing before they can be presented for approval. Romance takes a swing in the right direction. Awards or rewards are likely by Wednesday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Economy is keyword; remember that your time is worth money, too. Secretive happenings are scattered through the week. Loved one is becoming more open minded now.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Injured relationship is on the mend, but you can't rush the healing process. Weekend is a lucky money time, but the accent is on common sense and logic.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Outstanding week for performers and inventors — you can really make your mark now. Romance is on the back burner as you and partner have difficulties coordinating busy schedules.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Week accents consumer research; examine workmanship and guarantees before making major purchases. Educational projects favored. Attention to details is worth all the trouble.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Delayed activities may be stirring again if you take the reigns. Don't accept professional advice blindly; seek out the answers to all of your questions.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Week focuses on theme of change. If switching vacation plans, though, be sure facts are current. Family negotiating is touchy, with all participants being very hard to please.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Unusual hobby brings you in touch with interesting people. Improved lifestyle change begins this week. Money-making opportunity may have quite a few strings attached.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Several family-related decisions to be made now; some on your own, some in partnership. Correspondence from abroad can influence holiday plans. Rebellious streak may surface on weekend.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Friendships dominate your time; you might be nursing a friend's bruised ego or planning a super surprise party. Fancy machines can prove so frustrating that you return to old-fashioned basics.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Magnanimous, enthusiastic, and highly fixed in your opinions. Emotional ups and downs stabilize in early fall. Ingenuity plus a willingness to cooperate lead to a highly productive, profitable period around the start of 1983.

BORN THIS WEEK
July 22nd, actor Jason Robards, Jr.; 23rd, director Henry Albright; 24th, actress Ruth Buzzi; 25th, composer Leroy Stanton; 26th, singer Mick Jagger; 27th, singer Bobby Gentry; 28th, actress Sally Struthers.

Richard T. Sweeney, Jr.

Named To Mass. Funeral Directors Board

Richard T. Sweeney Jr., funeral director and treasurer of the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals on Independence Ave., has been appointed to the board of directors of the Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association representing over 475 firms.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, Sweeney attended the Archbishop Williams High School and was graduated from Providence College with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in education and history.

He received his professional training in funeral service at New England Institute, where he was a 1973 Honors graduate.

He is associated in business with his father, Richard T. Sweeney, who was a co-founder with his brother (the late Francis M. Sweeney) of the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals. The business has been in operation since 1949.

Sweeney is vice president-elect of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy and a member of the corporation of the Quincy City Hospital. In addition, he holds the office of secretary of the board of managers, Quincy Public Burial Places, and is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Braintree Council 1462 and a Youth Baseball Coach for the St. John's Church Baseball League.

Sweeney is married to the former Ornella DiCenso of Rome Italy. The couple has three children.

5 Middle School Principals Appointed

By JOHN NOONAN

Five middle school principals were appointed at a special meeting of the School Committee last week.

They are: Eugene Creedon, Louis DiMartinis, Thomas Hall, Joseph Long, and Jean Ann MacLean.

The assignment of these principals to specific schools will be approved next week.

Acting School Supt. John Osterman was chairman of a special committee set up to screen and interview the 16 candidates who applied for the five posts. The finalists were recommended by Osterman for the approval of the School Committee.

Osterman was specifically designated to conduct the selection process in order to avoid any possible conflict of interest on the part of Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon whose brother Eugene was one of the candidates.

Serving with Osterman on the interview committee were:

Dr. Richard Chrystal, Director, Staff and Management Development; Dr. Carol Griffin, Director, Pupil Personnel Services; Joan

O'Malley, Quincy Education Association head representing teachers; William Phinney, Asst. Supt.; and Robert Wilson, head of the parent city wide organization.

The five middle school principals appointed by a 6 to 0 vote, Mayor Francis McCauley being absent, served in the public school system as follows: Creedon principal, Parker School; DiMartinis, principal, Beechwood Knoll; Long, principal, Webster-Quincy Pt. school; MacLean, principal, Cranch school; and Hall, assistant principal, Broad Meadows.

Bandits Get $8-9,000 At South Quincy Bank

$9,000 in cash.

Ironically, the robbery occurred one day after police had withdrawn a stakeout on the bank. They had been tipped that the bank was to be robbed Wednesday but the robbers did not show up.

The robbers were described as in their late teens or early 20s. One of them wore green surgical pants. They were carrying a nickel-plated .44 magnum pistol.

They escaped through a rear door of the bank with the money in a white burlap-type laundry bag. A car seen parked on Endecott St. at the rear of the bank was apparently the getaway car.

1,200 Seek Refund For Parking Ticket Errors

Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir, who doubles as the city's parking ticket clerk, got a letter the other day from Vicki Faust in Alexandria, Va.

She had paid $122 in parking tickets and she wanted about $80 of it back.

Miss Faust's request for a refund is the most distant received by Denvir of the more than 1,200 sent to his office since it was discovered the city was overcharging for the tickets.

Starting Nov. 1, 1981, the city was assessing a $5 surfine on top of the $2 fine. In June, Quincy District Court Judge Albert L. Kramer ruled that the penalty was illegal.

But, while 1,200 requests for refunds have been filed as of last week, Denvir has been unable to fill the requests for the simple reason that he has no money.

"Around the end of the month I'll figure out how much money we need and go to the City Council for an appropriation," he said.

"Then we'll set up a special account with specially printed checks for the refunds."

Denvir said he figures that the city will have to refund between one-third and one-half of the $220,000 that has been taken in since the city took over collections from the district court.

The highest refund request so far has been $600. Quite a few requests have been made for a $5 return on just one ticket.

Meanwhile, in spite of all the publicity, Denvir said more than 50 per cent of the persons paying finest today are still adding the $5 surfine.

As recently as July 14, he received a payment of $191 when only $61 was required. The check was returned with a form explaining the foul up and what should be done.

Denvir said unpaid tickets handed out in February were billed July 16 and those from Monday on July 23.

"The penalty has been removed from the bill," he said, "so I don't anticipate any problems with them."

And the penalty may be legal pretty soon.

The City Council adopted it June 22, this time making sure the ordinance is legal, and it is up to the state to accept to give its approval.

Mayor To Send Salary Proposals To City Council

Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to have his proposals for a possible raise in pay for the mayor and the City Council ready for presentation to the Council by the second week in August.

A special committee named by the mayor recently recommended that the mayor's salary be raised from the current $25,000 to $48,500 and the Council's stipend be boosted to $4,500.

"I don't have to go along with their recommendations," McCauley noted.

He said he received the committee's recommendations in a brief, one page letter and that a full report with backup material was promised him by tomorrow (Friday).

The City Council will have a special summer meeting to consider several urgent matters and McCauley said he will add his salary recommendations to the agenda.

"I prefer the week of Aug. 9," he said.

The committee also found that the current two year term for the mayor is fine and the staff in the mayor's office is adequate.

Board Vote Next Week On Bar Hours Rollback

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The great debate over a proposed rollback of local liquor establishment hours from 2 to 1 a.m. should end in a decision next week.

And it appears that decision could still go either way.

The License Board will once again hear both sides of the issue at a special meeting Tuesday, Aug. 3, at 10 a.m. A vote will follow.

According to City Clerk John Gillis, anyone interested in the issue will be allowed to speak.

There may be a time limit, such as five minutes per speaker, said Gillis.

The number of speakers will not be limited, said Gillis, in fairness to the new board member, Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey, who appears to hold the deciding vote.

Dr. Hussey, who replaced former Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, said that she has not decided how she will vote on the question, and wants to keep an open mind for the upcoming hearing.

"I think I owe that to the city of Quincy," said Dr. Hussey who explained that she will listen to

Bacteria Warnings But: No More City Beach Closings

By TOM HENSHAW

There will be no more beach closings in Quincy unless the bacteria count gets way out of hand.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey are starting a policy of keeping the beaches open, warning of bacteria counts and permitting the public to use the beaches at its own discretion.

"This business of closing beaches, opening them and closing them again is very confusing," said McCauley. "It's hard to enforce, too. We're not equipped to go down and pull people off the beaches."

Five salt water bathing beaches were closed this week because of high coliform bacteria counts but it was expected that they might be reopened Wednesday morning when the results of a new count are available.

The closed beaches and their bacteria counts were Perry Beach, Houghs Neck, 1,200; Merrymount, 15,000; Wollaston Beach at Sachem St., 1,200; Wollaston Beach at Milton St., 3,000; and Nickerson Beach, Squantum, 5,000.

An arbitrary count of 700 is considered unhealthy.

Last week all but three of the beaches were closed and all the salt water swimming spots in the city were closed for varying periods of time in June.

The cause of the beach pollution problem is sewage overflow at the MDC's Nut Island facility and the Moon Island plant, which comes on line when the Deer Island facility across the harbor is overtaxed.

The MDC is under orders of the U.S. Environmental Agency to correct violations of its permit to treat sewage at Nut Island in 90 days or face fines of $25,000 and a year in jail for the responsible administrator.

Mayor McCauley assigned City Solicitor William B. Golden to represent the city at all all-day hearing today (Thursday) held by the MDC in Faneuil Hall, Boston.

The purpose of the hearing is to obtain testimony from interested parties on siting alternatives for waste water treatment plants in the Boston Harbor-Quincy Bay area.

Golden is chairman of the Mayor's Water Pollution Control Task Force.

The mayor said Golden will speak in support of a plan called Option 8, which would eliminate Nut Island as a treatment plant and convert it into a pumping station which would eliminate discharge into Quincy Bay.

Golden called the siting decision by the MDC the most important decision of the decade in regard to Quincy's pollution problems.

McCauley said the new policy of keeping beaches open with a warning to the public is not dangerous unless the bacteria counts goes phenomenally high, like Wollaston Beach last month at 34,000.

He received the award at Caruso's Diplomat, Saugus, before a crowd of over 1400 people. Spring Construction Start Possible For Burgin Pkwy. Ext.

By TOM HENSHAW
Construction work on the long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension may get underway as early as next April or May.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said this week engineering reports will be filed with the state agencies by Aug. 15 and action approving or delaying the project can be expected in four to six weeks.

"If we run into any problems with the approvals," said the mayor, "there could possibly be a delay of another 18 to 24 months."

McCauley himself is going into Boston to meet with officials of the State Department of Public Works and "express our concerns that the extension should go through as soon as possible."

Some concern has been expressed already that a new environmental impact study will have to be made of the $5 million project to connect downtown Quincy with expressway ramps in South Quincy.

Problems reportedly have sprung up with traffic impact on the intersection of Granite St. and the extension now that the proposed East-West Connector has been ruled out.

McCauley and Planning Director James Lydon met Monday morning with Engineers William Moore and Frank Chin to plan a campaign to convince state officials to move swiftly to approve the extension.

"Bill Moore is continuing design work in anticipation of approval so that the bidding process can be done in time for a spring start on construction," said McCauley.

"That is, if we don't have to do the impact statement all over again."

Brownell Calls For Moon Island Chlorination System

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has asked the Boston Water & Sewer Commission to install a chlorination system on Moon Island, near the Squantum section of Quincy.

He said the system would mitigate the pollution of raw sewage discharges caused by back-ups from the MDC operated Deer Island Sewage Treatment Plant in Winthrop.

"The beaches in Quincy and surrounding communities have been closed off and on all summer as a result of these outrageous discharges," Brownell said. "It is incumbent upon the MDC and the Boston Water and Sewer Commission to work out a solution and take immediate action on the ever increasing pollution in Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor. Area residents can no longer put up with the consistent discharges. Chlorination is the least that should be done."

The Moon Island facility was originally designed to hold backed-up sewage until primary treatment could take place at Deer Island, Brownell noted. In 1968, when Deer Island was updated, the holding tanks at Moon Island were to become superfluous. The holding tanks are now inoperable, but the deterioration of the Deer Island Sewage Treatment Plant has necessitated the continued use of Moon Island as a discharge sight.

Up until two years ago, discharge only took place about 15 times a year. The last couple of years, however, the discharges have occurred about 90 times a year, Brownell said.

The Boston Water and Sewer Commission does have a permit from the Environmental Protection Agency to discharge sewage. The permit, however, is based on normal operating conditions at Deer Island.

Houghs Neck Housebreak

Theresa Howley of Ratchford Circle, Houghs Neck, reported to police Sunday that a home computer, six tape cartridges, a stereo set and a gold necklace were stolen from her home by thieves who possibly entered through a rear window.

City Gets Christmas Island Beautified At No Expense

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A city, state and American flag will soon be flying from the newly landscaped and flower bedecked Christmas Island diagonally across from the new Stop & Shop Building on Hancock St., in Quincy Square.

"And its not going to cost the city or taxpayers money," says Kelly who expects that flag raising ceremonies will be held in August.

Improvements for the island which were all donated, got underway about three months ago said Kelly, who has been working on the plans with George White, chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee.

Kelly and White thought the island, dedicated to the late George Fay, should be utilized all year long, not just at Christmas when it is decorated with lights for the holidays.

They also thought the flags would be appropriate in the historic district which includes United First Parish Church, and would tie in with all the improvements in the intersection. The three poles used for Christmas lights have been extended into flag poles by George Cavanagh of Four Seasons Decorators Inc. The city flag came from City Clerk John Gillis. The American flag, from Cong. Brian Donnelly's office, flew over the White House.

Members of the Germantown Garden Club planted flowers and repaired the former traffic officer's box.

Campanelli Brothers sodded, loamed and spread bark on the island. The water dept. will water CHRISTMAS ISLAND, Quincy Sq. is undergoing a beautification process and will soon have three flags flying from the site on Hancock St. City Councillor Leo Kelly, center, who organized the project along with George White of the Christmas Festival Committee, discusses plans with Daniel Vecchione, left, of the Quincy Water Department, and Manuel Leite, right, Campanelli foreman.

the grass.

City Paint painted the fence and traffic box.

"We want to thank all those who donated their time," said Kelly who mentioned the Quincy Police details who directed traffic while the work was going on, Quincy Water Dept., Tony Siciliano, Paul Anderson of the Public Works Dept., as well as the above named. "We think the island looks really good," said Kelly, "we're pleased with it."

Pickets Withdrawn From Quincy Center Plaza

A picket line set up last week at the new Quincy Center Plaza building in downtown Quincy was called off by the Building Trades Council after two days.

The Council claimed that Campanelli Inc. had violated an agreement with the unions to pay area standard wages and employ union people in construction of the 10-story building.

"The picket line was only informational," said Carmine D'Olimpio, president of the Building Trades Council. "The job of laying stones in the plaza will be finished in two days."

D'Olimpio said electricians working on the building refused to cross the picket Tuesday "so we took the picket line out to avoid any problems."

D'Olimpio said the unions complaint was that the workers laying the stones were laborers who were not paid area standard wages.

Spokesmen for Campanelli were unavailable for comment.

Average Rate At QCH Now $224 Per Day

It costs an average of $224 a day to be sick at City Hospital. And it has for the last four weeks.

It was disclosed at last week's Board of Managers meeting that new and higher patient rates at the hospital were approved by the State Rate Setting Commission July 15, effective July 1.

The cost of a semi-private room at City Hospital now starts at $222, a private room costs $234 and a bed in the intensive care unit is going for $500 daily.

The Rate Setting Commission, reviewing the hospital budget for 1983, agreed that the rate hike was made necessary by inflation, employee raises and the cost of new programs.

Eaton Suit Set Aug. 9

Federal Judge Robert Keeton has set Monday, Aug. 9, as the trial date for Owen Eaton's suit against Mayor Francis X. McCauley charging violation of his civil rights in his ouster as water superintendent.

Judge Keeton refused Wednesday to issue a temporary restraining order that would have prevented McCauley and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson from merging the Water and Sewer Divisions.

Hearing on Eaton's bid for a preliminary injunction to prohibit his dismissal also was set for Aug. 9 at 9 a.m. in Federal District Court in Boston.

Eaton's suit charges that the proposed termination of the water superintendent's job was politically motivated and violated his freedom of speech and freedom of political association.

Anderson and the city of Quincy also are defendants in the suit.

Kerry Would Focus On Crime, Assets

By TOM HENSHAW

Like all who have aspired to be lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, from Thomas Cushing in 1780 to Thomas P. O'Neill III, John F. Kerry has spent a good deal of campaign time trying to convince the electorate that the No. 2 man can do something besides take the governor's pulse every morning.

In fact, Kerry has several areas staked out for himself as lieutenant governor should lightning strike in the Sept. 14 Democratic primary.

"Crime is getting worse and worse," said Kerry, who put in two years as first assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, on a recent visit to The Quincy Sun. "It would make sense for a lieutenant governor who knows law enforcement to help in that area. I ran one of the largest law enforcement agencies in the state. It would be a shame to waste a job like the lieutenant governor by giving him nothing to do."

Kerry said he would also like to get involved as liaison between the state government and the cities and towns "getting answers to questions on the cherry sheet or federal grants."

"One of the major problems of the state is the lack of attention paid to the assets of the cities and towns," he said.

"Sewers, water mains, bridges are desperately in need of repair. We need someone to prioritize and set up a funding system for the cities and towns who are seeing their services crumble around them."

Kerry said he does have a preference between Gov. Edward J. King and former Gov. Michael Dukakis for a running mate on the Democratic ticket "but I don't want to get involved in it publicly."

"I intend to work with either one and be an effective partner," he said.

Obviously, the post of lieutenant governor is one to be used as a stepping stone to higher office but Kerry, who once ran unsuccessfully for Congress, said he has no plans for future campaigns.

"I want to get elected, do a good job and something will come along," he said.

Kerry, who commanded a patrol boat in the Vietnam war and won the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and three Purple Hearts, first came to public attention as a leader of Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

He said he has heard very little about that once controversial subject during the current campaign.

"I find a tremendous receptivity among the people," he said. "Most of them have come to understand that the war was a mistake. Those of us who stood up and said so at the time have earned the respect of the people."

"I was never against the people who fought in the war. I always felt the individual soldier made sacrifices on as high a level as the soldiers in any war. The mistake was the political direction of the war."

"I think there's good rapport between the generations now."

Will Gillis Run?

Mayor Francis McCauley, it seems, shouldn't count on a free ride to a second term next year.

There are some political observers, as we reported here last week, who really think McCauley may not have an opponent.

Or, only token opposition.

But hardly had The Sun hit the streets when other observers reacted: "Don't believe it."

Although McCauley seems to be having a smooth ride so far, they think things could get quite bumpy between now and next year.

Implementation of revaluation and a few more controversies like the ousters of Health Commissioner Dr. Robert McKeogh, Water Supt. Owen Eaton could be strung together as campaign ammunition.

And by that time, if Ronald Reagan doesn't have the country back on steady feet economic conservatives may be out of style. Even at the local level.

Right now, there is one well known figure reportedly giving serious consideration to running against McCauley. That's City Clerk John Gillis.

A number of people — and not just the run of the mill political people — are not only urging him to run but are ready to back it up with campaign money.

Gillis, of course, could take a leave of absence from his job to campaign. If he won, he'd be the new mayor. If he lost, he would return to his city clerk's job. So, he would have nothing to lose.

But Election, 1983 is a long way off and a lot of things can happen and a lot of things can change.

Whether Gillis actually would run remains to be seen. He would be a formidable challenger — certainly not token opposition — for McCauley.

MAYOR McCAULEY brought a part of Quincy with him on his recent trip to Ireland.

He bestowed honorary Quincy citizenships to Mayor Patrick McNamara of Galway who will visit here in September and Lord Mayor Hugh Coveny of Cork and presented both with copies of The Quincy Sun's recent Historic Quincy Supplement.

Coveny, looking over the supplement, told McCauley: "This is something I've wanted to do here." (We'd be glad to do it for you, Your Honor.)

McCauley and his son Michael, stopped in Lugan, south of Belfast where, he met cousins and visited the home where his father was born. McCauley left copies of the "Historic Quincy" supplement with them.

Incidentally, Quincy's history is known by some in Ireland. McCauley was chatting with a man he met and told him he was from Quincy. "Quincy," the man said, "isn't that where the two Adams presidents were born?"

DAVE GARROWAY, the first and long-time popular host of the "Today" show on NBC-TV, who died a suicide last week, was always fond of Quincy.

GARROWAY

As a youngster in the 1920's, he lived on Ruggles St., Quincy Point and attended the Pollard School for a short time.

The family lived here while his father, who was in the Merchant Marine, was waiting for a ship being built at the Quincy Shipyard.

I met Garroway some years back when we were both covering the arrival of the Mayflower II in Plymouth and told him I had heard he once lived in Quincy. "Oh, yes," he said. "I lived on Ruggles St. I have some very fond memories of Quincy."

Anyone who knew him was saddened by his death.

LONG TIME FRIEND Ken Fallon is retiring from radio station WJDA after 28 years service. He was vice president, sales manager and a director of the station. Some 200 friends and business acquaintances attended a retirement reception for him Tuesday at the Neighborhood Club given by James (Jay) Asher, head of WJDA.

FALLON

Incidentally, Ken is hardly the rocking chair and slippers type. He has plans that will keep him busy.

QUINCY, which has more people than any other community in Norfolk County, also has more dogs.

County Treasurer James Collins reports the city's canine population at 3,637 of which 2,034 are male, 238 female and 1,363 spayed females. The county's dog population is 48,247.

Quincy Quiz

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week. Helene McPeck of 91 Dundee Rd., Squantum, wins a T-shirt. Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one person in a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no persons may win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the city's affirmative action officer?
2. When the Fore River shipyard was founded in 1883 it was known as: the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.? the Bethlehem Steel Co.? the Fore River Engine Co.?
3. Hickory Rd. is located in what section of the city?
4. True or false: The circle at the Quincy Point approach to the Fore River Bridge is known as the James A. Burke Circle.
5. What well-known Quincy landmark is located at 465 Centre St., South Quincy?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Donald W. Hansen is the city personnel director.
2. Research by H. Hobart Holly, historian of the Quincy Historical Society, indicated that the first name of Capt. Wollaston, the original settler of Quincy, was Richard.
3. Plymouth Ave. is in the West Quincy section of the city.
4. True. The city of Quincy gets its drinking water from the Metropolitan District Commission system.
5. St. John the Baptist Church is located at 44 School St.

Adams Building Work Could Start Friday

Rehabilitation work on the century-old Adams Building in downtown Quincy could start as early as tomorrow (Friday).

The city's Industrial Development Finance Authority is expected to vote its approval today (Thursday). If it does, said Planning Director James Lydon, work could start tomorrow.

The vote of the city authority was unanimous with members Walter J. Hannon, George Montilio and Vito Barresi attending the 10-minute meeting.

Services Directory For Mentally Retarded

Mentally retarded adults and their families will benefit from a new directory just published by the South Shore Mental Health Center, 77 Parkway, Quincy.

Developed by the Center's MR Resource Team, which serves mentally retarded adults in Quincy, Milton and Randolph, the new directory gives detailed information on agencies in these three communities which provide services for mentally retarded adults.

Steven Spangler, MR Resource Team program director, said that many mentally retarded adults are not making use of available services because "these services are not known to them."

The directory lists some 35 agencies located in Quincy, Milton and Randolph. "There are other services for mentally retarded adults," states Spangler, "which are outside these communities but we felt it was important to let people know about those which are closest to home."

There is no charge for a single copy of the new directory. Additional copies are available at $5 each.

Police Visibility Sought On Independence Ave.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has asked for increased visibility of police in the area of the Friendly's Ice Cream

QCH Chapel

Expedited

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We are happy to report that QCH Director James Lowenhagen is now expediting the placement of the QCH Chapel.

The SQCA has worked six years on this happy endeavor. In answer to our oft-asked question "Is there room for God at the QCH?" - Mr. Lowenhagen said "Yes". Not years from now - but soon.

Kudos to Mr. Lowenhagen! We are now content that God will bestow additional blessings upon The Quincy City Hospital.

Kathleen Vejvoda Talented Writer Central Student Winner In National Writing Contest

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Despite the serious cutbacks in staff, there are still some success stories coming out of the Quincy Public Schools.

One of them involves Kathleen Vejvoda, a 14-year-old student who recently won a top prize in a national writing contest.

Kathleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Vejvoda, won fourth award for a junior short story in the 1982 Scholastic Writing Awards which had more than 25,000 students in grades 7 to 12 as entrants.

Her story, "The Scotch Mist, a Horror Story", is the entertaining tale of a young girl who goes with her family to live in a lighthouse in Scotland surrounded by "a mysterious mist."

The story's pace and descriptions are all the more impressive in light of the writer's tender age.

Kathleen, who will enter the 10th grade at Quincy High School in the fall, learned that her story had won when she was home sick from school one day recently.

"It didn't hit me at first," says the pretty, brown eyed teen-ager, "but I was excited afterwards."

The story's success was all the more notable in that it was originally written as an assignment in a ninth grade class at Central Junior High School, not for the contest. Kathleen used as background an article she had read on events at the Scottish lighthouse which she has visited.

With the story's success have come invitations from Seventeen Magazine to submit articles, and from Janet DiTullio of the Quincy Public Schools to record "The Scotch Mist" for the Dial-A-Story program.

The only sad part of the experience was that Kathleen never got to share her success with a teacher who really encouraged her with her writing. Miss Lorraine Sholler, who died shortly before the awards were announced.

"I feel really badly that she died before I could tell her," says Kathleen who has attended advanced placement classes since the fifth and sixth grade.

She has also been encouraged by Mrs. Marsha Hughes.

"It has definitely helped being in the special classes," says Kathleen, "I've had more opportunities."

"We could get more into creativity."

Success isn't new to the high honor roll student.

Kathleen won an essay contest on the blizzard of '78, and an oratorical contest while in the seventh grade.

Last May, she attended a model United Nations Conference in Worcester at Assumption College and was the youngest student there to win an honorable mention.

She also has excelled while attending school in Ireland during visits to her mother Josephine's native land along with her sister Barbara, 15, and James, 9.

During one visit, she wrote down her experiences while taking a ferry to England and her poem was published in the Midland Tribune of Ireland for which she was paid two pounds, or about $4. Kathleen has also had a letter to the editor published in The Patriot Ledger on Ireland.

In addition to writing, Kathleen also enjoys drawing cartoons, hiking, biking and tennis.

But it's her writing that it seems will most influence her future.

"It comes easily," she says, "but I have to be in the mood."

When she finishes her schooling, she hopes to get a job that involves writing.

"Possibly at a newspaper or magazine," she muses.

"I don't want to go out there thinking I can take on the world," she says, "but I don't want to just give up."

"It's something I have to do. She adds enthusiastically,

"maybe in 10 years, I'll write a novel."

Kids' Playground Fun Curtailed By WPA 'Vacations'

Ten experienced playground instructors were dismissed under a new Works Progress Administration (WPA) rule that required workers employed for more than 18 months to be given 30 days unpaid vacation before Sept. 1.

Franklin B. Mitchell, longtime supervisor of playground activities, said the city's summer play programs for thousands of children will be crippled unless someone comes up with a plan for immediate relief.

Mitchell said he may appeal to the City Council for a special emergency appropriation to pay the key instructors needed for the city's 21 playgrounds. The WPA workers supplemented the 24 girls who were paid by the city.

POLLUTION PROGRAM

Relief appeared in sight for Quincy in its long fight against polluted beaches when the Legislature's Ways and Means Committee recommended a $7 million program for the treatment of sewage before it is dumped in the bay.

The plan called for construction of huge sewage treatment plants at Nut Island, Houghs Neck, and Moon Island, Squantum, which leaders of the pollution fight said would eliminate about 80 per cent of local pollution.

Nut Island is the outlet for the South Metropolitan sewage system while Moon Island handles the Boston system.

"Moon Island is undoubtedly the real and worst offender in polluting our waters," said Rep. Joseph L. Whiton of Quincy.

NEW COURT HOURS FOUGHT

Members of the Quincy Bar Association voted their opposition to a plan to open Quincy District Court at 9 a.m. instead of 9:30 a.m. President George W. Arbuckle said the vote was scheduled for 9 a.m. but most members did not show up until 9:20 a.m.

ENC Receives $150,000 Challenge Grant For Arts Center

Eastern Nazarene College announces the awarding of a challenge grant of $150,000 from The Kresge Foundation for construction of the Edith F. Cove Fine Arts Center.

The new building is currently under construction and will house the departments of music and communication arts, with completion expected by late fall 1982. Total cost of the project is $1.4 million.

After considering 1,449 proposals, The Kresge Foundation of Troy, Mich. has awarded a total of $28,260,000 to 132 charitable organizations in 32 states and the District of Columbia. Most of the recipients had already raised initial funds toward their respective projects and must meet the challenge of raising the remaining money for completion of the project in order to receive the challenge grant money from The Kresge Foundation.

The Cove Fine Arts Center is being funded by the Nazarene Churches of the Eastern Educational region, alumni and friends of ENC and by generous gifts from business friends in the Quincy - South Shore area.

The Kresge Foundation was created by the personal gifts of Sebastian S. Kresge. Foundation grants are made to institutions in the areas of higher education, health care and related services, the arts and humanities, social services, science, conservation and religion.

Dr. Stephen Nease, president of ENC, expressed his gratitude to The Kresge Foundation and to all of the others whose contributions are making possible a much needed building.

Quincy Camp Fire Concludes Year

Quincy Camp Fire concluded activities for the 1981-1982 year this month with a Grand Council Fire at Wollaston Baptist Church.

More than 100 Camp Fire members and their families attended the event. Camp Fire youth were presented awards earned during the past year.

Theme of this year's ceremonial was citizenship. Camp Fire youth and their leaders entered the hall singing, "This Land is My Land" and sat in the traditional council circle.

One member from each club placed a log on the symbolic camp fire and spoke briefly about good citizenship. Town coordinator Jan Burton led the young people and their families in a series of patriotic songs.

Leader Gail Freel presented emblems to the 60 Camp Fire members working on the current Camp Fire Good Citizenship project (endorsed by Mayor Francis McCauley). "Save Quincy's Historic Sites." The red, white, and blue emblem was designed by 7 year old Blue Bird Rebecca Chin.

Leader Stephanie Mahn spoke briefly about the recently completed "Help DOVE" project. She read from a letter sent by DOVE's president Rosemary Kirwin commending Camp Fire youth as "individuals this country, your parents, leaders, and friends can point to as exemplary youth."

The 87 members who contributed to the project were each presented with a copy of the letter and an emblem designed by 14 year old Discovery Club member Cheryl Hanson.

Four girls from Doreen Smith's Blue Bird Club came forward with their parents for the traditional Fly Up ceremony which graduates Blue Birds to Adventure Club. Melissa Fontana, Katherine Raymond, Anca and Raluca Barbusescu each received a Camp Fire tie and slide, and their Fly Up certificate and emblem. They joined the audience in singing, "It's Time to Fly."

Other awards presented included the South Shore Council Trail Seeker and Wood Gatherer emblems, Who Bird, Star Bird, and Solo Flight emblems, Progression in Outdoor Living patches, swimming honors, Salute to Hospitalized Veterans emblems, Celebrate Camp Fire emblems, tenure awards, and Honor Beads.

Leaders receiving tenure awards were: Doreen Smith, Ginni Nickerson, Linda Ruggere, and Elizabeth Hurley, all three years; Kathy Zanardelli, five years; and Noella Garrity, 10 years.

Jan Burton and Stephanie Mahn organized the event. Linda Ruggere made the new Quincy Camp Fire banner, which was presented during the evening.

Quincy Camp Fire will resume activities in September with a citywide Membership Drive.

Downs Wollaston Morrisette Snaps 5-Game Losing Streak

Morrisette Legion's baseball team snapped a five-game losing streak Monday night when it defeated Wollaston, 5-2, but has been virtually eliminated from the Zone 6 race.

Two Morrisette losses, both in the final inning, Sunday just about wrapped up the Zone 6 title for Weymouth, as Morrisette dropped to 12-9.

Chris Bunker made his first pitching start for Morrisette Monday and held Wollaston to three hits, striking out seven and walking only two as Wollaston fell to 7-12.

Wollaston scored single runs in the first and seventh innings, while Morrisette scored once in the first and clinched the victory with four runs in the fourth. Vin Cristiani was the losing pitcher.

Mike Notarangelo and Brian Reale had two hits each for Morrisette.

Sunday afternoon Morrisette overcame a 5-1 deficit to tie Randolph but lost, 6-5, when Randolph pushed across a run in the seventh inning.

Trailing, 5-1, in the top of the seventh at Randolph Morrisette tied the bases with one out and Jim O'Toole's single and an outfield error cleared the bases. John Balzano followed with a hit that scored the tying run. But, in the bottom half of the inning, Bob Rozelle singled home the winning run.

O'Toole, Reale and Marty McLaughlin had two hits each for Morrisette.

Sunday night Morrisette dropped a 4-3 decision at Holbrook when the winners scored in the bottom of the seventh.

Morrisette had a 3-1 lead in the fifth inning but Holbrook scored a run in the bottom of the inning and tied it in the sixth.

In its previous game Morrisette had lost to Weymouth, 9-4.

Wollaston raced out to a 9-0 lead after three innings and held on to top Hingham, 13-9.

Andy Eames was the winning pitcher with Joe Conte saving the win in relief.

Jackie Brown's bases - loaded triple was the key blow in Wollaston's six-run second inning. Steve Hogan had three hits and two RBI and Rob McElaney tripled in two runs.

The Legion season was due to end last Monday but the many rainouts resulted in games piling up. The season now is scheduled to end tonight (Thursday).

Rice and Paul Motta.

Lawn Bowling Tourney Aug. 2

The American Lawn Bowling Association's 37th Eastern Division Tournament will be held Aug. 2-7 at the Quincy Lawn Bowling Club at Merrymount Park (Ryan Park off Southern Artery), and the Cunningham Park Lawn Bowling Club in Milton.

All events begin at 9 a.m. with triples Aug. 2 and 3, pairs Aug. 4 and 5 and singles Aug. 6 and 7.

The public is invited to watch the leading lawn bowlers in the East competing.

Lawn bowlers from clubs in New York State, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Massachusetts will compete. Alex Dakers is general chairman of the tournament and other committee members are Sam Drevitch, Jack Lucey, Bobbie

Abp. Williams Girls Tennis Team Finishes 11-2

The Abp. Williams High School girls' tennis team enjoyed another highly successful season this spring as Coach Carol Oflia's team finished with an 11-2 record.

All of the players did well throughout the season and lost only close matches to Marian and Notre Dame Academy.

Laurie Shea, taking over Marcy Cuniff's number one position, ended up with a personal 11-2 record. Dana Loeb of Quincy, the number two player, also had an 11-2 mark.

Colleen Hegarty, the number three player, displayed outstanding skills all season long.

The first doubles team was made up of freshman Laura O'Brien and sophomore Amy Fullerton. The second team consisted of Laura MacLean and Amy Grzybinski, who also had a superior season.

The team qualified for the state tournament but lost a close match to Dartmouth in the first round. Shea won, 6-1, 6-2, and Loeb also won, 6-4, 6-1.

Two other Quincy girls, Julie Clifford and Tricia Hannon, also played key roles in the team's success.

Morrisette Moves Closer To Playoff Berth

Morrisette moved nearer a playoff berth in the Babe Ruth League with two wins during the past week.

Morrisette scored five runs in the third and defeated Bryan Post VFW, 7-4, with John Cristiani the winning pitcher. He allowed four hits and two earned runs.

Morrisette took a 5-0 lead in the top of the third, the key blow being a two-run double by Cristiani followed by run-scoring singles by Rick Kelley, Jack Outerbridge and Paul Canavan. VFW scored twice in the bottom half on a two-run double by Erik Roukey.

Morrisette scored a run in the fourth and added its final run in the seventh, while VFW scored two unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Canavan had two for three and Outerbridge two for four, including a double, and two RBI. Ed Flynn, Cristiani and Kelley also had hits. Neil Hatfield played well at third base and Outerbridge sparked in center field. For VFW Roukey had two hits and Steve Austin and Richie Petinelli one each.

Morrisette rolled over Granite City Electric, 15-3, with Outerbridge pitching seven-hit ball, striking out seven and walking just one.

Morrisette bunched all its runs in four innings, scoring two in the second, five in the third, six in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Chris Doyle was three for four, including a triple; Canavan was two for four, including a three-run homer, and Kelley, Outerbridge, Hatfield and Connolly also had hits.

Braves Hand Copelands Worst Loss

Fred Cobban, Bill Coleman and Paulie Schworm belted home runs as the Atlantic Braves scored 11 runs in the third inning and eight more in the fourth for a 27-5 victory over the West Quincy Copelands, possibly the most one-sided win in the history of the Quincy Park League.

The Braves, battling the Sagamore Plebes for first place in the league, collected 28 hits off three Copeland pitchers, including five hits in seven trips for George Beebe and Conroy and four-for-six by Joe Driscoll, including a three base hit.

Richie Ryan coasted the nine-inning distance for the Braves, scattering nine hits and striking out five.

The Braves lineup included: G. Beebe ss, Donovan lf, J. O'Brien lf, Rooney cf, Conroy 2b, Driscoll 3b, R. O'Brien 1b, Coleman rf, Schworm rf, Cobban c, Ryan p.

DESMOND WINS HILL DUEL

Fran Desmond pitched a six-hitter for his 11th win of the season as Jeppy Saunders' Fore River team edged Taunton Lumber, 2-1, at Adams Field to clinch a South Shore A League playoff berth and a chance to defend the championship it won in 1938.

Taunton pitcher Bob Behn, who was seeking his 14th victory, allowed Fore River only four hits.

The Shipbuilders scored both their runs in the bottom of the sixth. Fred Cavanaugh and Frank Courtney walked and Clappy Willridge doubled, scoring Cavanaugh. Jay Desmond grounded out and Courtney scored while the Lumbermen were trying to run down Willridge between second and third.

The Fore River lineup included: Bowles ss, Greenhalgh lf, Cavanaugh cf, Courtney rf, Willridge 2b, J. Desmond 1b, Spillaine 3b, Shapiro c, F. Desmond p.

MAYOR'S BOAT WINS

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin's Claire II, with Russ Smollett at the helm and the mayor himself at the mainsheet scored an exciting four-second victory over Hosea White's Peanut in the Adams Interclub competition at the second annual Quincy Bay Race Week.

Helmsman Fred Goeller tacked Peanut about 100 yards from the finish line and appeared to have the advantage but at the last possible second Smollett turned Claire around on her heel and shot across the line a few yards ahead of Peanut.

Claire II was timed in one hour, 43 minutes and Peanut in one hour, 43 minutes, four seconds.

ROOD, FITZGERALD WIN

Louise Rood and Maurice Fitzgerald defeated Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKinnon by a decisive 6-1 margin in the deciding set to win the mixed doubles title at the Faxon Tennis Tournament. Rood's retrieves and Fitzgerald's net game demolished the opposition.

The McKinnons had scored a mild upset in the semi-finals when they eliminated the top-seeded team of Edith Pyyny and Fred Toon, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

GARCIA BOWS IN BROOKLYN

Quincy featherweight Sammy Garcia, giving away six pounds in a scheduled eight-rounder, had to quit after one minute and four seconds of the seventh round in his fight with Maxie Shapiro of New York in Brooklyn. Garcia weighed 122½; Shapiro 129.

YACHT ARBITER CHOSEN

Walter D. Lane, a veteran racing official from South Boston, was named to decide the winner of the Jack Russell Memorial Trophy series after the Wollaston Yacht Club crew, skippered by Capt. Barry Carleton, finished 2½ points ahead amid a welter of protests.

WOLLASTON EAGLES PREVAIL

Joe Rossi banged out a double and two singles and drove in three runs and Russ "Lefty" Forbush pitched a six-hitter to lead the Wollaston Eagles to a 6-5 victory over the West Quincy Pals in a Park League game on rain-swept Adams Field.

SMITH IN RING DRAW

Irish Johnny Smith, the Quincy boxer making a comeback after several reverses, battled Tommy Zano of New York to an eight-round draw at the Auditorium in Kingston, N.Y. Smith knocked Zano down in the fourth and again for a nine-count in the seventh.

SPORTS BITS '39

Jeffrey went two-for-two at the plate to lead the Montclair Boys Club to a 3-2 win over the Squantum Athletics at Moses Field. . . . Fastballer Nan Pinkham set the Squantum Racketeers down with five hits in leading his Braintree Cardinals to a 1-0 victory in a South Shore B League game. . . . Pryor Hall was leading the Quincy Comets in batting with a .456 average. . . . Muriel Moran outplayed Betty Nugent, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3 to win the WPA-Park Department tennis title at O'Rourke Field.

Burgin, Foley Set Pace In Playoffs

Following weekend Junior Baseball League playoff activity, Burgin Platter, the American League champion with the league's best record, and Foley Plymouth-Chrysler have 2-0 records, Rotary and VFW are 1-1 and Boston Gear, the National League champion, and Kiwanis have been eliminated with two losses.

Burgin started playoff action with a 9-1 romp over Rotary with Tom McDonald the winning pitcher. He pitched five-hit ball, struck out 16 and walked only two.

Burgin took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Brian Mosher reached on an error, Tom McDonald singled and Mark DiMattio singled. It added three in the second with two outs when Steve Romano and Billy Warren walked, Tom McDonald singled, Robbie McDonald doubled and DiMattio singled. Rotary scored its lone run in the third when Kevin McDougall doubled, Mike Mullaney doubled and Billy McDougall singled.

Burgin added four runs in the fifth when Wayne Chambers and Bob Thomas singled, Romano and Mosher walked and DiMattio doubled for his fourth hit.

Burgin topped Boston Gear, 9-5, with DiMattio winning his eighth straight game. He allowed five hits, struck out seven and walked three.

Gear got off to a quick 2-0 lead but Burgin came right back with four runs in the second as Chambers reached on an error, Billy Murphy singled, Thomas and Steve Nieters walked, Tom McDonald was hit by a pitch, DiMattio walked and Robbie McDonald walked. Gear scored a run in the fourth to move to within a run but Burgin scored three more when Tom McDonald homered to center field, DiMattio singled, John Quilan reached on an error, Chambers walked and Billy Murphy singled for his third hit. Burgin scored twice more in the fifth as Tom McDonald singled, Robbie McDonald doubled, Dave Santosoosso walked and Chambers singled. Gear added two runs in the top of the sixth.

Reynolds Hits 3 Homers To Pace Castaways

The Castaways defeated the Bunnies, 14-8, in the Houghs Neck Women's Softball League as Jayne Reynolds hit three home runs, including a grand slam. Laura Miller made several fine plays at shortstop for the winners. Donna Brill at third base and Terri Provost at first played strong defense for the Bunnies.

The Castaways also downed the Neckers, 19-10, to take over first place with Michele Hebb, Sheena Giggly and Jeanne Reynolds pace the attack. For the Neckers Sandy O'Hare pitched well and Mary Gallagher and Yvette Shaw shone on defense.

The Bunnies hopped all over the Seagals, 18-3, as Ruthie Galligan hit a home run and Maureen Maher had a homer and a triple. Nancy Carmody was the winning pitcher. For the Seagals Mary Kamb hit a homer and double and Rose Sheehan and Marissa DeAngelo played will on defense.

Elks Win, Lose

The Quincy Elks baseball team, which has found the going rough in the South Shore Coast League this season, broke even in two games last week.

Jack McInnis was a one-man show as the Elks edged Hanover, 3-2, for their fifth victory of the season.

McInnis pitched a three-hitter, drove in a run with a triple and started a triple play in the first inning.

He gave up two first inning singles and both runners moved up on a wild pitch. The next batter popped up an attempted squeeze bunt, which was caught by McInnis, who threw to third to double off the lead runner and the runner on second was also caught to complete the triple play.

Brian Condon and Steve

Millane had two hits each and Bob Bolter drove in the winning run with a sixth inning single.

Sunday the Elks bowed to the Weymouth Elks, 7-2, as Weymouth virtually clinched another league championship.

Miller Buckley Win Thissell Memorial Tourney

For North Quincy basketball coach Ed Miller and Quincy Junior College basketball coach Brian Buckley the fall and winter months mean practice on a hard wood floor.

But during the summer the two coaches do most of their practicing on the golf course and recently they teamed for a net 57 to win the Tom Thissell Memorial Golf Tournament at Furnace Brook, topping Tom Ashmanskus and Al Cleaves by one stroke.

Miller came on strong with two birdies and a par on 16, 17 and 18, while Buckley birdied five and 10. The pair were seven under for the front and six under on the back.

"It was Miller's day," said Buckley. "He played great all day and was in almost every hole. I guess you could say it was Miller time."

Chuck and Bob Gosselin had low gross of 68 and Steve Pitts and Tim Tormey were 69.

Shea's, Trainor's Tied For Lead

Shea's Formica and Trainor's Truckers are tied for the Div. A lead in the Quincy Women's Softball League with 14-3 records.

They are followed by Fowler House, 13-4; Kane's Place, 11-5; Luke's Lounge 1, 9-7; Morrisette Post, 7-10; Beau's Place, 6-10; Darcy's Village Pub, 6-12, and Dee Dee's, 4-12.

Leisure Graphics leads Div. B with a 13-3 mark, followed by Washington Tap, 13-4; Luke's Lounge II, 13-4; Kelly's Pub and Grub, 10-6; South Shore Bank, 9-8; Balducci's, 8-8; Quincy Co-Op, 8-8; Port O'Call, 7-10, and Lydon & Russell, 4-13.

• Bankers Softball League Hancock Tops State St. In 11 Innings

Tom Connolly did a superb job of filing in for vacationing Charlie Cahill as he guided Div. 1 leading Hancock Bank to an 8-5 victory over arch rival State St. Bank, led by Bill Sims, in the South Shore Bankers Softball League.

It took 11 innings and 3½ hours to settle the well-played game. Frank Fiske went all the way on the mound for Hancock and was nearly perfect except for a three-run homer by Lee Watkins that tied the game in the bottom of the seventh. Bob Marsh, Steve Belcastro and Jerry Reardon also stood out for Hancock.

South Shore Bank, after being down, 9-1, came back and beat Bay Bank, 13-11, to recapture second place in Div. 1. Again it was the steady play of Warren Troup, Roger Madison and Chuck Mallette leading the way.

Two last place teams, Atlantic Data Services and Quincy Co-Op, sprung upsets on South Weymouth Savings and Quincy Savings to tighten up the divisional races.

Data Services topped South Weymouth, 7-3, while Quincy Co-Op edged Quincy Savings, 7-6.

Phil Jones, a standout for Quincy Savings all year, broke his wrist and will be out for the rest of the season, a tough blow for Tom Quinn's contending team.

The standings: Division 1 - Hancock Bank, 9-4; South Shore Bank, 7-7; Bay Bank Norfolk, 6-7; Atlantic Data Services, 4-9; Division 2 - State Street, 8-4; South Weymouth Savings, 6-6; Quincy Savings, 6-7; Quincy Co-Operative, 5-7.

Sails Stolen

Clayton Brown of Westwood reported to police Monday that a set of white sloop sails in a bag valued at $1,000 were stolen from his 24-foot sailboat during the past six months while it was in dry storage at the Boston Harbor Marina.

POISON PRECAUTIONS

Each year about 700,000 accidental poisonings occur in the United States; 2,500 of them result in death and nearly 250,000 in disabling injuries. Even more frightening are the facts that 80% of these poisonings happen in the home and the largest percentage of victims are children under the age of five.

Fortunately, many of the products most frequently ingested by curious toddlers (soaps, detergents, toilet water, fingernail polish, cold and cough remedies) are not harmful unless taken in massive doses and rarely cause more than a few tears and an upset stomach.

Nevertheless, whenever a potentially hazardous product is involved always proceed as if it is indeed poisonous. Call your doctor, hospital, or nearest poison control center immediately. (Time is by far the most important factor in any poison situation). Keep these numbers by the phone along with those of the police and fire dept. Note: Most potentially harmful products list the proper antidotes on the label.

Track Club Members Sparkle

The Quincy Track Club had a busy schedule during the past two weeks and continued to come up with spectacular performances in several meets.

Michelle Milane qualified for two national championships. In the TAC Junior Olympics in Plainfield, N.J., she placed second in the shot put and discus and in the AAU Regional meet in Beacon, N.Y., she took second in the shot with her best ever toss of 41-½ and second in the discus.

Michelle leaves today (Thursday) for the TAC Nationals in Lincoln, Neb., and will compete in the AAU-Sears Jr. Olympics in Memphis, Tenn., on Aug. 6-8.

Two other QTC members, Lauren Andrews and Fred Bickford, will also compete in the TAC nationals in Lincoln.

Andrews won the shot put and Bickford qualified in the discus.

Other TAC medalists were George Scheparis in the 15-16 400, Art Collings, 15-16 400 hurdles; Maureen Roche, 15-16 long jump, and Rich Palma, 17-18 long jump. Palma also took a third in the long jump at Beacon, N.Y.

In the Hersey state meet Quincy dominated, especially in the relays. The 9-10 girls team of Karen Cashman, Crissy Kelley, Holly Rendle and Marta Martinez won and will travel to the nationals at Huntington, W. Virginia, having the best time for New England.

Other winners were the 9-10 boys relay team of Tony Stafford, Keith Gott, Bobby Scott and Sean McCarthy; the 11-12 boys team of Sean Hunter, Bobby Roche, Kevin O'Brien and Paul McLellan, and the 13-14 girls team of Laura Ciulla, Kerri Doherty, Janice Libby and Tracy Wilson. Individual winners were Paul McLellan, 11-12 boys' 400; Patty Feeney, 11-12 girls' 400, and Noreen Connolly, 13-14 girls softball throw.

In the recent Waltham Junior Meet Quincy winners were Keith Gott, 9-10 50-yard dash; Bobby Scott, 9-10 100; Patty Feeney, 11-12 long jump; Tracy Thornhill, 11-12 high jump; Paul McLellan, 11-12 880; Franci Dolan, 13-14 long jump; Tracy Parker, 13-14 high jump; Noreen Connolly, 13-14 shot put; Sean Hunter, 11-12 100 and 220; Vince DiGiacomo, 11-12 shot put, and Dave Mullaney, 15-16 440.

Pellagrini Baseball Clinic Aug. 4

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Milton, will sponsor the annual Eddie Pellagrini free baseball clinic on Wednesday, Aug. 4, at 10 a.m. at Quincy's Adams Field.

The program is open to boys and girls age 5 and over and is conducted as part of the city's playground program.

Assistants to Pellagrini, who was a member of the 1946 pennant winning Red Sox, are John (Tinker) Connolly of Northeastern University, Bob DeFelice, former minor league catcher and head coach of Bentley College; Dick "Moe" Maloney, head coach of Watertown High and former Boston College pitching coach and Frank Niles, former infielder in the Kansas City Royals system.

According to Recreation Director Barry Welch, "Although not on the official clinic teaching staff, Quincy's own Dick Donovan, who spent 15 years as a major league pitcher winning 122 games, has made an appearance at the Quincy Recreation Department clinic to work with the hometown youngsters."

Pellagrini is the baseball coach at Boston College, and has held that position since 1954. This is his 10th year doing baseball clinics during the summer months.

The staff will instruct the youngsters on hitting, fielding, pitching, catching, and base running, and the Pepsi-Cola Company will provide free beverages for all participants. No registration is necessary. Youngsters need only appear at Adams Field at the time of the clinics.

City Officials In Benefit Game

Mayor Francis McCauley, the City Council and City Hall employees will meet the WVBFF "FM-105 Softies" in a softball game to benefit the March of Dimes Wednesday, Aug. 4.

The game will be held at Rotary Field at 8 p.m. Coddington St. Proceeds will fund March of Dimes programs aimed at the prevention of birth defects. Money will be raised through a donation at the gate $1.00 per person. $3 per family, through the sale of tickets and refreshments.

For more information on the game, or to make a donation call the March of Dimes at 328-3657.

PJ's, Tigers Pace Suburban League

PJ's Minimart leads Division A and the Tigers pace Div. B of the South Suburban Softball League with 18-2 records.

The top three teams in each division as of Aug. 8 will qualify for the playoffs and of the remaining teams, the two with the best records, will also make the playoffs.

The standings: Div. A - PJ's, 18-2; Farrington, 13-7; Mean's

Precast, 12-8; Safford, 10-10; Spoilers, 6-14; President Pub, 4-16.

Div. B - Tigers, 18-2; Bill's Welding, 16-4; Outlaws, 11-9; Koch Club, 7-13; W.W., 4-16; Bombers, 2-18.

Louis HN Softball Leader

Louis' Cafe continues to lead the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League with an 8-2-1 record, followed by Finlay's Variety, 6-4-1; Quincy Yacht Club, 5-5-1; Houghs Neck Package Store, 4-6-1; Manet Shell, 4-6-1; and Chenette's Plumbing, 3-7-1.

Last Sunday's results: Finlay's 10, Package 1; Louis' 7, Shell 3; Yacht Club 11, Chenette's 1.

Next Sunday's schedule: Package vs. Chenette's, 9 a.m.; Louis' vs. Yacht Club, 10:15; and Finlay's vs. Shell, 11:30.

GRANITE COOPERATIVE BANK'S board of directors has named Joan A. MacDonald of Houghs Neck as recipient of the bank's scholarship in memory of George F. O'Brien. From left, are Mrs. Eileen O'Brien, wife of Mr. O'Brien; Mayor Francis X. McCauley; Miss MacDonald; and Robert Petrelli, chief executive officer, Granite Cooperative.

Houghs Neck Girl Receives O'Brien Award

The Board of Directors of the Granite Cooperative Bank announce that Joan A. MacDonald, 64 Mears Ave., Houghs Neck has been named as the 1982 recipient of the bank's scholarship in memory of George F. O'Brien.

Miss MacDonald plans to enter the University of Massachusetts,

Amherst in the fall.

The scholarship, given annually, is named in memory of Mr. O'Brien who had been president of the Presidential Co-operative Bank.

The Granite Cooperative Bank, having merged with Presidential has chosen to carry on the award. A presentation was made recently in Mr. bank's main office in North Quincy. Robert Petrelli made the award to Miss MacDonald with the late Mr. O'Brien's wife Eileen and Mayor Francis X. McCauley taking part. McCauley previously served as president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank before his election as Mayor.

Donnelly Accepting Academy Applications

Congressman Brian Donnelly is now accepting applications from young men and women from the 11th Congressional District who want to attend one of the U.S. service academies beginning next summer.

Donnelly will nominate candidates to the Military Academy at West Point, Academy at Annapolis, Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y.

A nomination is required as the first step toward appointment to one of the service academies.

According to academy regulations, applicants must be single United States citizens born between July 1, 1961 and July 1, 1966.

Forms must be completed and returned before Oct. 15. Congressman Donnelly will make his nominations to the academies early in 1983.

Applications are available by writing to U.S. Rep. Brian Donnelly, 2307 John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Boston, Massachusetts 02203.

Dental Corner by

Lee A. Welby, D.M.D.

"SILVER" FILLINGS

Q: I heard that silver fillings contain mercury. Can this mercury harm me?

A: Dental "silver" is an alloy containing several metals — actually more mercury than any other metal. In addition to mercury and silver, dental AMALGAM also contains tin, and may contain zinc, copper, and other metals.

Mercury is indeed toxic, so it is reasonable to ask how dentists can use it in their patient's mouths. The answer is that the other metals bind to the mercury so that it can't be absorbed into the body. There are no known cases of mercury poisoning from fillings, no matter how many fillings are placed in the mouth.

Dentists work with mercury and mix dental amalgam; they are in more danger of mercury poisoning. Unfortunately, cases of mercury poisoning among dental personnel are still fairly common. The wise dentist practices good mercury hygiene to protect himself and his staff.

MDA Swim-a-thon At Lincoln Hancock Pool

Jerry Lewis wrist watches will be awarded to the boy and girl turning in the most pledge money at the annual Quincy Swim-a-thon for Muscular Dystrophy today (Thursday).

The event will be held 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School pool.

The swim-a-thon is open to swimmers of all ages with a 200 lap limit.

Jerry Lewis visors will be presented to all who turn in $25 or more in pledge money.

A citation of merit from the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be presented to each participant who turns in pledge money.

Friday, Aug. 20, is the deadline for turning in pledge money.

Pledge forms and instructions are available at Quincy city playgrounds, swim stations, the Lincoln Hancock pool and The Quincy Sun.

The event is sponsored by the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee in cooperation with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Lincoln Hancock council members helping with the event are Ron Iacobucci, president; Anneli Johnson, Harry Johnson, Joanne Vacca, Joan Picard, Michael Jovanovic, Judi Bibbo and Nancy Santry.

Co-chairman of the swim-a-thon are Quincy Recreation director Barry Welch and Iacobucci.

Co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee are Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park Recreation Board.

$500 MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP CHECKS from Quincy Savings Bank were recently presented by president Charles A. Pearce to 1982 North Quincy High School graduate Siobhan D. Corrigan and Quincy High School graduate Andrew M. Levitsky. Miss Corrigan plans to attend Clark University. Levitsky will enter the University of Lowell this fall as a music major.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annswell

WEEK OF: JULY 29

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Financial obligations increase but are offset by unexpected earnings. Volunteer assignment brings prestige. Planning social events becomes more difficult than anticipated.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Potential for financial and career success is high, but tackling too many tasks will have negative effects. New relationships, highlighted through weekend, appeal to your serious side.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Emphasis is on financial dealings. Making useful contacts is accented, but don't try too hard to please, and don't change your views without justifiable cause.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Promoting new ideas and getting in touch with long distance friends are the themes this week. Disturbing news should be verified before you leap to any conclusions whatsoever.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

People keep you waiting, so don't make back-to-back appointments. Romantic ideas can backfire. Less-than-realistic financial scheme will benefit from refinement.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Learning to speak out on a pet cause and act more assertively are the week's big challenges. Family plans may be cancelled unexpectedly. Avoid overwhelming salespeople right now.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Energy level is high, especially for exploring moneymaking opportunities. Adapting to change is more enjoyable than thought, perhaps because there are some bright new faces on the scene.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

New assignment carries more prestige than you realize, be cautious but not timid as you proceed. Shared expenses can lead to embarrassment on weekend; establish ground rules in advance.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Family dispute becomes less touchy thanks to suggestions of a young diplomat. You and loved one are on identical wavelengths. Difficult correspondence can be effectively handled.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

First impressions are strong, especially as they relate to career circumstances. Loved ones can be inconsistent and sometimes dramatic. Contests and honors accented on weekend.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Partner may be a little cynical or a little aloof - perhaps it's a way of getting your attention. Modest financial gains offset recent setback. Originality gives you the edge at work.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

It's time to cease dwelling on ancient history and focus on the present and future, so far as romance goes. Allow new team members to build upon your latest notions.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Organization and dramatization are your trademarks. Relinquishing some of the limelight may be your greatest chore over the next month - but it's a small price to pay for the kind of friendship that will be blossoming this year.

BORN THIS YEAR

July 29th, actor William Powell; 30th, singer Paul Anka; 31st, actor Don Murray; August 1st, actor Geoffrey Holder; 2nd, actress Myrna Loy; 3rd, actor Martin Sheen; 4th, pianist Henry Anthony.

Winthrop Wade, the Health Department's chief environmentalist, said the 700 count standard was set up in the middle 1960s by the state mostly as a measurement for shellfish.

"The MDC, which controls Wollaston Beach, thinks it is a little conservative," he said. "It is an attempt to put theory into numbers."

"The amount of risk depends upon the susceptibility of the individuals who swim in the water repeatedly. The more sewage there is in the water the greater the risk.

"The result can be an upset stomach for perhaps 24 hours or an ear or eye infection in youngsters. But that can happen in a swimming pool that has not been properly chlorinated."

both sides before she decides.

She said that Mayor Francis McCauley, who favors the rollback, has not discussed the matter with her.

Numerous morning and evening license board hearings have already been held on the matter.

"Lord knows we've certainly heard it badgered around enough," said Gillis who has voted against the rollback as has Police Chief Francis Finn.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and Fire Chief Edward Barry have voted in favor.

Michael Cortese Graduates From Maritime Academy

MICHAEL CORTESE

Born July 31, 1960 in Quincy, Cortese was graduated St. John's Parochial School, Quincy Point Junior High School and Quincy High School where he was a member of the basketball team.

He is the son of Joseph Cortese who ran unsuccessfully for Ward II councillor in the last election.

Michael Cortese of 99 Dysart St., Quincy Center, was recently graduated from Massachusetts Maritime Academy with a degree in marine transportation.

He was commissioned as an ensign in the naval reserve.

Cortese was awarded the James Fuller Jr. Shipmate Award, voted by his classmates as the graduate they would most like to have as a shipmate.

He completed his coast guard exams and is licensed as a third mate-deck officer.

A member of the MMA basketball for four years, he was voted the most improved player.

Cortese volunteered to crew the academy's gunboat to Virginia to see to the repairs of the Bay State in Norfolk, and received a commendation for this service from the administration of the MMA.

He was made a four striper in his senior year by the administration and faculty to oversee all cadets.

Cortese secured a position as deck officer with the Military Sea Lift Command, shipping out of Oakland, Calif.

Auto Victim Remains In Poor Condition

Richard M. Reilly, 21, of 627 Quincy Shore Drive, Wollaston, was in poor condition in the intensive care unit at City Hospital Tuesday with injuries suffered when he was hit by a car early last Thursday morning on the drive near Vassall St.

His name was placed on the danger list.

MDC police said the driver of the car, whom they identified as Ronald Segal of Hull, was cited for operating so as to endanger.

Litter Free Program At City's Playgrounds

The Quincy Recreation Department staff and playground participants are teaming up for the third year with the Dr. Pepper Company to help keep the city's playgrounds litter free.

On the local playgrounds, participants are encouraged to keep the areas clean. The Dr. Pepper Company provides free Dr. Pepper through its local distributor, Tom Truleson of Needham.

The Dr. Pepper is given to the youngsters at city-wide events or, if a special occasion arises, is delivered directly to the playground participants. Participants who are extra helpful are also awarded Dr. Pepper T-Shirts and frisbees.

This year, so far 50 cases of Dr. Pepper have been distributed to Recreation Department participants. Recreation Director Barry J. Welch, thanked Truleson and the Dr. Pepper Company for encouraging Quincy's youngsters to keep their parks clean.

Tax Bills Possible In November

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday he will decide within three weeks whether or not the city will have to send out estimated tax bills once again in November.

The State Department of Revenue concluded its field investigation of the revaluation process in Quincy this week and the mayor said he hopes to learn quickly if the job will be certified.

"If certification is delayed and it takes too long to go through the impact notices and appeal period we will have to send out estimated bills to avoid the expense of short term borrowing," he said.

Recently signed legislation permits cities and towns to send their first bills of the fiscal year to taxpayers based on one half of the total bill for the previous year.

McCauley said he plans to meet with the assessors Wednesday, Aug. 4, and "by that time I hope we'll have some idea of whether we will have any serious problems with certification."

Middle School Principals Named

'It Can Make A Difference' Accidents Decided Hussey Vote On 1 A.M. Bar Closing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"I think it can make a difference," said Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey who cast the deciding vote in the License Board's 3-2 decision Tuesday to rollback liquor establishment hours from 2 to 1 a.m.

The rollback is effective Sept.

1. "There were many considerations," said Dr. Hussey who explained that she gave the matter a great deal of thought. But it was the number of accidents involving drinking and driving that played a big part in her decision.

"You can't compare anything to a life," said Dr. Hussey who said she wouldn't want to pick up a newspaper and read of a drunk driving fatality which might have been prevented had she voted differently.

"You will be drinking less if the bar hours are reduced, it stands to reason," said Dr. Hussey.

"I think I considered it as thoroughly as I could," she said.

DR. M. GRACE HUSSEY

Dr. Hussey explained that she didn't make up her mind until the meeting.

She said that her decision was clinched when City Solicitor William Golden said that a compromise proposed by Atty. Richard Barry, representing six bar owners with 2 a.m. closings, was not legally enforceable.

Dr. Hussey said that Mayor Francis McCauley, a rollback proponent, did not influence her decision.

"I felt I was voting as a free person," she said.

Joining Dr. Hussey in voting for the rollback were Fire Chief Edward Barry, who disagreed with City Clerk John Gillis'

City Spraying With Sevin For Mosquito Control

By TOM HENSHAW

The city is getting out its spray equipment and the controversial chemical Sevin once again, this time to control an infestation of mosquitoes from the Houghs Neck marshes.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that the city would start spraying the marshes yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 a.m. and continue through Friday.

The mayor called it "an emergency situation."

McCauley said the residents of the Houghs Neck and German-town areas will be warned of the advent of the spray truck through the news media and by an advance car.

That system was adopted with apparent success two months ago when the city was spraying to control gypsy moths.

McCauley said the mosquito problem seems to be bigger than ever this year, possibly as a result of the city not appropriating funds for spraying in 1981, 1982 and 1983.

"There was $31,000 in the budget for mosquito control," he said, "but we cut it out as optional under Proposition 2½."

Quincy used to belong to the South Shore Mosquito Control agency, but that 12-town cooperative folded quietly two years ago due to lack of funds.

The city tried to join the Suffolk County Mosquito Control program last spring but Quincy inclusion in that cooperative of Boston and Chelsea was dropped from the budget in the Legislature.

Winthrop Wade, director of environmental services in the Health Department, said the mosquitoes are arriving late in Quincy this year due to the heavy rains in June that delayed breeding.

"In another week or so this cycle will die off," he said, "and we can expect another onslaught around the end of August or Labor Day."

Wade explained that there are three phases to the war on mosquitoes — adult mosquito control, elimination of larvae and "ditching" for the elimination of stagnant water breeding areas.

"Controlling the adult mosquitoes is not as cost effective as others," he said. "Ditching is the most permanent, the most productive. All three make up a balanced mosquito program."

"But we haven't had one for the past three years."

Good Buy? Goodbye!

A 21-inch color television set for $269

Two Quincy women thought that was a great buy when a short elderly man with graying hair offered it to them Sunday night outside City Hospital.

They told police they drove him to the John Hancock Parking Area, gave him the $26 and waited while he went to get the TV set. They're still waiting.

Parking Decision Due Next Week

Mayor Francis X. McCauley may have a decision next week on a private company to take over management of the municipal parking areas in downtown Quincy, including a system of validating parking.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, made unannounced visits last week to parking lots in Boston operated by Kinney systems and Metropolitan Parking Systems, both of Boston.

They are the two firms remaining in contention for the Quincy contract.

"Both of them are highly qualified," said Foley. "We're happy with the performances of both of them. Now it's just a matter of analyzing their proposals for the best deal."

Foley said the two proposals differ widely in fees to be charged, rentals paid to the city and responsibilities offered by the companies.

All Quincy Beaches Clear

Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey reported Tuesday that all Quincy beaches are clear and none have bacteria counts above the 700 level.

"The highest count was 300," said Dr. Hussey.

Because of the good results of this week's test, there won't be another test until next week, said Dr. Hussey.

City Seeks Small Stores For Sears Building

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association is compiling a list of small advertisers in the South Shore area to see if any of them would be interested in sharing the old Sears Building.

Meredith and Grew, the Boston firm that manages the Sears Building for the Faxon Trust, has just about given up hope of leasing the big structure to a single retail business.

"We have been exploring the possibility of breaking it up into units to house a number of small businesses," said Planning Director James Lydon.

Lydon said Meredith and Grew mailed queries to more than 300 large retail firms and only one expressed the minimum interest to ask for more information.

"One out of more than 300 is not a strong interest," said Lydon.

He said a suggestion that Kincaide's Furniture store might be interested in moving its retail store and warehouse into the building will not be explored any further.

"We prefer to see a more active type of business," said Lydon. "A furniture store is not the type of business that attracts large numbers of people."

"Traffic can be gauged in dollar volume per square foot and furniture is very low in relation to others."

Lydon said if retail outlets fail to show interest then the city, the QCBPA and Meredith and Grew may turn to "people intensive" offices and perhaps even small industrial use.

"Our first goal is to get someone in the building," he said.

Three Hurt In Crash

Three persons reported injuries Monday following a collision between two cars on Burgin Parkway near the intersection of Adams St.

Treated and released from City Hospital were Jeanne Bolter, 47, of Cherry St., Quincy Point; Anne Marie Ennis, 50, of Winthrop and Barbara J. Swartley, 52, of North-east, Md.

Police said a 1980 Ford driven by Kenneth M. Swartley of West Chester, Pa., was pulling out of a parking space when it came in collision with a 1980 Ford driven by Ennis.

State Accountant Named City Treasurer

Franklin C. Jay, 60, of 249 Highland Ave., Wollaston, a senior accountant in the State Comptroller's Division, has been named to the $26,478 post of treasurer-tax collector of Quincy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who announced the appointment at a news conference Tuesday, said Jay will assume his new duties Monday, Aug. 30, when his commitment to the state is ended.

"Frank has a lot of experience in a supervisory role and he has had exposure to computers," said McCauley. "I expect he will be a key person in setting up a data processing department in the city."

Jay's appointment will fill the remainder of the unexpired term of Robert E. Foy III, who was appointed city auditor in June. The one year term ends Feb. 7, 1983.

Jay is a graduate of Quincy Junior College with a degree in science. He also holds a degree from Bentley College and has taken courses in Suffolk and Northeastern Universities.

He held administrative positions with St. Luke's Hospital in Middleboro and Santa Maria Hospital in Cambridge before going to work for the state as a budget analyst in 1976.

Jay, who was born in Prince Edward Island, Canada, and has lived in Quincy for 32 years, said he does not plan to let his age stand in the way of a long career in city government.

"I hope never to retire," he said. "I'd like to do this for a long time."

He said he knew McCauley only casually before he applied for the treasurer's job, one of 35 applicants. He said he was not a large contributor to McCauley's mayoral campaign.

"When you have seven kids, no large contributions are made to anything except college," he said.

He and his wife, the former Ida M. Sharkey, have children ranging in age from 34 to 15.

"Is that correct?" he asked her.

Herbert Morgan Named To Aging Council

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has announced the appointment of Herbert E. Morgan of 295 Rock Island Rd., Houghs Neck, a retired insurance executive, to the Board of the Council on Aging.

Morgan, who has been active in the Houghs Neck Community Council, will fill the balance of the three-year term left vacant by the departure of Mrs. Ethel O'Brien. The term expires Feb. 6, 1984.

House Break

Thieves broke a rear window at the home of John Norton on North

St., Atlantic, Sunday night and ransacked the bedroom, taking an undetermined amount of jewelry.

Mayor Seeks $400,000 For Computer System

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announced Tuesday that he plans to seek School Committee and City Council approval to set up a data processing department in the city at an initial cost of $400,000.

McCauley's plan calls for transfer of $250,000 from the school budget and a $150,000 appropriation by the City Council.

The mayor said the new department will be headed by Robert Brennan, the present head of data processing for the school system, at a salary of $42,000, a raise of $10,000 from his current post.

"This will be a very important department in the city government," said McCauley, "and I am very impressed with Mr. Brennan, who will be a key person in the department."

There will also be a program analyst at $25,000 a year and a scheduler at $15,000 a year, plus differentials to other persons adding up to a total of $100,000 for personnel.

McCauley said the posts of program analyst and scheduler will be new ones.

"We will have to pick up about $400,000 up front," said the mayor, "but it will save money in the long run. It will take over a lot of the detailed work that is done by pen and ink now."

McCauley said the transfer from the School Department has the full support of School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who has been talking about such a move for several years.

The mayor called it "long overdue."

"The big thing is the availability of information to know where we're at," he said. "Once we get the system in place we'll have better control of expenditures."

McCauley said he is looking forward to the day when he can have a computer console on the mayor's desk.

"On March 15, I can push a button and tell how much money we have left in the Police Department budget," he said.

DeCristofaro Asks State Repair To Quincy Ave.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has asked the State Department of Public Works to resurface Quincy Ave. in Quincy Point from Southern Artery to the Braintree line.

"This road is in terrible disrepair," he said in a letter to DPW Commissioner Sandino J.

Germantown Break

Mary Howe of Palmer St., Germantown, reported to police that a box of checks, a stereo set and possibly some jewelry was stolen from her home while she was playing Bingo.

When she returned and entered the house by a rear door, she said, she heard someone run out of the front door.

Tersigni.

"In anticipation of construction on Route 3, it is reasonable to assume that there will be much more traffic on Quincy Ave. With this in mind, I feel that this repaving should be done as soon as possible."

Building Inspector Allen MacDonald reports issuing 1,014 permits for building valued at $35,368,065 during the fiscal year July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982.

Building Department receipts for the fiscal year were $129,280 and receipts for public safety inspections were set at $5,311.

A total of 166 new dwelling units were added through new construction and two through alterations.

New construction included six multi-family dwellings, four of 12 units, one of 28 units and one of 80 units, and 10 one-family houses.

Multi-family dwellings were valued at $2,628,000 and the one family homes at $403,600.

Seven new mercantile buildings were valued at $20,830,000.

There were also 558 residential alterations, 139 other alterations, 14 garages, one storage building, 44 removals, 64 signs installed and 171 miscellaneous construction projects.

Denvir's 2 Hats Fit

So far, at least, the two municipal hats Robert Denvir is wearing seem to be a pretty good fit.

DENVIR

Doubling as city purchasing agent and parking ticket clerk keeps him hopping but it doesn't rattle him. Although he seems to be smoking more.

Even the fact he has received some 1,200 requests for refunds on penalty overcharges on parking tickets doesn't bother him.

If the city has to refund between one-third and one-half of the $200,000 the city has taken in since taking over collections from Quincy District Court, Denvir's attitude is:

If the people are entitled to get their money back, they should get it back.

The reason they will be getting it back, of course, is the fact that the city started assessing $5 penalties on $2 tickets last Nov. 1. But, in June, Quincy District Court Judge Albert Kramer ruled the penalty charge illegal.

KRAMER

But Denvir, who can be easy going, doesn't intend to be a soft touch and is looking over the refund requests carefully.

He didn't find it hard to discard one: a woman who wanted her money back on $60 worth of parking tickets. Tickets issued — in Boston.

ALMOST EVERYONE KNEW him as "Uncle Roy". And LeRoy Rounseville, Quincy florist for a half-century, was like an uncle to many people.

Especially the blind. As a past King Lion and active member of the Quincy Lions Club he spent countless hours driving the blind to and from meetings and other functions.

UNCLE ROY

Hundreds of young people worked for him delivering flowers. And he had a good influence on them.

But it wouldn't be unusual for someone to open their door and find Don Kent, the TV weatherman, or WJDA's Win Bettinson or Jerry Howard standing there with a corsage or bouquet of flowers.

They might have been in Roy's shop and he'd ask them to make the delivery for them on their way home.

His own favorite flower was the yellow rose.

When people stopped him on the street to ask "How are things?", instead of replying "Fine" as most people do, his stock response was, "Bloomin' and buddin'".

Uncle Roy died last week at age 73. But he will long be remembered by those whose lives he touched.

WELL, there's at least two political fund-raisers coming up that won't bankrupt you.

MARSHALL

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall is hosting a reception for Gov. Edward King Wednesday, Aug. 11 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Red Snapper Restaurant, Rte. 1, Foxboro. Hors d'oeuvres and music. Tickets $10 per person may be obtained from Ann O'Connell at (770-0550) the King re-election headquarters in Quincy.

AND a reception for Nicholas Barbadoro, Norfolk County Clerk of Courts, is set for Friday, Aug. 13 from 7 to midnight at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall. Refreshments and dancing. Tickets, $10 each can be had by calling Daniel O'Malley 472-0592 or 770-1242. (You'd have to say that Nick isn't superstitious picking Friday the 13th for a fundraiser.)

HIGH INTEREST rates and government regulations were the biggest complaints of members of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting last week.

The directors were invited to give a review of their own business for the past six months and what they expected in the future.

There was cautious optimism that things will get better — but not before the interest rates come down.

But all was not gloom.

Jerry Ellis, head of Building 19 in Hingham said the recession has forced him to cut back and pay closer attention to operating costs but broke up fellow directors when he dead panned: "My business is like sex. When it's good it's wonderful. And when it's bad, it's still pretty good."

Deer Island Bill To End Bay Pollution?

A triumphant conclusion to a 25-year fight to end pollution in Quincy Bay appeared in sight as the House passed and sent to the State Senate a bill that would eliminate Moon Island as a sewage disposal plant and transfer its operations to Deer Island.

It was estimated that between 40 and 135 million gallons of raw sewage was dumped each day into Quincy Bay from the Moon Island plant, which served the Boston sewer system.

The House bill calls for construction of a deep rock tunnel from Columbia Circle in Boston to Deer Island, where a complete sewage treatment plant similar to the one at Nut Island would be built. The $15 million Nut Island plant was expected to be finished in October.

Rep. William W. Jenness of Quincy secured the inclusion in the bill of a provision to connect Squantum to the Metropolitan sewer system since the elimination of the Moon Island plant would have left the peninsula with no sewage outlet.

The bill also provided for the inclusion of Boston into the South Metropolitan Sewage District, a move that would reduce Quincy's proportional assessment in the district.

STRANDED IN FOG

A heavy fog stranded scores of fishermen and sailors in Boston Harbor overnight and sirens sounded throughout the hours of darkness from the Squantum and Wollaston Yacht Clubs to help guide small craft home.

Thomas Marcel's 34-foot power boat Sue Joy II, towing three sailboats home from the Marblehead races, spent the night in the harbor.

The steamer Nantasket ran aground on Peddocks Island at Hull Gut and stove in her bottom. The 827 passengers were taken off in small boats.

A fishing party of 37 from Chelsea in two cabin cruisers got lost in Quincy Bay and were guided to land by floodlights from the home of Fred Foye in Squantum after three hours adrift in the fog.

LONG ISLAND BRIDGE

Labor Secretary Maurice J. Tobin officially dedicated the new 3.5 mile $2 million bridge and viaduct between Moon Island and Long Island, which replaced the ferry boat that had plied the strait between the islands for 65 years.

Tobin said he hoped that the bridge would be the forerunner of a series of bridges linking the harbor islands and taking some of the South Shore traffic load off Quincy streets.

'Harvard - Stay Out Of Quincy' Nearly 100 Marchers Protest Animal Pound Seizure

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The signs carried by marchers Saturday through Quincy Sq. were varied, but the message was clear: "Harvard - Stay Out Of Quincy".

Nearly 100 people marched from Christ Church to McIntyre Mall to protest Harvard University's Medical School's collecting stray dogs from the pound and using them for medical research.

"We were very happy with the turn out," said John H. McDuff, Jr., president of the Quincy Animal League which sponsored the walk.

Also represented in the march were the South Shore Human Society and CEASE (Coalition to End Animal Suffering in Experimentation), according to McDuff.

"The Quincy Animal League had 12 people at its June meeting," said McDuff, "in two months, we were able to mobilize almost 100 people."

"We're very, very happy," "We really think we got the message across. "We're going to do great things."

Several marchers were accompanied by their children and dogs, and McDuff said reaction was "very favorable" as the group marched through the square.

At McIntyre Mall, ten new members joined the league which now has 60-70 members.

McDuff said the league will be watching to see if the legislature passes a home rule petition in September exempting Quincy from the pound seizure law.

The Quincy City Council unanimously passed resolutions opposing such seizures.

He said that eventually he would like to work on issues such as overcrowding of pounds, and enforcement of the leash law.

"But for now says McDuff, "we're waiting to see how Harvard reacts."

"Perhaps they'll take the hint and stop coming here."

Squantum Church Holds Baptism By Immersion

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum gathered on the shore Sunday at Squaw Rock to hear John Ahearn, 27, profess his faith in Christ publicly and to witness his baptism by immersion in Quincy Bay.

The service was conducted by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin. After the immersion, while the young man was still dripping from the baptismal waters, he and his wife, Vivian Ahearn, dedicated their two children and their family life to the glory of God.

The Ahearns were then taken into church membership by receiving the right hand of fellowship from representatives of the church including Ruth Swenson, Board of Trustees; Gloria Cutler, Board of Benevolence; Dana Olson, Board of Christian Education; the pastor and the mother of the man baptized, Evelyn Ahearn, for the Board of Deacons.

The setting for the service was a particularly dramatic one because of its natural beauty, the clear weather and the colorful baptismal banners that had been hung all over Squaw Rock.

"Baptism by immersion is the form which Jesus himself experienced at the age of 30 in the River Jordan," the pastor explained. "It symbolizes for the Christian believer both the forgiveness of sin and the burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ."

"By being submerged completely under the water, the new Christian is publicly demonstrating his faith in Christ as he 'dies to his old life' and comes alive now as a Christian believer."

A reception for the new church members held on the beach after the service was hosted by Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne.

Tom McKim and Steve Williams hung the banners for the service. Mary Ruth Scott led the hymns with her guitar.

Next Sunday there will be two services at the First Church of Squantum, one at 8 a.m. and the other at 9:15 a.m.

Members and friends of the congregation are invited to come to church in their old clothes so that the can stay afterward to clean and repair the church building.

This "Volunteer Day" is being sponsored by the Board of Trustees.

PAIN TREATMENT CENTERS

Q: I've heard recently of centers for treatment of facial pain. Where does the dentist fit in?

A: Chronic pain is one of the most difficult problems in medicine. In chronic pain of the face, the problem is compounded by the large number of possible causes of pain in the area.

Because of the dentist's intimate knowledge of the mouth and jaws, he is often an important member of the health team dealing with facial pain patients. The facial pain team may also include surgeons, neurologists, internists, physical therapists, ear, nose, and throat specialists, and psychologists. The different areas of expertise of all these specialists will often allow insights into treatment which might not occur to any one alone.

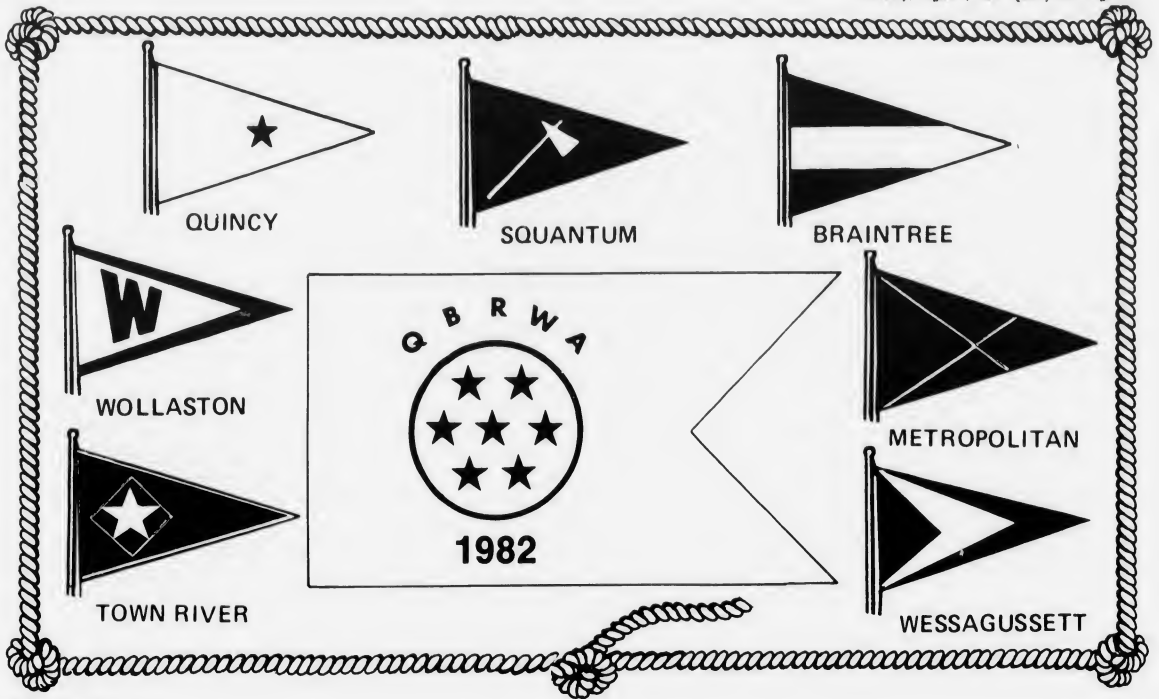

Pain treatment centers are becoming more common. In the meantime, dentists are often the first to see patients with chronic pain of the face. The knowledgeable dentist will know when to treat and when and where to refer the patient who needs further help.

Record Number Boats Expected For QBRW

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Bay Race Week lured a record number of boats each of the last two years and Quincy Bay Race Week Association President Bernie McCourt is confident this week's races again will set a record.

"I'm sure we will continue to set records," said McCourt of Quincy Yacht Club. "I fully expect more boats than last year when a new record was reached. Sailing is really growing around here and I think more and more people are finding out what fun sailing can be."

"Also, I think the price of gasoline has a lot to do with it. More people are driving less and sailing more."

McCourt feels certain that there will be another record for the ocean racing. "Interest is really increasing all the time in this type of racing," he said.

A year ago Race Week enjoyed perfect weather without a single cancellation. The previous year one day of racing had to be canceled due to the weather.

The ocean racing will again be held Saturday and Sunday off Hangman's Island.

Race Week hit its peak in 1970 when a total of 1800 boats went to the starting lines.

In recent years the number of boats had declined but interest has again picked up and the most boats since that time competed last year and even more are expected this week.

There is renewed interest in junior activities among yacht clubs and sailing programs.

"We had beautiful weather last year and I just hope we are as fortunate this year," said McCourt. "Everyone cooperated beautifully and everything went off smoothly."

Two years ago the Marine Parade had to be canceled for the first time in 20 years but the weather was perfect for the colorful event a year ago.

Gala Night will be held Friday night at the Quincy Yacht Club with McCourt and Quincy Commodore Paul McCloskey as hosts.

Rendezvous Night will be held Saturday night at Town River with McCourt and Town River Commodore Chuck Reynolds as hosts.

The Marine Parade, expected to attract a record number of decorated boats, will be Sunday with boats rendezvousing between Town River and Wessagusset Yacht Clubs at noon.

'Historical Quincy' Theme For Marine Parade Sunday

This year's colorful Marine Parade, which will start Sunday at 11:30 from Town River Yacht Club, will feature a floating review of Quincy's historical highlights.

Since Race Week was started in 1938, an occasional historic theme has been portrayed by the many boats which have taken part in the Marine Parade. The skippers have decorated their craft for the parade.

The Quincy Bay Race Week Association hopes that the participants Sunday will have decorated their boats to conform with this year's 'Historical Quincy' theme.

Parade Marshal Al Shaughnessy at the wheel of his "Hi Neighbor IV" will start the parade from Town River Y.C. and lead it into Fore River. The parade will then proceed to the Wessagusset Y.C., cross over to the Quincy Y.C., around Nut Island, along Manet Beach, along Adams Shore and Merrymount, along Wollaston Boulevard, past the Wollaston Y.C. and on to the Squantum Y.C. There the parade judges will make their final decisions.

A $100 cash prize will be awarded to the best-decorated boat, a plaque will be presented to the boat judged the most original, and prizes will go to the best-decorated in each of three classes. In addition, the club with the most boats in line of parade will receive an award.

Last year "Paddlin Madeline Home", owned by Al Jago of Squantum Y.C. won the $100 prize for the best decorated boat overall. Emil Bernier of Braintree Y.C. won the prize for best decorated cabin cruiser and The "Loha" owned by C.B. Keith of Wessagusset was awarded the best originality prize.

Braintree Y.C. won the most decorated boats in the parade and the most boats in the parade.

Bernie McCourt Heads Race Week

Ocean Racing Saturday, Sunday

One of the most popular features of Race Week each year is the ocean racing, which stimulates continued interest in the cruising type of sailboat.

Interest has so increased in this type of racing that, for the first time two years ago, it was spread over two days. Again this year the races will be held Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m. off Hangman's Island.

Two years ago the ocean racing attracted a record fleet with more than 100 boats starting, 54 on Saturday and more than 50 on Sunday. Last year this record was broken and it is expected that still another record number of boats will compete this weekend.

The City of Boston Bermuda Cup, a beautiful and historic punch bowl, has been in the custody of the Quincy Yacht Club for 50 years. It was presented by the City of Boston in 1905 for a yacht race from Boston to Bermuda. The race was never held and in 1911 the city again put the cup up for an ocean race to be held Labor Day 1911 to become the permanent possession of the winner. That race was won by Hollis Burgess, a Quincy Y.C. member, in his sloop Marie L.

Burgess generously made the Quincy club trustees of the cup, which was to be placed in annual competition as a perpetual trophy. In 1968 the club presented the trophy to the QBRWA for Race Week competition. This beautiful and valuable trophy is to be presented to the annual winner to be held by him until the succeeding Race Week.

The winner is to be presented a suitable engraved trophy for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Ned Martin.

The Frank E. Remick Trophy was presented in 1959 to the QBRWA by Frank S. Remick of Quincy to stimulate interest in competition between cruising-type sailboats.

After 23 years Remick has dropped the trophy and the Wells Yacht Co. of Hingham has taken it over and will present the Wells Yacht Trophy to the winner.

Last year winners were Bill and Jim Emmett.

The Harry Warner Memorial trophy race is for cruising type trimarans. The trophy was presented to the QBRWA in 1968 by the Warner family and the Town River Yacht Club as a perpetual trophy.

It is to be annually engraved and is to be held by the winner until Race Week of the following year when it is to be returned to the association.

Last year's winner was Richard Boehmer.

45 Years Of Tradition

Quincy Bay Race Week is marked by 45 years of tradition and yachtsmen again have much to live up to in this week's racing. QBRW has been an outstanding success since it was established in 1938 by Quincy, Wollaston and Squantum Yacht Clubs, which formed the association. In the years following, Town River and Wessagussett joined up to make the event an area success. Eight years ago Braintree and Metropolitan clubs were added, completing the seven-club association.

Sailors Of All Ages Vie For Coveted Trophies

The goals of hundreds of sailors - men, women, boys, and girls - this week during the 45th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week are a number of handsome and coveted trophies.

The Capt. James Berwick Finlay Memorial Trophy was presented to the Quincy Yacht Club in 1948 by Albert W. Finlay, his father, for competition during Race Week.

This handsome trophy is presented in loving memory of a son who, during his lifetime, did much to advance the sport of yachting on Massachusetts Bay, to the yachtsman considered to have performed some single act of sportsmanship during Race Week.

It is to be suitably engraved annually and will remain in the custody of the Quincy Y.C. A suitably engraved keeper trophy will be awarded to the winner for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Rick McKaus.

The Fred Hunt Memorial Trophy is a perpetual award presented since 1966 by the Patriot Ledger in memory of the late yachting editor who served more than three decades.

This trophy is awarded annually to a person who has demonstrated a high degree of sportsmanship and a willingness to help others in the advancement of the yacht racing sport and who has contributed to the success of Race Week. It is to be held until the succeeding Race Week by the home club of the winner who is to be awarded a suitably engraved keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Francis Charles.

The Reynolds Memorial

Trophy is a perpetual trophy presented to the QBRWA in 1966 by the family of John Reynolds, an ardent supporter of and skipper in the Day Sailor Class until his untimely death in 1965.

This trophy is presented to the Race Week winner in the Day Sailor Class and is to be held by him until Race Week of the following year when it is to be returned to the association.

A suitable keeper trophy is to be presented to the winner for his permanent possession.

Last year's winner was Joseph Carven Jr.

The 1300 Trophy has been presented each year since 1960 to the QBRWA by Radio Station WJDA to demonstrate its great and cooperative interest in Race Week and to aid in the stimulation of racing interest among the junior classes.

This beautiful trophy is awarded annually to the winning skipper in the Turnabout class and becomes his permanent possession.

The winner last year was Jay Wilkins.

The Commodore Isadore Bromfield Trophy was presented six years ago to the QBRWA by the Commonwealth National Bank of Boston. It is awarded each year to the Race Week winner according to the deed of the gift. The winner is to be presented a suitably engraved keeper trophy for his permanent possession.

The winner in 1981 were Walter and Peter Schochard.

A new trophy will be presented this year, the Charles Wing Memorial Trophy which will go to the Red Fleet winner on Friday, when Town River hosts the racing.

13-9 Record

Morrisette Finishes In Second Place

Morrisette Legion's baseball team finished another winning season last week, defeating Milton, 8-4, to finish 13-9, but again had to be satisfied with second place behind Weymouth in its division of Zone 6.

A five-game losing streak before winning its last two games from Wollaston and Milton cost Morrisette a chance at the zone crown.

Jim Bandera pitched five innings of scoreless relief to lead Morrisette over Milton. Brian Reale went four-for-four with a double, while Jim O'Toole and Steve Peczovich each drove in two runs.

Wollaston finished with an 8-13 mark after edging Norwell, 3-2, in the finals.

Andy Eames drove in the winning run and pitched eight-hit ball to pace Wollaston. Steve Spencer walked three times and scored twice for Wollaston.

Wollaston's biggest win was a 7-6 decision over Randolph when it scored six runs in the seventh inning. The win played a big part in knocking Randolph out of the zone title in its division.

Weymouth eliminated Duxbury in two straight games to open the state tournament, while Braintree, which edged Randolph for the title in its division, also won two in a row over Taunton. Braintree and Weymouth are playing this week in the second round.

During the regular season Braintree edged Weymouth, 1-0, in their first meeting and the teams played to a 5-5 tie in the second game.

Quincy Women's Softball

Trainer's, Graphics Division Winners

Trainer's Truckers finished first in Division A of the Quincy Women's Softball League and Leisure Graphics was first in Div. B, each with a 15-1 record.

Morrisette Post defeated Beau's Place Sunday to win the sixth and final playoff spot in Div. A. In Div. B Quincy Co-Op topped Balducci's to gain the sixth playoff position.

Trainer's and Shea's Formica in Div. A and Leisure Graphics and Luke's Lounge II in Div. B drew byes and await the winners of the quarterfinals. They will begin competition in the semifinals Aug. 9, 11 and 13.

Morrisette meets Fowler House and defending champion Kane's takes on Luke's Lounge I in the Div. A quarterfinals, while Washington Tap faces Quincy Co-Op and South Shore Bank meets Kelly's Pub and Grub in the Div. B quarterfinals.

All games are played at Collins Field.

The final standings: DIVISION A - Trainer's, 15-3; Shea's, 14-4; Fowler House, 14-4; Kane's Place, 13-5; Luke's Lounge I, 10-8; Morrisette, 7-11; Beau's Place, 7-11; Darcy's Village Pub, 6-12; Dee Dee's, 4-14.

DIVISION B - Leisure Graphics 15-3; Luke's Lounge II, 14-4; Washington Tap, 13-5; Kelly's, 11-7; South Shore Bank, 9-8; Quincy Co-Op, 9-9; Balducci's, 9-9; Port O Call, 7-11; Lydon and Russell, 4-14.

Youth Soccer League Has Openings

The Quincy Youth Soccer League has openings for boys 6 and 7 and girls 12-15 for the fall season. The league is also looking for coaches at all age levels. Anyone interested is asked to call Frank Delaney at 471-1645 or Paul Tangney at 328-4915.

HN Women's Softball League

Hustlers, Neckers, Bunnies Win

The Hustlers, coached by Teddy Miller and Ed Kelly, defeated the Castaways, 8-3, in the Houghs Neck Women's Softball League.

Kit Smith and Joanne Pacetti had the key hits for the Hustlers and Rene Carmody played excellent defense. Mal Morrell was the winning pitcher.

For the Castaways, Terry

Monroe and Darlene Gardner played strong defense and Laura Miller and Jayne Reynolds led the offense. The Castaways are coached by Jim Goldie.

The Neckers, coached by Jimmy Gilmore, edged the Sea Gals, 6-5. Sandy O'Hare had a triple and Carol Carpenter and Pat Adams starred defensively. Marge McNulty was the winning pitcher. For the Sea Gals Joanne Steen and Sue Callahan had key hits and Mary Ellsworth, Marlene Gill and Denise Shea shone on defense. Willie Knopf coaches the Sea Gals.

The Bunnies, coached by Rick Tatem, topped the Hustlers, 7-2, with Ruthie Galligan having a three-run homer and Maureen Maher two hits. Maher also stood out on defense. Cindy DeBlois, Trudy Gray and Lisa Sullivan played well on defense. For the Hustlers Jeanne Schuerch had three hits and Kathy Carmody made several fine catches in left field.

The Sea Gals forfeited to the Castaways.

Louis Holds 4-Point Lead

With three Sundays to play, Louis' Cafe has a four-point lead in the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League.

Finlay's Variety is in second place and Houghs Neck Package and Quincy Yacht Club have the inside track on the last two playoff spots.

Last week's scores: Package 6, Chennette Plumbing 5; Louis 19, Yacht Club 4; Finlay's 16, Manet Shell 14.

Burgin, Foley In Title Showdown

Burgin Platner, which had the best record in the league, and Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, were scheduled to meet Tuesday night in the deciding game of their Junior Baseball League playoff series after breaking even in their first two games.

Burgin edged Foley's, 6-5, with Tom McDonald the winning pitcher, giving up five hits, striking out 15 and walking five. In two playoff games he has given up 10 hits, struck out 31 and walked seven. Robbie McDonald pitched the seventh inning. Mark DiMattio is batting .727 in the playoffs.

Burgin scored the winning run in the seventh inning when Bob Thomas walked, Brian Mosher reached on an error and Tom McDonald singled in the winning run.

In the bottom of the inning, with two outs, Jack Gatley singled for Foley and went to second on a passed ball. He tried for third on another passed ball but was thrown out by catcher DiMattio.

Mike Sanda and Gatley pitched well for Foley.

Foley evened the series with a 5-2 win as both Sanda and DiMattio pitched well. Both starters had to come out after six innings by league rules and Mosher went in to pitch for Burgin in the seventh.

Sean Gatley hit his second homer of the game, a three-run blast, to win it for Foley's. Jim Dennis pitched the seventh for Foley's and retired Burgin in order.

Koch Broad Meadows Parents, Awards Night Thursday

The Broad Meadows District of the Koch Club Boy's Baseball and Girl's Softball Leagues will hold its 21st annual Parents and Awards Night tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Junior High School Field located at 50 Calvin Rd., Quincy.

Rain date is Friday.

The Koch Club Boys Baseball and Girls Softball Leagues are commemorating the 32nd anniversary of this spring and summer recreation program conducted at four neighborhoods in the city each year. The West Quincy, Montclair and North Quincy Districts have concluded the 1982 season of activity.

Anthony T. Delmonico, director of the Broad Meadows district unit, will be emcee for the Awards Program and each boy and girl with the necessary attendance requirements will be presented a trophy in recognition of his dependability. Following the program, ice cream will be distributed to the boys and girls in attendance.

The Broad Meadows District, since 1964, has annually awarded $100 each to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School.

These scholarships have totaled $3,800, of the $10,000, presented by the Koch Club since 1959. The Koch Club, in 1973, on the 25th Anniversary of the organization, established a long range scholarship fund that will begin in 1998 on the 50th anniversary of the club guaranteeing perpetual annual scholarships.

The 25th anniversary events brought $3,000, for the project and the North Quincy and Broad Meadows Districts donated $1,000 each. The gifts and interest have increased the fund to $12,000.

Misfits Upset Woodward's

The battle for first place in the Perkins Softball League further tightened when the Misfits upset league-leading and defending champion Woodward's, 7-5.

The Sixty-Niners, Foley Chrysler and Caldwell's are a game apart in second and third place respectively (Foley and Caldwell's are tied).

The standings: Woodward's,

12-4; Sixty-Niners, 9-6; Foley, 8-6; Caldwell's, 8-6; South Shore Buick, 8-8; Misfits, 6-9; North Quincy Taxi, 6-8; Bengay Bombers, 4-14.

Morrisette Bows To Pittsfield In Title Game

Pittsfield Pitcher Ray Meandro held the Morrisette Junior Legion baseball team to a solitary single by Jack Thrower in the ninth inning as the boys from the Berkshires romped to the state title with an 8-1 victory over the Quincy team at Pittsfield.

Morrisette got its only run in the seventh inning as Jack Twomey walked, took second on Thrower's ground up, took third when Billy Myers reached on an error and then scored on a wild pitch. Meandro walked seven.

Morrisette loaded the bases with only one out in the fifth when Thrower and Myers walked and Frank Barone reached first on an error. But Meandro speared Fred Prezioso's line drive and threw to third to double up Thrower.

Dick Hoxie started on the mound for Morrisette but was relieved by Myers in the third after giving up three runs and loading the bases en route to two more.

The Morrisette lineup included: Barone ss, Prezioso 3b, DePaulo 3b, Hebert rf, Tempesta rf, Durante 2b, Twomey lf, Quintiliani c, Thrower c, Hoxie p, Myers p, Collins p, Volpe ph.

Morrisette won the first game of the best-of-three series at Adams Field, 4-3, in the 10th inning when, with two out, Prezioso reached on a dropped third strike, took third on Dick DePaulo's single and scored on a wild pitch.

Pittsfield pounded three Morrisette pitchers, Myers, Al Collins and Eddie Calkins, for 10 hits and a 10-2 victory to tie the series when it moved to Pittsfield. DePaulo's home run with Barone aboard in the eighth accounted for Morrisette's only runs.

RECORD THREATENED

Joe Hoffman's record 10-under-par 63, a mark for the Wollaston Golf Club that had not even been approached in 11 years, was assailed unsuccessfully twice in one weekend by Al Denly and Charley Bowen, both members of the Wollaston club.

The long-hitting Denly, playing with a foursome that included Les Smith, Tom O'Connor and Paul Ochs Jr., carded an 8-under-par 65 on Saturday with six birdies and an eagle in a stunning round that included a 12-foot putt on the second hole.

Bowen, a deadly putter who made the quarterfinals of the state amateur tournament earlier in the year, also fired a 65 including nine birdies on Sunday while playing with O'Connor, Buster Duane, Charley Pickering and Chick Gallagher.

LITTLE LEAGUES FALL

Russ Gibson and Ted Payo combined to pitch a four-hitter for the Fall River Little League team that eliminated Quincy from the state playoffs by a 4-1 score. Fall River went on to play Beverly for the title and a spot in the eastern finals in New York.

The Quincy Lineup included: DiGravio lf, Debold ss, Bains rf, Adams cf-p, Corbin 1b, Maglo 2b, McGhee 3b, Richardson c, Lamanno p, Ashland rf, Eldrick 2b, Plant cf.

GRAND SLAM BY RICHARDSON

Rotary's Joe Corbin allowed the Granite Trust Little League team only three hits but one of them was a grand slam home run by Bobby Richardson that gave Granite Trust a 5-1 victory. Vaughn scattered six hits on the mound for the Bankers.

TENNIS CHAMP

Ed Karoghlanian of Millis defeated Jerry Murphy of Scituate in straight sets to win the South Shore Men's singles tennis crown for the second straight year. Quincy's entry in the doubles, Brooks Harris and Phil Maloney, was eliminated in the semi-finals.

RAIDERETTES IN FINALS

Mary Pratt's Raiderettes qualified for the finals of the Metropolitan Boston Girls' softball tourney with victories over the Boston Teledocs, 10-6, behind the five-hit pitching of Pat Nestor, and the Dorchester Paulettes, 14-7, with Doris Blackwell on the mound.

LITTLE FOOTBALLERS OPEN

Quincy's first Little Football League held practices under coaches Johnny Joyce, John Tirrone, Joe Mayo, Ed Sweeney, Gerry Colletta, Lloyd Carroll and Larry Creedon. President Pete Zoia said Quincy boys who will not reach their 14th birthday by Sept. 1 are eligible.

BRET HALL SHINES

Bret Hall pitched a two-hitter, struck out 10 and belted a two-run homer in the second inning to lead Coach Paul Bandini's Wollaston Travelers to a 3-0 victory over Bryant's in a Little League game. He walked none in the six innings.

SPORTS BITS '51

Whiteman's pulled off a stunning upset in the opening round of the Quincy Park League softball playoffs with a 4-3 win over the North Quincy Associates at Rotary Field. . . The Boston Bruins, giving up on goaltender Jack Gelineau, were reported ready to make a deal with the New York Rangers for Chuck Rayner.

• Babe Ruth League

Houghs Neck, Hancock A.L., N.L. Champs

Houghs Neck Legion won the Babe Ruth League's American League for the second year in a row with a 17-5-0 record, while Hancock Bank took the National League crown with a 14-7-1 mark.

The playoffs got under way last night (Wednesday) and continue tonight (Thursday) when Police faces Morrisette at Adams Field and Elks meet Firemen at Merrymount Park at 5:30.

Houghs Neck, Fire Dept. and the Elks of the American League qualified for the playoffs, while Hancock Bank, Morrisette and Police Dept. of the National League qualified.

In its final game of the regular season Houghs Neck walloped Morrisette, 9-2, scoring five runs in the first inning. Dave Zurums was the winning pitcher, pitching 3 2/3 innings of no-hit ball.

Mac McDonald had two hits and Greg McGlame had three for HN. HN pulled off another double play and has averaged more than one a game in a brilliant defensive season.

Houghs Neck earlier had rolled over Sons of Italy, 14-3, taking a 7-0 lead after two innings. Pat Hennessey was the winning pitcher and also led the attack.

Three 13-year-old players, Bob Callahan, Shawn Mullen and Dennis DeCoste had RBI singles for HN.

In a five-run second inning MacDonald singled, John Carroll singled, Rob Steen moved the runners along with a bunt and Hennessey, Peter Furtado, Zurums and McGlame all singled.

Furtado drove in two runs in a three-run fifth.

Playing for Hancock are Marc Abboud, Steve Higgins, John O'Connor, Rich Olender, Steve White, Joey Cullen, Brian Flukes, Jim Folk, Billy LaForest, Andy Lenhardt, Marc Farrand, John Nee, Kyle Robertson, Joel Rogers and Marc Zimmerman.

The team is coached by Ace Abboud, Bill LaForest, Fred Flukes, Red Farrand and Rev. Leo Pollard.

The Elks had to win one of their last three games to make the playoffs and they won two of three to finish with a 13-8-1 record.

The tie was a 10-inning 7-7 game called by the curfew at Adams Field against the Firemen, whom the Elks meet in the first rounds of the playoffs.

The Elks defeated Local 1139, 13-6, with Al Martell pitching all the way for the win. He also had two triples, a walk and reached on an error.

The Elks fell behind, 3-0, in the first inning but, playing without two starters, Dan Kelly and Bill Connelly, out with the hit, battled back. George Hartford and Dan Baker had two hits each and Tom Logan, Matt Ostiguy, Mark Simonelli and Bob Carty also had hits. Brian Roche laid down a perfect squeeze bunt, Mike Farrand caught another fine game and had a hit and Baker made two outstanding plays at shortstop.

The Elks topped the Police, who are also battling for a playoff spot, 14-6, with Baker pitching all the way. He also had a long triple and a single.

Kelly had a triple and two singles, Martell two hits, Hartford two, Rob Reynolds two and Farrand and Logan had RBI hits. The Elks had three double plays.

Two 13-year-old outfielders, Bob Bubenic and Roche, filled in capably as Simonelli, Carty and Connelly were out of action.

The final standings: American League - Houghs Neck, 17-5-0; Fire Dept., 14-7-1; Elks, 13-8-1; Barry's Deli, 12-10-0; VFW, 8-14-0; Golden Print, 6-16-0. National League - Hancock Bank, 14-7-1; Morrisette, 12-10-0; Police, 12-10-0; Sons of Italy, 10-11-1; Local 1139, 6-16-0; Granite City Electric, 6-16-0.

Triple A All-Star Game Sunday

The Quincy Triple A Baseball League all-star game will be played Sunday, Aug. 8, at 8 p.m. at Mitchell Field.

The American League roster will consist of Tim Burke, Tara O'Brien, George Murphy and Mike Sullivan of the Indians; Scott Rogers, Brian Mahoney, Danny McCluskey and Jim Ross of the Tigers; John Cicerone, John Quill, Richie Ames and Mike Bogan of the Yankees, and Paul Hamman, Jeff Denneen, Kevin Roche and Ed Herman of the White Sox. Jim Tempesta, Ralph Wheeler and Sal Salvatore are the coaches and Judi Swanson manager.

Playing for the National League will be Kenny Bythrow, Neil Plante, Scott Murphy and Danny Sumpter of the Braves; Joe Manning, Mike Curtin, John Bertoni and Mike Cangemi of the Dodgers; Carl Stasky, Steve Doran, Neil Timberlake and Gary Silverman of the Mets and Vinnie Moran, Eric Goodman and Joe Robichaud of the Pirates. Irish Collins, Frank Bertoni and Wayne Elmsmore are the coaches and Paul Adams manager.

Cunniff Hockey School Aug. 9-27

The annual John Cunniff Hockey School, operated by the former Boston College and pro star and assistant coach of the Hartford Whalers, will be conducted Aug. 9 through 27 at the Quincy Youth Arena and Eastern Nazarene College.

Cunniff will be assisted by Mike O'Connell of the Bruins, Mike Erzuze, captain of the U.S. 1980 Olympic Championship team; Joe Mallen, head coach at UMass/Boston, and Jack O'Callahan, a defenseman for the '80 Olympic team and the Chicago Black Hawks.

For information call 471-6864 or 479-8371 or write John Cunniff Hockey School, P.O. Box 1519, Boston, 02104.

Transportation will be available for those needing it.

Soccer Camp Registration Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold registration beginning today (Thursday), for a week-long soccer camp for boys and girls age 9 to 13.

This will be the first soccer camp sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and will be conducted rain or shine Aug. 16-20, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said "the instructor to counselor ratio will be approximately 1 to 10. The camp is designed to give city residents a low cost alternative for youngsters who desire specialized instruction in sports but who can not afford the high cost of residential sports camps."

Camp directors for soccer are two Quincy residents, and local area high school soccer coaches for many years. John Osgood, head coach of boys at Norwell High School and Paul Bregoli, head coach of boys at North Quincy High School.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department office on a first come first served basis.

Enrollment will be limited to insure the quality of instruction.

The camp will be held at the Stadium Soccer Field and a rain site will be announced.

Cost of program is $15. for the week.

Point Panthers Registration Saturday

The Quincy Point Panthers of the Quincy Youth Football League will conduct player registration Saturday, Aug. 7, at 10 a.m. at Fore River Field.

The team is open to boys ages 10-14. A birth certificate, baptismal record or other appropriate document is required at the time of registration.

For more details call Frank Brillo at 471-0057 or Tom Donovan at 472-4324.

Registration and practice for the Panthers' cheerleaders will begin Monday, Aug. 9, at 5:30 p.m. at Fore River Field.

All girls 11-14 and/or grades 6-9 are encouraged to participate. Following tryouts a varsity and junior varsity squad, consisting of 22 total members will be selected.

For more information call Patti Myers at 472-1375 after 6 p.m.

Thomas P. Owen, 75, Retired Shipyard Foreman

A funeral Mass for Thomas P. Owen, 75, of Quincy, a retired foreman at the Fore River Shipyard, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. Joseph's Church.

Mr. Owen died Sunday in Quincy City Hospital.

A ship salvage expert, he was a member of the salvage team involved with freeing the Italian freighter Etrusco which ran aground in Scituate in 1956.

During World War II, he was a supervisor at the Hingham

Shipyard when it set a record for building a warship in four days.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret C. (Elkhay) Owen; two sons, Donald T. Owen of Concord and Peter R. Owen of Hyde Park; two daughters, Sandra M. Gill of Hull and Carol Snyder of Clayton, Mo.; a sister, Sadie Thomas of Quincy; and seven grandchildren.

He was also the brother of the late Helen Haddad and Catherine Thomas.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

Frances McCarthy, 81, Retired Bookkeeper

A funeral Mass for Frances (O'Leary) McCarthy, 81, of Quincy, a retired bookkeeper for Jordan Marsh, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. Anne's Church.

Mrs. McCarthy died Sunday in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

She had lived in Quincy for 27 years.

Born in Milford, she was a member of the Jordan Marsh 25 year club.

Wife of the late Mr. Samuel McCarthy, she is survived by a stepson, James McCarthy, and a sister, Margaret Wood, both of Wollaston; and a brother, James O'Leary of Clearwater, Fla.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

By TOM HENSHAW

Each person at the service in Houghs Neck Congregational Church Saturday morning was given a rose, a final fond remembrance from Uncle Roy.

LeRoy L. Rounseville, who dispensed roses for a half century as proprietor of Roy's Flowers on Washington St., died July 28 at City Hospital at the age of 73.

He was known for his "roses of remembrance" which, in conjunction with WJDA, he used to send to those having birthdays or anniversaries or living in nursing homes.

That was why roses were given to those attending his funeral.

"Think of it," said the Rev. Peter Corea, "as the gift of Uncle Roy as he gives to each of you a perfect and brilliant rose which will forever be the still small beautiful voice of God."

"Uncle Roy was a name he was pleased with," said the Rev. Corea in his eulogy.

"It embodied the cosmic reality that he was, in fact, the patriarch, the grower, the raiser, the father, the king of flowerdom in the lives of thousands."

"Over the years he gave to the children of this community approximately 6,000 geranium plants in the spring on Children's Day. What can we find in the kingdom of God on earth to compare with that?"

LeROY L. ROUNSEVILLE

His favorite was the yellow rose.

"He knew that any flower would express the appropriate message in the appropriate way but for him the best of all was the yellow rose," said the Rev. Corea.

"In truth, he did not sell flowers. He allowed flowers to express their universal and general language, which is ultimately the language of God designed to say the appropriate utterance on any and all occasions."

Mr. Rounseville also mailed out thousands of anniversary book-marks, which he called "Golden Rules".

A past King Lion, he devoted many years to the programs of the Quincy Lions Club to aid the blind. He spent more than 25 years driving the blind to and from meetings.

"Over the years," said the Rev. Corea, "he transported them, provided for them, entertained them, and gave much of his energy to sharing his life with them and their lives with others."

A native of Middleboro, Mr. Rounseville lived in Quincy for 52 years. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural School, now the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

He was a member of the Rural AF and AM., the Alpeppo Temple Shrine, Taleb Grotto of Quincy, the Quincy Elks and the United Commercial Travelers, of which he was past president.

He leaves his wife, Elda C. (Buchanan) Rounseville; two sons, John W. Rounseville of Quincy, and LeRoy L. "Sandy" Rounseville Jr. of Weymouth, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics in Quincy; a daughter, Nancy L. Kropp of Florida, and six grandchildren.

He also leaves two sisters, Mildred Ziemer of Roslindale and Muriel Cook of Warcham.

The funeral was held from the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made in Mr. Rounseville's memory to the Memorial Fund, Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., Quincy, 02169.

Accidents Decided Hussey Vote On 1 A.M. Bar Closings request that veteran and fraternal organizations be exempted from the rollback, and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

"Because I believed in the free enterprise system," said MacDonald, "I reluctantly voted for most of the 2 a.m. closings. It has proven to be a colossal failure."

Voting against the rollback were Gillis, who said the board should go after the individual trouble spots, and Police Chief Francis Finn, who favors a statewide rollback.

City Hall's Council Chamber was nearly filled with spectators at the two and a half hour meeting which began with Mayor McCauley leading the proponents.

McCauley cited the abuse of alcohol as the biggest problem today, and he described people who leave drinking establishments "fried to the eyeballs" or "stewed to the gills."

"There's a saying that fools and drunks are protected by the law," said McCauley, "evidently that's true."

McCauley said the board should protect law abiding citizens.

"They should be able to reasonably expect to be able to drive home and not get maimed or killed," said McCauley.

Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon said, "All 12 bars open to the public (with 2 a.m. closings) have operated in the past with 1 a.m. closings successfully."

"I honestly believe they can be successful again with uniform closing hours in the City of Quincy."

Rosemary Wahlberg, executive director of Quincy Community Action, Inc. but speaking as a Quincy citizen, said that limiting alcohol consumption by one hour would be a symbolic message that the leadership of Quincy is concerned with alcohol abuse.

Atty. Neil Kerstein, representing the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, compared the situation with patrons and drinking establishments to a moth attracted to a light.

"You can't change the moth's natural instincts," said Kerstein, "It's more effective to change the lightbulb."

Also speaking in favor of the rollback were Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, Pat Yovino, vice president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, Quincy residents Alan Alsoff, David Smith and Edward Roberts, Susan Downey of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism; Ruth Adams, president of the Town House Tenants Union; Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary of the Wollaston Park Association; Arthur Chandler, president of the Quincy Citizens Association; and Andrew Klein, chief probation officer at Quincy District Court.

Atty. Barry led off the rollback opponents which also included Steven Esdale and Edward Kane of Quincy.

Barry said that the number of traffic fatalities has no relation to 2 a.m. closings.

"How the quality of life in Quincy is reasonably related to the rollback from 2 to 1 a.m. is beyond my comprehension," said Barry who added that there is a public need for some bars to be open until 2 a.m.

Barry suggested a compromise package which included no alcohol served in bars after 1:30 a.m., a 1 a.m. curfew of people entering bars, and allowing patrons only one drink in front of them from 1 to 2 a.m.

When asked by Gillis if the compromise would be legally enforceable, Golden said it would not.

Barry closed by saying that the 2 a.m. closings were essential to the establishments he represents.

"I felt a little bit like Custer at Little Big Horn," said Barry after the meeting, "there were too many Indians."

Barry said he didn't know if his clients would appeal the decision to the ABCC or the superior court.

He also said he didn't think the board's action would help the drunk driving situation.

"I feel we did a good thing," said MacDonald.

"We'll know one year from today if it works."

Hitchhiker Robbed

Richard J. Scanlon of Bittern Rd., Adams Shore, reported to police last week that three youths who picked him up hitchhiking on Quincy Shore Drive later robbed him at Sea St. and Albatross Rd.

Scanlon said two of the youths punched him in the eye, threatened to "stick" him apparently with a knife and then made off with $75 in cash and a Seiko wrist watch.

He described one of the youths as about six feet tall and blond. The second was about 5-foot-8 with black hair. The third youth was a woman. They were driving a 1967 Pontiac Firebird.

Janet Petkun Winner Of Historical Society Essay Contest

Janet Petkun of 23 Haviland St., Wollaston, a 1982 graduate of North Quincy High School, has been named winner of the Quincy Historical Society's Richard T. LaBrique History Essay Contest.

compiled by interviewing residents of Quincy who lived through the great depression of the 1930s.

Second place went to Nancy Coleman of 300 Billings Rd., North Quincy, a 1982 graduate of the Woodward School for Girls.

The essay contest honors the memory of Richard T. LaBrique, a writer for the Patriot Ledger whose interest in Quincy's history was demonstrated in his many articles on the subject.

The essays for the contest were

WEEK OF: AUGUST 5

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

A delaying factor is at work now; allow for postponements in travel matters especially. Older family member may be unexpectedly generous with cash and/or outstanding personal advice.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Check tendency to be less than receptive to constructive advice. Behind-the-scenes negotiations favor your advancement and include a possible increase in pay and/or prestige.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Short-distance travel opportunities are sprinkled with surprises, some romantic and some expensive. Guests may bring along their own guests. Loved one expresses feelings in a quiet way.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Domestic standstill ends by weekend, allowing you time to pursue favorite interests. Suspicious friend becomes more trusting, let him/her know that you're aware of this change.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Home improvement schemes benefit from comparison shopping and consultation with a creative friend. Travel mixes nicely with romance. Reconciliation is emphasized by Monday or Tuesday.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Financial project launched now could have positive results, provided you avoid short-cuts. Independent family member may do a turn-around by the weekend; be available to provide support.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Misunderstandings lead to unnecessary complications, double-check instructions and messages, especially if you're in charge of a project. Romance is refreshingly upbeat through the weekend.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

You urge to be independent can take companions by surprise but leads to pleasant discoveries. If campaigning, explore more imaginative approaches. Financial belt-tightening is important right now.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Dealings with teachers, employees and in-laws are favored. Transactions with accountants or lawyers could become rocky. Relationships with Gemini and Leo are intellectually stimulating.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Stalled project is reactivated; you may need to do some quick thinking to get things moving. Communication breakdown means you contact your favorite missing person.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Travel features minor delays and detours, but also some interesting discoveries. Words said off the record can be taken to heart. Domestic dilemma benefits from all-new approach.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Being attentive to health means not doing anything in the extreme. Limelight is yours on the weekend, and it won't hurt to acknowledge all your supporters.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

A magnetic and colorful personality are your trademarks. Sometimes, you're too devoted to your interests alone. This year's accent is on family celebrations. Financial ingenuity and some sacrifice needed till early in 1983; it all pays off by the spring.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 5th, actress Loni Anderson; 6th, actress Lucille Ball; 7th, statesman Ralph Bunche; 8th, actor Dustin Hoffman; 9th, comic David Steinberg; 10th, actor Noah Berry, Jr.; 11th, host Mike Douglas.

MISGUIDED MISSILES

More than 50,000 Americans will lose the sight of one eye during the next 12 months. Most of these losses will be the result of accidents.

Fortunately, there is protection available and should be used when you are doing jobs in which you can EXPECT some danger to your eyes. For example: sanding or painting a ceiling or working under the car. Most hardware stores carry various types of plastic eye protectors that will shield against low velocity particles that may fall or blow into the eye.

But for the more dangerous hazards, caused by misguided missiles at a high velocity, that's a different story. These are jobs such as: hammering nails into concrete, operating a high-speed tool such as a grinding wheel, or a cold chisel. To prevent serious eye injury from high speed objects, you should always wear industrial strength, heavy-duty protective safety glasses. The lenses are strong enough to do the job.

New "left-handed" sugar has reverse molecular structure so that, though it tastes sweet, it passes through the body unused. It does not harm diabetics, nor cause cavities, nor put pounds on dieters. Not mass-produced yet, but lots of reluctant dieters are waiting.

New blood test detects pregnancy even earlier than standard urine test. It can check the health of the embryo, too.

Acupuncture in Los Angeles uses a laser beam instead of needles to relieve pain. Procedure is said to be painless and fast, and there is no danger of needle infection.

Tamoxifen seems to prevent post-surgical recurrence of some forms of advanced breast cancer. It's an anti-estrogen agent.

If eye drops are stored in the refrigerator, it's easier to feel whether the dose is going into the eye, or dripping on lashes or cheeks. Makes for more accurate medication, says an Oklahoma ophthalmologist.

Traffic Helicopters Draw City's Wrath

By TOM HENSHAW
First it was the noise of air-planes taking off from Logan Air-port in East Boston. Now it's the hazards of helicopters hovering over West Quincy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is writing to the Civil Aeronautical Board and the Federal Aviation Administration to see what can be done about the squadrons of helicopters that hover over the Southeast Expressway during commuter rush hours.

Four of them have been forced down in the past five years and three people, including a woman who lived in a Station St. apart-ment, were killed in one of the mishaps in 1977.

"People in West Quincy are concerned about it," said City Councillor James A. Sheets. "We don't mind helicopters but four, five or six of them representing different news media are too much."

Sheets, Rep. Michael W.

Morrissey, Bob Curry of Malden St. and Joseph Valante of Unity St. met with McCauley last week to discuss the problem. The mayor then consulted with City Solicitor William Golden.

Golden advised the mayor that the city has no jurisdiction over aircraft "except where such vehicles are taking off or landing without authorization."

He suggested that the most effective step to control the whirly birds would be letters of complaint to the CAB and the FAA.

"I am writing to those federal agencies to acquaint them with the problem," said McCauley, "and to ask them to look into it."

"There could be a pooling of helicopters to provide traffic information to the radio stations. It seems as though you're not in the in-group if you don't have a helicopter over the Expressway."

In the past six months, engine trouble has forced three of them to land, one in the South Shore Plaza parking lot, another in the Old Colony Crushed Stone area and the third in Antonelli's steel yard.

Court Convictions Still

More Rapes Being Reported, Solved Here

Lt. DAVID ROWELL

By TOM HENSHAW

More rapes are being reported in Quincy than in most cities its size and Police Chief Francis X. Finn thinks that's pretty good.

It's not that there are more rapes in Quincy.

"Quincy has been encouraging people to report rapes," said Finn. "We have given our officers good sensitivity training. We report more than most communities because of it."

It's been helpful in solving the cases, too.

There were 24 rapes or attempted rapes reported in the city during the year that ended June 30, according to a report by Lt. David F. Rowell, head of the detective bureau.

Eight of them were cleared by arrest. The suspect was identified in nine others. That's 17 out of 24 solved. The national average is 2 per cent, said Finn.

"It's been holding like that for about five years," said Finn, "but we're still not getting all the rapes reported. It's a very sensitive subject, a very demeaning crime."

Rowell's report noted that all Quincy police officers have received preliminary training in investigations of sexual assaults. Several detectives have received intensive training in handling the victims of rape.

"The way the victim is handled by police can determine the quality of the information she can give on the crime," says Det. Barbara DiNatale, who is involved in many of the cases.

"If she is not handled with sensitivity she can block out her recollections at a time when police need the information most. The needs of the victim have to come first."

Despite Quincy's record in clearing up rape cases, it is still very difficult to obtain a conviction in court.

"The old myths about rape are still around," says DiNatale.

"A lot of people still feel

May Help School, Fire Budgets

City Gets $1.7-M In Added State Aid

The City Council will hold a special meeting Monday, Aug. 23, at 5:30 p.m. to decide how to parcel out some $1.7 million in additional state aid.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announced the figure Tuesday after deductions had been made from the $2.5 million in additional state aid that was contained on the cherry sheet.

McCauley declined to disclose his recommendations for use of the $1.7 million windfall but indications are that a portion of it will go to restoring some of the cuts in the school and fire budgets.

He said he plans to meet Wednesday, Aug. 18, with Council President John J. Lydon Jr. to formulate an agenda for the Aug. 23 meeting.

"I'll have a list of recommendations ready at that time," said the mayor.

McCauley indicated two items that will not be on his list are salary raises for the mayor and the council and an ordinance creating a Sewer, Water and Drain Department.

Civil Service recently ruled that the department, which was included in the 1983 budget, was not properly created by ordinance and the appointment of Russell Eranio as superintendent is now in court.

"The creation of the department might become pertinent to the court case," said McCauley.

He said he is putting off consideration of the pay raises recommended by a special study committee until after Labor Day when the Council begins meeting in regular session.

(Cont'd on Page 10)

Eranio Plans To Retire From Sewer, Water In '83

Russell Eranio, newly named superintendent of the combined Sewer, Water and Drain Department, plans to retire soon from the post he has held for less than a month.

Eranio testified Monday in U.S. District Court, Boston, that he intends to look into retirement at the end of the year but would stay on the job until March, 1983, to secure his pension rights.

Former Water Supt. Owen Eaton is suing the city and Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson for violating his civil rights by ousting him in favor of Eranio.

Eranio, who is 52 and a permanent city employee since 1951, said his retirement next year would hinge on the city instituting a new sick leave buy back plan for early retirement under which he would receive $7,500.

Eranio also testified before Federal Judge Robert Keeton that he didn't really want the newly created post when McCauley named him June 28 and he had assumed until then that Eaton would get the job.

"I didn't feel I should bump Owen," said Eranio.

Before the merger of the departments, Eranio was superintendent of the Sewer Division while Eaton headed the Water Division. Eranio said he has known Eaton since he was 10 years old and they grew up together.

Trial of Eaton's civil suit was delayed in starting when his attorney, Deirdre Harris, filed a motion to add McCauley and Anderson as individuals to the suit against the city.

Neither of them appeared in court Monday morning with an attorney and Judge Keeton was reluctant to permit them to act as their own counsel, pointing out that "there are substantial risks involved."

"This exposes you to liabilities as individuals for damages and attorneys' fees," the judge warned. "They are seeking judgements not only against the city but against you for which you will be responsible."

He warned them that City Solicitor William B. Golden could not properly defend them, too, because his primary responsibility is to represent the city.

"There are conflicts of interest between you and the city," he said. "It is possible for the city to win and you to lose. Mr. Golden may have to shift responsibility to you in order to defend the city."

3 Bids Received For Cranch School Sale

A special committee, headed by Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, will meet today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. to review three bids received for purchase of the abandoned Cranch School.

A proposal now before the City Council to rezone the land on which the school stands must be dealt with before the sale can be made.

The three proposals include: Housing Organization Realty Trust and Conodine, Inc., $305,000. Plans to build 15 units of condominium housing in the $48-69,000 price range. $130,000 would be in direct cash and $175,000 partial payment as sales of condos are closed. Taxes would be about $24,000.

First Granite Corp., Inc., $75,000. Plans to build 19 units of housing. Offer to purchase carries condition that construction financing is secure. Taxes would be $28,750.

Thacher Montessori School, Inc., $144,000 to be spent in any way the city suggests. $44,000 is the token purchase price, $101,000 for building repairs, and $10,000 in lieu of taxes.

Foley said his committee will consider not just the money offer but the quality of the development, the firm's track record and the project's compatibility with the neighborhood.

More Rapes Being Reported, Solved Here

that a girl who is hitchhiking can expect to be raped. We feel that she made an error in judgement but that's no reason to expect to be raped.

"Is a man who wears a $300 suit or an expensive watch asking to be robbed?"

"A lot of juries still feel that if they don't see blood and bruises that the woman must have been a willing participant. They don't realize that a rapist can accomplish as much by placing the victim in fear."

Over the years in the Police Department, DiNatale has learned to think of rape not as a sex crime but as a crime of violence.

"Statistics bear this out," she says. "Age and appearance make no difference to a rapist. The victim can be an infant or she can be 90. The rapist is expressing anger. He wants to demean someone. Sex is just the method."

Quincy police are also equipped to counsel rape victims but the long-range followup counseling is done by the Norfolk County Rape

Unit. Sometimes victims of lesser crimes involving sex need counselling too.

"The lesser crimes like indecent assault and indecent exposure are almost as traumatizing as rape," says DiNatale. "Women are more apt to report them now because of our handling of them."

Rowell's report showed that there were 16 cases of indecent assault and battery reported in Quincy in the past fiscal year, five of which were cleared by arrest, and 29 cases of indecent exposure, 11 cleared by arrest.

There were also five instances of persons "accosting a member of the opposite sex." Two persons were arrested for it.

Quincy Point Break

James Orlowski of Presidential Drive, Quincy Point, reported to police Monday that thieves stole jewelry and a Nikon camera from his apartment.

Orlowski said his wife, Jeanne, returned home about noon and found the screen to a sliding door ripped and the bedroom and baby's room ransacked.

Windows Smashed

Vandals broke windows at three locations over the week-end.

One window was broken in the rear of the Torre Dei Passeri Social Club, 252 Washington St.

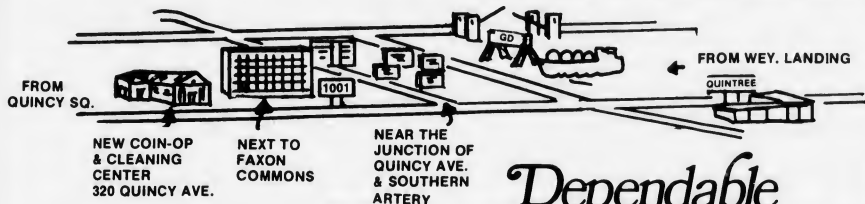

A 4-by-8 foot picture window was smashed at the Furnace Brook Golf Club. Four windows were broken at the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery office.

Estimated Tax Bills Due Out In September

By TOM HENSHAW

Faced with another delay in revaluation, Mayor Francis X. McCauley is getting ready to send out estimated property tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1983.

McCauley announced Tuesday that he has asked the Board of Assessors to seek approval from the State Department of Revenue to send out the estimated bills for the second year in a row.

"Final completion of the property revaluation program in Quincy will not be done in time to set a tax rate and to mail out real and personal bills to meet the Nov. 1 payment date," said the mayor.

He said estimated bills will be mailed by the last week in September and will be due Monday, Nov. 1.

The bills will be one half the total tax bill paid for fiscal 1982 and, said McCauley, they will be some 22 per cent higher than the second half bills paid on June 28.

Last year, the city also sent out estimated tax bills for the first half when it appeared the tax rate would not be ready in time. Eventually, the city was permitted to use old valuations for a tax rate.

McCauley said that this year taxpayers will be able to apply for abatements on the first half bills. They were not allowed to do that last year until the second half bills came out.

The mayor said that second half bills for 1983 will reflect the revaluations, which are currently in the hands of the state for certification.

Once the new values have been certified, the city will have to send out impact notices to property owners and permit them 90 days in which to file an appeal.

Now, a new delay has arisen. "The values determined by P. R. C. Jacobs, the reval firm, reflect those in the fall of 1980," said McCauley. "Already they are outdated. They're probably 10 per cent higher now."

"We will have to hire another company to update them as required by the state every two years."

McCauley noted that the city will also have to decide if it wants to classify its property as residential, commercial or business and devise a system for classification.

"The Jacobs company was almost a year behind when they gave the figures to us for state certification," said the mayor.

IRANIAN revolutionary draws bead as Ayatollah Khomeini looks on in mock execution during demonstration by Moselm Iranian Students Society last week in front of City Hall.

Iranian 'Execution' Startles McCauley

A group of about 10 members of the Moslem Iranian Students Society picketed City Hall Thursday, staging what is known in revolutionary circles as "guerilla theater" to protest the rule of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

"I looked out the window and they blindfolded some guy and they looked like they were going to shoot him," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, whose office overlooks Constitution Plaza. "It kind of startles you."

The Iranian demonstration coincided with an art show put on by the Quincy Recreation Department to display the work of the youngsters on the playgrounds this summer so it was difficult to tell who drew the larger crowd.

GD Seeks Share Of $480 M Contract

General Dynamics wants the Navy to know it is ready, willing and able to undertake half of a $480 million contract for conversion of eight fast container ships for the Pentagon's Rapid Deployment Force.

And that it will not accept new private work for the Fore River shipyard until the Navy makes a decision this fall. Three other shipyard teams are competing.

In May, the shipyard won a $1.25 million Navy design contract which keeps it in competition for half of the $480 million contract.

General Dynamics and Todd Shipbuilding of Seattle have teamed in the design phase of the final proposal.

It is expected that each would get four of the ships, which would cost about $60 million each to convert, if the design is selected.

In the past, the Navy has questioned General Dynamics' commitment to Navy work.

The shipyard has sought to change that view through meetings in Washington between state and Navy officials, and a full page ad in the Washington Post in May.

General Dynamics also announced that it lost $11 million during the second quarter of the year. That includes $8.7 million in cost overruns on a coal carrier for New England Electric Co. under construction at Fore River.

Hussey: Class And Courage

Well, you'd have to say the lady has class—and courage, too.

Dr. M. Grace Hussey, Quincy's new health commissioner, projects class.

And, last week, she displayed some classy courage when she cast the key vote that will close all Quincy drinking spots by 1 a.m. beginning Sept. 1.

To the average guy in the street—and even to some of them parked around bars whether they agreed with her or not—she had "a lot of guts."

In fact, she may have won a nickname: "Old Ironsides." Not in disrespect, but as a compliment.

You can still get in an argument over whether the bars should close at 1 a.m. or be allowed to stay open to 2 a.m.

But there's little argument over the fact that Dr. Hussey walked into a lion's den at last week's City License Board meeting and wasn't afraid to face the crowd or the issue.

She was in the hot seat. Whatever she went, was it. But she had known she would be in that spot when Mayor Francis McCauley named her to succeed Dr. Robert McKeogh as health commissioner.

McKeogh had had the key vote but never got around to casting it, before McCauley ousted him mainly on grounds he was not serving as a full-time health commissioner.

Dr. Hussey knew the man who appointed her was in favor of rolling the 2 a.m. closing back to 1 a.m.

She says he didn't know how she was going to vote until she heard both sides. And that McCauley didn't influence her vote.

When she says it, she makes you believe it. "There were many considerations," she said in her decision.

The number of accidents involving drinking and driving was a major factor.

"You can't compare anything to a life," she said.

The way she felt, if one life could be spared by reducing the drinking time by an hour, then that's the way it should be.

McCauley had no influence on her, she declared.

"I felt I was voting as a free person," she said.

Her vote, combined with Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald who already had taken a position in favor of the rollback, decided the matter then and there.

HUSSEY

She made no attempt to duck the issue, sidestep it or stall the decision.

She made up her mind. And that was that.

THE MOOD AT the liquor hours rollback hearing was serious but there was a couple of light moments. Atty. Richard Barry, representing drinking spots trying to get a compromise on the closing time had praise for Councillor Joanne Condon, one of the spearheads for the 1 a.m. closing.

Barry then noted: "Not many people know this, but Joanne and I lived together in the same house at the same time."

After allowing the comment to sink in with the spectators attending the hearing and a look of astonishment creep across Mrs. Condon's face, Barry finished with comic timing: "But, not in the same apartment."

Later, Barry and City Solicitor William Golden were debating the legality of Barry's proposed compromise on the rollback. After referring to Barry as "my brother", Golden explained he used the term as one attorney to another. "He's not really my brother."

At that point, Mrs. Condon piped up: "Did you ever live together?"

THE OPTIMISM of the movie "Annie" seems to appeal to Quincy residents. Arthur Chandler, owner of the Wollaston Theatre, Quincy's only remaining movie theater, reports that Monday night's crowd was the second largest ever. "There were over 700 people," said Chandler. Of course the ticket prices at the theatre are easy to take, too. Monday and Tuesday nights, admission is only $1.

NICK TRIFONE, owner of Trifone's Litre and Wedge on Washington St., reports that he had one pair of extremely happy customers last week. The Quincy couple, who didn't give their names, bought an instant game ticket and won $5,000 on the spot. "They celebrated with a bottle of champagne," said Trifone.

Firefighter Robert Batson To Receive Legion Heroism Award

The American Legion's Award for Heroism will be presented to Quincy Firefighter Robert Batson Saturday, Aug. 14, at an 8 p.m. joint installation of officers of the Houghs Neck Legion Post and Auxiliary.

Batson rescued two-year old Sean Faherty from his crib during a house fire in July at 1236 Sea St. He also led Debby and Timothy Faherty, the youngster's parents, to safety from their second floor apartment.

The presentation will follow the installation of 1982-83 Post officers by Norfolk County Commander Martin Doliner and his suite.

John Christensen will be installed as commander; John Hirtle and Brian Young, senior and junior vice commanders; Victor Davidson, adjutant; William Morrill, finance officer; Thomas Bulger, chaplain; Richard Wainwright, historian; and Robert Clarke, sergeant-at-arms.

Willard Timcoe, Mary Timcoe, Alice Scribner, Emerson Younie, Martin O'Leary, Wayne Elmore and Frank Canisius will be installed as executive committee members.

Jessie Morrill will be installed as auxiliary president; Crystal Smollett and Nancy Bishop, senior and junior vice-presidents; Mary Timcoe, secretary-treasurer; Donna Marani, chaplain; Betty Vecchione, historian; and Corinne Barton, sergeant-at-arms. Terri Casey, Cindy Clark, Nancy McKeon, Jean Bragg and Diane Clark will be installed as executive committee.

The event is open to the public.

O'Connell Project Set On School St.

(Quincy Sun photo by Dave Gillsbury)

Kenneth Fallon Named QCBPA Executive Director

Kenneth P. Fallon, Jr. will become executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association effective Sept. 13.

Announcement was made by QCBPA president, Bernard Reisberg.

Fallon will succeed Austin Wickens who has been executive director the past five years.

Reisberg said Wickens has expressed a desire to leave because of other interests.

Fallon was vice president and commercial manager of radio station WJDA in Quincy until his retirement July 31. He had been associated with the South Shore Broadcasting Company for nearly 30 years.

Reisberg noted that Fallon, a life long resident of Quincy, "is well acquainted with and understands the goals and plans of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association."

Reisberg said Fallon is familiar with all aspects of the downtown Quincy area, the desires of business owners, bankers and professional organizations.

Fallon, is a director of the Granite Cooperative Bank, a past President of the Rotary Club of Quincy, a past International President of the United Commercial Travelers and a member of Wollaston Golf Club in Milton.

Defense Workers' Trailer Camp Is Opposed

Kenneth J. Kelley, secretary of the Quincy Central Labor Union, moved to block a proposed auto trailer camp on Quincy Ave. East Braintree, about a half mile from the Fore River Shipyard.

The concept of the camp was designed to accommodate defense workers and their families but Kelley denounced the idea as a "menace to public health and civic pride."

The labor leader suggested that a better idea would be the establishment of "a housing authority in this city as the first step toward securing a low cost defense housing project for Quincy."

Any housing constructed by such an authority, he said, would also be "suitable for post-war occupancy."

TRADE SCHOOL PROBLEM

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin called a special meeting of the School Committee to determine what the city should do about expanding its inadequate trade school facilities.

The question that Burgin planned to put to committee members was this: Shall he apply for federal aid for construction of a new building or merely for aid in building a new addition to the present school?

Burgin pointed out that two years ago he had sent to the City Council an order for $261,000 to build an addition plus administrative offices in Quincy High School but the Council had taken no action.

BETTER TRANSPORT SOUGHT

The Quincy Defense Council adopted a resolution asking for better local bus, trolley and rail service for defense workers in an effort to cut gasoline usage and possibly head off gas rationing.

The Council recommended that a survey be taken of public transportation "with a view to rearranging their schedules for the better accommodation of industrial employees who now drive to and from their plants and offices."

MORE MONEY FOR DUMP

Public Works Commissioner Ezekiel C. Sargent told the City Council that rubbish disposal through the current dump system is less costly than an incinerator and he asked for additional funds to perfect it.

Sargent said an incinerator would cost the city some $25,000 a year while he was getting only $6,500 a year to maintain the city dumps. He figured $15,000 a year would do the job much better.

Eranio Plans To Retire In '83

Nevertheless, McCauley and Anderson decided to act as their own attorneys and Judge Keeton accepted the motion to add the two city officials as individuals as defendants in the suit.

In her opening address, Harris told Judge Keeton that Eaton was dismissed from his job because he backed public works employees "unfairly" treated by McCauley and Anderson.

She said McCauley and Anderson several times promised Eaton the top job in the combined Sewer, Water and Drain Department which eventually went to Eranio.

Eranio, who was the major witness of the first day of the trial, testified that he contributed $100 to McCauley's campaign and $20 to Raymond's war chest. He said he planned to contribute another $50 to Raymond but never got around to writing the check.

Eranio also made these points:
 • Eaton once worked for him as a laborer in the Sewer Division and he found his performance excellent. He refused to give an opinion of Eaton's work as water superintendent.
 • He is not familiar with many aspects of the water department, including the computer billing system, fluoridation, chlorination, water pressure, pollution and chemical content of drinking water. Others in the department know all that, he said.

• He does not hold a state license to operate a drinking water facility but he is in the process of applying for one. Bill Maver, general foreman in the department, has such a license. Maver testified that he has missed several weeks work with illness in the past year and that he, too, is contemplating retirement in 1983.

Members of the City Council were subpoenaed by Harris but only Richard J. Koch Jr., Patricia Toland, James A. Sheets and Theodore P. DeCristofaro were present in the courtroom. Only Koch and Toland were called to testify.

Harris sought to elicit from them information on whether they would have voted differently on the Sewer, Water and Drain Department budget if they knew Eaton was going to lose his job.

But Judge Keeton ruled that she could not inquire into the state of mind of a member of a legislative body when he or she voted during a judicial procedure.

McCauley and Anderson chose to exercise their rights to act as their own attorneys twice.

McCauley asked Eranio if the learning process that he was going through now was any different from Eaton's experiences when he was moved from the Sewer Division to water superintendent in 1972.

Eranio agreed that it wasn't. Anderson asked Maver, who has been an employee of the Water Division since 1945, why he was not promoted to superintendent when Eaton was named in 1972.

"Nobody asked me," said Maver. "I wasn't very interested, anyway."

The trial was recessed until yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

City Gets $1.7-M In Added State Aid

He said he has not made up his mind what salaries to recommend for the mayor and the councillors. The committee suggested $48,500 for the chief executive and $4,500 for part time councillors.

At the top of the list for the Aug. 23 agenda will be an appropriation to enable the city to refund the illegal $5 penalties that were charged to parking fine delinquents.

Other items pending for the special meeting include:

- A petition from residents on or near Burgin Parkway objecting to the use of the street by South Shore Bus Line for picking up and discharging passengers.

- Rezoning of land bounded by Willett St., Hamden Circle and Rawson Rd., Wollaston, from Residence B to Open Space. Public hearing was held July 28.

- Abandonment of a portion of O'Connell Ave., West Quincy.

- A resolve asking a study of traffic flow at the intersection of Robertson and Willard Sts., West Quincy.

McCauley Plans Cemetery Work By Contract

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is considering contracting out landscaping and other work in the city's cemeteries but so far the city has received only one proposal.

"This may be the only firm in the country that does such work," said McCauley, who did not disclose the name of the company. The mayor's aide, Arthur Foley, is trying to find another, he said.

McCauley said the firm's local representative is former Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti.

EAT RIGHT FOR DENTAL HEALTH

Q: What kind of diet promotes a healthy mouth?

A: When people think of diet and a healthy mouth, they usually think of two items: getting adequate fluoride and avoiding sweets. Of course, these two guidelines are valuable. But the mouth is made up of a variety of different types of tissues of varying nutritional needs.

It has long been thought that growing teeth and bones in children required adequate calcium in the diet. Some researchers now feel that the balance of calcium and phosphorus is more important.

The soft tissues of the mouth require adequate vitamins for health. For instance, vitamin C deficiency causes scurvy, with gum disease as one important sign.

Adequate vitamins, minerals, carbohydrate and protein are needed for oral health. In fact, the ideal diet for oral health is the same as an ideal diet for general well-being.

Wollaston Man Faces Charges In Brutal Rape

A 40-year-old Wollaston man faces the possibility of life imprisonment on rape charges in what a detective called "one of the most destructive mutilations of a person I have ever seen."

Richard T. York of 107 Rice Rd. was due to appear in Norfolk Superior Court today (Thursday) on charges of rape, sodomy and mayhem following a July 24 incident in Wollaston.

York pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court last week and was ordered held in $100,000 surety or $10,000 cash bond. Prosecutor George Jabour had asked for higher bail.

Police said the 22-year-old victim of the rape, who lives in Lynn, was so badly injured that she required surgery. She was reported in satisfactory condition at Beth Israel Hospital.

Detectives Thomas Healy, Thomas Casey and Richard Bergeron made the arrest Friday at the Rice Rd. home where York lives with his mother.

Lt. David F. Rowell, head of the Quincy Police Detective Bureau, said evidence also was seized at the Rice Rd. home and sent to State Police lab in Boston for analysis.

Squantum Church Writes President A Letter About Israel

A letter to President Ronald Reagan was signed Sunday after the morning worship service by members and friends of the First Church of Squantum.

The letter decried "the wanton destruction of human life and property now being committed in Lebanon by Israel."

"We are particularly concerned about these violations of human rights because we believe that Israel is using American weapons to commit these crimes," the letter stated.

Those who signed the letter indicated their support of President Reagan's efforts to bring Israel under control. They urged him to seek Israel's immediate withdrawal from Lebanon, oppose future arm sales to Israel and the Arab states, and enforce the Arms Export Act, which prohibits Israel's use of US-supplied weapons for offensive purposes.

The letter was available after both services Sunday morning. Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, said that almost everyone at each service signed it.

Sermon for the morning was entitled, "Is Your Life Holy?" Mary Ruth Scott provided the special music.

Doris Sinecker and Joan Hansen were greeters. The Fellowship Hours were hosted by Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne.

There will be two services at the church again next Sunday morning at 8 a.m. and 9:15 a.m.

Crisis Center Topic On Ch. 3 Friday

Mrs. Esther Sanger will discuss the Quincy Crisis Center, which she founded, Friday at 4:15 p.m. on Quincy Cablesystems Channel 3.

Friends of the crisis center held their first meeting of the year recently in St. Chrysostom's Church hall, Wollaston.

Mrs. Sanger discussed the center's goals and expectations for the coming year.

She also expressed her thanks to Quincy residents and volunteers who donated time or money to crisis center booth during the Sidewalk Bazaar in downtown Quincy.

Topic of the next meeting Oct. 14, will be publicity and fundraising for the center's 24 hour hotline and dispatch mobile unit.

The group meets every other month. For more information, or to receive the next newsletter, call 471-7075.

St. Boniface Holding 15th Annual Festival

St. Boniface Church, Germantown, is conducting its 15th annual festival through Saturday on the church grounds.

Hours for the event, which began yesterday (Wednesday) are 7 to 11 p.m. through Friday, and 4:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday.

There will be a mini-midway.

refreshments, rides and a penny sale in the church basement.

Proceeds will help reduce the parish debt.

The event has been planned by about 200 people over the past year.

Yard Sale At Squantum Church

There will be a Yard Sale and Lawn Party at the First Church of Squantum Saturday, Aug. 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The sale will feature used clothing, bric-a-brac and books as well as food.

The public is invited.

TURNABOUTS in action during Quincy Bay Race Week.

45th Edition One Of Best Ever Large Turnout, Weather Make QBRW 'Perfect'

By TOM SULLIVAN

The weatherman gave his full cooperation again and last week's 45th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week was the most successful in years with perfect conditions with only Sunday's ocean races cancelled due to lack of wind.

"Everything was wonderful, a perfect week," said QBRW President Bernie McCourt of Quincy Yacht Club. "We couldn't have asked for better weather and I'm just thankful that the heavy rain held off until Monday. It would have been a shame if we had that rain on Sunday, our final day."

"We had the most boats in the last three years (about 1000) with more in every class and the competition was tremendous. And the Marine Parade on Sunday was unbelievable with more boats than in the last 18 years, well over 100.

"Everyone cooperated so well and this was one of the best Race Weeks we ever had."

The parade this year featured a floating review of Quincy's historical highlights and most of the skippers decorated their boats to conform with this year's Historical Quincy theme.

The winner for the fourth year in a row was Al Jago of Squantum with his cruiser, Sekoma.

Trophies will be presented to all the winners Sept. 19 at Quincy Yacht Club with all winners and guests invited.

The annual Gala Night was held last Friday night at Quincy Y.C. with McCourt and Quincy Commodore Paul McCloskey as hosts.

Rendezvous Night was held Saturday night at Town River Y.C. with McCourt and Town River Commodore Chuck Reynolds as hosts.

The other QBRW officers were Vice President John White, Secretary Edward Simpson and Treasurer David Maloney.

AL JAGO of Squantum Yacht Club won the top prize for best decorated boat in the Marine Parade for the fourth straight year with his cruiser.

Jago Wins Parade — Again!

The colorful Marine Parade, held on the final day of Race Week, was the biggest ever with more than 100 gaily decorated boats taking part.

This year the parade featured a floating review of Quincy's historical highlights and most of the skippers decorated their boats to conform with this year's Historical Quincy theme.

For the fourth year in a row Al Jago of Squantum Yacht Club won the top prize with his cruiser, Sekoma.

Second prize for the cruiser class went to Bob Mortali of Wessagusset with Tille M. Top prize among the Auxiliaries went to Ed Synan with Cloud Burst.

Morrisette Bows Wollaston Edges Abington In Legion Tourney

Wollaston Legion edged Abington, 4-3, in the double-elimination East Bridgewater Invitational Legion baseball tournament, as Jack Brown, Steve Spencer and Mike Venna collected two hits each.

Morrisette lost to Medfield, 5-1, in its opening game.
Wollaston played Foxboro last night (Wednesday) and Morrisette faced Randolph Tuesday night. Also entered in the tournament are Fairhaven, New Bedford and host E. Bridgewater.

Wollaston started things against Abington in the first inning with two outs when Brown, Jim Kelly, Andy Eames and Bobby O'Brien all singled.

In the second Spencer and Brian Gibbons singled and Venna doubled. In the fifth Spencer singled and scored on Brown's double.

Kelly got the win as he pitched four innings of two-hit ball before giving way to Joe Conti, who picked up a save.

Bill Campbell and Venna were outstanding defensively.

Frank Kelly Memorial Track Meet Saturday

The seventh annual Frank Kelly Memorial Track and Field Meet will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The meet will be directed by the Quincy Track Club and will be covered by Quincy Cablesystems Channel 3.

Registration fee is $2 which covers entry and meal ticket. The concession stand will be open all day. Medals will go to the top three in each event.

Special events will include a battle of the sexes 50-yard dash between female shotputters and members of the news media, a celebrity mile between Quincy politicians and businessmen and a 4 x 110 relay between police and firefighters.

A contribution will be given to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Further information can be obtained by calling Carol Traficante at 328-8188 or Mrs. Irene Kelly at 479-7032.

Louis, Finlay's Clinch Playoff Spots

Louis' Cafe clinched first place in the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League and Louis' and second place Finlay's Variety clinched playoff spots after last week's games.

Louis walloped Houghs Neck

Package last Sunday, 11-2, sparked by the pitching and batting of the DeAngelis brothers, Joe and Jerry. Bob McKenzie had three hits and four RBI, Ted Miller and Jim Healy two hits each and Sully Lutchmen a clutch single. Kevin Donovan, Ed Davis and Bob McQuinn sparkled defensively in the outfield.

Last Sunday's other results: Finlay's 6, Chenette Plumbing 2, and Manet Shell 10, Quincy Yacht Club 8.

Next Sunday's schedule: Chenette vs. Shell, 9 a.m.; Yacht Club vs. Package, 10:15; Finlay's vs. Louis', 11:30.

The standings: Louis', 10-2-1; Finlay's, 8-4-1; Manet Shell, 5-7-1; Yacht Club, 5-7-1; Package, 5-7-1; Chenette, 3-9-1.

8 Teams In Suburban Playoffs

The South Suburban Softball League finished its regular season last Sunday with eight teams qualifying for the playoffs, which get under way Sunday.

PJ's finished first in Division A with a 19-5 record and the Tigers finished on top in Division B with a 21-3 mark.

In the first round of the playoffs PJ's will face Safford at Snug Harbor and Farrington will meet Means at Cavanagh Stadium in Div. A, while the Tigers will face Koch Club at Montclair Field and Bill's Welding will play the Outlaws at Montclair in B.

All games will be played at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Burgin Wins Junior League Title

Burgin Platner won his first Junior Baseball League championship in 32 years when it defeated Foley Plymouth-Chrysler, 6-3, in the deciding game of the playoff finals, finishing with a 23-3 record, the best in the league.

Tom McDonald was the winning pitcher, giving him a 10-1 record for the season. He gave up only 32 hits, walked 31 and had 141 strikeouts. He also was outstanding offensively, batting .588.

Foley's scored twice in the first inning when Dan Biagini reached on an error, Mike Sanda tripled and Sean Gatley singled. Burgin also scored twice in the first when Tom McDonald singled, Robbie McDonald reached on an error and John Quilan doubled.

Burgin clinched it with four runs in the second. Billy Murphy doubled. Bob Thomas singled, Wayne Chambers walked, Dave Santosuosso singled in the winning run and Robbie McDonald singled.

Foley's added a run in the fifth when Jim Dennis walked and Biagini doubled.

Mark DiMattio also had an outstanding pitching record for Burgin, finished at 8-0, giving up 31 hits, walking 31 and striking out 90. He also strided on offense with a .547 average.

Applications Available For Quincy Tennis Tourney

Applications for the 12th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament are now available, announces tournament director John Franceschini.

The Granite Co-Operative Bank and the Quincy Recreation Department are co-sponsoring the event open to Quincy residents. The tournament will be held from Sept. 8 through Sept. 19 at the Quincy Vo-Tech tennis courts.

There are 11 divisions: men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, men's singles, men's doubles, mixed doubles, women's 50 and over, women's 35 and over, women's singles, women's doubles, boys 16 and under, and girls 16 and under.

Applications can be obtained at the Quincy Recreation Department Office at 100 Southern Artery or at the nearest Granite Co-Operative Bank. For more information call the Recreation Department at 773-1380 ext. 204 between 8:30 and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. All entries must be in by Sept. 3.

Nelson, Duggan Bat Brooksidess To 11-2 Victory

Jackie Nelson and Paul Duggan struck the big blows in a seven-run second inning as the South Quincy Brooksidess walloped the Squantum Yankees, 11-2, in the opening game of the South Shore League playoffs.

Dave (Lefty) McKeag scattered eight hits and struck out eight as Milton blanked the Braintree White Sox, 2-0, in the other best-of-five semi-final series before 3,000 at Cunningham Park, Milton.

Brooksidess' Tony Settino blew the Squantum hitters down with his fastball at Wendell Moses Playground, limiting the Yankees to five hits. Both Squantum runs came in the second on two singles, a walk and a hit batsman.

Nelson doubled home three runs for the Brooksidess in the second inning and Duggan followed that blow with a three-run triple. Rab Slattery, Red Sullivan and Wally Casella also had safe hits in the big inning.

The Brooksidess lineup included: Sullivan 3b, Locke 1b, Duggan cf, Casella 2b, J. Slattery rf, F. Slattery c, Nelson lf, D. Clay lf, Reggie ss, Settino p.

The Squantum lineup included: Elia ss, J. Fraser c, McLeod cf, Courtney rf, Dixon lf, Cunningham 1b, Howitt ph, Dinsmore pr, O'Brien 1b, Fitzpatrick 2b, C. Fraser 3b, L. Clay p.

CHAPMAN PROTESTS

It required the services of eight policemen to escort Fore River Manager Bootus Chapman from the field after he protested a decision at second base during an 8-5 loss by the Shipbuilders at Pawtucket in a New England League game.

Jiggs Donahue allowed seven walks, six hits and all eight runs in the four innings he worked before being relieved by Fran Desmond, who silenced the Pawtucket bats for the remainder of the game.

Fore River, which was battling Pawtucket for fourth place in the league, scored twice in the second on singles by Jay Desmond and Harry Collins, and three times in the third on a triple by Tony Novello and a double by Jay Desmond.

The Fore River lineup included: McCarthy cf, Lohan 2b, Novello rf, O'Malley ss, Small lf, J. Desmond 1b, Collins 3b, Quinlan c, Donahue p, F. Desmond p.

SECOND SHUTOUT

George Clark chalked up his second consecutive shutout, giving up only two scratch hits, walking one and striking out 12 to lead the front-running Italian Mutual Society to a 4-0 victory over the Comets in a Park League game at Kincaide Park.

The IMS lineup included: Gallo 3b, Reggie ss, Meara 1b, Kusser lf, Coggeshall cf, M. Daley cf, Brady 2b, Pettiti rf, Carerra c, Clark p.

The Comets lineup included: F. Hall 1b, Jackson 2b, Dunning cf, Lambert c, P. Hall 3b, Thorp lf, Kane ss, Thompson rf, Faherty p.

CHALLENGE CUP TO BOSTON

The historic Quincy Challenge Cup moved to the Boston Yacht Club after Crawford Ferguson's Trim Three captured the third race in one hour, 33 minutes, 25 seconds for a three race total of 21 1/4 points.

Willard Smith of the defending champion Squantum Yacht Club, sailing Breezin' Thru, which was owned by Clinton Ferguson, the winner's brother, finished second, and Claire II, skippered by C. Willis Garey, finished third.

KETOLA OLYMPIC CHAMP

William Ketola, 15-year-old Quincy High School track star, was crowned champion of the fifth annual Olympic games of the Finnish Temperance Society after winning the shot put, the steeplechase and the hop, step and jump.

CADDY CHAMPION

George Curley of Newton, formerly of Quincy, put together a 77 in the morning and a 70 in the afternoon to take the 23rd annual state caddy championship on his 17th birthday at Furnace Brook Golf Club.

SULLIVAN NAMED COACH

Bill Sullivan, a well-known athlete at Quincy High School and Mt. St. Mary's College, signed to coach the Quincy Alumni football team and announced that the first practice session would be held Aug. 24 at Faxon Field.

ZAPUSTAS SETS RECORD

Joe Zapustas, Brooksidess outfielder, belted a league-record three home runs — two of them in the fifth inning — and drove in eight runs as the Brooksidess defeated Milton, 18-5, in the final game of the South Shore league season.

Tris Speaker, the great American baseball player, was known as the "Gray Eagle" because of his gray hair and his speed in playing the outfield.

• Senior Babe Ruth

Data Wins 2, Loses 1 In Playoffs

Data Services, the Quincy entry in the Senior Babe Ruth League, ended the season on a positive note, winning two of three playoff games.

Quincy defeated South Weymouth, 8-6, and Savin Hill, 5-4, but lost to Norwood, 3-0.

In the South Weymouth game Dwayne Wilcoxon pitched an outstanding game. Leading the attack were Pat Connolly with two hits and an RBI, James Jaehning with a triple and two RBI, Tony Green with two hits and two RBI, and Paul Cahill, Tom Foley and John Toland with one hit each. Also playing well were Mark Chambers and John Billie.

In the win over Savin Hill Connolly was the winning pitcher and struck out six. Green had two hits and two RBI, Jaehning and Bill DiMaggio one hit each. Chambers executed a perfect squeeze bunt with the score tied. Wilcoxon made an outstanding defensive play.

In the loss to Norwood, DiMaggio struck out five and Green, Jaehning and DiMaggio led the attack.

Also playing for Quincy were Gerry O'Rourke, Danny Pearson, Brian Donovan, Ken Wright and Scott Owens.

The team was coached by Bill and Neil O'Brien. Marc O'Brien was bat boy.

• Bankers Softball League

Hancock Rebounds To Hold Lead

Hancock Bank rebounded from an 8-7 defeat to top Quincy Co-op, 8-5, in the second game of a doubleheader to remain three games ahead of South Shore Bank and Bay Bank in Div. 1 of the South Shore Bankers Softball League.

Trailing, 7-4, going into the final inning of the first game, Hancock tied the score with two outs as Paul Cahill reached on an error, took second on an overthrow and scored on Charlie Cahill's single to right. Gerry Reardon hit a towering home to center to tie the score. However, in its half of the inning, Leo Sheehan, Bob Foy and Al Marino all reached for Quincy Co-op and, with the bases loaded, the winning run scored on a base on balls.

In the second game Reardon, Connolly and Joe Silva swung the big bats for Hancock, while Dennis Driscoll and Marino shone for Quincy.

South Shore once again waited until the last inning to explode, this time for nine runs, and topped Quincy Savings, 16-9. Bay Bank kept pace with South Shore, sweeping a doubleheader from Atlantic Data, 17-2 and 8-6.

South Weymouth Savings defeated State Street, 7-3, and moved to within a game of Div. 2-leading State Street. Al Catania outdueling Bill Sims and he has almost singlehandedly brought South Weymouth back into contention after a 1-4 start.

The standings: Division 1: Hancock, 11-5; South Shore, 8-8; Bay Bank, 8-8; Atlantic Data, 4-11. Division 2: State Street, 8-5; South Weymouth, 7-6; Quincy Co-op, 7-8; Quincy Savings, 6-8.

• HN Women's Softball League

Sea Gals Win Top Spot

The Houghs Neck Women's Softball League ended its regular season last week with the Sea Gals on top with a 15-5 record.

The Neckers, Castaways and Hustlers were tied at 12-8 and the Bunnies finished at 9-11.

The league playoffs got under way this week.

The Neckers edged the Bunnies, 6-5, with Janice Gilmore and Marge McIntyre leading the offense and Mary Gallagher and Carol Carpenter playing strong defense. For the Bunnies, Debbie Ghimi, Lisa Sullivan and Nancy Carmody sparked on defense and Ruthie Gallagher and Trudy Gray led the attack.

The Hustlers rolled over the Sea Gals, 20-5, as Kit Smith and Kathy Carmody hit home runs. Marie Piscatelli a base-clearing triple and Rene Carmody a double. For the losers, who scored all their runs in the seventh inning, Paula Clark had two hits and Terry Brill played well on defense.

The Castaways edged the Bunnies, 9-8, in extra innings, with Darlene Gardner driving in the winning run. Marion Knudson for the Castaways and Nancy Carmody for the Bunnies pitched well.

Bunnie Donna Brill hit what looked like a home run, but was thrown out at the plate on an excellent play by Jayne Reynolds and Linda Mortimer.

In the final regular season game the Hustlers topped the Neckers, 7-3. Helen Gleason played excellent defense for the Hustlers and Kathy Brooks and Kit Smith had key hits. Mal Morrell pitched well. For the Neckers, Maria Burke made a sensational catch preventing a possible home run and Carol Carpenter made several fine plays at third base.

The league officials wish to thank Joe Pacetti, Red Riley, Bill Foster, Ron Adams, Ed Kelly, John Sullivan, Bobby Brill and John Brill for volunteering their services as umpires.

The coaches are Rick Tatem, Bunnie; Jimmy Goldie and Rusty Preble, Castaways; Teddy Miller and Ed Kelly, Hustlers; Jimmy Gilmore, Neckers, and Willie Knoff and Johnny Lyons, Sea Gals.

The third annual City of Presidents marathon will be run Sunday, Oct. 17, at 11 a.m. This is a full 26.2-mile marathon certified and sanctioned by the New England Athletics Congress and is being sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, Stop and Shop and Pepsi Cola.

The marathon is run twice over the same 13.1 mile loop. It is run entirely within the city of Quincy. There are some hills but for the most part, it is flat and fast, taking the runners by John Adams and John Quincy Adams birthplaces, the Adams Historical site and other Quincy landmarks.

A minimum of 75 awards will be presented with the winner receiving the Mayor's Trophy. There also will be division prizes for those 18 to 39, 40 to 49 and 50 and over.

ELECTRICAL CORD SENSE

Extension and appliance cords can become red-hot, fire-starting wires. If the insulation on the cord wears away, leaving two wires exposed, they may touch together and short-circuit, letting sparks fly. Doing anything to damage this precious insulation is dangerous. You shouldn't fasten cords down with nails or staples, run cords under rugs from room to room, or over radiators, pipes or rough edges. You shouldn't splice cords or ever let them become badly frayed.

These may seem like inconsequential sins, but they're not. Last December a middle-of-the-night fire struck down an elderly couple before they could make it to the front door. The cause: an extension cord running under a rug in the living room. People walking over the spot had worn the cord's insulation thin. On that fateful night, the wires came together, shorted, and ignited the rug, flooding the house with deadly smoke and fire.

William A. O'Connell Award Established For Community Service

Officers and board members of the Quincy Historical Society recently announced the establishment of the William A. O'Connell Award.

The award will be presented to individuals in the community who have served the society and the Quincy community in outstanding ways.

The first award went to O'Connell, a past president of the society who was an active and energetic leader in Quincy cultural and economic communities for many years.

The plaque, presented to O'Connell states, "presented with appreciation and affection to the individual by whom it was inspired - whose service to the Quincy Historical Society and to the community at large has embodied to an exceptional degree ongoing commitment and concern in behalf of the social and cultural development of Quincy."

Town Brook Residents Visit Gloucester

Residents of Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., Quincy Center, recently visited Gloucester.

The group had luncheon at Captain Courageous Restaurant, followed by a tour of Hammond Castle and a concert on the 8600 pipe organ.

Arts Council Awards $8,000 Grants In Quincy

The Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities has approved Merit Award grants for the Quincy Historical Society and the Studebaker Mime Company of Wollaston.

The QHS will receive $5,000 for its museum and library while Studebaker will receive a $3,000 grant.

Sen. Paul D. Harold said the amounts have been awarded for 1983 and will be repeated in 1984 if the Council's resources permit.

The two-year award cycle is an effort by the Council to provide a more stable form of support for cultural, arts and humanities programs and is aimed at supporting the groups' core programs.

City Club Holds Cookout For Retarded

The Quincy City Club held its eighth annual cookout for campers, volunteers and staff of the Happy Acres Day Camp Tuesday at the Park and Recreation Complex at Merry-mount Park.

Hamburgers, soft drinks and ice cream were served and flags were distributed to each participant as a memento of the occasion.

City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro and Raymond C. Cattaneo assisted in providing and preparing the food while Camp Director John Osgood and the staff served.

The cookout is one of the community and charitable endeavors provided each year by the City Club for the elderly, hospitalized and retarded.

THE WIZARD OF OZ, part of graduation ceremonies held by the Milton Family School pre-kindergarten program, starred Christine Maus, 5, of Quincy as Dorothy (right). Michael Lampert appeared as ToTo.

Christine Maus In Wizard Of Oz

Christine Maus, 5 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maus of 3 Piermont St., Wollaston, recently starred as Dorothy in a production of "The Wizard of Oz."

Under the direction of Mrs.

Susan McLaughlin, the production highlighted graduation ceremonies of the Milton Family School pre-kindergarten program.

Christine is the granddaughter of Mrs. Winifred Lynch of Quincy.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 12

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Long-range financial goals may be subject to revision. Stubborn companion needs to be taken out of a rut. Don't be modest about displaying your talents, especially through weekend.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Salesmanship sparkles—in personal as well as professional dealings. Friend's crisis may need more help than you can offer. Reunions are accented on the weekend.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Making international friends is a highlight of the week. Some financial loose ends should be tied together by Wednesday. Avoid extremes in recreation, sunshine, spicy dishes.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Legal matters can be settled this week. Travel emphasizes its cultural side. Your changing opinions are starting to settle now, and you decide where a friendship is or should be heading.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Technical matters are more complicated than expected, but creative tasks come easily. Elusive goal comes into focus. Don't expect romance to look after itself this week.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

A socially upbeat week, but not one for extravagance. Diet, career plans and romance all benefit from a careful review. Weekend messages may not all be reaching you.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Social life slows down, and probably to your relief. Shy friends become more expressive, thrifty ones, much more generous. Travel itinerary may be subject to last-minute revisions.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Travel expenses can be surprisingly high, you can cut back—with ingenuity, and without much sacrifice. Positive thinking helps bring important results in the romance department.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

Communication with children is improving without your having to give in. Be gracious in accepting praise, your reaction means much to the giver. Express points of view with greater precision.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Family and friends help you with personal problems, but don't be entirely dependent on them. Loved one is more comfortable in expressing feelings. Property news is favorable.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22

Selling your talents can be done with style, but you mustn't be as aggressive about it. Secretive dealings are brought into the open after the weekend. Best friends are of opposite sex.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20

Time spent with officials and bureaucrats adds to an otherwise light-hearted week. Lucky romantic cycle is beginning and there are sure signs that pet plans will be launched—and with fanfare.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Sympathetic, shrewd, resourceful, idealistic—and changeable. Recent financial losses are offset by favorable cycle launched early in 1983, remember, more than luck is involved. You take part in series of confidential agreements over the next 12 months.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 12th, singer Buck Owens. 13th, director Alfred Hitchcock. 14th, actress Susan St. James. 15th, chef Julia Child. 16th, actor Robert Culp. 17th, actress Mae West. 18th, actor Robert Redford.

Quincy Bombs Randolph In Stoughton Tourney

Quincy's entry in the Stoughton Junior Baseball Tournament got off to a good start by scoring eight runs in the first inning and hammering Randolph, 11-0.

Quincy will play again Saturday morning at 9 a.m.

Dan Overby pitched a one-hitter against Randolph, striking out 14 with his blazing fast ball and walking seven. He had no-hitter going into the final inning.

Kevin Caldwell had two doubles and a single, Overby a double and single, Matt McNamara two singles, Billy Murphy a double and Steve Rabs, Nancy Flukes, Jay Rodrigues and Shawn Craig a single each. Craig also caught a strong game. Caldwell made a spectacular catch in left field and also playing key roles in the win were Brian Mosher, Jay LePasio, Mike Paccetti, Mark Gillooly, Paul Adams and John Balducci. Teddy Stevenson, who suffered a knee injury in practice, was unable to play.

Dan Duncan is managing the Quincy team, assisted by Steve Mitchell, Fred Flukes and Jim Glynn.

CITY OF QUINCY IN COUNCIL

ORDER No. 195

June 7, 1982

ORDERED:

Whereas, the City of Quincy has accepted the provisions of Mass General Laws, Chapter 90, Section 20A, and;

Whereas, said Chapter 90, Section 20A, authorizes cities to establish by ordinance a parking fine schedule, such fines not to exceed fifteen dollars if paid within twenty-one days, twenty dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and thirty-five dollars if paid thereafter; and,

Whereas, the City of Quincy does not wish to discourage parking in the downtown area, but rather wishes to encourage the lawful parking of motor vehicles for the convenience of shoppers; and,

Whereas, the current schedule of fines contained in the revised ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, Chapter 12, Article IX, Section 110 contains no provision for the increase in said fines if not paid within said time limits; and,

Whereas, the processing of unpaid parking tickets is a drain on the available fiscal resources of the City of Quincy;

Be it ordered that the revised ordinance of the City of Quincy, 1976, are hereby amended by striking Chapter 12, Article IX, Section 110 and adding in its place the following new Section 110:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Mass General Laws, Chapter 90, Section 20A, the following schedule of fines is hereby enacted:"

The following offenses shall be subject to a fine of five dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, ten dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and fifteen dollars if paid after notification to said registrar:

- Vehicle on crossing
- Restricted place other than space designated for handicapped
- Registration plate
- Defiance of corner law
- Right wheels not to curb
- Overtime parking
- All night parking
- Meter expired
- Not fully parked in lines
- No parked facing curbs in space so designated

The following offenses shall be subject to a fine of ten dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, fifteen dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and twenty dollars if paid after notification to said registrar:

- Within 10 feet of fire hydrant
- Blocking driveway
- Double parking
- Parking in space designated for handicapped plate while not having such a handicapped plate.

Any vehicle which block snow removal shall be subject to a fine of fifteen dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, twenty dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles and twenty dollars if paid after notification to said registrar.

CITY OF QUINCY IN COUNCIL

ORDER No. 195
ORDERED: June 7, 1982

Whereas, the City of Quincy has accepted the provisions of Mass General Laws, Chapter 90, Section 20A, and;

Whereas, said Chapter 90, Section 20A, authorizes cities to establish by ordinance a parking fine schedule, such fines not to exceed fifteen dollars if paid within twenty-one days, twenty dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and thirty-five dollars if paid thereafter; and,

Whereas, the City of Quincy does not wish to discourage parking in the downtown area, but rather wishes to encourage the lawful parking of motor vehicles for the convenience of shoppers; and;

Whereas, the current schedule of fines contained in the revised ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, Chapter 12, Article IX, Section 110 contains no provision for the increase in said fines if not paid within said time limits; and,

Whereas, the processing of unpaid parking tickets is a drain on the available fiscal resources of the City of Quincy;

Be it ordered that the revised ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, are hereby amended by striking Chapter 12, Article IX, Section 110 and adding in its place the following new Section 110:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Mass General Laws, Chapter 90, Section 20A, the following schedule of fines is hereby enacted:"

The following offenses shall be subject to a fine of five dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, ten dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and fifteen dollars if paid after notification to said registrar:

- Vehicle on crossing
- Restricted place other than space designated for handicapped
- Registration plate
- Defiance of corner law
- Right wheels not to curb
- Overtime parking
- All night parking
- Meter expired
- Not fully parked in lines
- No parked facing curbs in space so designated

The following offenses shall be subject to a fine of ten dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, fifteen dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and twenty dollars if paid after notification to said registrar:

- Within 10 feet of fire hydrant
- Blocking driveway
- Double parking
- Parking in space designated for handicapped plate while not having such a handicapped plate.

Any vehicle which block snow removal shall be subject to a fine of fifteen dollars if paid within twenty-one days of issue, twenty dollars if paid thereafter but before the parking clerk reports said violation to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles and twenty dollars if paid after notification to said registrar.

Bellotti Joins City In Shipyard Tax Fight

By TOM HENSHAW

Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti has agreed to file a "friend of the court" brief in support of Quincy's appeal from an adverse decision by Superior Court judge Hiller B. Zebel in the General

Dynamics tax abatement case. The judge, basing his decision on the "value of business" rather than the value of property, ruled March 4 that the city over-assessed the Fore River shipyard by $15 million and must refund millions of dollars. Bellotti, in a brief filed by his office, takes the method that the "value of business" method used by Judge Zebel for the first time is unlawful and would have a detrimental affect on other cities and towns.

The attorney general expressed specific concern that the judge's formula for evaluating real estate for tax purposes would lead to wide fluctuations in assessments and could have the effect of destabilizing local tax revenues.

General Dynamics pays some 7.5 per cent of the tax revenues received by the city.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the city has filed a 100-page brief in support of its appeal to the State Supreme Court and he expressed confidence that Judge Zebel's decision will be overturned.

"We expect to argue the city's case in mid-September and have a decision from the Supreme Court on or about the first of the year," said City Solicitor William B. Golden.

Bellotti's intervention came as a result of a meeting between McCauley and Golden and the attorney general.

"I believe that the attorney general, after reviewing the decision of Judge Zebel, realized that no city or town could live with this decision," said Golden.

"Not only is the decision unfounded under prior case law, but it really puts the 'fox in the chicken coop' by forcing the city to set taxes based on information and decisions entirely controlled by the tax payer."

Water Skis Stolen

Patrick Lydon of Washington St., Quincy Point, reported to police that water skiing equipment valued at nearly $600 was stolen from his Toyota pickup truck at the Quincy Bay Inn, North Quincy.

Taken were two water skis valued at $250 and $280 and a ski vest and gloves worth $60.

Car Taken

A 1966 Oldsmobile owned by Gerald Brean was reported stolen Monday from his home address, 123 Brook Rd., South Quincy.

$400,000 To School Dept.

McCauley Uses State Aid To Save 22 Firefighter Jobs

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will ask the City Council Monday night to appropriate $425,000 from state aid funds to save the jobs of 22 firefighters who were scheduled to be laid off after Labor Day.

The Mayor also announced Tuesday that he will request Council approval of an order appropriating $400,000 in state aid to the school department to partially make up for cuts in the 1982-83 budget.

"Since the School and Fire Departments suffered the largest cuts in the budget, I am allocating the largest amount of additional funds to these two departments," said McCauley.

The City Council will hold a special meeting Monday, Aug. 23, at 5:30 p.m. to act on McCauley's recommendations for use of $1,720,000 in state aid available for appropriation.

McCauley's recommendations total $1,496,100, leaving $225,000 available for future appropriation.

"This is a cushion," said the Mayor. "We can use it for unforeseen items that may come up. We are going to hold it for things that are absolutely necessary, for a rainy day."

McCauley's recommendations also include:

- $75,000 for the Law Department to pay legal fees for the appeal in the General Dynamics tax abatement case.
- $10,000 for the building inspector to pay contractual obligations for the demolition of condemned buildings.
- $350,000 to the unemployment compensation account to pay increases brought about by the rising experience rates.

- $65,700 to the Purchasing Department to pay computer and banking expenses to collect parking fines.
- $40,000 to the Purchasing Department to refund parking ticket surpluses that were collected by error.
- $49,870 in capital outlay to set up a Data Processing Department in the city government.
- $80,500 to the new Data Processing Department to pay for personal services (salaries).

McCauley said the School Department will get an additional $146,000 in state aid directly on the cherry sheet as reimbursement for

Police Handle 522 Home Violence Cases In Year

A husband is most likely to beat his wife, and vice versa, at 11 p.m.

Monday is most likely to be fight night at home.

And, on 522 occasions last year, violence between man and wife, parent and child in Quincy was serious enough to bring the police.

The figures come from the annual report of the Quincy Police Department's Family Service Unit for fiscal 1982, its fourth year of operation under Sgt. Thomas Frane.

The unit is made up of police officers, trained in crisis intervention and conflict management, who are responsible for handling domestic disturbance calls in addition to their regular duties.

"Family problem calls are probably the most dangerous for police," says Chief Francis X. Finn. "More police are injured handling family problems than any other call."

The unit report counts 522 domestic calls answered between July 1, 1981 and June 30, 1982, the majority of them (61 per cent) involving disputes between married couples.

Monday is the favorite day. "It's a spillover from the weekend," says Finn, "when families have been together for a couple of days."

11 p.m. is the favorite time. "The husband hits a bar on the way home," says Finn, reconstructing a most likely scenario. "He gets high. But booze is a depressant. By the time he gets home for dinner he's in an ugly mood. His wife is bull at him. The argument starts. By 11 o'clock it all hits the fan."

Of the 522 domestic calls, 216 of them involved alcohol, 18 involved drugs and five involved both substances.

Each domestic call brings a Family Disturbance Incident Report, or a DOVE report. DOVE is the acronym for Domestic Violence Ended. It lists the nature of the disturbance, who is involved, and, of special importance, are there any children.

"The real sufferers are the children," said Det. Barbara DiNatale, who is involved in many of the family disturbance calls. "If there are repeat incidents, we take a long look at

Free Parking For Shoppers Under Validated System

Shoppers may be able to park in the city's lots in downtown Quincy for free this fall if they get their tickets validated by merchants.

But those who park in the lots on their way to work or school may have to pay $2 a day.

The John Hancock Parking Area and Ross Parking Facility are due to be turned over to a private firm, according to Mayor Francis McCauley's plans for validated parking.

For those who don't have their tickets validated, there will be a charge of 25 to 50 cents an hour, according to the proposed plans. Monthly parking would be $25.

Motorists would be able to park

15 minutes for free without getting their tickets validated. There would be a charge after that.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, is heading a committee of city officials and local merchants who are considering two firms for the parking contract.

The committee will recommend either Kinney Systems of Boston, operator of the Government Center Garage, or Metropolitan Parking System, which operates 4,650 mainly in the Boston area, in a week to 10 days, according to Foley.

Foley said that the city will rent the lots to the firm that gets the contract for about $40,000 and possibly a percentage of the gross revenues later.

The firm that gets the contract would sell validated stamps or coupons to merchants, and keep the fees from those who don't get the free validated parking.

Either the city or the firm would pay about $10,000 for equipment as part of the parking system.

Parking meters in the lots would either be removed or covered with bags, according to Foley who also said meter maids would then be able to devote more time to violators on downtown streets.

Hearing Dog Link To Outside For N. Quincy Woman

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Many people value their dogs as companions and protectors.

But to Helen Walkup of North Quincy, her dog Gypsy is also a link with the outside world.

A retired LPN, Miss Walkup has a severe hearing loss.

Because her hearing impairment has been progressive over the years, her speech has retained a normal quality and she lip reads fairly well.

Her biggest problem is responding to the routine auditory demands on everyday life.

When her dog, Blondie, died last winter, the problem was compounded.

After an inquiry about hearing dogs, the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals referred Miss Walkup to Red Acre Farm whose program in Stow, is a northeast regional center for the American Humane Association.

The AHA developed the first hearing dog program in the country as a federally funded pilot project in 1976.

Red Acre Farm's trainer,

Pam Bundy, trained Gypsy, a one year old Maltese Mix from the Animal Rescue League of Boston, to alert Miss Walkup to sounds she cannot hear such as the alarm clock, telephone, doorbell and smoke alarm.

Miss Walkup visited the farm and worked with the dog which she named. She was also instructed in how to care for Gypsy.

They've been roommates now since mid June. At the end of three months, Gypsy may be certified by the hearing dog center, a non-profit organization, supported by groups such as Union Congregational Church in Wollaston.

Certification grants legal rights of accessibility into public places to the deaf person and his or her dog.

Now, Miss Walkup will no longer have to stay awake all night hoping she will wake in time for an appointment in the morning.

Her neighbors will no longer have to alert her to come to the front door.

And she has her link with the outside world.

Driver Pleads Innocent In Fatal Auto Crash

Kevin O'Neill Jr., 23, of Captains Walk, Germantown, pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court Monday to charges growing out of an Adams St. accident in which a passenger in his car was killed.

O'Neill was released in $500 cash bail for hearing Sept. 16 on charges of negligent homicide, operating under the influence and operating after the revocation of his license. John Sweeney of Miles St.,

Quincy, was killed when the 1977 Chevrolet Chevette went out of control on Adams St. early Sunday morning and hit the granite wall at the Adams National Historic Site.

Police said the car was proceeding west on Adams St. when it went out of control, knocked down 30 feet of wall, continued 60 feet further on top of the wall and struck three trees.

The owner of the car, Alan H. Rautala of Yardarm Lane, Germantown, said he was at a party on Edgemere Rd. when O'Neill and Sweeney borrowed the vehicle to buy cigarettes at a 7-Eleven.

A funeral Mass was said yesterday (Wednesday) at St.

Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Mr. Sweeney.

A lifelong Quincy resident, Mr. Sweeney was a graduate of Quincy High School and had attended UMass Boston and Stonehill College.

He had been employed as a computer analyst for the Massachusetts Lottery Commission, Braintree, for the past two years.

Mr. Sweeney was the son of Arthur F. and E. Muriel (Waldron) Sweeney, and brother of Jean B. Sweeney of the home address.

Funeral arrangements were by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. Burial was in Milton Cemetery.

Nickinello Sees 3rd Harbor Tunnel Boon

By TOM HENSHAW

A third tunnel under Boston Harbor, said State Rep. Louis Nickinello of Natick, would solve many of the South Shore's commuter problems on the Southeast Expressway.

"A third harbor crossing would divert 40 per cent of the expressway traffic at the Mass Turnpike," said Nickinello, a candidate for lieutenant governor, on a recent visit to The Quincy Sun.

"It would make life more bearable on the Southeast Expressway."

Nickinello, who is chairman of the House Transportation Committee, said the third harbor tunnel would clear up much of the congestion on Boston's Central Artery and the Dewey Square tunnel.

"It is not a Boston issue," he said, "it is a New England issue but unfortunately the proposal for a third tunnel has gotten tangled up in Boston politics."

Nickinello said he views the lieutenant governor's job as sort of an assistant to the governor.

"With my background in the legislature, in transportation and in the business community," he said, "I could add a dimension to the office. I would want to be an expeditor for the governor."

He said he feels he could work well with either Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Gov. Edward J. King or former Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"Gov. King and I share the same philosophy and most of his programs," he said. "King has had problems with his lieutenant governor. He would not have any problems with me."

"I have worked well in the past with Mike Dukakis. I would bring a new dimension to a Dukakis administration. The other candidates for lieutenant governor are liberal like Dukakis."

"I would have no difficulty supporting either Democratic nominee because I am a Democrat."

Open House Sunday At Josiah Quincy House

Response to the first one was so successful that Overseers David and Sally Bohl are holding a second annual open house Sunday, Aug. 22, from 12 noon to 4:30 p.m. at the Josiah Quincy House in Wollaston.

The public is invited to enjoy a free guided tour of historic Georgian mansion overlooking Quincy Bay that was built in 1770 by Col. Josiah Quincy. Light refreshments will be served.

The building at 20 Muirhead St., is now owned by the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities. For information on the open house, call the Bohls at 471-4508.

Quincy Quiz

Three winners in the Quincy Quiz this week. Blase Delollis of 1025 Hancock St. and James Cosseboom of 48 Greene St., Wollaston, win T-shirts and Thomas M. Moore of 6 Gilson Rd., Wollaston, wins a bumper sticker.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions win T-shirts. The next two win bumper stickers.

Only one person in each household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the chairman of the Quincy Board of Assessors?

2. True or false: The Quincy public school system will start the 1982-83 year with nine elementary schools.

3. Hickory Rd. is located in what section of the city?

4. Half Moon Island is located in: Town River Bay? Quincy Bay? Dorchester Bay?

5. What well known Quincy landmark is located at 1120 Hancock St.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. John J. Lydon Jr. is the president of the Quincy City Council.

2. The 1982 primary elections will be held on Sept. 14.

3. James St. is located in the Quincy Point section of the city.

4. False. The Quincy City Council is composed of six councillors elected from the wards and three elected at large.

5. Glad Tidings Church is located at 158 Washington St.

Condon Thinking '85

A recent printed suggestion that Joanne Condon's successful crusade to close drinking spots at 1 a.m. will boomerang and keep her from running for mayor next year, really doesn't make much sense.

The fact is she has — and had — no intentions of running for mayor next year. Period.

"I think right now," she says, "that Frank McCauley is doing an outstanding job as mayor. He is running the city like a businessman. And that's what the city is — a $100 million a year business."

But that doesn't mean she is eliminating herself from someday being the first woman mayor in Quincy's history.

"I absolutely will run for mayor someday," she says candidly. "Probably in 1985."

Of course if the City Hall roof suddenly fell in on McCauley in the next few months, she might reassess the situation and run next year.

But right now everything seems to be still falling into place for McCauley. And if they continue, he could be virtually unbeatable in 1983.

Condon has no thoughts of ever running for City Council at-large. As far as the council is, she's happy representing Ward 6.

But being mayor, she admits, is a political dream and — a goal.

She finds it hard to believe, as it has also been suggested, that her campaign to rollback the closing hour to 1 a.m. at Quincy's drinking spots will hurt her trying to raise funds for a mayoral bid.

"I just don't think business people in general will hold that against me," she says. "And I don't think people would vote against me because I helped out the drinking time by an hour."

She plans to keep statistics which she is convinced will show that Quincy is a better and safer community because of the drinking hour rollback.

Regardless, she definitely is going to run for mayor and is thinking 1985.

Two other women are considered potential someday mayoral candidates: City Councillor Pat Toland and School Committee Vice-Chairman Mary Collins.

But right now, Condon seems to be more certain making it official sooner.

"There is no reason why a woman shouldn't be elected mayor," she says. "But she shouldn't be elected because she is a woman. She should be elected because she is qualified."

And, is she qualified?

"I think," she says, "I am getting to the point where I will be qualified. I know I would try very hard to be a good mayor."

Foster Parents In Quincy Needed

Sarah, age 15, is in need of a foster home in Quincy, Milton, or Randolph. She is unable to live with her natural family at the present time. Sarah gets along well with younger children and enjoys horseback riding and swimming.

Sarah needs a stable environment with preferably a two-parent family who can provide lots of TLC and consistent limit setting. A single mother would also be considered to parent Sarah.

If you are interested in being considered as a foster parent for Sarah, please call Joan at the Quincy Area Office of the Department of Social Services, 773-8920, Ext. 32.

A 'Thank You' To Police Dept. For Making A Youngster Happy

Editor's Note: The annual Quincy Police Charity golf tournament held recently raised $1,500 to send a Quincy youngster with leukemia to Disneyland. When Anthony was selected, he said, "I've always wanted to meet Mickey Mouse and Goofy."

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The family of Anthony Lallis would like to express its thanks and appreciation for the wonderful trip to Disneyland sponsored by the Quincy Police Dept.

It was a dream come true for Anthony.

He especially enjoyed meeting Minnie Mouse.

Special thanks to Dennis Mannix and Bob Edgar who made this trip possible.

OPERATION ALERT cards are being distributed in areas where there has been a burglary in an effort to secure information and warn residents about the crime.

Operation Alert Aimed At Burglars

Quincy is turning the spotlight of publicity on burglars in an effort to curb their activities.

When a burglary occurs, police are passing out "alert" cards to homes around the neighborhood, informing residents of the crime so they can provide information on it or prevent a burglary of their own.

Operation Alert, which was implemented July 28, is being handled by the Quincy Police Crime Prevention Unit to increase residents' awareness of the crime.

"If there is a break in the neighborhood, we distribute 10 or 15 cards in the immediate area, asking for information and warning people to secure their homes," says Lt. William Murphy of the Crime Prevention Unit.

"Many times there is a housebreak across the street and the resident is not aware of it. We try to deliver the cards by hand to the people so that the officers can make contact with them."

Right now, the target area for burglars is the Montclair section so Operation Alert is being concentrated there.

"We have gotten a good response so far," says Murphy. "We have picked up a lot of information that we wouldn't ordinarily get. But it hasn't resulted in any arrests yet."

Don't Invite Burglars To Your Home

Every 12 seconds another American home is burglarized. Don't let yours be next.

There is nothing that a burglar likes better than an empty house. He's not interested in confrontations. He just wants to rob. A house that looks like no one's home is his meat.

When you go away, be it for just a day or for a week or more, try to leave your house with that continuing lived in look.

● Lock all doors and windows.
● Connect lamps, radios and TV sets in various parts of your home to automatic timers to create a lived-in appearance to the outside world.

● Leave shades and blinds in normal positions.
● Make sure no deliveries of any kind --- mail, newspapers, milk, etc. are made in your absence.
● Arrange to have the lawn mowed or the snow shoveled at normal times.

● Store valuables in a safe deposit vault.
● Close the garage door. A garage can have a particularly abandoned look.

● Alert the police and a close neighbor to look for unusual activity in your absence.
● Arrange automatically timed outdoor lighting for burglary purposes.

● Refrain from notifying newspapers of your whereabouts until you return.

You've worked long and hard for what you have. Don't let a burglar take it away from you in a few minutes of easy pickings.

Worst Rain Floods Cellars, Submerges Cars

The worst rainstorm in Quincy's history, the after effects of Hurricane Diane, dropped about a foot of rain on the city in two days, flooding 700 cellars, submerging hundreds of cars in streets and parking areas and forcing the evacuation of scores of families.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in Boston recorded an official level of 11.91 inches of rain in 40 hours, with 8.24 inches coming down in 24 hours to break the one-day record of 6.04 set on July 11, 1921. The Blue Hills Observatory reported 11.95 inches in 46 hours.

"That means a three-month average rainfall in 36 hours," said Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert. "Our drainage system was not designed to handle it. We will keep on pumping as fast as we can." Quincy drains reach capacity when four inches falls in 24 hours, he said.

Town, Furnace and Sachem Brooks all overflowed their banks and 80 per cent of the families living on Brook Rd., South Quincy, had to be evacuated from their homes. A fleet of small private boats was pressed into service to take residents of Furnace Ave., West Quincy, to safety.

City Manager Donald H. Blatt warned parents not to allow their children to wade in the flooded streets for fear of health hazards and he asked sightseers to stay out of flooded areas. He also authorized food and building supply stores to stay open on Sunday in the emergency.

More than 150 cars were submerged to their rooftops in the South St. parking area; a landslide dropped a granite wall into the home of Sarah Dalabon, 131 School St.; and a power line fell across a chain link fence at the Atherton Hough School, Houghs Neck, charging it.

SUPERIOR STUDENTS

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard, in his annual report to the School Committee, suggested that the present American school system does not encourage able secondary school students to go as far as they can. European schools, he said, concentrate largely on superior students.

"While we believe in the democratic school system of America that tries to administer to the needs of all young people," he said, "there is still a need to insure that most able students are challenged to develop their complete ability."

SCHOOL DELAY STUDIED

The School Committee asked Dr. Charles Djerf, a committee member; Dr. Brooks Ryder, the health commissioner; and Dr. James Cameron, a city pediatrician, to study the advisability of delaying the September school opening due to the prevalence of polio in the area.

Dr. Djerf was reluctant to take on the task, saying, "All this talk about avoiding polio is ridiculous. You can't avoid polio. Those who are running away from it are the very ones who are getting it."

PHARMACY TOPICS

by Edward David R.Ph.

Mild electric stimulation of the patient seems to make nitrous oxide an even more effective anesthetic, according to a professor at the University of Utah. Testing is being done in Europe.

New class of antibiotics has been introduced. Monobactams, natural products of soil bacteria (but easy to synthesize), seem to be free of toxic side effects. They're effective against infections that are resistant to existing antibiotics.

Americans are buying and using more dermatological products. Skin care items to combat acne, sunburn, dandruff, athlete's foot, psoriasis, dermatitis and such made up a $900 million market in 1980, but figures will rise to $1.5 billion by 1985, $2.5 billion by 1990.

New research in epilepsy suggests that children who have been seizure-free for four years may have outgrown the disease and may no longer need medication. Withdrawal must be done under doctor's care.

Over 60? You Can Go To State College Free

Under new legislation, persons 60 years of age and older may now attend state colleges in Massachusetts free.

The new law, according to State Senator Paul D. Harold (D-Quincy) applies to a state or community college, Southeastern Mass. University, Lowell University, or the University of Mass., so long as the school is not over-enrolled.

The statute amends the former law, which allowed for free tuition for those 65 of age or older with income less than $12,000 annually. The new law sets no income limit and reduces the age by five years.

Re-Employment Eased For Retired Workers

Retired employees of local, county or state agencies can now be re-employed for up to 120 days a year by their former agencies.

The new law, now in effect, increases the former 90-day recall provision for retired employees, and expands the total number of hours allowed per year from 720 to 960.

The recalled employees may not collect any additional pension because of the re-employment, and their earnings, when added to their pension, cannot exceed the regular salary for the job, said Sen. Paul D. Harold.

Aging Council Plans Second Lake Sunapee Trip

The Council on Aging has booked a second trip to Lake Sunapee for Aug. 26.

The trip will consist of round-trip motorcoach to and from Lake Sunapee, a two-hour narrated boat cruise around the lake with a buffet luncheon served onboard.

There will also be time for gift shopping.

For more information, call the Council on Aging office at 773-1380, ext. 243.

5 Middle School Assistant Principals Appointed

Five assistant principals for the five middle schools which will open next month have been approved by the School Committee.

The assistant principals and their school assignments are: Paul Breslin, former principal at Sterling Junior High, assigned to Quincy Point-Webster middle school.

Dennis Carini, former principal at Lincoln-Hancock school, to Central middle school.

Laura DiTullio, former assistant principal at the Pollard School, to Broad Meadows middle school.

Richard Hutchison, Quincy High English teacher, to Sterling middle school.

Karl Smith, former acting principal at Sterling Junior High, to Atlantic middle school.

The five assistant principals were approved by a 5 to 0 vote. Frank Anselmo was absent and Joan Picard voted present.

The assistants were recommended by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon following a screening and interviewing of candidates by a special team headed up by Dr. Creedon.

Prior to the approval of the assistant principals the School Committee held a public hearing on the demotion of principals and assistant principals.

Quincy-Cavanaugh Chapter Contributes $1500 To VA

The Quincy-Cavanaugh Chapter of the DAY, 29 Aphoroph St., North Quincy recently donated $1500 to the Veterans Administration Medical Center, West Roxbury.

The money will be used to purchase a Hoyer Lift, an E-Z Up Chair, and for the indigent patient fund.

A portion of the money will also help sponsor a patient to the National Veterans Wheelchair games Aug. 26-29 in Milwaukee, Wis.

The donation was made with money raised during the post's Foreget Me Not Drives recently. "We want to thank the people of Quincy who supported the drive," said Kenneth B. Taft, post commander.

Committee members for the drives were Taft, Carl Anderson, Barbara Anderson, John Connolly, Helen Taft, all of Quincy; and Col. Walter Fuller of Braintree.

Quincy Bottle Bill Committee To Meet Aug. 24

The Quincy Committee to Save the Bottle Bill will hold an open meeting Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Park Department, 100 Southern Artery.

Purpose of the meeting will be to coordinate a "clean-a-thon" throughout the city, scheduled for Sept. 25. Clara Yeomans, of the League of Women Voters who is chairman of the Committee, said "The Clean-a-thon will provide a direct service to the city of Quincy while demonstrating a need for a more permanent solution to our city's litter problem — the Bottle Bill."

While the Bottle Bill was enacted last fall over the veto of Governor King, the beverage industry has launched a heavily financed campaign to repeal the measure in a November referendum, said Mrs. Yeomans. To help counter this effort, the Quincy group will be soliciting pledges — "cash for trash" — to support their clean-a-thon.

The Quincy Committee to Save the Bottle Bill is associated with the Campaign to Save the Massachusetts Bottle Bill, a coalition of organizations that includes the Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group, the League of Women Voters, Mass. Audubon Society, the Sierra Club, Defenders of Wildlife, and more than 100 other civic and environmental groups across the state.

Citizens and civic groups interested in participating in the clean-a-thon are urged to attend the planning meeting on the 24th. For further information, call Clara Yeomans at 773-5306 or Mary Quinn at 471-6974.

Smorgasbord Aug. 27 At Point Congregational

Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., will sponsor a "Smorgasbord" Friday, Aug. 27, 5 to 7 p.m. as the opening event to "Octoberfest" to be held October 23.

Tickets for the buffet-type dinner may be reserved by calling the church office at 773-6424 or Grace Wagner at 479-3414 evenings.

The menu will include ham, meatballs, salads, baked beans and dessert.

The "Octoberfest" is the annual church fair and will include crafts, and other hand-made articles plus cheese, baked goods, candy and a luncheon.

Co-ordinators of the event are Mrs. Lee Robbins, Mrs. Grace

Wagner, Mrs. Diane Palumbo and Mrs. Betty Clark. Mrs. Betty DeCristofaro is treasurer and flea market coordinator. Mrs. Anne Sutcliffe is in charge of publicity.

Fall registration for the Adult and Community Education program of the Quincy Public Schools will be held at the Vocational Technical School Cafeteria from 7 to 9 p.m. Sept. 13, 14, 15, and 16.

Late registration will be held on Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the same location.

Approximately 70 courses will be offered in the areas of practical arts, special interests, trade extension and vocational education.

Among the practical arts offerings are courses in cake decorating, chair caning, clothing, crocheting, floral decorations, furniture refinishing, household renovations, knitting, macrame, needlepoint, oil painting, oriental rug hooking, photography, quilting, stained glass, upholstery, water color painting and wood sculpture.

Trade extension courses offered include air conditioning and refrigeration, digital computer technology, electrical code and theory, electronics, machine shop practice, offset printing, television service and plumbing code and theory.

The vocational courses include auto body, automobile service, blueprint reading, drafting, mill carpentry, oil burner service, small engine repair, welding and woodworking.

Typing, bookkeeping, travel agent career and aerobics are among the special interest courses offered.

For students interested in preparing for the high school equivalency examination, an adult basic education program is offered in the areas of reading, writing, spelling, mathematics, social studies and science.

All of the courses run for 10 weeks beginning the week of Sept. 27.

Persons desiring detailed information about the Fall Schedule may obtain a brochure at the Thomas Crane Main and Atlantic Libraries, Quincy Vocational Technical School and Quincy Junior College.

DEATH AT THE CROSSING

If your two-ton car collides with a twenty-ton locomotive, it's not difficult to imagine who comes out the loser. But can you really conceive of such an accident happening? How could you get in the path of an on rushing train with its whistle screaming and the crossing lights flashing. And in broad daylight at that?

It wouldn't make sense, would it? Yet, (hold your hat), 1200 motorists are killed and three thousand injured annually in car-train crashes. And, by far the majority are in a position to clearly see the train bearing down on them!

In one-third of the accidents, the vehicle actually runs pell-mell into the train! Typically, it happens because a driver zooms up to the crossing so fast he can't stop, especially if the roads are icy or slick.

Advice: When approaching a crossing, slow down and be prepared to stop. Don't try to race a train to the crossing. If it's a tie - you lose.

In addition to the nine appropriation orders, the City Council will have 21 other items on the agenda, including:

- Amendments to city ordinances setting up the Data Processing Department and establishing three positions within it—director, program analyst and scheduler.

Career Week Held At Central

Detectives, architects, attorneys, electricians and public officials shared their expertise with youngsters recently at Central Junior High School's sixteenth annual "Step into Society Week."

The theme this year was "Reducing Career Barriers Resulting from Rolse Stereotypes."

Speakers told of their career preparations, what constitutes competence, opportunities to advance in the field and how to improve the quality of life for themselves and their families.

Speakers included Mayor Francis X. McCauley, former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Sen. Paul D. Harold, Sheriff Clifford Marshall, former Mayor James R. McIntyre, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, Mike Burke, Mark Denneen, Stephen Presella, Albert Savitsky, Jay Tyman.

Also Janet Amoroso, Judy Banker, Barbara Bender, Marianne Bender-Power, Barbara DiNatale, Mary Farkas, Kathleen Kelly, Christine Jorge, Barbara McEachern, Mary Smith, Jacqueline Wenz.

Career Day was held in the learning center where students could visit and chat with exhibitors including City Hospital, O'Connell Gardens, the Quincy Fire and Police Departments, the Planning Department, Sabina Beauty Academy and the U.S. armed forces.

Assisting with guide services and luncheon were members of the Executive Board, including Leslie Hayes, Valerie Papapetros, Laura Miceli, Stephanie Levangie, Patrick Marcham, Christopher Roberts, William Denneen, Catherine Keenan, Diana Spada, Theresa McLoughlin.

Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor, and Joseph F. Ryan, counselor, coordinated the week's activities, assisted by John Franceschini and John T. Henderson.

15 Records Broken In Frank Kelly Meet

More than 200 took part last week in the seventh annual Frank Kelly Memorial Track Meet at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The meet is held in honor of the founder of the Quincy Track Club, which sponsors the meet along with the South Boston Savings Bank.

Fifteen records were broken, seven by girls and eight by boys. Quincy's outstanding Michelle Millane broke the shot put and discus records for girls and Peter Iacove of Brockton broke the boys' records in these two events.

Millane and Sean Hunter of the QTC, Charles Pennington of Plainfield, N.J., and Rosalind Williams of Boston received the MVP awards.

Quincy's scorers in girls' events: Eight years and under, Regina Murphy won the 100 in a record 14.70 with Katie O'Shea third; in under 10, Wendy Morrill took third in the long jump; in 11-12, Maryann Ray took third in the 100, Patty Feeney second in the 400 and Beth Bunker third in the long jump.

In 13-14, Frannie Dolan took third in the 100, Tracy Wilson third in the 800, Wilson and Dolan first and third in the long jump, and Noreen Connelly, Tina Calabro and Denise McWilliams 1-2-3 in the shot.

JENNIE MORRILL of the Quincy Track Club displays her form in the long jump in the Frank Kelly Memorial Track Meet.

(Quincy Sun Photos by Steve O'Garra)

In 15-18 Millane won the shot in a record 38-4 and the discus in a record 122-9, and Noreen Connelly took third in both events.

Quincy's scorers in boys' events: Eight years and under, Steve O'Brien second in the 100, in 10 years and under, Keith Bott took third in the 100 and second in the long jump, Bobby Scott took third in the 440.

In 11-12, Sean Hunter won the 220 and was second in the 100 and Paul McLellan was second in the 220; in 13-14, Mark Lunnin took third in the shot put, in 15-18 Richie Palma won the high jump and was second in the 100, and long jump, Fred Bickford took third in the discus and Brian Moore was third in the shot and discus.

In the special celebrity mile Bill Maloney was the winner, followed by Dick Sullivan and Earl LaChance.

AMONG THE top events in the seventh annual Frank Kelly Memorial Track Meet was the boys' 100-yard dash for those 15-18 years old.

St. Joseph's A Team Wins CYO Crown

St. Joseph's A team won the CYO girls' championship last Sunday with a 10-3 victory over St. Mary's of the Hills, Milton, in the title game.

Qualifying for the double elimination tournament were St. Joseph's, St. Mary's of the Hills and St. Albert's, Weymouth, all with 12-2 records.

In Saturday's games St. Joseph's blanked St. Albert's, 4-0, with Gloria Battistoni pitching a no-hitter; St. Mary's eliminated St. Albert's, 7-6, and St. Joseph's topped St. Mary's, 4-3.

Anne Marie McBride was St. Joseph's coach.

Woodward Wins Top Spot In Perkins League

Woodward Spring clinched first place in the Roy Perkins Softball League with a 16-5 record.

The Sedaters are in second place and Caldwell Construction is third.

The Benbay Bombers were eliminated from the playoffs and North Quincy Taxi and the Misfits are battling for a playoff berth with only one game left in the regular season. The playoffs will begin the week of Aug. 23.

The standings: Woodward, 16-5; Sedaters, 13-8; Caldwell, 12-7; S. S. Buick, 11-9; Sixty-Niners, 9-9; North Quincy Taxi, 8-12; Misfits, 7-13; and Benbay Bombers, 4-17.

Castaways, Bunnies In Playoff Finals

The Castaways and Bunnies are playing this week in the finals of the Houghs Neck Women's Softball League playoffs.

The Castaways eliminated the Hustlers in two straight games by identical 8-5 scores.

In the first game Laura Miller was outstanding at shortstop for the Castaways. Jayne Reynolds had a home run and Darlene Gardner made an outstanding play with two on and two out in the final inning to save the game. Marion Knudson was the winning pitcher. For the Hustlers Helen Gleason played outstanding ball at shortstop and Kathy Brooks and Gleason homered.

In the second game the Castaways rallied in the sixth inning for the victory. Poor defense by the Hustlers paved the way for five unearned runs. Miller again played strong defense and Sheena Giggy made an outstanding catch with the bases loaded in the seventh to preserve the win. Knudson again was the winning pitcher. For the Hustlers Kit Smith played fine defense at third base and hit well. Brooks delivered two timely hits.

The Bunnies edged the Neckers, 7-6, in their first meeting with Maureen Maher having a three-run homer and Terry Provost a two-run triple. Ruthie Galligan made several fine catches in left field. Nancy Carmody was the winning pitcher. For the Neckers Mary Gallagher was outstanding at second base and Bobbie Casey, playing with a broken finger, played fine defense at shortstop.

The Bunnies clinched the series with an 8-7 victory with Provost hitting a three-run homer. Donna Brill made several fine plays at third base and Sue Giggy had two hits and played strong defense. Carmody again was the winning pitcher. For the Neckers Maura Doherty had two key hits and Marge McIntyre and Ginny Thompson played well on defense.

It was reported last week that the Sea Gals had finished in first place with a 15-5 record. Actually, the Sea Gals finished last with a 5-15 mark. The Neckers, Hustlers and Castaways finished tied for first at 12-8 and the Neckers were declared the top finishers because of their record against the other teams. The Bunnies finished at 9-11.

Quincy A Juniors Strong In Stoughton Tourney

The Quincy A Junior Baseball League team, which has never won the Stoughton Invitational Tournament, is one of three remaining unbeaten teams in the double elimination event following last weekend's 6-1 victory over Parkway I.

The Quincy team, coached by Bob Foley and assistants Mike Duffy and Ron Fletcher Sr., plays unbeaten Marshfield tonight (Thursday) at 5:45. Walpole is the other undefeated team left in the tournament.

Mark DiMattio pitched a one-hitter against Parkway, struck out four and didn't give up a walk. He also had two singles to cap fine night's work.

Quincy had 11 hits with Dan Biagini having three singles, Ron Fletcher a long home run that cleared the 207-foot center field fence by at least 40 feet. Tom McDonald two singles, Bill Mulhern and John Pennellatore a double each. Sean Gately had a single and caught a strong game.

The defense was outstanding with Fletcher, Biagini, and Rob Hubbard making fine plays.

The tournament started with 42 teams and there are 14 left.

Quincy had opened tournament play with a 6-1 victory over Parkway II of West Roxbury. McDonald allowed only three hits and struck out 10. With the game tied, 1-1, after 3½ innings, Quincy catcher Gately hit a long home run over the center field fence.

Parkway southpaw Kevin Duffy held Quincy to five hits. Quincy left fielder Kevin Duffy (no relation) had two hits and Biagini and McDonald one each. Third baseman Fletcher's great stop in the first inning turned into a force out at second and saved Quincy possible trouble.

In its second game Quincy bombed Brockton Downey, 11-4, as it pounded out 17 hits off four Brockton pitchers. Pennellatore paced the attack with a home run over the center field fence and also had a triple and two singles. Biagini had a double and two singles. T. J. Steen two hits including a double, Mike Mulhern a double and Fletcher, Mulhern, Gately, DiMattio, McDonald, Duffy and Hubbard a single each.

Steen pitched three masterful innings, striking out seven and giving up one infield hit. In the fourth inning with Quincy leading 2-1, Steen ran into control trouble and walked four. He was relieved by Duffy, who struck out the next two batters to end the inning. He allowed three hits in 2½ innings.

Goguen Two-Hitter Saves Quincy PAL In South Shore Final

Ernie Goguen rescued the Quincy Police Athletic League team from the brink of elimination with a two-hit, 7-1 victory in the second game of a playoff doubleheader to tie the best-of-three South Shore League final series with the South Shore Clippers at one game each.

The Clippers won the first game of the twin bill at Adams Field by a score of 9-3, taking advantage of nine hits and nine walks off PAL pitchers Al Elkhill and John Carroll to score four runs in the seventh and four more in the ninth to clinch the victory.

The Quincy batters fell on Clipper hurlers Evie Dorr and Jimmy Collins for 11 hits in the second game, including three singles by Joe Crowley, a double and a single by Bob Coolidge and a triple by Sam White. Coolidge doubled home George O'Rourke with the winning run in the third.

The Clippers put together both their hits, singles by Pete Sinnott and Joe Street, with a wild pitch for their only run in the third but Goguen tightened up and permitted only one runner to reach second base over the last five innings.

The rubber game in the series was scheduled for Milliken Field, Cohasset.

The Quincy PAL lineup for the two games included: Elkhill 2b-p, Collidge 1b, Nelson lf, O'Rourke rf, White 3b, Denmore ss, Fleming c, Crowley cf, Goguen p, Carroll p, Kopp 2b.

The PAL team moved into the South Shore League finals series on the strength of a two-game semi-final sweep of the Weymouth TT, 4-0, with Goguen hurling a three-hitter, and 7-4, with O'Rourke leading the 13-hit assault with a triple, a double and two singles.

O'Rourke was also the batting star of the second game, backing up Goguen's shutout pitching with a pair of doubles and a single and figuring in three of the PAL's four runs.

CHALLENGE CUP TO QUINCY

For only the second time in 31 years, a member of the host Quincy Yacht Club won the Quincy Challenge Cup when Robert Kirkland sailed his "Lively Mary" to three straight victories, to amass a 5½ point advantage over Hilary Smart's "Hilarious."

Kirkland and his crewmate, Tom Murray, had such a lead at the end of the second race that they could have won the coveted cup by finishing fifth in the third race. However, "Lively Mary" overtook "Hilarious" at the finish line to win by two seconds.

CHIMINIELLO'S CHAMPS

Chiminello's softball team won the Metropolitan Boston ASA Regional Class A championship by a score of 2-1 over another Quincy team, Hanrahan's, in a game in which the first 7½ innings were played in Somerville and the last 1½ in Upper Merrymount Field, Quincy.

The two teams were tied, 1-1, when rain halted the game in Somerville. The winning run was scored in the ninth inning in Quincy when a throw from the Hanrahan's shortstop hit the baserunner in the back as he raced toward the plate.

The Chiminello's lineup included: Uhlar c, Murphy ss, Hazlett 3b, McDonald ss, Dambrosia lf, Cumming 1b, Zumbahlen 1b, Karstunen rf, Putnam cf, Abrams p.

LITTLE LEAGUE HAILED

"Little League activity properly conducted is the salvation of our country," former National League Umpire Bill Stewart of Jamaica Plain told a dinner honoring the champion Quincy Rotary Club team in the Furnace Brook hall.

"I disagree with those who feel that there is little to be gained by participating in sports. In communities such as Hudson, Maynard and Franklin there is no problem like juvenile delinquency because the boys are either thinking or playing sports all the time."

CURLEY WINS OPEN

Donald Curley of Braintree, a sophomore at Boston College, won the senior championship in the New England Junior Open Golf Tournament at Furnace Brook Golf Club, beating Donald Torppa of Maynard, 2 and 1, en route to the Gov. Christian A. Herter Trophy.

FAY THIRD IN MARATHON

Donald Fay of Quincy finished third behind Ted Corbitt of New York and George Hillier of Newfoundland in the annual Quebec marathon between Shawinigan Falls and Three Rivers, Que. Fay passed veteran Gerard Cote in the stretch and finished in three hours, 25 minutes, 40 seconds.

SPORTS BITS '55

MDA Softball Doubleheader Police Vs. Firefighters, City Officials Vs. News Media

The Quincy Police and Firefighters softball teams will clash in their sixth annual game for Muscular Dystrophy tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at Adams Field, Merrymount Park in the front end of a softball double header with the Quincy City Officials and News Media All Stars meeting at 8 in the nightcap.

The Police hold the edge in the public safety series. However, the Firefighters are rebounding from their win of the charity contest last year.

The Quincy Police softball team is coached by Jerry Quency and is currently sporting a 9-1 record to top the Suburban Police Softball League, while the Firefighters, led by Chuck Walters, boast an 8-2 record in independent softball action.

The Police and Fire Department Teams and families have been personally responsible for raising approximately $2000 of the proceeds from the doubleheader during the past five years for Muscular Dystrophy.

The Police team consists of infielders Jim Buhl, Tom Hickey, Frank Johnson, Steve Kring, Joe Phillips and Jerry Quency. These infielders have been the mainstay of the team up to this point of the season by playing flawless in the field and turning the key play when needed.

In the outfield they have Dick Churchill, Terry Kelly, Ed Kusser, Tom Malvesti, Gerry Nichols and Chuck O'Donnell. These are the power hitters on the club who have at one time or another supplied the game winning hit late in the game. According to Coach Quency, the success of this years team has been the depth on the club with all players contributing to make every win a team effort.

The Firefighters infield will consist of Steve Johnson, Jack Goddard, Pete O'Hare, Al Trotman and Jim McPartlan, while the outfield will include Jim Kelly, Jim DeVarreuse, Dave Anderson, Mike Granahan and Dom Conso.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun will manage the News Media All Stars with representatives from WJDA, The Quincy Sun, Patriot Ledger and Quincy Cablesystems and Councillor Leo Kelly will lead the City officials.

The City officials hold a 3-2 edge in the series.

Night For Martha Donaghue Aug. 28

Classmates of Martha Donaghue are planning a fund-raising event at the Quincy Youth Arena Saturday, Aug. 28, from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. to raise funds for the purchase of a van specially equipped for handicapped persons.

Martha has been confined to a wheelchair since she fell from the parallel bars during gymnastics practice at North Quincy High School.

A night of fun is planned which will include a family skate and it is hoped that students not only from North Quincy High but also Quincy High will support the endeavor.

Tickets are available at the Youth Arena and from members of the committee, Susan Quintiliani, Cathie Burke, Kathy Fitzpatrick, Mark Rubin, Susan Hardin and Caryn Smith.

Hancock, State St., South Weymouth Lead Bank League

Hancock Bank leads Div. 1 of the South Shore Bankers Softball League with a 12-5 record, followed by South Shore Bank, 9-8; Bay Bank Norfolk, 9-8, and Atlantic Data Services, 4-12.

State Street Bank and South Weymouth Savings are tied for first in Div. 2 with 8-6 records. Quincy Co-Operative is 7-9 and Quincy Savings Bank 6-9.

Last week's results: Hancock 8, Quincy Savings, 4; South Weymouth Savings 13, Quincy Cooperative 2; South Shore Bank 17, Atlantic Data Services 6, and Bay Bank Norfolk 7, State Street Bank 6.

Granite Cooperative Co-Sponsor City Tennis Tourney Opens Sept. 8

The Quincy Park and Recreation Board will again conduct a city-wide tennis tournament for Quincy residents starting Sept. 8.

The Granite Cooperative Bank will be a co-sponsor of the 12th annual tournament.

City Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said, "This tournament has grown to be the largest municipally-conducted tennis tournament in New England thanks to the sponsorship of the Granite Cooperative Bank."

"The bank donates T-shirts to all contestants and trophies to the finalists in each category. In addition, the bank will donate refreshments Tuesday, Sept. 7 when the draw will be posted."

John Franceschini, a Quincy educator, veteran recreation department employee and former doubles champion, will again be in charge of the tournament."

Entries will be accepted in the following categories: Men's singles, men's singles aged 35 and over, men's singles 50 and over, boys 16 and under and girls 16 and under. Entry blanks can be obtained at the Recreation Office after Aug. 9.

Special Races Set For Sept 12

A variety of races will be held Sept. 12 to benefit the Quincy Civil Defense, with all events starting at the First Parish Church.

The races are sponsored by Quincy City Hospital/Hospital Corp. of America, California Restaurant, Bay State Ambulance and Sen. Paul Harold and The Patriot Ledger.

The program will begin with a Citizens 26-mile Bicycle Race at 8 a.m., followed by the City of Presidents half-marathon of 13.1 miles at 9, the City of Presidents Cup Team Challenge Relay Race at 11, a tricycle race at noon and the U.S. Cycling Federation races at 12:30.

Pre-registration entry forms are available at the Patriot Ledger, Braintree Medical Center, Hanover Medical Center and local bicycle shops.

The committee was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy Civil Defense headquarters, 55 Sea St., Quincy.

QYHA To Award 6 $500 Scholarships

President Dick Horrigan of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association announces that six $500 scholarships will be awarded by the association to former members now in college.

Scholarship rules and applications are available at the Youth Arena and must be returned by Sept. 1. Awards will be disbursed on a lottery basis.

Further information can be obtained by calling Lorraine Rooney at 479-8371.

Koch Women's League Underway Sept. 9

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League invites ladies to join its 28th season beginning Thursday, Sept. 9, at 8:30 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad St., in Quincy.

New bowlers are welcome to participants in the opening weeks of league bowling to establish averages for team preparation in the 1982-83 season of competition.

Individual scores of high average, high three string total and high single string as well as most spares and strikes will be recorded with the league's opening session while team records will be scored when league competition begins.

The league was formed in 1955 at the former Norfolk Downs Alleys in North Quincy and consist of thirty regular bowlers and has continued as an activity of the well known recreation organization for the past 27 years.

Officers leading the loop for the 1982-83 season are Sybil Milne, president; Shirley MacNeil, treasurer, and Pat Murphy, secretary.

In 1937, Olympic hurdler Forrest Towns beat a prize cavalry horse, trained as a running jumper in the 120 yard hurdles.

• South Suburban Softball Koch Club Upsets Tigers In Playoffs

The South Suburban Softball League playoffs got underway last Sunday with the Koch Club providing the big upset, eliminating first place Tigers in their opening round series.

The Tigers easily topped Koch, 12-3, in their opening game with Ken Murphy the winning pitcher, but Koch came back to even the series, 13-10, with Bill Koch, Frank Alibrandi, Tommy Bouts, Dick Koch, Gary Canniff, Matt Keenan and Paul Keenan providing the offense. Dick Koch was the winning pitcher.

The Tigers got the jump in the third and deciding game, scoring four runs in the first inning. Koch came back and scored three but the Tigers scored four more to take an 8-3 lead going into the bottom of the seventh.

Singles by Bill Canniff, John Keenan and Dick Schaez, two walks and Don Bowers' triple tied the game at 8-8 and forced the game into extra innings. In the eighth Schaez drove in the winning run to give Tom Koch the win.

PJ's eliminated Safford Market in three games, Farrington Market ousted Means Pre-Cast, and Bill's Welding ousted the Outlaws.

PJ's outlasted Safford, 11-9, in the first game of their series but Safford came back to even the series, 11-5, and Dan Finn got the win as PJ's won the clincher, 7-6.

Bill's Welding won in two straight games, 4-1 and 6-5, while Farrington also topped Means in two straight, 6-4 and 8-3.

The semifinals will be played Sunday at 9 a.m. with Koch meeting defending champion Bill's Welding and Farrington facing PJ's Minimart.

HN Package Wins Playoff Spot

Houghs Neck Package Store topped the Quincy Yacht Club, 13-7, to clinch a playoff spot in the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League with one week left to play.

Manet Shell and the Yacht Club are tied for the fourth and final playoff berth. Sunday Manet plays Package at 11:30 and the Yacht Club meets Finlay's Variety at 10:15. In the other game Louis Cafe, which has first place wrapped up, meets Chenette's at 9 o'clock.

Jeff Little had four hits, including two home runs, to lead Package into the playoffs. John Duffy, John Sullivan, Mike Witham, Paul Lebel, Dan Morrell and Howie Stetler had two hits apiece. Witham was the winning pitcher.

Louis outslugged Finlay's, 9-8, after spotting Finlay's six runs in the first inning. Louis pecked away, tied the score in the seventh and won it in the ninth inning. With two outs and a runner on third, Kevin Donovan lashed a solid hit to left center to drive in the winning run and capped a great comeback.

After being hit hard in the first, Joe DeAngelis pitched another fine game. Donovan, Ted Miller, Dennis Murphy and Red Farrand

'Cable Talk' To Debut On Ch. 3 Aug. 23

Quincy Community Television, Cable Chan. 3, will feature its workshop production "Cable Talk" during the week of Aug. 23.

John Noonan of The Quincy Sun, and a workshop participant, hosts this news and feature program which centers on events in Quincy.

In the first segment he speaks with Ray Melchin, Grand Knight of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus about the group's activities.

In the second, he talks with Quincy Cablesystems General Manager David Keefe about community programming in Quincy. Viewers can see the program Monday, Aug. 23 at 9 p.m.; Tuesday, Aug. 24 at 7 p.m.; and Friday, Aug. 27 at 2 p.m.

Also scheduled for Monday, Aug. 23 at 7:30 p.m. is "To Please A Prince", a production of Diane Purdy's Children's Theater Workshop. This original production features local actors in a play which emphasizes that both boys and girls can succeed at any task they choose.

In addition, two local musicians, Karl and Kenny Olsen, appear on "South Shore Showcase" Tuesday, Aug. 24 at 8 p.m. Produced by community volunteer Douglas L. Nickerson, the program features the Olsen brothers playing a variety of original instrumental compositions. The program will be repeated Tuesday, Aug. 31 at 7 p.m. and Friday, Sept. 3 at 2 p.m.

Local residents can also be seen in a "Taking It to the Streets" segment. Taped in a Quincy super market, the program poses the question, "How do you cope with the summer heat? Cable-casting dates are Monday, Aug. 23 at 8:48 p.m. and Thursday, Aug. 26 at 7:53 p.m.

Public Auction Saturday At Masonic Temple

A variety of donated items will be available at a Public Auction Saturday at 6 p.m. at the Masonic Temple of Quincy, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

All proceeds will go to the Temple Fund.

A non-profit, charitable and community oriented institution, the temple has been the center for CPR training and year round bloodmobiles.

The temple was taken over during World War II by the U.S. Army for their use, and is now used by the public and charitable organizations.

Robert J. Saar is president.

'E.T.' Top Winner In City Arts-Crafts Exhibit

A paper mache model of E.T., the Extra Terrestrial, made by participants of Faxon Park playground, captured top honors in the voting for the best Arts and Crafts exhibit in the recent city-wide display held by the Quincy Recreation Department.

The display held for two days on McIntyre Mall featured projects made by participants in the Arts and Crafts program at the city's 28 supervised playgrounds. The public was asked to vote for the exhibit they liked best.

The winning park's participants received gift certificates from Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream shop, Quincy Sq.

Second place winner was a crepe paper Teddy Bear made by the Fore River playground, while Perkins Park's exhibit "Perkins Palace" and Montclair's Train the "Montclair Express" tied for third.

The display was coordinated by Arts and Crafts specialists, Laurene Curran, Lisa Belcastro and Stacey Lynch.

The winning entry, "E.T.", was made by Faxon Park participants Wendy Wheeler, Billy Santry, Nicole Cibotti, Trish Giannandrea, Jenny Santry, Eddie and Chris Cunio, Tony Giannandrea, and Dan Santry under the supervision of John Kozlowski and Elizabeth Burke, playground leaders.

The second place winner, "Teddy Bear", was created by Fore River participants Maureen

E.T. was a popular attraction on McIntyre Mall as the papier mache facsimile was displayed during the Recreation Department's recent annual exhibit of arts and crafts. E.T. was created by youngsters at Faxon Park.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 19

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Money-making scheme may not get off the ground; timing is at least as favorable later in year. If starting a hobby or signing up for a course the accent is on specialization.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Long-expected announcement is delivered this week, and with some surprises. Debating if your current forte—there are ample opportunities for practice. Patch-ups favored on weekend.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Share any worries with the people close to you; being secretive is counterproductive. Can be accident prone in work environment. Financial gains indicated after the weekend.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Thursday-Saturday accent spectator and participant events. Weekend favorably spotlights party-going and party giving. Monday's financial news should be verified before you make any big moves.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Lucky streak is strong till the weekend, a cancellation on Monday. Tuesday can set back some plans. Some mixing of business and pleasure can bring rewarding results.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Communication from relative answers several important questions. New faces brighten the weekend. If cleaning up clutter, you can get recklessly carried away; be warned!

LEO — July 23-August 22
Financial advisor may be missing some important information from you. Loved one is inconsistent. It's best to play a waiting game. Pleasant surprises in store if shopping for major home item.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Vitality peaks and you're looking your best—treat yourself to a new wardrobe or a luxury item. People in your home environment are still hard to please. Tend to repair work pronto.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Self-confidence may dip before it reaches a new peak, likely around Tuesday. Tension among relatives should be nipped in the bud. Brightening home environment pays off by Wednesday.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
You're soon to take on a leadership role, and this is a fine week to practice skills. Love relationship improves when you and your partner master the fine art of compromise.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
An alert Sagittarius can make strides in areas of friendship and community relations. In family affairs, ignorance is not bliss; find out what's happening if you suspect the slightest problem.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Ability to adapt to changing circumstances helps you through a hectic week. Travel is accented, with an educational angle present. Companionship is cozy through the weekend.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You have a knack for adapting to changing circumstances; this year a positive lifestyle change is accented. The key is to cultivate greater self-esteem and to spend time honing your socializing skills. Remind others—and yourself—of your formidable strengths.

BORN THIS WEEK
August 19th, actress Jill St. John; 20th, actor Van Johnson; 21st, jazz great Count Basie; 22nd, actress Cindy Williams; 23rd, dancer Gene Kelly; 24th, writer Max Beerbohm; 25th, actress Ruby Keeler.

BayBank Norfolk Trust Holds Open House At Center Plaza Branch

More than 100 local business people, government officials and invited guests attended a recent open house at BayBank Norfolk Trust's new Quincy Center Plaza branch office.

The bank moved the office earlier this year to the building located at Hancock and Granite Sts.

The new banking facility features a modern, spacious lobby, a drive through teller, and the BayBanks X-Press 24 automated teller. The former bank building was demolished to make way for the Quincy Center Plaza complex.

Greg Glennon, Customer Service Manager for the new office, said that the location and the convenience of drive-up and 24-hour banking are the bank's major advantages for customers who live and work in Quincy.

"We provide our Quincy customers with modern banking convenience and a full range of BayBank Norfolk Trust is a subsidiary of BayBanks, Inc., a bank holding company with assets of more than $3.4 billion.

Daniel Lauria Realtor Of Year

Daniel A. Lauria, owner of Lauria Real Estate, Braintree, and president of the Quincy & South Shore Board of Realtors has been named 1982 Realtor of the Year of his Board.

Award ceremonies were held at the Blue Hills Country Club in Canton.

Lauria received the honor for his "outstanding service and contribution to the real estate profession and to the Realtor association." Lauria is a director of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors.

John D. Walsh, Jr., first vice president of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, presented the award to Lauria.

Among those present for the ceremonies were Lauria's father, Alphonse, his mother Venerie, and his fiancée Rosemarie McNamara.

As local Board Realtor of the Year, Lauria's name will be placed in nomination for receipt of the Massachusetts Realtor of the Year award to be presented in October at the Massachusetts Realtors Convention in Bermuda.

Mary Cameron Wins Telephone Suggestion Award

Mary B. Cameron, 54 Kidder St., South Quincy, recently won $50 in New England Telephone's Employee Suggestion Plan.

Mrs. Cameron, a reports clerk in the accounting department in Braintree, suggested an improved method for the reconciliation of payroll.

She is married to John D. Cameron. They have five children: Donna, John, Arlene, Gail, and Rosemary.

Mrs. Cameron joined the phone company in 1966 and this award is the fourth she has won.

Police Handle 522 Home Violence Cases In Year

the kids. Are they too being abused?"

Among the calls were five cases of child abuse, five cases of a parent abusing a teenaged child, five cases of abuse between siblings and six cases of sexual abuse.

On the other hand, there were 25 cases of teenagers abusing their parents and 19 cases of elderly abuse, usually an alcoholic adult son abusing his mother with whom he lives.

About 61 per cent of the domestic calls involved married folks, 17 per cent people who were cohabiting, 5 per cent divorced, 7 per cent separated, 6 per cent single and 2 per cent widowed.

Family service training is a continuing thing.

Last September, six Quincy officers took part in a special training program in family violence along with Boston officers and some state social workers. It explored the methods of police and social workers working together to assist families.

In April, specially trained officers of the Family Service Unit participated in a research project conducted by Dr. Egon Bittner of Brandeis, who chose Quincy for his research because of its unique program.

Dr. Bittner studied the skills and knowledge employed by the Quincy officers in handling street and domestic violence through a ride-along program of observation and through discussion groups.

Mental Exam For Gun Carrier

A 17-year-old Hull youth, seized by police with a loaded rifle and a pellet gun in Quincy Center last Thursday, was voluntarily committed to Bournewood Hospital for mental evaluation.

Steven W. McDonald of Hull pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court to gun carrying charges and Judge Lewis Whitman released him in personal recognizance.

When he was informed of the serious background of the charges, however, Judge Whitman ordered him returned to the court for further bail hearing and a mental examination.

Judge Whitman said information was not given to him at the original hearing about the seriousness of the charges against McDonald, who, police said, had threatened to "blow away the pigs."

"I'm at a loss to understand why this information was not given to me," said the judge.

McDonald was arrested at gunpoint Thursday while he was sitting on the steps of the Quincy Center MBTA station.

Has Questions

Lydon Names Data Processing Committee, Expresses Concern

City Council President John J. Lydon Jr. has named three fellow councillors to a special committee to study the establishment of a data processing department in the city government.

But Lydon indicated that he himself has some problems with Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposal, notably the age of the equipment to be used and the size of the salaries of the three employees.

The Council received McCauley's proposal Monday night in the form of two ordinance changes and two financial orders and placed them in the appropriate committees pending appointment of the special group.

Lydon named Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. to chair the special committee which also will consist of Councillors Stephen J. McGrath and Joanne Condon.

The committee will be assisted by Prof. James Bartlett, head of Northeastern's Institute of Computer Sciences, and data processing experts from the State Street Bank and Trust Co.

Lydon said he has several areas of concern with the data processing proposal, including the equipment and the salaries.

The initial equipment in the new department will be that which is currently in use by the School Department.

"I believe the equipment is 8 to 10 years old," said Lydon. "I have heard that after five years such equipment is obsolete. I may suggest that the department buy new equipment, although it will be costly."

McCauley's plan also includes a director for the new department at $42,000 a year, a program analyst at $25,000 and a scheduler at $15,000. Robert Brennan, present head of the school system's computer department, will be the director.

"I have a number of questions on the salary recommendations," said Lydon. "The salaries appear to be very high.

"Many cities and towns have their data processing systems under the auditor's office or the comptroller. We might think about establishing it under the auditor instead of as a department."

McCauley called Brennan's job "one of the most important assignments in the city in the coming years." He said he is sure that Brennan can defend his salary request before the Council committee.

As to the age of the computers, he said, "this is the third computer that the School Department has had and I am sure there will be updates from time to time. There is excess capacity now."

"There are other systems," said the mayor. "If there are viable alternatives we want to know what they are."

McCauley said he hopes that the Council committee will consult with Brennan and Arthur Foley.

GD Tax Case Lawyers Cost City $90 An Hour

It's costing the city a lot of money to appeal an adverse decision in the General Dynamics tax abatement case and the cost is going up at the rate of $90 and $75 per working hours.

But, City Solicitor William B. Golden told the City Council Monday night, it's worth every cent of it in view of the alternative which could cost the city as much as $20 million.

The Council appropriated $75,000 from state aid to pay legal fees for outside counsel. Cuddy and Lynch of Boston, and Golden told the Council there probably will be more.

Golden explained that the firm's senior partner, John M. Lynch, gets $90 an hour for his efforts in the city's behalf and lesser associates are paid at the rate of $75 an hour.

"It's an awful lot of money but it's well spent," said Golden, noting that Weymouth spent $500,000 for outside attorneys to fight Boston Edison "and a lot less was at stake."

Lynch was handling the General Dynamics case for the city before Golden became solicitor and Golden recommended that he remain on the job.

"He has done a good job," he said, "and it's a job that carries a high price tag."

He said the fees he negotiated with Lynch are "far below the normal fees charged by a Boston lawyer."

$40,000 Appropriated

Parking Meter Refunds To Be Paid Sept. 7

By TOM HENSHAW

Motorists who paid illegal surfines on their parking tickets may have their refund checks in the mail by Tuesday, Sept. 7.

The City Council Monday night appropriated $40,000 from state aid funds with which to set up a special account to reimburse the overcharges.

Purchasing Agent Robert Denvir, who is also parking ticket clerk, said special checks have already been printed for the account but it will take some time to get the money in the bank.

"If I have to pick a date for the checks to go out," he said, "it will be about Tuesday, Sept. 7."

The city collected about $220,000 in parking fines between

Nov. 1, 1981 and June, 1982, at which time District Court Judge Albert Kramer determined that the $5 surfine was illegal.

The error has since been corrected by passage of a new ordinance.

The Council also Monday night appropriated $65,700 out of state aid funds to pay for the operation of the Parking Department from July 1 to June 30, 1983.

The account includes printing of tickets and processing of checks by the United States Trust Co.

Council Vote Saves 22 Fire Jobs

The City Council Monday night voted to appropriate $425,000 from state aid to preserve the jobs of 22 firefighters who were scheduled to be laid off Sept. 1.

The appropriation was recommended by Mayor Francis X. McCauley and received the enthusiastic support of the councillors.

"This alleviates the fear that any fire stations will be closed, at least for another year," said Councillor Leo J. Kelly.

"The mayor is taking the right track in helping Quincy to avoid the public safety problems that have plagued other cities," said Councillor Stephen J. McGrath.

Council President John J. Lydon Jr. called the fire appropriation "the most overriding issue in the budget."

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia said he "applauds the mayor for making this decision to remove the tremendous amount of grief that has been suspended over the heads of these firefighters."

Councillors Say $400,000 Not Enough For Schools

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council, wishing it were more, approved an appropriation of $400,000 in state aid for the School Department Monday night to partially make up for cuts in the 1982-83 budget.

"This is a small drop in the bucket for the schools which lost $3 million in their budget," said Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro. "It's too bad we could not get more for them."

"It's not enough," said Councillor Patricia Toland, who is serving her first term on the Council after six years on the School Committee. "I was hoping the schools would get at least $500,000."

"There is a tremendous lack of staff in the Quincy schools. Six hundred people have been let go in the last two years. I urge that we talk to the mayor for another $100,000 before the year is out."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who has some $225,000 in state aid left "for a rainy day," said he agrees that the schools could use more money, but "I've gone as far as I can go."

"We had to fund the 22

firefighters who were due to be laid off and we had fixed charges to meet," he said. "Some of the $225,000 is spoken for already by the assessors for spring tax bills and valuation update."

It will be up to the School Committee to say what the $400,000 will be used for but in the past officials have said they will use it either to rehire laid off teachers or fund raises for teachers.

MBTA To Beef Up Police Patrols

The MBTA has promised to beef up its police presence at the three Red Line stations in Quincy starting Monday, Sept. 6.

General Manager James F. O'Leary notified Mayor Francis X. McCauley Friday that a motor-cycle officer will be assigned to the Red Line to deal with traffic and other problems around the station.

And in the evening hours, said O'Leary, two additional officers will be assigned to cover the Quincy stations from a cruiser, providing a highly visible presence and a quicker response time when needed.

McCauley said the additional MBTA officers will complement the Quincy police who patrols the station vicinities.

Tied Up At Knifepoint

A man broke through the screen on a living room window into the basement apartment of Jeffrey Sweetzer on Waterston Ave., Wollaston, last week, tied up Sweetzer at knifepoint and escaped with jewelry.

Sweetzer told police he was asleep at about 5:45 a.m. Friday, when the man burst in, held a knife at his throat, bound him face down on the bedroom floor. Then he ransacked the apartment and fled on foot.

Among the items taken were a gold Seiko watch valued at $600 and an 18-inch gold chain valued at $200.

Sweetzer described the man as white, about 5-foot-5, slender with dark hair and a mustache.

Food Market Break

The front window of White's Food Market at 40 Franklin Ave., Wollaston, was smashed Tuesday morning and eight T-Shirts, four packages of cigarettes and $4 in change were reported stolen.

UDAG Sought To Save $19 M N. Quincy Project

The City Council moved Monday night to help bail a $19 million office building under construction at 100 Hancock St. out of a financial bind with federal funds.

The Council voted to authorize the city to apply for a $4 million Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG), which would be loaned to Gateway Quincy Associates to help complete the 10-story building.

Planning Director James Lydon told the Council that Gateway has spent about $1 million erecting a steel framework only to have its permanent lender withdraw support.

The $4 million UDAG, said Lydon, would enable Gateway to continue construction until new lending institutions can be found. Lydon called the project an important one for Quincy since it would mean the creation of some 812 new jobs and provide $335,000 in new tax monies for the city.

Under the new UDAG system, the federal government makes development grants to the city, which in turn loans the money to the developer, who pays it back to the city at low interest rates.

Councillor Joanne Condon, whose constituency includes the construction site, said even the steel skeleton now in place is an improvement over the used car lot that used to greet visitors to Quincy.

She and her fellow councillors were all for the UDAG application.

TOPPING OFF ceremonies were held recently at the 10 story, $19 million Gateway office building at 100 Hancock St., North Quincy. Harry Smith secured the last I-beam on the building which, despite financial difficulties, is expected to be completed in Spring, 1983.

Estimated Tax Bills In Mail By Oct. 1

The State Department of Revenue has authorized the city to send out estimated tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1983 in the absence of a tax rate due to delays in revaluation.

Arthur Foley, administrative assistant to the mayor, said bills calculated at one half of the total tax paid in 1982 will go into the mail by Oct. 1 with payment due

Nov. 1.

Foley said the authorization was received Friday morning in a letter from Deputy Commissioner Edward J. Collins.

The use of estimated bills for the first half tax period will save the city thousands of dollars in interest on short term loans taken to keep the city going in lieu of taxes.

The City Council Monday night decided to postpone action on a proposal to rezone the old Cranch School as open space until three bids to purchase the property are examined.

A committee headed by Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, is scheduled to meet Tuesday, Aug. 31, to review the proposals and possibly make a recommendation to the mayor.

Council President John J. Lydon Jr. noted that a majority of the residents of the neighborhood favor retention of the land by the city as an open space where children can play.

The three proposals for purchase and development of the school land and building include:

Housing Organization Realty, 15 units of condominium housing, offering the city the option of $130,000 in direct cash or $175,000 partial payment as sales of the condos are closed.

First Granite Corp., Inc., 19 units of housing, offering the city $75,000 on condition that construction of financing is secured.

Thacher Montessori School, Inc., offering $144,000 to be spent in any way the city suggests.

3 Old Buildings Face Demolition

The City Council Monday night appropriated $10,000 from state aid to demolish three buildings which have been deemed by the Department of Building Inspection to be dangerous to the public safety.

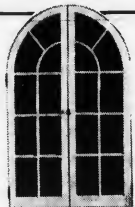

They are located at 267 Water St., the old Presbyterian Church; 155 Edgewater Drive, an abandoned house; and 308 Water St.

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald told the Council that there are four more buildings in the city that have been posted for demolition but have not yet been advertised.

Auto Ransacked

Alexander G. Kayiales of Edinboro Rd., Quincy Point, reported to police that an AM-FM cassette stereo, two speakers, a 40-channel citizens band radio, 25 cassettes and his wallet with $10 were stolen from 1969 Pontiac Firebird Monday night.

McLaughlin Announces For County Commissioner

Joseph E. McLaughlin of Weymouth, a real estate man and former member of the Quincy Planning Department, has announced his candidacy for the post of Norfolk County Commissioner.

"County government is being called upon to meet the challenges of the 1980s," said the 28-year-old McLaughlin in his announcement.

"No longer can the cities and towns of our county be fiscally burdened by mismanagements on the county level. Effective, sensible, innovative management techniques must be initiated immediately.

"As your county commissioner I will draw upon my experience in government and private enterprise to bring the needed reform at the County Hospital and also with other county services."

McLaughlin, who was born and brought up in Quincy, is a real estate consultant with his own business, Prime Properties, in

JOSEPH E. McLAUGHLIN
Quincy.

A graduate of Boston College High School, he has a degree in government from Suffolk

University and a masters degree in public administration from Suffolk's School of Management.

He is an honor graduate of the U.S. Marine Corps Officer Candidate School's 93rd Platoon Leaders Class and recently completed a course at Harvard's School of Architecture and Urban Development.

McLaughlin has served as a legislative aide for four years and assistant planner for Quincy for four years.

He is a member of the American Society of Public Administration, the Knights of Columbus, the Emerald Society and the Massachusetts Association for Handicapped Children.

He and his wife, the former Marianne Lewis of Quincy, have one child.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Good Neighbor Policy Helps Prevent Crime

It's not being nosy to look out for your neighbor's welfare while he or she is away. An alert, sharp-eyed neighbor can be as good as a security guard at times.

Know your neighbors and their friends so that you can recognize a stranger in the area. Burglars frequently enter homes in full view of neighbors who think they belong there.

Keep an eye on your neighbor's home, even when he does not request it.

Be familiar with your neighbor's car. Copy down the registration numbers of strange vehicles in the neighborhood that arouse your suspicions.

Park your car in your neighbor's driveway while he is away. Do some things around his house, like hanging out clothes, mowing the lawn, to make it look like he is still home.

Check his home at odd hours, picking up the mail and any unexpected deliveries that clutter his front steps. Some people prefer this to a police check that may call attention to the vacant home.

But, regardless, you should contact the police and inform them that your home will be vacant so that the officer on patrol can keep an eye on the house.

Cooperation among neighbors is still one of the best crime prevention programs there is.

Middle School Hours 8:30 A.M. To 2:30 P.M.

Regular school hours for middle schools in Quincy will be 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., not 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., as inadvertently reported in last week's Quincy Sun.

Students who are not enrolled should do so the week of Aug. 30.

Also, Sept. 7 will be a full day of orientation and preparation for all professional staff, as planned by the principals of the superintendent's office and as approved by the office of the school superintendent.

The high school foreign languages transfer programs will start Friday, Sept. 10.

2 Residents Receive Norwich Promotions

Two Quincy residents received military promotions in the Corps of Cadets at Norwich University.

Northfield, Vt.

They are Stephen Burns, 109 Elmwood Ave., sergeant; and John Herald, 256 Southern Artery, corporal.

Both are members of the class of 1985.

DESCENDANTS of Knute O. Colin, who came to this area from Frederickstad, Norway, in the 1920's, were reunited at a family gathering recently at the Fore River Club House. From left, are Molly Crouse, 2 months; Martha Crouse, of Bangor, Me.; Ruth Olsen, Quincy; Ella Eames, Quincy; Vera Baumber, Weymouth; Thrya Kolstad, Quincy; Mary Williams, of Plymouth; Edith Bull, Presque Isle, Me.; Karin DelTorto, North Hollywood, Ca.; Irene Hansen, Milton; and Ruth Halvorsen, Burlington.

Colin Family Reunion Repeats Family History

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
"As Knute O. Colin raised a constantly growing family in the town of Frederickstad, Norway, he heard and read of the glorious opportunities in America.

"He finally came over... then he dreamed of the day when he and his family might all be together and happy here."

The Quincy Evening News of March 11, 1929, which cost 2 cents an issue, carried the story of Colin and his family who were eventually reunited and who settled in the Quincy area.

More than 50 years later, Colin family descendants were reunited as 115 relatives from across the country gathered for a buffet dinner at the Fore River Club House.

Four generations of the Colin family were on hand for the reunion. California, Maine, New York, Connecticut and Virginia were a few of the states represented.

The oldest relative present was Ruth Olsen, 95, of 1000 Southern Artery, who met her great great nieces and nephews for the first time. The youngest was Molly Crouse, 2 months.

About 10 months before, Thomas Eames of 48 Rogers St., West Quincy, had begun planning the event which had sisters reuniting after 20 years, and second and third cousins meeting for the first time.

Family pictures and memories were shared at the reunion, according to Mrs. Maxine Eames.

Family members also enjoyed a game of softball.

The reunion was such a hit that local members of the family hope to repeat it annually, those who live farther away, every five years, said Mrs. Eames.

Among the other local residents on hand were Ella and Irene Eames, 46 Rogers St., and Thrya Kolstad of 1000 Southern Artery.

QJC Women's Center Sponsoring Fall Courses

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College will sponsor three courses of particular interest to women during the fall semester.

"Roles of Women in Society", a three credit course, will be held Mondays, 6:30 to 9:20 p.m., beginning Sept. 13.

Alicia Coletti, Women's Center director, will teach the course which will have students analyze how women learn to behave inside and outside of the roles set for them by society.

Students will also learn about the emancipation of women in political, economic and cultural areas, and examine the lives and writings of selected women who have influenced women's lives.

"A Career Workshop for Women", will begin Monday, Sept. 13, 7 to 9 p.m. It will be led by Carla Goodwin, who has led personal growth workshops for the Women's Center.

The non-credit course will focus on increasing self awareness, assessing skills and interests and developing realistic goals.

Miss Goodwin will also lead an "Assertiveness Training" workshop beginning Wednesday, Sept. 8, 7 to 9 p.m.

The non-credit course will cover the differences between assertiveness, aggressiveness and non-assertiveness through role playing and group discussion.

Registration for the courses will be through the Continuing Education office of Quincy Junior College, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For more information, call 786-8741.

Pollard School

Awards 3 Scholarships

The Pollard School, 948 Southern Artery, recently awarded scholarships to Deborah Barkhouse, Lynne Duffett and Michael A. DiTullio.

Miss Barkhouse received the Mildred Litchfield Scholarship. She plans to attend North Adams College and to pursue a career in math.

The Francis W. Keegan Scholarship given by the Pollard PTA went to Miss Duffett.

DiTullio was recipient of the Sharon Gramazio Scholarship.

Though the school closed June 25, it will continue to award scholarships.

Recipients will be graduates of Quincy High School who attended the Pollard for at least two years, one of which was grade six.

PHARMACY TOPICS

by Edward David R.P.H.

Doctor who is a "family practitioner" is not a general practitioner, but a physician who's had special training in pediatrics, internal medicine, psychiatry, and obstetrics/gynecology, to meet the needs of the average family. The Family Practice Board was established in 1969.

Rather than performing bypass surgery, cardiologists at the University of Texas Health Center in Houston are sometimes able to reopen blocked coronary arteries with direct infusions of the enzyme streptokinase. It's worked in almost 70 percent of cases where it's been tried.

At Boston University School of Medicine, researchers have successfully vaccinated laboratory mice against certain carcinogenic chemicals. It will take more study before such a vaccine is available for humans.

Diabetics learn self-care at an outpatient training program affiliated with Rockefeller University. They are taught to test blood and adjust insulin doses to meet the demands of special food and exercise experiences.

Nicholas Barbadoro Candidate For County Clerk Of Courts

Norfolk County Court Clerk Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy is a candidate for the position to which he recently was appointed by the State Supreme Judicial Court.

Barbadoro, an attorney, had been an assistant clerk for the past seventeen years and first assistant for six years before his appointment.

He had been three times re-appointed as first assistant by the state high court, which also selected him as a special auditor and master, a quasi-judicial position in which he seeks to settle complex litigation and reduce the court docket.

NICHOLAS BARBADORO

Barbadoro is a graduate of Thayer Academy and Suffolk University Law School.

In World War II, he served in the China and Burma India theatre, and has been legal counsel to the military government in Pusan, Korea.

He is a past president of the Norfolk County Bar Association and former director of the Quincy Bar Association.

Barbadoro also is past venerable of the Quincy Sons of Italy, and past state grand trustee of the Order of Sons of Italy in America.

He is married to the former Natalie Pandolfo. They have four children.

Obituaries

Jimmy Gardner, 85, Boxing Manager, Boys Club Founder

James V. (Jimmy) Gardner, the retired boxing manager and city worker who taught the manly art of self-defense to three generations of Quincy youngsters, died last week at the age of 85.

He succumbed Aug. 17 at Jordan Hospital in Plymouth after a brief illness.

Mr. Gardner, a disabled veteran of World War I and founder of the Quincy Boys Club, gained fame during the 1930s as the manager of Ring Larson, Quincy's light heavyweight contender.

After his career as a boxer and a boxing manager, he worked for the city for 36 years, retiring as an inspector for the Water Department in 1968 at the age of 71.

He leaves his wife, Gladys M. (Schiaffino) Gardner; a son, James V. Gardner Jr. of Marblehead; two daughters, Lorraine G. Crooks of Braintree and Barbara G. Lyman of Fort Plain, N.Y.; seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Saturday in St. John's Church, Quincy. Burial was in Pine Hill cemetery, West Quincy. Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., South Quincy.

27 Quincy Students Attend Model United Nations

A group of 27 students from Quincy High School and Central Junior High School attended the annual session of the Model United Nations recently at Assumption College, Worcester.

The organization brings together students from high schools in Massachusetts and surrounding states to represent foreign nations in a simulation of the United Nations in New York City.

Delegates must have knowledge of the nations they are representing, particularly foreign policy and the natures of the countries when faced with crisis.

The Quincy group boasted more students than any other high school attending.

Two students were also presented awards. Melinda Joseph, a junior at Quincy High, was given the distinguished delegate award. Kathy Vejvoda, a ninth-grader at Central Junior High, was given honorary mention for distinguished delegate.

Countries represented by students were: France, Andrea Garafolo, Lila Abraham, Stacy McPherson, Paula Foye, and Michele Bythrow; PLO, Debra Harding, Lucia DeVito, Melinda Joseph, and Michelle Healey; South Africa, Michelle Dunn, Donald Gamble, Stanley Rosenberg, Mike Miller, Jill Nelson, and Tracey Coleman; Venezuela, Julie Robinson, Cheryl Miller, Diane Veale, Linda Marinilli, and Kathy Vejvoda; Lebanon, Ruth Gallagher, Lisa Joseph, Mary Todd, Karen Karoos, and John Donovan.

Advisor was Arthur Svensen from Central Junior High School.

Rabbi Jacob Mann: 40 Years Devoted Service

More than 300 persons of all faiths were there, as the invitation read to "share in the joy of a testimonial to Rabbi Jacob Mann and his 40 years as part of our lives."

Double — or triple — that number would have been there Sunday night. But Temple Beth Am in Randolph, big as it is, is not big enough to handle any more than those who attended.

Actually, if all who would have liked to have been present could have been, Boston Garden might not have been big enough.

Forty years . . . it's a long time. People get to know what you are really like in 40 years. They know Rabbi Mann. And that's why they were there Sunday night. They love him.

He has touched many, many lives in the four decades since he came to Quincy in 1942 at age 32 to be spiritual leader of Beth Israel Synagogue in Quincy Point — on a trial basis.

And all of those he has touched — regardless of individual faiths — are better for it.

"He didn't think it was going to be a steady job when he came here," said former Governor's Councillor Joseph B. Grossman during the social hour.

He was here on a six months trial basis.

A native of Israel, he came to the U.S. in 1931 and served a congregation in Torrington, Conn. before coming to Quincy.

"I didn't think I would last more than six months," he recalled with a smile. He lasted and wears well.

Six months have quietly rolled into 40 years. A few years ago he wanted to retire. They asked him to stay and he did and is still tending to his congregation like a loving father.

"He has given Quincy strength," said Grossman who also wears well.

Now a spry 90 Grossman showed some of the youngsters present how to move around a dance floor.

He then presented a check from the Grossman family in the name of Ahavath Achim, the original Quincy Synagogue which was located in South Quincy.

There were citations from Mayor Francis McCauley, Senator Paul Harold and the City Council, presented by Councillor Leo Kelly.

There was also a clock from the Quincy School Committee presented by Vice-Chairwoman Mary Collins, a handsome portrait painted by Mrs. Marilyn Reisberg and a generous money gift from those present.

Former Quincy Mayor-State Senator James McIntyre who wasn't expecting to speak, came up with this on-the-spot tribute:

"Rabbi Mann is the greatest rabbi not only in Quincy, the South Shore, the Commonwealth, the country, the world but the entire universe."

That's covering a lot of ground. But that's the way those who know Rabbi Mann think of him:

A humble man, devoted to his faith, his family his congregation, his community.

Bernie Reisberg, testimonial committee chairman and MAYOR Francis McCauley presents a citation from the city to Rabbi Jacob Mann at testimonial Sunday night honoring him for 40 years service to Beth Israel Synagogue.

emcee put it this way:

"Forty years ago, the Congregation of Beth Israel Synagogue and the entire citizenry of at least the South Shore were blessed with not only an outstanding religious leader in the Jewish community, but also an admired and beloved friend to people of all faiths and from all walks of life.

"He has given 40 years of faithful service to his congregation and the community at large."

Reisberg's 24-year-old daughter, Donna, speaking for the younger members of Beth Israel observed:

"As I look around this room, it is filled with many smiles. Family and friends, elderly on down to youngest child. This is the proof how special you are to all of us. It is an honor to know you."

There were other warm tributes from: Rabbi Dr. Samuel Fox, president of the Orthodox Rabbinical Council of Massachusetts; Jack Klaver, president of Beth Israel Synagogue; Ann Klaver, president of Beth Israel Sisterhood and Irving Isaacson, president Beth Israel Brotherhood and Past Commander Quincy Jewish War Veterans.

The testimonial dinner was also a reunion for the Mann family.

Two sons, both of whom followed in their father's footsteps, came in from New York with their wives: Rabbi Dr. Jonah Mann, professor of mathematics at City College of New York with his wife, Thelma, and Rabbi Abraham Moses Mann, rabbi of Temple Israel in Long Beach, with his wife, Vivian.

And, daughter Esther Snyder and her husband, Kenneth, flew in from Israel where she is law librarian at Bar Ilan University.

"I might have been a rabbi, too," said Esther, "if women could be."

All three paid their own personal tributes to their father. "Daddy," Esther said with affection.

Rabbi Mann's wife, Isabelle, sat beside him, but was not one of the speakers. She didn't have to speak. Her smile spoke for her.

Rabbi Mann is one of the nicest things ever to happen to Quincy. His 40 years here have helped make Quincy a better community.

We wish him at least 40 more.

Shalom!

Investigators Find Politics Overrides Civil Service List

An investigating committee named by newly elected Mayor Thomas S. Burgin reported that many former city employees have been kept off the Civil Service list for political reasons.

The committee found that the list was "not prepared with due regard to the seniority rights of all city employees" and that war veterans on the city payroll were not given proper consideration.

"There are many cases where faithful employees have lost valuable pension rights by the manipulation of the list submitted to the Civil Service commission," said the report.

The committee was made up of ex-Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, Frank D. Coffman and Joseph W. Fouth. Mayor Burgin promised to take steps to eliminate the wrongs that his committee found.

Meanwhile, Bernard J. Tobin, recently deposed foreman at the city stables, appealed to Public Works Commissioner Ezekiel C. Sargent for a public hearing into his transfer into a gang foreman's job.

Tobin, who was named to the post at the stables two years ago by former Mayor Charles A. Ross, was removed by Sargent two weeks ago and the job returned to John J. Whelan.

NORTH QUINCY BATTLE

The fight for political advantage in the north end of the city reached a crescendo when the North Quincy Civic Association, headed by Robert J. Maxwell, applied to the State Secretary for a corporate charter.

If the charter is granted, then a rival North Quincy group, headed by Atty. Avery Gilkerson, would not be able to use the name North Quincy Civic Association.

Observers noted that the officers and incorporators of the Maxwell group all were prominently associated with the campaign committee of former Mayor Charles Ross while Gilkerson was a Ross adversary.

Maxwell and Gilkerson were expected to oppose each other for the new City Council seat from Ward 7 in the fall.

HALL, STATION REJECTED

The City Council turned down a request by Mayor Burgin for authority to apply to the Federal Public Works Administration (PWA) for the construction of a new city hall and a new central fire station.

"As far as I am concerned," said Burgin, "the city hall and fire station are dead issues."

Mets Win Triple A Title

The Mets, which finished the regular season with the best record in both divisions, defeated the Tigers in four games in the playoffs to clinch the city crown.

The Tigers won the first game of the best of five series, 7-4, but the Mets won the next three games, 18-6, 5-4, and 13-9.

Steve Doran and Neil

Timberlake pitched outstanding ball combining for 28 strikeouts in the series.

Catcher Karl Staskowicz threw out four runners attempting to steal and also has six RBI. Gary Silverman sparked the infield, making some key defensive plays at shortstop, along with third baseman Jim DeCalli, second baseman Neil Timberlake and first baseman Scott Deware.

The offense was led by Jeff Adams, Mark Tusi, Mike Tusi and Dennis Keefe, while Nick Levins, Brian Clary, Brian Tobin and Martin Feeney contributed with both their bats and gloves.

The Mets were coached by Paul Adams and Roger Deware.

Bunnies Win Crown

The Bunnies defeated the Castaways in three games to win the playoffs and the championship of the Houghs Neck Women's Softball League.

The Bunnies won the opener, 12-4, with Maureen Maher hitting a home run and Terry Provost a triple and single. Donna Brill played a solid third base and Nancy Carmody was the winning pitcher. For the Castaways, Ellen Rhode had a three-run homer and Laura Miller played a strong game at shortstop.

The Castaways evened the series, 6-4, breaking a 4-4 tie with two runs in the seventh inning. Jayne Reynolds had two hits, including the game winner, and Nancy McQuinn and Michelle Hebb shone on defense. Marion Knudson was the winning pitcher. Mary Allsop, Cindy DeBois and Lisa Sullivan played well on defense for the Bunnies.

The Bunnies clinched the series and league title with a 9-3 victory with Carmody again the winning pitcher. The Bunnies started fast with four runs in the first. Maher had two hits and Brill played a fine defensive game. Berty Batson, Terry Monroe and McQuinn played well for the Castaways.

Quincy, North Plan 50th Football Celebration

Plans are being formulated to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Quincy-North Quincy football series next Thanksgiving.

Carl Leone, Quincy's athletic coordinator and himself a former Quincy standout, has conducted meetings with his committee members during the past month.

Working with Leone are Bill Grindlay, Ken Fallon, Bill Phinney, Pete Zoia, Greta Leone, Henry Bosworth and Roger Barry. Another committee is headed by two school committee members, Joan Picard and Nick Verenis.

The band directors, Anthony Ferrante of North and Robert Coviello of Quincy, will be in charge of the pre-game and half-time musical programs.

North's first coach, Jack Donahue, who coached the Raiders for 28 years, and Bill Sullivan of Quincy, who coached the Presidents from 1952 to 1959, were unanimously named honorary chairmen for the day.

Pre-game festivities will honor previous captains from both schools, the presentation of this year's football queens, and the first football queens.

All those who have played during the 50 years will be given a school identification tag to wear signifying which school they played for.

Middle Schools Bring Changes Quincy, North Football Practice Next Week

By TOM SULLIVAN

There will be several changes when the Quincy and North Quincy football teams open practice next Monday morning after the players underwent physicals and received equipment the last two weeks.

The big change this fall is the dropping of junior high school sports and the ninth grade now being a part of four-year high schools.

This will result in some form of ninth grade schedules, as Coaches Tom Fitzgerald of Quincy and Ken McPhee of North prefer not to have ninth graders playing on the varsity squads.

Fitzgerald, a former North Quincy All-Scholastic starting his fifth year as Quincy coach and his 31st year as a schoolboy coach, piloted the Presidents to wins over his alma mater his first two years but lost the last two seasons, 7-0 last Thanksgiving and 27-20 the previous season.

Fitzie has Peter Cella and John Sullivan back as assistants this fall. Cella will work with Fitzgerald with the varsity and Sullivan will again have charge of the sophomore-junior varsity programs.

"I hope to arrange a few games for the freshmen," Fitzgerald said. "It will have to be on an informal basis as, with proposition 2½ hitting the schools so hard, coaches losing their jobs and the junior high sports being cut, I don't expect any funding for a freshman program."

"I don't think it would be right for me to ask Sully to coach the freshmen, what with his coaching the sophomore and junior varsity, so I will have to get a volunteer coach for the freshmen. Also, I don't think there will be any money for officials, so I will have to find some interested alumni or other people to officiate the games. I really don't want to use any freshmen on the varsity squad."

This fall North Quincy observes its 50th year of football and will have its fifth coach in McPhee, a former North star who had been a Raider assistant for the past 10 years. He succeeds Dave Burke, who resigned after seven years as Raider coach.

McPhee has Ted Sadowski, starting his 25th season as a North aide, and Jack Raymer, back as assistants. He recently rounded out his staff with the addition of another former Raider star, Mark Mulvaney.

Mulvaney, like McPhee, played at Central Connecticut State, where he was captain his senior year.

Like Fitzgerald, McPhee plans a freshman schedule for Saturday mornings.

"I have already booked two games and I hope to get a couple more," he said. "With junior high sports a thing of the past, we must get some games for the freshmen."

Fitzgerald will greet his squad for the first practice Monday morning at 8 at Faxon Field. The Presidents will work out until 10:30, and, following a break, will return for an afternoon session from 12:30 to 3. The Presidents will follow this schedule all next week.

McPhee, who lost his teaching job due to Prop 2½ and still hasn't gotten it back, will have his squad out Monday at 8:30 at Cavanagh Stadium, will work out until 11:30 and, following lunch, a blackboard drill will be held and the squad will return to Cavanagh for an afternoon session from 2 to 4. The Raiders also will have weight lifting three times during the week. This schedule will be followed throughout the week.

Both teams will open their seasons Saturday, Sept. 18.

Quincy will open at Cambridge Rindge and Latin in a Suburban League game, while North will be home at Veterans Memorial Stadium against oldtime non-league rival Milton, coached by former North assistant Jack Bowles. Both games will be at 1:30.

With Weymouth South and Weymouth North dropping out of the Suburban League to join the Old Colony League, North is by far the smallest school in the league and Quincy is also among the smallest.

Quincy has added Everett and Fitchburg to the schedule to replace the Weymouth teams. North was able to add only Somerville and will play a nine-game schedule instead of 10. McPhee hopes to add a 10th game next season.

McKeag No-Hitter Leads Copelands To City League Win

Lefty McKeag, a recent acquisition from the Weymouth Pals, pitched a no-hit, no-run game to lead the Copelands to a 1-0 victory over Fore River at O'Rourke Field and left the South Quincy team to a three game lead over the Civics in the City League.

McKeag struck out eight, walked four and hit one batsman in besting young Joe Moran in a hurlers' duel. Moran allowed only four hits and fanned eight and had it not been for a freak mistake in trying to walk Mike Walsh, the game may have ended in a scoreless tie.

Copelands scored their lone run in the sixth inning. Ralph MacLeod opened the frame with a single. Faulkner sacrificed him to second and he took third on Kelly's ground out. The Fore River board of strategy decided to walk Walsh and pitch to McKeag. But one of Moran's pitchouts slipped off his fingers and came straight down the pipe and Walsh stroked a single to left, scoring MacLeod with the only run of the game.

Only the Shipbuilders' Orrie Carella reached second on McKeag and he did it twice. He was hit by a pitch in the first and took second on a wild pitch. In the fourth, he walked and was sacrificed to second by Bowles. Each time he was stranded there.

The Copelands lineup included: MacLeod cf, Faulkner ss, Kelly 1b, Walsh lf, McKeag p, McKay 3b, Lastra rf, Dahlquist rf, Mullaney c, Pellegrini 3b.

The Fore River lineup included: Willbridge 3b, Carella 2b, Bowles ss, McIntosh 1b, DiLoreto lf, Duffy c, DeStephano cf, Desmond rf, Moran p.

CUBS, CIVICS SPLIT

The Quincy Civics and the Cubs from Houghs Neck traded ninth inning rallies in splitting the two games of a City League doubleheader at Merrymount Field.

The Cubs spotted the Civics a 3-1 lead going into the ninth and then fell on Lefty Corrigan, the Civics pitcher, for an avalanche of base hits and three runs to secure a 4-3 win. Larry Spillane blanked the Quincy club over the last three innings and received the victory.

Stork, the Civics pitcher, limited the Houghs Neck nine to five hits in the second game but three of them, including a double by Lovell, came in the eighth inning as the Cubs came up with four runs to overcome a 5-1 Civics lead.

But the Civics chalked up two runs in the ninth on a walk to Nugent and a long home run by Donovan for the winning margin.

The Civics lineup for the two games included: Nugent ss, Kiernan cf, D. Clancy lf, Donovan 1b, McCormack c, McCarthy 3b, Higgins rf-c, Carella 2b, Leary c-rf, Corrigan p-rf, Stork p.

The Cubs lineup included: L. Ryan 2b, Lemon lf, D. Ryan c, R. Page 1b, Spillane ss-p, Sava rf, F. Page cf, Lovell p-3b-ss, Armstrong p-3b.

SCOTT TROPHY WINNER

William G. Scott's "Kismet" led a large fleet of Indians across the finish line to win the new House Committee Trophy offered by the Squantum Yacht Club. Scott won his gamble that a northeast wind would change to an east wind and took the lead around the Long Island marker.

FALLON STARS

Johnny Fallon of Quincy, a New York Yankee farmhand, was pitching the Binghamton club of the New York-Pennsylvania League into pennant contention with a record of four wins and one loss. Fallon's lone defeat came in a one-inning relief stint against Harrisburg.

ALUMNI PRACTICE

Quincy High School graduates of 1934 and 1935, headed by 1934 Capt. Vic DiGravio, reported to Coach Leland H. Anderson for the first practice of the Alumni football team scheduled to play the High School on Sept. 14. Also on the team were Nick Malvesti and Kaiser Oliverio.

WILSON MANAGER

Jimmy Wilson was named manager of the Clan MacGregor soccer team for the 1935-36 season, succeeding Tommy Hay. The Clan team, a member of the Boston and District Soccer League, opened the exhibition season with a 6-4 win over the Lewiston, Maine, Celtics.

DESMOND VICTOR

Fireballing Fran Desmond set St. Ann's down with two hits and struck out nine but walked seven as Fore River topped the Saints, 6-3, in a City League encounter at Fore River Field. DiLoreto had a triple and DeStephano two doubles for the Shipbuilders.

SPORTS BITS '35

Former world welterweight and middleweight champion Lou Brouillard of Quincy signed to meet Tony Costa of New Bedford in a 10-round bout at New Haven. . . . City Councillor Laurence J. Curtin donated a trophy for the winner of a three-mile canoe race around Grape Island.

Firefighters Defeat Police, 8-5

City Hall Downs News Media In Slug-fest

A pitchers' duel between District Court Clerk Arthur Tobin and restaurateur Ken Runge ended up in a thrilling 26-22 victory for City Hall over the News Media last week in the annual softball game for muscular dystrophy.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Quincy Firefighters defeated the Police Dept., 8-5.

The doubleheader raised more than $500 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The City Hall crew had little trouble solving Runge's slants, running up a 12-0 lead in the first two innings.

"What is Runge throwing?" Media Manager Henry Bosworth asked his catchers, Tom Henshaw and Rick Saulnier.

"We don't know," they replied. "We haven't caught one yet."

But the Media bounced back in its half of the second inning with nine runs as Tobin, making his first start in nearly a year, weakened before the onslaught of Media bats.

City Councillor Dick Koch Jr. hit an inside the park home run for the City Hall team which was led by Councillor Leo Kelly.

Kelly's management was said to have been the key to City Hall's victory as he insisted that the game be limited to seven innings, thus frustrating the late inning comeback by the better conditioned Media team.

The post-game departure of the athletes resembled Napoleon's retreat from Moscow.

The News Media's Tom Henshaw suffered a broken toe.

the result of an overexuberant throw from the outfield, and Herb Fontaine was felled by a pulled hamstring muscle.

City Hall's Bill Reardon trying to score on a close play, was struck on the arm by a wild throw to the plate.

Quincy A Team Eliminated In Junior Tourney

The Quincy A Junior League Baseball team was eliminated from the Stoughton Invitational Tournament last weekend by Norwood Police, 4-2, Quincy's second loss as against four wins in the double-elimination tournament.

Quincy reached the final four in the 42-team tournament and played excellent ball against strong competition from all over Eastern and Southeastern Massachusetts.

In the Norwood game Quincy's top pitcher, Tom McDonald, had back problems and Manager Bob Foley started Bob Higgins, a good control pitcher with a good curveball. He pitched well, allowing seven hits and walking three.

Quincy was held to five hits, two by McDonald and one each by Dan Biagini, John Pennellatore and Sean Gately.

Trailing, 2-0, after five innings, Quincy tied it up on singles by McDonald, Biagini and Pennellatore and walks to Mark DiMattio and Kevin Duffy.

After winning its first three tournament games, Quincy lost to Marshfield, 7-5 as Marshfield reached McDonald, still bothered by a bad back, for four runs and five hits in the first two innings.

T. J. Steen pitched 1½ innings and Higgins hurled the final 2½ of excellent relief.

Quincy, on two long fence-clearing homers, a two-run shot by DiMattio and a three-run blast by Ron Fletcher, climbed back into the game. But its bats were held in check by Marshfield reliever Bob Miller. Gately had the only other Quincy hit.

Quincy bounced back to top East Weymouth, 5-2, behind the two-hit pitching off DiMattio, to remain in contention. Weymouth got its two hits and two runs in the second inning and was leading, 2-1, going into the bottom of the fifth, Quincy's lone run being a mammoth home run by Pennellatore.

In the fifth Bill Mulhern reached on an error, speedy Matt Furtado, running for Mulhern, scored all the way from first on Duffy's double. Biagini's long fly to left was dropped and McDonald hit his second double scoring Duffy and Biagini. DiMattio struck out five and didn't issue a base on balls. In 12 innings in the tournament DiMattio allowed only three hits.

The Quincy roster included McDonald, Steen, DiMattio, Higgins, John Davis, Pennellatore, Robby Hubbard, Mike Mullaney, Biagini, Fletcher, Duffy, Furtado, Jimmy Dennis, Gately and Mulhern.

Foley was assisted by first base coach Mike Duffy and third base coach Ron Fletcher Sr. Tom Mullaney was the team's scorer and Mike Cahill was batboy.

• Perkins League

Caldwell Earnes Playoff Bye

The Roy Perkins Softball League wound up the regular season last Friday with Caldwell Construction rolling over the Sixty-Niners, 24-10, and earning a bye in the first round of the playoffs along with Woodward Spring, which finished in first place. Caldwell finished second.

The playoffs got under way this week with South Shore Buick playing the Sixty-Niners and the Sedators meeting North Quincy Taxi in the first round games.

Woodward will play the winner of the Sedators-North Quincy Taxi series and Caldwell will face the winner of the Buck-Sixty-Niners series.

All the players and league officials thank Roy Perkins, the league sponsor, for a successful season.

The final standings: Woodward, 16-5; Caldwell, 14-7; Sedators, 13-8; S.S. Buick, 11-10; Sixty-Niners, 10-11; N. Q. Taxi, 9-12; Misfits, 7-14, and Benbay Bombers, 4-17.

DOVE Benefit Game On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television, Cable Channel 3, will broadcast a softball benefit for Quincy's DOVE Tuesday, Aug. 31 at 7:30 p.m. and Thursday, Sept. 2 at 8:30 p.m.

Taped at West Quincy's Kincaid Park Aug. 24, the game matched Channel 7 television employees against Braitree's JayCees.

DOVE, a Quincy based social service agency providing support for battered women and their children, received all proceeds from the game.

Also scheduled during the week is "It's Your Money", the first program in a financial series designed to help consumers invest wisely.

Jim Hayden, president of Quincy's Hayden Tax Associates, hosts the first show and interviews guests Rick McDonald and Lynn Kettleson who discuss money market funds.

This program can be seen Tuesday, Aug. 31 at 9:30 p.m.

Children's theatre is in the spotlight as "Cinderella Meets Cindy Ellen" premieres Friday, Sept. 3 at 4:10 p.m.

The play, written by Diane Purdy of the Children's Theatre Workshop, features local actors in lead roles and will be shown again Friday, Sept. 10 at 3 p.m.

• Bankers Softball League

Hancock Holds 3-Game Lead

Hancock Bank maintained its three-game lead over South Shore Bank and Bay Bank in Div. 1 of the South Shore Bankers Softball League with a 9-8 extra-inning victory over South Weymouth Savings.

The game saw-sawed back and forth through the regulation seven innings and the teams went into the eighth tied, 8-8. South Weymouth went down in order in the top of the eighth and, with darkness falling and the game in danger of being called, Terry McCormack led the bottom half with a single to center, Kevin Cahill hit a long fly to left, McCormack going to second and Frank Friske wasted no time, hitting the first pitch for a line single scoring the winning run.

McCormack's three hits included a homer, Friske pitched well and had some timely hits, and Jim Cuniff and Joe Greene, filling in for missing regulars, supplied key hits. For South Weymouth Al Catania, Kenny Smith (three-run homer), Bill Striano (three for three) and McCarthy (three hits), paced the attack.

South Weymouth came back the next night and pounded State Street Bank, 12-1, to tie State Street for the Div. 2 lead with three games left.

Lenny Smith pitched near-perfect ball. Striano, playing with a bad back, had three hits and John Boucher played strong defense at third and had two timely hits.

Bay Bank and South Shore remained in a life and death struggle for a playoff spot by beating Quincy Savings and Quincy Co-operative respectively. These two have a date on the final day of the season and the game could settle a muddled playoff picture.

Hapless Atlantic Data Services took it on the chin again, being bombed by State Street, 23-1. The score doesn't reflect the spirit and determination of Ed Kelly's hustling club. It never stops trying and, although its first year in the league hasn't been a howling success (4-13), it should improve next season.

The standings: Div. 1 - Hancock Bank, 13-5; South Shore Bank, 10-8; Bay Bank Norfolk, 10-8; Atlantic Data Services, 4-13; Div. 2 - South Weymouth, 9-7; State Street, 9-7; Quincy Co-op, 7-10; Quincy Savings, 6-10.

• HN Men's Softball

Louis, Finlay's, Manet In Playoffs

Louis Cafe, which finished in first place; Finlay's, Houghs Neck Package Store and Manet Shell have qualified for the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League playoffs.

The playoffs will be played Sunday at Great Hill Field with Louis meeting Manet Shell at 9 o'clock and Finlay's facing Package at 10:30. The two winners will play at noon for the championship.

Manet Shell exploded for eight runs and 12 hits in the last three innings last Sunday to top Package and tie Package for the final playoff berth. John Picarski and John Bogan pitched for the winners. Jim Gilmore hit a key two-run homer in the top of the seventh to provide the team with its two-run cushion. Gary Keefe went three for four. Defensive standouts for Package were Tom Tordoff with back-to-back slabs of hard liners and Howie Stetler with a fine over-the-shoulder catch of a blooper into short right field.

Louis bombed Chenette

Plumbing, 19-6, with Dennis Fitzgibbons the winning pitcher. Joe Chase had four hits, including a homer; Rich Brill had three hits as did Kevin Donovan and Ron Donovan had a home run and made an outstanding diving catch in right center. Offensive stars for Chenette were Rich, Danny and Paul Chenette and Dave Shaw with two hits each. Ricky Level played well defensively and made a fine shoestring catch in right field.

Finlay's Variety erupted for a 17-3 win over the Quincy Yacht Club. Joe Fratolillo and Ed Kelly pitched for Finlay's and Steve Stone again supplied the offensive power with two home runs. Tom Brady came through with his usual amount of seeing-eye bleeders to help the attack. Bob Brill, Wayne Stone and Jim McNally stood out for the Yacht Club.

The final regular season standings: Louis, 12-2-1; Finlay's, 9-5-1; Package, 6-8-1; Manet Shell, 6-8-1; Yacht Club, 5-9-1; Chenette's, 4-10-1.

Hancock Slo-Pitch Tourney Sept. 10

The third annual Hancock Bank Open Slo-Pitch Softball Tournament to benefit the United Way will be held in Quincy Sept. 10, 11 and 12 and Sept. 18, 19 and 20, with the finals Monday, Sept. 20.

As in the past, the tournament will be single elimination with the winning team receiving jackets and the first four finishers receiving trophies. The minimum entry fee is $125 with all proceeds going to the United Way.

It is suggested that teams enter early as last year's response was so great that several teams had to be turned down. The tournament is restricted to 32 teams.

Applications are available at any of the bank's 16 branches and at the main office on Hancock Street.

Charlie Cahill will again coordinate the event and can be reached at 773-0500 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ON PREVENTING FIRES

Too many people die each year from fires caused by pure negligence. Here are some tips on how to prevent them.

Don't smoke in bed or ANYWHERE when you are sleepy. Use large ashtrays, with islands in the middle, to keep cigarettes or hot ashes from falling out and starting fires. Don't use matches to hunt in closets. Be sure all burners and appliances are turned off after use - especially a heating pad when you get sleepy. Handle electrical appliances with care. Never touch electrical connections with wet hands or when standing on damp ground. Room heaters need screens almost as much as open fireplaces. Don't get too close to either.

If you make a boo-boo on one of these items and DO catch your clothing in fire, don't run. Drop to the floor and try to smother the flames by wrapping a blanket, rug, coat or other heavy material around your body and rolling over slowly. Start wrapping at your neck and keep flames from your face and head.

The Quincy Recreation Department recently conducted its 34th Annual Water Carnival at the Avalon swim station, Quincy Point.

Entitled "Peter Pan", the carnival featured skits prepared by the swimming instructors for participants in the department's 10 Learn-to-Swim stations.

The swim stations and the skits were Baker and Palmer Park. "Come Away, Come Away with Peter Pan", directed by Julianne

Evansen and Mary Ann Manley; Heron Road, "Never, Never Land", directed by Patti Morris; Nickerson, "Have You Ever Seen A Mermaid?" directed by Andrea Gelsomini; Bayfield, "The Boys' Home", directed by Linda Morash; Avalon and Mound St., "Do You Believe in Fairies?", directed by Carolyn Nee and Holly Borden; Perry and Rock Island, "Peter Saves Wendy", directed by Cathie Burke and Mary Wright; Elm, "The Return Home," directed by Suzanne Yee and Susan Cahill.

The Department's 11 Water Safety Instructors also took the roles of classical musicians to demonstrate swimming strokes.

The Annual City Championship Swim Races were held at the close of the carnival. Winners from each of the swim stations compete in class group races for individual and beach honors. The winners by class in the races are:

Boys Beginner I: First place, Danny Melzard, Heron; second place, Peter Kolson, Baker.

Girls Beginner I: Kerry Evans, Heron; second place, Jessica Flannery, Elm; third place, Lynn Basset, Palmer Park.

Boys Beginner II: First place Bobby Kelly, Bayfield; second place, Michael Staff, Avalon; third place, Jerry Marshall, Perry.

STARSCOPE

Clare Asaswell

WEEK OF: AUGUST 26

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Advice you offer now is taken to heart. Joint efforts prove stimulating and profitable. Month closes with surprising announcement from higherup; September's launched with upbeat romantic times.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Sports and cultural activities offer opportunities for mingling. A practical streak can hold you back in career undertaking—minor risk should be encouraged. Education prospects brighten.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Loved one's pressures can be offset by your gentle support. Rapport may be struck with difficult family member. A leadership role wins you admiration on the weekend.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Admirers are in a poetic mood, but employers are more practical. Interests in occult sciences may be developing. Unexpected expense may be offset by financial bonuses.

GEMINI — May 23-June 23
Unhappy people may weigh you down; you're under no obligation to be the world's crying shoulder. People of wealth enter your circle. Long-term creative project can bring profit this week.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
You take on the role of recorder—perhaps writing down the recollections of an older relative. Social successes come in pairs now, and you're high on everyone's popularity list.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Social life perks up when your self-image improves. Understanding both sides makes you the ideal diplomat this week. Fractured friendship is showing signs of recovery.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Making clean breaks and starting new projects accented as August closes. Critical relative becomes your ally by weekend. Reactions to your recent announcements are not what you expected.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Long-range goal comes into focus and you understand what the next moves should be. Mystery person is revealed by the weekend. Repair tasks should not be postponed.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Friendship is at a turning point; a critical decision may be reached before Wednesday. Financial news brightens somewhat, but keep records of financial transactions undertaken now.

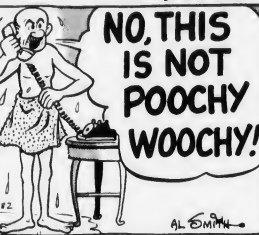

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Consider signing up for a program that allows you to sharpen skills. Loved one is in place, mood as month closes. Motivating lethargic friends can be your major accomplishment now.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Think again before dropping out of a group or program—perception can be somewhat foggy now. Creative enterprise has a profitable angle, but it needs to be explored carefully.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You worry a lot about the little things in life, and you underestimate your strengths. Those strengths include resourcefulness and persuasiveness which, combined, could help you make impressive career/academic strides over the next eight months.

BORN THIS WEEK
August 26th, Prince Consort Albert; 27th, comedienne Martha Raye; 28th, actor David Soul, 29th, actress Ingrid Bergman, 30th, actress Elizabeth Ashley; 31st, lyricist Alan Jay Lerner; September 1st, actress Yvonne De Carlo.

2 Arrested For Rape After Shootout With Police

Two Boston men pleaded innocent to assorted rape and assault charges in Quincy District Court Monday following their capture in Quincy Center in a Sunday morning police chase in which gunshots were exchanged.

Frank H. Luckiewicz, 25, and Lawrence J. Gay, 22, both of Dorchester were ordered held in $150,000 surety or $15,000 cash bail for hearing Sept. 1.

Each was charged with assault with intent to murder, assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon, kidnap, armed robbery, rape and illegal possession of a firearm.

Police said the two men kidnapped a woman at gunpoint from a bus stop in Lawrence about 10:30 p.m. Saturday and raped and robbed her during a six-hour ride that ended up in Quincy.

In the Grossman's parking area, they tried to pick up a 16-year-old Quincy girl who was walking her dog but the woman in the car screamed to the girl to get help, that she had been raped.

While the girl was struggling with the two men, Officers Kathleen Roche and Robert Lamb happened on the scene in their patrol car. The two men fled in their Cadillac.

Roche and Lamb pursued and trapped the Cadillac against traffic barrels at Granite St. and Burgin Parkway. The two men nearly ran down Lamb and escaped in an exchange of bullets.

Luckiewicz was arrested as he walked down Presidents Lane but Gay escaped into the woods in the vicinity of Whitwell St.

Some five hours later, Officer Donald Pearson came upon a man hiding behind the men's room in the Quincy Center MBTA station who fitted the description of the second man. Gay was arrested.

Local Commercial Travelers Attend Atlanta Convention

Several members of Wollaston Council 594 of the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America recently attended the organization's 95th annual international convention in Atlanta, Ga.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Fallon Jr., and Mr.

and Mrs. Donald M. Greenwood, all of Quincy; Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Deware of Hingham; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Furness Sr., of Braintree.

The Wollaston Council members are also members of the New England Grand Council.

2 Former NQHS Students Harvard Kennedy School Graduates

Two former North Quincy High School students were recently graduated by Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government and received Masters Degrees in Public Administration.

Susan A. Brophy, a 1970 graduate of North, and Michael P. Shea, a 1967 graduate, completed the prestigious mid-career program at the Kennedy School. The mid-career program is open to individuals who have distinguished themselves through five to seven years of outstanding service in the public sector.

Miss Brophy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brophy of 77 Sims Rd., is a 1974 graduate of the University of New Hampshire. She has served on the staff of Lt. Governor Thomas P. O'Neill III, as an advance person for the Carter White House, and most recently as Executive Director of the statewide Women in Construction program.

Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shea formerly of 64 Hovey St., and now of Sandwich, is a 1971 graduate of Boston College, and earned a masters degree in journalism from Boston University in 1972. He has worked as a journalist, a freelance travel writer, statewide press secretary for the Carter-Mondale Campaign, and as a Congressional aide, most recently for former U.S. Congressman Robert F. Drinan (D-Mass.).

He now serves as special research analyst and staff director for the Commerce and Labor Committee in the Massachusetts State House.

Navy Contracts To Add 1,400 Workers At Yard

By TOM HENSHAW
The General Dynamics Quincy shipyard, whose work force has been cut in half since 1978 by lack of contracts, expects to add 1,400 to the payroll as the result of two, possibly five, Navy contracts. Contracts totalling $272.6 million to build two ships for the Navy's rapid deployment force were announced last week and the yard also was given options to construct three more.

The contracts for five ships would be worth $770 million.

General Dynamics said in a statement Wednesday that the five ship program "will provide the Quincy Shipbuilding Division with approximately 6,000 man-years of work in the years 1983 through 1986."

The company called the Navy's move "a significant breakthrough in re-establishing Quincy as a builder of auxiliary ships for the Navy."

In announcing the contracts, Cong. Brian J. Donnelly said the best estimate is that between 2,000 and 3,000 new jobs would be created by the contracts. The yard now employs about 3,000.

"Most important," said Donnelly, "this project saves the yard by bringing it into the navy supply line."

"Most shipyards now engaged in the construction of large ships will be out of business in the next few years. Only yards doing business with the Navy are likely to remain in business."

If General Dynamics lands the contracts to build all five of the ships, which are described as floating warehouses, it will mean a $700 million shot in the arm for the depressed yard.

Donnelly said work should start on the first of the ships next spring.

The floating warehouses are what the Navy calls "pre-positioning ships," that would be deployed near trouble spots around the world to support rapidly deployed amphibious troops.

"This means that the Quincy shipyard is back doing business with the Navy," said Donnelly. "There is a good prospect that there will be more work in the years ahead as the Navy builds toward a 600-ship fleet."

Donnelly said the Navy has given Fore River a contract for two ships and has agreed to sign contracts for three more -- probably in January, 1983, -- when Congress appropriates the money.

In all, 13 ships will be built in the program.

State Certifies City's 100% Revaluation

The State Department of Revenue has certified 100 per cent revaluation of real property in Quincy as done by the P. R. C. Jacobs firm of McLean, Va., over the past 18 months.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he received word of the certification by telephone Tuesday afternoon and written confirmation of the phone call is expected momentarily.

McCauley said he had no figures on the total valuation of the city as determined by the Jacobs firm but it was expected to be in the range of $1.5 to $1.6 billion.

The Department of Revenue also failed to rule on whether or not the city will have to update the figures, which are based on property values as of Jan. 1, 1981.

According to Jane Malme, chief of the department's local assessment bureau, the figures can be used for tax purposes without updating if they fall within 10 per cent of the fair market value.

Nevertheless, McCauley said he plans to meet with the assessors today (Thursday) at 8:30 a.m. to discuss plans for updating.

Bids for the updating job have been received from three Massachusetts firms -- Municipal Management Consultants of Wilmington, Municipal Appraisal Service Corp. of Fall River, and Finnegan Associates of Acton.

Bar Owners Denied Rollback Injunction

Quincy's bars were prepared to close at 1 a.m. yesterday (Wednesday) after losing the latest round in a last minute effort to retain their 2 a.m. closing time.

State Appellate Court Judge David Rose Tuesday afternoon denied a bid by five bar owners for a temporary injunction to prevent the city from closing them down an hour earlier.

Counsel for the bar owners gave no indication that they planned to pursue the matter to the State Supreme Court.

Last Friday Superior Court Judge Edith Fine also refused the bar owners a preliminary injunction and she also declined to give priority to the case which is down for trial in September.

The suit to overturn the rollback was brought by Nostalgia, the Quincy Bay Inn, Dutton's, California and Joy King, charging that politics was involved in the rollback ruling by the License Board.

The five claim that Mayor Francis X. McCauley engineered the 3-2 vote of the License Board rolling back the 2 a.m. closing time by replacing Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh.

The mayor ousted McKeogh, who favored the 2 a.m. closing, and replaced him with Dr. M. Grace Hussey before the License Board voted 3-2 for the rollback.

McCauley has denied that the move was political.

Vandals Hit Quincy Center T Station

Officials are keeping a close watch on the Quincy Center MBTA station after a Sunday vandalism spree in which the glass door at the Burgin Parkway entrance was smashed and windows of the collection booth broken.

Damage to the interior of the station was estimated at about $1,000.

The vandals also smashed a phone booth outside the station, overturned benches on McIntyre Mall and scattered trash around the grass area next to City Hall.

The incident apparently occurred while the station was closed early Sunday morning.

McCauley Asks: Mayor $48,500 Council $7,500 New Salaries

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to ask the City Council Tuesday to boost his salary from $25,000 to $48,500 in two steps and raise its own stipend from $3,000 to $7,500 per Council member.

"Ten years have gone by since the mayor and the councillors got a raise in pay," said McCauley Tuesday afternoon. "It has to be done from time to time and this is the time."

A special committee named by McCauley last April to study the salaries recommended that the mayor receive a salary of $48,500, effective Jan. 1, 1984, and the councillors receive $4,500 for part-time work.

McCauley's proposal is that the mayor receive $37,500 starting Jan. 1, 1983 and $48,500 starting Jan. 1, 1984 and councillors get $7,500, largely because they were getting $3,000 in 1980.

The mayor noted that the total cost of the increases that would become effective next Jan. 1 would be $26,500 for the remainder of fiscal 1983 and slightly over $50,000 for the full fiscal year of 1984.

In order for the changes to become effective Jan. 1, he said, favorable action by the Council on the ordinance change and the financial order will be necessary before the end of the year.

"There is never really a good time to do this," said McCauley, anticipating protests of the raises at a time when fire fighters and teachers are being laid off and some employer raises have gone unfunded.

"But I have tried to do it in a professional way using the committee report as a basis for my recommendations."

The mayor said he has tried to keep personalities out of the pay raise issue but, he added, "as long as you have brought it up a raise to $37,500 is not a raise for me."

He said that he earned about $41,000 in 1981 from his job as president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, a city councillor and a free lance tax accountant.

His bank merged with the Granite Cooperative Bank at the end of the year.

"If I had stayed on as executive vice president of the merged bank, and with income from the City Council and my tax business, I would be in the area of $48,500 right now," he said.

"So I would not say that this is a windfall for me. But I don't want anybody to think that I'm crying about it. I knew what I was getting into when I ran for mayor."

"I have tried to be as much up front as possible with this. This is not Halloween night ordinance. I don't think people are as much opposed to raises as they are opposed to having secrecy around them."

In backup material supporting the raise that has been sent to the nine members of the City Council, McCauley noted that the mayor is far down on the salary list among city employees.

The list shows the Fire Chief making $51,628 and the School Superintendent $50,025 at the top of the column. The head mechanic in the Fire Department makes $33,101 and the average patrolman $26,756.

The last time the mayor's salary was raised was Jan. 3, 1973, when the job went from part-time to fulltime and the pay went from $10,000 to $25,000. Since that time

State To Repair Willard St. Potholes

City Councillor James A. Sheets says the State Department of Public Works has agreed to fill the potholes and make temporary emergency repairs to Willard St. in the near future.

Sheets said he has received many complaints from residents about the condition of Willard St., which is a state highway from West St. to the Braintree line.

Sheets called the potholes "very dangerous" and added that safety problems could not be tolerated until such time as permanent resurfacing work is done.

Nun Injured In Car Crash

Sister Patricia Ann Wright 61, of the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth on Fenno St., Wollaston, was injured Monday when the car she was driving was in collision with another car at the intersection of Elm Ave. and Marlboro St., Wollaston.

She was treated and released at City Hospital.

Police said the 1981 Ford Fairmont she was driving was in collision with a 1978 Pontiac driven by Elaine A. Hollen of Rock Island Rd., Houghs Neck.

Library Break

The Thomas Crane Public Library was entered through a broken window over the weekend and the would-be thieves tampered with the coin box on the copying machine but nothing was reported taken.

Watch Stolen

A gold watch and $13 in cash were reported stolen from the home of Maud Kyoperris on West St., West Quincy, Sunday.

Port O'Call Hit

The cash box from a video machine with an undetermined amount of money was reported stolen from the Port O'Call, 542 East Squantum St., Squantum, early Tuesday morning by thieves who broke a side window to gain entry.

'A Beep Away From Help'

'Lifeline' For Elderly, Handicapped At QCH

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Thanks to "Lifeline", a new personal emergency response program at Quincy City Hospital, elderly and handicapped local residents can be "just a beep away from help".

Participants in the program carry a small, wireless "help" button in their pocket or clipped to belts or clothing.

If help is needed during the day or night, the button is pushed to contact the hospital's emergency response center in the Emergency Department.

The call for help activates the home unit attached to the telephone which automatically dials the hospital.

The unit can work even if the phone is off the hook or there is a power failure.

When registered nurses on duty receive the signal for help, they will try to reach the source by telephone to see what help is needed.

If no contact can be made at the home, a "responder" will be sent to the home.

"Responders" are friends, neighbors, relatives or anyone else chosen in advance by the participants to be called in the event of an emergency.

Upon arrival at the home, the responder will signal the hospital by resetting the Lifeline unit.

The hospital will then call the responder on the telephone to see what kind of help is needed.

Lifeline can also call the hospital for help if the participant cannot use the help button.

The home unit includes a timer which is reset automatically each time the phone is used.

If the participant should become unconscious or otherwise unable to reset the time, Lifeline automatically calls the hospital and starts the emergency response procedure.

Lifeline can preclude the necessity for admission to nursing homes or other institutions, according to the hospital which charges a $10 per month rental fee for the equipment which is installed in the home.

The equipment was made available through a gift of funding by the Quincy City Hospital Women's Auxiliary and the state and county medical society auxiliary.

Applications are now being accepted for Lifeline units.

7 Teachers

To Be Rehired

After an hour long closed session, the School Committee voted Wednesday night to rehire seven laid off teachers with part of the $400,000 it received in extra state aid.

The remainder of the money may go towards pay raises which are not provided for in the budget.

Most of the seven teachers will be assigned to the middle schools, according to School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

It was estimated that $150,000 to $175,000 would be needed to rehire the teachers.

The school committee's vote followed discussion of contract talks with school unions.

The Quincy Education Association has been urging the school committee to use all the money for pay raises. Talks between the two sides have gone into mediation.

The school committee received the $400,000 from $1.7 million in extra state aid that the city received last month.

So that our employees may enjoy the Labor Day weekend with their families, the Bank will be closed Saturday, September 4th.

Ground Broken For Hancock Court Facility

Excavation work has started on a $5 million apartment house on School St. being constructed by the O'Connell Brothers to contain 80 units of housing for the elderly plus first floor offices.

Developer Peter O'Connell said an early start to construction work was authorized by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development although some paper work remains.

He said the project probably will be finished in eight to nine months.

The facility, to be known as Hancock Court, is across the street from St. John's Church.

Thank You, Quincy From the Reilly-Barriere Family

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Recently, our family experienced the deep personal loss of our twenty-one year old son and brother, Richard Reilly, by an unfortunate pedestrian accident, July 21, 1982, on Quincy Shore Drive.

We have all been sustained by the outpouring of warmth and friendship from all over the City of Quincy.

We want to express our thanks, publicly, to special groups of people:

The Emergency Medical Team of Bay State Ambulance, who arrived swiftly and, with great expertise, gave Richard a chance for survival;

The Medical Team at the Quincy City Hospital, the doctors, nurses, orderlies and aides, who, compassionately and tenderly, administered to Richard and all the members of our family;

The Nursing Staff of the Intensive Care Unit, who took special care in talking to the large numbers of young adults who were stunned and grieving the loss of their friend. These young adults, who so often receive our criticism for their youthful exuberance, were very subdued during Richard's last week of hospitalization. These young people from Wollaston Beach donated blood in large numbers to blood banks, all over the South Shore and Boston, in Richard's name. We will be forever grateful to them for their friendship and support;

The Clergy of Quincy, of all denominations, who comforted and prayed with us, showing us so clearly that an ecumenical spirit of love and faith is alive in our City. We also thank all the prayer groups who offered prayers for Richard and our family;

Neighbors and friends, who fed our large family throughout the week of our ordeal. They provided nourishment for our bodies while their friendship offered nourishment to our souls;

The Police from the M.D.C. and the City of Quincy, who provided support and special help to all the members of our family. Quincy's Police showed us their skill in grief counseling, which was particularly helpful to the younger members of our family;

And, finally, we were greatly touched by the large number of Quincy's leaders, who came to pay tribute to our son.

He was an average, blue-eyed, blond boy from Quincy, and a very special person to his family and friends.

Our family wants to thank the entire City; we are proud and happy to live here.

The 'Gilmartin Poll'

Tom Gilmartin, who represented Ward 6 in the City Council back in the late 1940's, hasn't been a political candidate himself for over 30 years.

But he's still a candidate watcher. When it comes to picking races, he's had a pretty good batting eye.

Last year, for example, in Quincy's city election he picked all the winners.

Now, he's getting a little more scientific. He recently completed a poll focusing in Democratic candidates. He says he polled between 900 and 1,200 voters — most of them in the area from Boston to Brockton.

And, if you're interested, his forecast for this year, based on that poll, is:

Gov. Edward King will edge former Gov. Michael Dukakis in the Democratic primary.

John Kerry will get the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor with Evelyn Murphy a very close second. He has Sam Rotondi third and Lois Pines fourth.

"This contest is one of the toughest to pick in the last 25 years," says Gilmartin. "The results of the race won't be known until around 4 a.m. the next morning."

On the more local level, Gilmartin is picking Nicholas Barbadoro to eke out a close victory over Joseph LaRaia in the race for Norfolk County clerk of courts.

Behind them, he says, will be Robert Flynn of Canton and Robert Bloom, of Braintree, a Quincy District Court clerk.

He says if it all comes out the way he sees it, he may go into the polling business in time for next year's city election.

GOOD NEWS AND bad news from one of Quincy's favorite political sons, Ron Kaufman, who is political director of the Republican National Committee.

All those phone calls from the FBI to Ron's friends in Quincy involved security clearance to enable him to come and go as he pleases in Ronald Reagan's White House.

Then Kaufman, who was active in George Bush's campaign for the presidency in 1980, suffered a broken arm Friday, Aug. 13, in an automobile accident in Dallas, Texas, where he was assisting Republican candidates get ready for the 1984 GOP National Convention.

He was flown back to Washington where he underwent surgery for the insertion of a plate in his shattered forearm Aug. 24. His father-in-law, Andrew H. Card Sr. of Holbrook, reports he's now recovering at his Springfield, Va., home.

KAUFMAN

PAPILE

ASSESSOR James Papile's namesake is cleaning up in Raynham.

The greyhound named Assessor Jim, owned by John Cieri and Paul DeRico, both of Quincy, has just been promoted to Class B at the dog track in recognition of recent strong finishes.

But Assessor Jim (the man) has not yet placed any money on Assessor Jim (the dog).

"I don't want to jinx him," said Papile.

GOT A NICE note the other day from Rev.

John Banks, former pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, now retired in Chapel Hill, N.C.

He said he ran into Kay Kyser, the 'Ol Professor, of the big band era and his wife, former singer Georgia Carroll having dinner at the Carolina Inn.

BANKS

Rev. Banks knew that Frank Mitchell of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, Win Bettinson of WJDA and I had gotten to know Kay when the latter was in charge of broadcasting and film for the Christian Science Church and stationed at the Mother Church in Boston.

Mitchell had invited Kay to lunch at the Quincy Neighborhood Club just before Christmas in 1978, and asked Win and me to join them. It was a great nostalgic time as we talked about the big bands. We became good friends with Kay who later invited us to have lunch with him. We became Kay's "Quincy Fan Club."

As mementos, Frank gave him a few ball point pens advertising the Quincy Cooperative Bank. And Kay promised he'd always carry one.

Anyway, Rev. Banks got to chatting with Kay and told him we were from Quincy. Kay remembered his Quincy Fan Club and recalled the warm welcome he got here.

"Then," writes Rev. Banks, "he whipped out from a jacket pocket a ball-point pen and had me read the lettering on it: 'Quincy Cooperative Bank!' He said that Mitchell, that nice tall young vice-president gave it to me."

Rev. Banks, who plans to return to Quincy in October for the 150th anniversary of Bethany Church, may be retired but he's far from being in the rocking chair set.

"I'm keeping fit with gardening and building stone walls," he writes. "I also do some work at the hospital and church and keep active in Kiwanis."

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

There will be an early news deadline for the Sept. 9, issue of The Quincy Sun due to the Labor Day holiday.

Sports, social and other news releases should be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., by noon on Friday to assure publication in next week's edition.

Quincy Quiz

One winner in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Patricia Madden of 82 Upton St., West Quincy, wins a T-shirt. Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Council Adjourns Investigation Of Investigation

A City Council investigation of City Manager William J. Deegan's investigation of the Fire Department adjourned without action after Chief Thomas F. Gorman conceded that Deegan's recommendations were reasonable.

But Councillor Frank N. Orcutt, who spearheaded the Council investigation, fought off a move by fellow Councillor David J. Cowley that the "entire matter be dropped."

Councillor Alfred G. Helfrich moved that Deegan and his investigation be given a "clean bill of health" and that the Council vote its confidence in the Fire Department but neither motion got a second.

Deegan explained the methods he used in carrying out his investigation, which resulted in a letter of recommendations to Gorman and Councillor Edna B. Austin asked the chief:

"Did you find any demand, request or recommendation in the letter unreasonable?"

"No," replied the chief.

Members of the Council's investigating team included the councillors, Chief Gorman, Deegan and his assistant, and Joseph A. Sullivan, vice president of the State Federation of Labor.

City Solicitor Arthur I. Burgess resigned from the committee on the eve of the meeting, saying that he was neither an informer, a reformer or an investigator of investigations.

SEARCH ABANDONED

A five-day air, land and sea search was abandoned for Lt. (jg) Robert W. Haller, 27, of Durham, N.H., who vanished in his Corsair while on a routine reserve training flight from Squantum Naval Air Station.

Haller, on the last day of a two-week training period, took off at 11:07 a.m., Sept. 1, with fuel for 3 1/2 hours to join his squadron for bombing practice off Cape Cod. He was never seen again.

CONTRACT QUESTIONED

City Councillor Orcutt questioned the legality of a contract signed by City Manager Deegan with a Boston architectural firm for plans on which to build the new school in Germantown.

"Quincy stands to receive about $150,000 in state and federal aid on the schools," said Orcutt. "I want to find out before a lot of taxpayers' money is spent whether we can lose that financial assistance."

QUINCY-ISMS

McCauley Asks $48,500 For Mayor, $7,500 For Council

the consumer price index has gone from 6.2 to 14.4.

The committee that studied the mayor's salary was chaired by Charles Pearce, president of the Quincy Savings Bank, and included Arthur Chandler, Patrick Conroy, Mary Deneen, John M. Gillis, Frank Kearns, Joseph McConville, Matthew McDonnell and Michael Regan.

Only Chandler, who is president of the Quincy Citizens Association, filed a minority report in which he suggested the mayor's salary remain at $25,000 or possibly go up to $30,000.

"I felt that the salary should be sufficient to support a family but not so high that it is the sole purpose of running for the office," said Chandler. "Many would run regardless of the salary since that is not the goal."

"Nothing in the data we reviewed or in our discussions was sufficient to have me support a higher salary except that possibly of $30,000."

The committee also found that the mayor's two-year term is sufficient and that his staff of five is enough to handle the office. McCauley said he concurred with both findings.

Beware Of Strangers Around Your House

Beware of strangers who take an unusually close interest in your home.

If you see a vehicle parked in the shadows outside your house and it remains there for a long time or there is unusual activity around it, keep an eye on that car.

Call the police and tell them about it so that they can check out the car and its occupants. They may be all right. But they may be not. It's not worth taking the chances.

Don't turn the lights on and off and allow yourself to be seen, just put in the call to the police and then watch in case they leave. If possible, record the registration number.

The problems of an apartment house dweller are slightly different but basically they are the same.

If you observe persons loitering about the premises, notify the management or the police. Keep an eye on persons walking about the parking area, looking over automobiles, especially after dark.

Be particularly alert in the storage areas. Many times these areas are burglarized and it is weeks until the theft is discovered.

If the front door to the apartment house is opened by an electric buzzer, be positive who is at the entrance before you push the button to grant him entry.

A burglar will press every door bell in the building in hopes that someone will press an answering buzzer and let him in. Once inside, he has access to all apartments.

Jennie Mader, 69, Owned, Local Beauty Shop

A funeral Mass for Jennie "Jean" (Fischer) Mader, 69, of Quincy, who owned and operated Jean's Beauty Shop, Quincy, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mrs. Mader died Sunday at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, after a long illness.

She had lived in Quincy for 33 years.

Mrs. Mader was born in Revere and attended Boston schools.

A graduate of the Wilfred Beauty Academy, she worked as a hairdresser for 45 years until she retired seven years ago.

Wife of the late Mr. Raphael A. Mader, she is survived by three daughters, Bernice C. Mader of Quincy, head of financial aid at Quincy Junior College; Lt. Cmdr. Suzan H. Mader, USN, Virginia Beach, Va., and Sandra R. Mader of Quincy; and two brothers, Bernard Fischer and Benjamin Fischer, both of Brockton.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Alfred T. Knapton, 92, Former QHS Foreign Language Dept. Chairman

A funeral service for Alfred T. Knapton, 92, of Quincy, former chairman of the Quincy High School foreign language department, was held yesterday (Wednesday) at Christ Episcopal Church.

Mr. Knapton died Saturday at Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

He had lived in Quincy for more than 50 years.

Mr. Knapton was born in Lawrence. He lived in Canada, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Washington, D.C., before moving to Quincy.

He was awarded the Greek Prize at Hobart College from which he was graduated in 1929. At the 60th reunion of his graduating class in 1972, the college recognized Mr. Knapton for his contribution to "knowledge in the service of man".

He was a Phi Beta Kappa at Harvard University.

An instructor in Latin, Greek and English, he began teaching in 1912 at the age of 23.

Mr. Knapton taught at Bishop's College School, Quebec, the Westminster School in Simsbury, Conn., St. Alban's School, Washington, D.C., and Berlin High School, N.H. before coming to Quincy.

He began teaching in the Quincy schools in 1929 and retired in 1945. He worked as a clerk at the Bargain Center, Quincy Square, for several years.

During World War I, he served in France with the 49th Infantry Division and attended the divisional intelligence school in La Bazoche, France.

Mr. Knapton was a former vestryman at Christ Episcopal Church, a life member of the Scottish Rites of New Hampshire, the Karnak Temple of Montreal, the Quincy Historical Society and the Quincy Retired Teachers Association.

He is survived by his wife of 58 years, Ella Adams (Johnson) Knapton, a former teacher at Central Junior High School; two sons, David Knapton of Needham and John Knapton of Maryland; and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St. Burial was in Southboro Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Quincy Retired Teachers Association Scholarship Fund or the Memorial Fund at Christ Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy, 02169.

Duncan C. Preston, 52, Hospital Electrician

A funeral service for Duncan C. Preston, 52, of North Quincy, an electrician for New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, was held Tuesday at Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Mr. Preston died unexpectedly Friday at St. John's Hospital, Lowell.

He had lived in Quincy for 17 years.

A Navy veteran of the Korean War, he had been employed as an electrician for New England Deaconess for the past 16 years.

Born in Cambridge, he was a former resident of Boston.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret I. (Garland) Preston; his mother, Jennie E. (Eaton) Preston of Squantum; and an aunt, Mrs.

Dorothy Gove of Billerica.

He was also the brother of the late Mr. Harold M. Preston.

Rev. Eugene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum, officiated at the service.

Donations may be made to the First Church of Squantum, 164 Bellevue Rd., or to the Heart Fund.

Donald H. Mooney, 79, Retired Civil Engineer

Funeral services for Donald H. Mooney, 79, of Quincy, a retired civil engineer, were held yesterday (Wednesday) at Deware Brothers Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St.

Mr. Mooney died Sunday in Norfolk County Hospital, Braintree, after a long illness.

Born in Everett, he was a graduate of Everett High School and Tufts and Harvard Universities.

Before moving to Quincy, he had lived in Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Mooney was a registered engineer in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, and a member of the Quincy Harvard Club, a charter member of the Rotary Club and a member of the American Institute of Plant Engineering, Chapter 88.

He is survived by his wife, Hilda (Knowles) Mooney; a son, Rodney T. Mooney of Andover, Conn.; a sister, Irene Chapman of Milford; and five grandchildren.

South Shore NCCJ Seeking Community Award Nominees

The South Shore Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews (NCCJ) is sponsoring an award program for individuals and businesses in the South Shore community.

"What we are trying to do is recognize those who have made this a better place in which to live and work," said John R. Herbert, chapter chairman, in asking South Shore volunteer organizations to nominate candidates for the NCCJ award.

Volunteerism and community spirit are the criteria in selecting those to be honored, he said. Organizations are asked to mail their suggestions by Sept. 15, to him at P.O. Box 802, Quincy, MA 02169.

The NCCJ Chapter will honor the awardees at a luncheon in late October.

Sun Telethon Pledge Center For Quincy-South Shore Area

a.m. to 7 p.m.

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Sept. 5-6 Jerry Lewis-Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon Weekend in Quincy.

Anyone donating $1 or more to the fishbowl will be eligible to win a $400 Radio Shack color program-game computer donated by John Poreca, president of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Several hundred color posters of the Tall Ships Christian Radich and Gorch Fock II will be available to those donating $2 or more. They will also be eligible to win the computer.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more will also receive two tickets to the Wollaston Theater donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler, owners of the theater.

Youngsters who want to help Jerry's Kids may obtain an official canister at The Sun office with which to collect donations. They will receive a Jerry Lewis iron-on patch when they turn the canister in at the pledge center fishbowl.

There will be a variety of activities outside The Sun office on Labor Day including: Music by Baron Hugo's orchestra and The Citations. There will also be a dunking booth sponsored by the Quincy High School Band Alumni Association.

Making return appearances will be Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Tweedie Bird, Sylvester the Cat. Joining them this year will be Grimace and Hamburglar from McDonald's and the Coke Robot.

Last year, $110,244 was raised in the Quincy-South Shore area at The Quincy Sun pledge center and through special events sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Of this figure $68,018 was raised from special events: $36,500 in Labor Day weekend pledges and $5,726 in fishbowl receipts on that weekend.

The $110,244 brought to $470,984 the five-year total raised here. This year's goal is to pass the $500,000 mark.

Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun and Richard J. Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

This year's Jerry Lewis Telethon—the 17th annual—and billed as the "Extra Special Special" will originate live from Caesar's Place, Las Vegas and carried by 200 stations.

It will start at 9 p.m. Sunday and continue 21½ hours until 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Locally, the show will be carried on Ch. 5 with WCVB-TV personalities Natalie Jacobson and Chet Curtis serving as co-hosts.

Representatives from the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee and pledge center will be among those making appearances on Ch. 5

WJDA To Again Cover Pledge Center Activities

WJDA will again team with The Quincy Sun to help Jerry's Kids.

The Quincy radio station (1300) will provide live coverage of activities at the Quincy-South Shore pledge center at The Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The WJDA broadcasts will start at 6 a.m. Monday and continue to the end of the telethon at 7 p.m.

Win Bettinson, program director, and Roy Lind will give progress reports, interview volunteers working at the pledge center and those coming in to make donations to the fishbowl. They will also cover special events at the pledge center.

WJDA is teaming with The Sun through the cooperation of James D. Asher, Jr., president-treasurer of the radio station.

In addition to WJDA, activities at the pledge center will also be covered live for the first time on the Quincy Sun's Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday.

Pledge Center Live On Cable TV

Activities at The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center will be covered live on television for the very first time.

The Sun's Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems will televise happenings inside the pledge center and special events outside on Labor Day from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

There will be interviews with volunteers manning the telephones and those coming to the pledge center to make donations to the fishbowl.

The telecast—first live one for Ch. 8—is being made possible through the assistance and cooperation of David Keefe, general manager of Quincy Cablesystems.

$400 Computer To Be Awarded At Pledge Center

A $400 Radio Shack color game computer will be awarded as a prize at The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

The computer is being donated by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

With the computer will be four cassettes to play chess, checkers, to take a typing course and to compose music. Other game cassettes are available.

This is the fifth year in a row Poreca has donated a large prize to help Jerry's Kids. In the past, he has given four microwave ovens and a color TV set.

Anyone contributing $1 or more to the fishbowl at the pledge center will be eligible to win the computer. The lucky name will be drawn at the end of the telethon Monday.

The Sun pledge center will be in operation from 7 p.m. Sunday to 7 p.m. Monday.

Baron Hugo, Citations To Entertain At Pledge Center

If you like good music, The Quincy Sun pledge center in Quincy Sq. is the place to be Labor Day.

Baron Hugo's orchestra and The Citations will both again be on hand outside the center on Labor Day doing their thing for Jerry's Kids during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

The Citations, will play from 1 to 4 p.m. and the Baron will take over from 5 p.m. to the end of the telethon.

Baron's group will include Mike Alaura on string bass, Bill Milesky at the electric piano and Leon Meriam on trumpet.

The Citations will have Paul Ricca, trumpet; Joe Ricca, tenor saxophone; Angelo Paglioca, choravox; Jim Nicolero, drums, and Joe Contrino and Fuzzy Fasano singing.

Baron will lead an old-fashioned sidewalk sing-along.

$470,984 Raised Here So Far By Telethon Committee

The Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee has raised $470,984 since it was organized five years ago.

That figure was reached last year when $110,244 was raised at The Quincy Sun pledge center and through special events sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

This year's goal is pass the $500,000 mark.

Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard J. Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

100 Wollaston Theater Tickets Pledge Center Prizes

One hundred tickets to the Wollaston Theater will be awarded at The Quincy Sun based Jerry Lewis Telethon Center over the Labor Day weekend.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more to the fish bowl at the pledge center will receive two tickets each to the theater.

The 100 tickets are being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler, owners of the theater on Beale St., Wollaston.

This is the fourth straight year the Chandlers have donated 100 tickets.

The $5 or more donation for two tickets will also entitle the donors to a chance to win a $400 Radio Shack color program and game computer. You can even play chess and checkers on it.

The computer is being as a prize by John Poreca, president of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Mickey Mouse And Friends At Pledge Center Monday

Hey, kids!

There'll be a lot of your friends waiting to see you at The Quincy Sun pledge center on Labor Day. Making a return visit will be Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Tweedie Bird and Sylvester The Cat, who were all here last year.

Joining them this Labor Day will be Grimace and Hamburglar from McDonald's Restaurant and The Coke Robot.

All eight loveable characters will be inside and outside The Sun office during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon Monday.

They'll be helping to collect donations for the fishbowl to help fight muscular dystrophy.

Come on down and meet them in person.

Call 328-6622 To Make A Pledge

If you want to make a pledge during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon this Labor Day weekend, the number to call in the Quincy-South Shore area is 328-6622.

The number will ring one of the 26 telephones being installed in The Quincy Sun office pledge center for the Quincy-South Shore area.

The telephones will be manned by more than 200 volunteers on various shifts during the Jerry Lewis Telethon be carried on WCVB-TV, Ch. 5.

You may also make a contribution to the fishbowl by visiting The Sun Office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

State Approves Hancock Bank Merger

The State Board of Bank Incorporation has approved a merger proposal under which the Bank of New England Corp. would acquire control of 100 per cent of the voting shares of the Hancock Bank of Quincy.

William E. Kelley, president of the Hancock Bank, said the only remaining hurdle to the merger, which was announced last winter, is approval from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve system.

"My guess is that the approval will be given about Dec. 1," said Kelley.

The Bank of New England Corp. is the new name for the old New England Merchants Bank.

Nancy Senter Selected Seabee Of The Quarter

Equipment Operator Third Class Nancy E. Senter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Senter of Quincy, was recently selected Seabee of the Quarter for the third quarter of the year.

She was presented a letter of appreciation and an engraved plaque by the officer-in-charge during a unit awards ceremony.

As crew leader for the equipment operations crew, she oversaw projects at NAS Alameda, Orinda, NAS Moffett Field and N.S. Marc Island.

Miss Senter also worked many overtime hours as the unit yeoman when needed.

A 1979 graduate of North Quincy High School, she holds a grand cross of colors award IORG and is a Quincy Sun subscriber.

At Furnace Brook Cade Cup Tourney Starts Friday

The South Shore's longest continuing member-guest golf tournament, the 35th annual William E. Cade Cup, gets under way Friday and continues through Labor Day at the Furnace Brook Golf Club.

Chairman Lou Cugini announces that there will be an 18-hole qualifying round Friday for the 58 starting teams. Scores will determine flight and teams will be seeded by gross best ball.

The championship, first and second flights will compete in matchplay and the third flight in medal play.

The defending champions are Tom Gleason of the host club and Tom McBreen of Pembroke Country Club.

This year's competition will feature many family affairs. Father and son teams will be Dave Bailey of Braintree and Chris of Furnace Brook and Ed O'Neill of Furnace Brook and Ed 3rd of Needwood, Md.

Bill Skudris Sr. of Furnace Brook will face his son Bill Jr., also of the host club, and John Catrambone Sr. of South Shore will play his son John of Furnace Brook.

Chuck Gosselin of Furnace Brook will team up with his brother Jim of Braintree, while several brothers will be opponents.

Chuck and Jim Gosselin will face Dave of Braintree, Charlie Rizzo will face Lou of Pocasset, Frank Guilfooy will face brothers Paul and John (all Furnace Brook members), Ed O'Neill will face Larry of Pembroke and George Robbins of Braintree will face Don of Rockland.

The tournament committee is made up of Frank Foster, Jim Galvin, Paul Ceriani, Vin Sullivan, Ed O'Neill and Tom Tahan.

Kelly Wins N.E. CYO Seniors Title

Paul S. Kelly, 22, of West Quincy who, with his partner, Jim Ahern, came in second in last week's Fallon Cup Tournament, captured the senior division championship of the New England CYO Tournament Monday at the Potowomut Country Club in Warwick, R.I.

Kelly, a Boston College High and Tufts University graduate and a member of the Wollaston Golf Club, shot a 40-36-76 to edge Matt Thibeault of New Hampshire by one stroke.

Kelly started poorly and was seven-over-par after six holes. He then got hot chipping and putting and chipped in on the seventh, ninth and 10th holes for birdies. He needed only 12 putts on the back nine holes.

Kelly had won the state CYO crown at Ponkapoag and teamed with Ahern of Florida in the prestigious Fallon Cup at Wollaston Golf Club.

"My father introduced me to golf at the age of seven," Kelly said. "Duke Venesky, a fellow member at Wollaston who has been playing golf for 58 years, has coached me for three years and he is one of the most generous men you will ever meet."

"He teaches you to relax under pressure and he is a chipping and putting expert."

Venesky refers to the young golfers he works with as "being

HN Legion Outslugs Hancock Bank For Crown

The Houghs Neck Legion baseball team out-slugged Hancock Bank, 11-10, in the fifth and final playoff game to win the Babe Ruth League championship. Houghs Neck finished with the best overall record, 17-5, in the league.

Houghs Neck jumped off to a 5-0 first inning lead but Hancock came back with four in the second and took a 6-5 lead in the top of the third. HN scored three in the bottom to take the lead for good. Joe Ciardi was the winning pitcher.

Pat Hennessey and Mark MacDonald had two hits each for HN and Ciardi, Peter Furtado, Dave Zuroms and Rob Steen one each. Furtado and Steen drove in two runs apiece. John Carroll walked three times and Tom Elsmore walked twice and scored two runs. For Hancock Joe Cullen had three hits and Steve Higgins two. Cullen and Bill LaForst had triples.

Houghs Neck had taken the first game of the series, 3-2 in eight innings with Hennessey edging Dan Lenhart in a fine pitchers' duel. Hennessey allowed only two hits but walked three batters in the fifth when Hancock scored both its runs.

HN scored twice in the first on a walk to Furtado, an error and singles by Greg McGlame and Elsmore. The winning run in the eighth came on a single by Hennessey, a stolen base and a long drive to the fence by Zuroms. Cullen and 13-year-old Kyle Robertson had the only hits for Hancock.

Houghs Neck scored all its runs in the third inning and won the second game, 4-2, with Elsmore outpitching John O'Connor. In the third Furtado reached on an error. Hennessey and Ciardi singled. Zuroms was hit by a pitch and McGlame walked. Steve Higgins had three hits for Hancock.

Hancock refused to die and came back to win the next two games, forcing the fifth and final game.

Pendergast, Lane Win Fallon Tourney Cup

Mike Pendergast and David Lane defeated Paul Kelly Jr. and Jim Ahern, 2 and 1, Sunday to win the 42nd annual Fallon Cup member-guest tournament at Wollaston Golf Club in Milton.

The match provided some of the most exciting golf in tournament history.

Lane hit a shot to within six feet of the pin and birdied the first hole, Ahern holed out a 30-yard chip shot for a birdie on the third, Ahern and Lane each birdied the fifth and Kelly birdied the eighth to start a fantastic streak.

Ahern birdied the ninth to go 1 up. Pendergast birdied the 10th to get back even, Ahern birdied the 11th to go 1 up and Lane, barely missing a hole in one, birdied the 12th to get back even and Lane, despite being blocked out and not seeing the hole, sank a 25-yard chip shot for an eagle on the 14th.

Kelly and Ahern moved to within one by winning the 15th and the 16th was halved before Lane made a tap-in putt on 7 to close out the match.

Pendergast and Lane advanced to the final round by defeating Bill Bemis and Tony Russo, also by a 2 and 1 score.

Joe Gilmore and Mike Wedge defeated Richard Corner and Gerry Driscoll, 1 up, in the championship consolation.

Bob Shallow and Bob Bradley won the first flight with a 1 up victory over Paul Bussolini and Jack Call.

John O'Flaherty and George Lucas defeated Ron Hadley and Bob Harrington, 1 up in the first flight consolation.

Joe Higgins and George Crane defeated Bob Schofield and John Thompson on the 19th hole for the second flight title and Joe Moran

Jr. and Joe Moran 3rd defeated Al DeLuca and Bob Brady, 3 and 2, in the second flight consolation.

Bill Gallagher and Bill O'Connor defeated Bob Tyrell and Art Law on the 19th hole to win the third flight.

Emmett Maguire and Pat Maguire defeated Paul Anderson and Tom Papoulas, 1 up in the third flight consolation.

John MacVarish Jr. and Bob Dowling defeated George Gates and Jim Pryles, 2 up to win the fourth flight and Mike Gaudano and John Herbert defeated Ray Capobianco and Roy Winfield, 4 and 3, in the consolation.

Paul and Joe Zine defeated Bill Pendergast and Ed Sullivan, 1 up to win the fifth flight and Tom Greene and Jim Dunn defeated John Williams and Bob Hannaford, 3 and 2, in the consolation.

Louis Cafe HN Men's Softball Champs

Louis Cafe, which finished first during the regular season, defeated Finlay's Variety and Manet Shell last Sunday to win the Houghs Neck Men's Sunday Softball League playoffs.

Louis bombed Shell, 17-8, as Bob McQuinn had a three-run homer and two singles and Sully Lutchman had a two-run homer. Connie Driscoll, Hank Dondero and Dana Kirby played well for Shell.

Louis then held on to edge Finlay's, 4-3, for the title as Ron Donovan hit a two-run homer in the fourth to provide the winning runs. He also stabbed a solid line drive in the seventh inning to preserve the win. Tom Brady and Steve Stone stood out for Finlay's.

League Comr. Pete Little, Assistant Comr. Bob Kamb and treasurer Tom Tordoff worked hard all season to make the league a success and they thank the many umpires who did an outstanding job.

N. Quincy, Woodward In Perkins Semi-Finals

The Roy Perkins Softball League moved into the semifinal round of the playoffs this week with North Quincy Taxi facing defending champion Woodward Springs.

North Quincy Taxi moved into the semifinals series after eliminating the Sedators in their three-game series. South Shore Buick and the Sixty-Niners split their first two games and the winner of this series takes on Caldwell Construction in the other semifinal series.

North Quincy Taxi won its series opener over Sedators, 7-4, behind the fine pitching of Don Gauthier. A two-run homer by Shawn Kennefish was the key blow. The losing pitcher was Jeff Donald.

The Sedators came back to bomb Taxi, 20-8, with Donald the winning pitcher, but Taxi took the third game, 19-13 in extra innings. Dick Papile was the winning pitcher and Donald the loser.

The Sixty-Niners topped South Shore Buick, 8-2, in their opening game, behind the pitching of Lenny Kyle.

In the second game Buick's Jim Armstrong pitched out three bases loaded jams as his team evened the series, 5-1.

Pineau Bats Paddock Club To Shore Title

Fran Pineau, signed to fill in at third base when Larry DeCelle went into the service, scored the first run and drove in the second as the Paddock Club of South Quincy edged the Chittick Club of Hyde Park, 2-1, to take the South Shore League title in three straight games.

Jimmy Pena gave up only five hits to the Chitticks in winning the finale, which was the Paddocks sixth straight victory after they lost the first two games of their semi-final series to the Braintree White Sox to hover on the brink of early elimination.

The Paddocks' lineup throughout the playoff series included: Pineau 3b, A. Reggie ss, Foyes cf, Leary rf, Marini 2b, Cox 1b, Erickson c, Paul Bandini lf, Pena p, DeCelle 2b, Babbitt rf, Daley p, Bobek 3b, Phil Bandini cf, Emanuello p.

In earlier games, the Paddocks bombed the Hyde Park team 10-7 at Kincaide Park, South Quincy, and 8-2 at Ross Park, Boston. DeCelle's two-run homer in the ninth clinched the victory in the first game after the Chitticks came from behind to tie the game in the eighth. Carl "Swede" Erickson homered for the winners and John Bobek and Dick Cox had four and three hits respectively.

Pena tossed a seven-hitter at the Chitticks in the second game while winning his third straight playoff decision. Erickson drove in four of his team's eight runs with a pair of singles and Bobek hammered a triple and a single.

SACRED HEART TITLIST

George Johnson's three-run homer highlighted a five-run fourth inning that propelled Sacred Heart to a 6-5 victory over the Police Boys Club to win the playoff title and complete a grand slam in the Quincy Park League. Sacred Heart also won the regular season championship.

But it remained for Jed Donovan and Roger Morton to provide the winning run in the ninth inning after the Boys Club had fought back to tie. Donovan opened the ninth with a triple and scored after the catch when Morton flied deep to left field.

The Sacred Heart lineup included: Dunlop 2b, Murphy pr, Higgins cf, Donovan 1b, Morton lf, McGuigan c, Nelson 3b, Cuneo rf, Miller p, Johnson ss.

The Police Boys Club lineup included: Salvaggio lf, Pineau 2b, Drake 3b, Goselin c, McDonald ss, Miller cf, McPherson 1b, Ojala rf, Volpe rf, Dillon p.

NATIONAL CHAMPS

Kris Krasnigor scored 14 points and Capt. Stan Berman had 10 as Quincy won the National Young Judeans basketball title, 35-24, over a Long Island, N.Y. team in Aurora, Ind. Berman had 22 and Krasnigor 16 in an earlier victory over St. Paul, Minn.

The Quincy lineup included: Berman, Solow, Snyder, forwards; Krasnigor, center; Goldberg, Asnes, Schwartz, guards.

NORTH ALUMNIS TIE

Joe Collins intercepted a pass and ran to the two yard line and Leo Luchini carried it over as the North Quincy Alumni came from behind to tie the Dorchester Falcons, 6-6, under the lights at Municipal Stadium in the opening semi-pro football game of the season.

The North Quincy Alumni lineup included: Riley, Keough, Marr, Cataldo, Murray, ends; Eaton, Creedon, LaCamera, Doherty, Smith, tackles; Concannon, Bowen, Pontas, Chambers, guards; Dodd, Bohannon, centers; Gilbody, Sweeney, Jansen, Collins, Reilly, Legg, Luchini, Colletta, backs.

WHITEMAN AA BOWS

Pitcher George Pearson gave up three runs in the first inning and then settled down but it was too late as the Sansone Club of Norwood whipped the Whiteman AA of Quincy, 7-2, to win the first Metropolitan Boston Softball Tournament at Rotary Field.

The Whiteman lineup included: Turcotte lf, Francario cf, Rinaldi 2b, Cedrone c, DiGravio 1b, Carella ss, Giachetti 3b, Thurber rf, Ortiz rf, Pearson p, Jackson ph.

SHIPBUILDERS TIE

The Quincy Shipbuilders, sponsored by Local 5 of the Shipyard Workers Union, came from behind three times to tie the Boston Hakoahs, 4-4, in their Boston and District Soccer League debut at Fore River Field. John O'Neill had a pair of goals for the Shipbuilders.

KENDRICK IN UPSET

Paul Kendrick of North Quincy, a 19-year-old Junior at Boston College, upset medalist Jack Colliton of Arlington in a first round match in the senior division of the CYO Golf Tournament at Ponkapoag. Favorite Ken Campbell of Quincy also advanced.

SPORTS BITS '50

The Quincy Warriors, coached by Nick Malvesti and Lou Volpe, tied the Fairhaven Varsity Club, 0-0, in their season's opener at New Bedford... The North Quincy Associates, with Frank Collins on the mound, were eliminated from the North Atlantic Softball Tournament, 2-1, by Lawrence in the 10th inning.

Former Player New Coach

McPhee Eagerly Awaits North's 50th Season

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy High makes its 50th year of football this fall and one former North player who is eagerly looking forward to it is Ken McPhee, recently named the Raiders' new head coach.

McPhee was selected over a strong list of candidates to replace Dave Burke, another former North standout, who resigned following the 1981 season after seven years as coach of his alma mater.

"I am extremely happy," said McPhee. "I was born and brought up in North Quincy in the shadow of the high school and I consider it a real honor and a privilege to be named the head coach. It is a real challenge and I'm eagerly looking forward to it."

Ken will be the fifth North Quincy coach, following Jack Donahue, Carl Leone, Ralph Frazier and Burke.

Ken played his first football at Atlantic Junior High and his teams were unbeaten when he played for the seventh and eighth grade teams.

He was a two-way starter for North Quincy High under Coach Carl Leone in 1964, '65 and '66 and the Raiders were undefeated in his senior year.

He was an offensive guard and a defensive cornerback during his three seasons at North.

He started for three years as a strong safety at Central Connecticut State College.

He played for two seasons with the old New England Colonials, the first year as strictly a player, the second as player-coach.

He coached for one year in Bristol, Conn., as a student teacher and joined the North Quincy staff under Ralph Frazier, with whom he coached for three seasons.

"Ralph was one of the most knowledgeable football men I've ever met and I learned an awful lot from him," said McPhee. "Although I had played football for several years, I was a novice when it came to coaching. It is a shame Ralph isn't still in football. He is a real fundamentalist and organizationalist."

(Frazier has been highly successful wrestling coach at Duxbury High for the past several years).

When Frazier stepped down, McPhee stayed on as assistant to Burke for seven years.

"Dave was a different type than Ralph, but he also was an outstanding coach with a real knowledge of the game," McPhee said. "Dave made me his defensive coordinator and gave me a free reign. For the past few years Jack Raymer worked with me on defense."

Although Ken is the new North coach, he is still not in the school system. Because of Prop. 2½ he was "riffed," which is a teacher's term for being laid off.

It was nothing new for Ken, who has been laid off from his physical education job a year earlier, only to be called back for a year's stint at Broad Meadows Junior High. Then he was laid off again.

"Jack Raymer was the defensive coordinator last fall," McPhee pointed out. "I helped out, but Jack was in charge of the defense and did a standout job. I hope to be my defensive coordinator."

McPhee has two assistants back, Raymer and Ted Sadowski, the dean of South Shore coaches who will be starting his 25th season as a North assistant.

"They are just great and this year I'm going to use Ted as a varsity assistant, although he will continue to have charge of the junior varsity and sophomore programs. This year there will be no organized junior high sports, which is certainly going to hurt us, and the junior varsity program will be mainly sophomores and freshmen, leaving the juniors pretty much in limbo. I hope to be able to arrange some games for the freshmen on Saturday mornings and I hope to be able to do something in the junior highs, maybe form an intramural flag football league so the kids will have some football knowledge when they reach high school. I also would like to work with the youth football league."

McPhee has rounded out his staff with the addition of another former North Quincy player, Mark Mulvany, who captained Central Connecticut State, McPhee's alma mater. Mulvany has been teaching on the North Shore.

Gene Macomber, dean of students, who stepped in to help out last year when Prop 2½ hit, will not coach this season.

"All of the coaches will work on both offense and defense," McPhee said. "Raymer will be the defensive coordinator but he, like the rest of us, will work both ways."

"Also, I don't plan to have Ted Sadowski scout as he has for so many years. He is just too valuable to be scouting, he will be much more valuable up in the booth. He knows football inside out. I hope to have some of the alumni help me with the scouting."

"Also, Pete Zoia (a former North great in the early 1930s) will again help us out. He worked with Ted last season and they get along very well together. He will continue to work with Ted in the sophomore-junior varsity program."

Ken pointed out that, with Weymouth North and Weymouth South leaving the Suburban League to join the Old Colony League, North Quincy is the smallest school in the league. North was able to fill only one of the dates, adding Somerville, and will play a nine-game schedule this fall. But it is hoped to add a 10th game in 1983.

"I've always thought of us as the giant-killers in the Suburban League," the new coach said. "That's a nice position to be in. We have a big rebuilding job this season, with only a few varsity returnees, headed by Co-Captains Jim Kelly and Jerry Connolly. But we're not going to be bad. I have a great group of kids and great coaches. We won't be disgraced, that I'll promise, and we'll give anyone a game. I'm sure the great North Quincy tradition will continue."

Now, if only Ken can get his teaching job back, all will be perfect.

DRIVER VISION FACTS

In order to drive safely you have to be able to see well. Any driver whose vision is impaired, even slightly, is an accident waiting to happen. Here are some facts on driver vision which may be of interest and help.

Keeping dashboard lights dim at night helps you see the road better. Your eyesight needs to be at least 20/40 for you to be able to respond to road signals and signs at legal highway speeds. Dirty headlights can reduce illumination as much as 25 percent. Vision studies show that your sight distance shrinks the faster you go. At 20mph a driver can identify objects 80 feet further away than he can at 60mph.

A heavy meal can cause drowsiness and vision flaws in drivers. It's better for a motorist to eat several light snacks during a trip than one substantial meal. And, if you are caught driving in a night fog, your headlights should be on low beam for best vision since fog reflects headlight glare.

Adult Education Registration Set

Full registration for the Quincy Public Schools Adult and Continuing Education Program will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Sept. 13, 14, 15 and 16 in the Vocational Technical School cafeteria.

Late registration will be held on Sept. 20, 21, 22 and 23 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., also in the Voch Tech cafeteria.

About 70 courses will be offered in the areas of practical arts, special interest, trade extension and vocational education. All courses will begin the week of Sept. 27 and run for 10 weeks.

Among the practical arts offerings are courses in cake decorating, chair caning, clothing, crocheting, floral decorations, furniture refinishing, household renovations, knitting, macrame, needlepoint, oil painting, oriental rug hooking, photography, quilting, stained glass, upholstery, water color painting and wood sculpture.

Trade extension courses offered include air conditioning and refrigeration, digital computer technology, electrical code and theory, electronics, machine shop practice, offset printing, television service and plumbing code and theory.

The vocational courses include auto body, automobile service, blue-print reading, drafting, mill carpentry, oil burner service, small engine repair, welding, and woodworking.

Typing, bookkeeping, travel agent career and aerobics are among the special interest courses offered.

For students interested in preparing for the high school equivalency examination, an adult basic education program is offered in the areas of reading, writing, spelling, mathematics, social studies and science.

Persons desiring detailed information about the Fall Schedule may obtain a brochure at the Thomas Crane Main and Atlantic Libraries, Quincy Vocational Technical School and Quincy Junior College.

Wilhelmina Harris Speaker AT QCA Meeting

Wilhelmina Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, was scheduled to be the speaker yesterday (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club.

Mrs. Harris, one of the leading authorities on the Adams family, will speak on the significance of the Adams houses, the workings of the National Park Service in Quincy, and her concerns about Quincy's failure to take advantage of its historical sites.

Marion Gallagher Receives Master's Degree — 31 Years Later

Thirty-one years after receiving her undergraduate degree, Marion Gallagher of Medfield, a Wollaston native, has been graduated with a master's degree in food and nutrition.

Mrs. Gallagher, who lives with her husband, Jack, an insurance executive who also is a Quincy native, recently was awarded a master's of science degree from Framingham State College.

A 1948 Regis College graduate, Mrs. Gallagher also recently completed a six-month internship through the Norfolk County Extension Service in Quincy. The internship, a part of her registered dietician requirement, was in community nutrition.

Mrs. Gallagher, a 1943 North Quincy High School graduate, has worked as a dietician for the Visiting Nurses' Association in Roxbury and most recently for Carney Hospital, Dorchester. She also has taught elementary school in Springfield.

Ralph Farris Choral Society Director

Ralph H. Farris of Dover has been chosen director of the 100 voice Quincy Choral Society which will begin rehearsals Monday, Sept. 13, at 8 p.m. at East Congregational Church, 610 Adams St., Milton.

Farris will conduct the chorus during the 1982-1983 season while Robert E. Brown, the society's regular director, is on a leave of absence.

Andrew W. Nelson of Wollaston, president of the Quincy Choral Society, said, "We are indeed fortunate to obtain Ralph as he is one of the most talented choral conductors in New England.

He has been involved with choral singing since obtaining his master's degree in choral conducting from Westminster Choir College in 1964 and has directed many school, church, college and community choruses.

Mr. Farris has taken choruses on tour to England, France, Russia, Finland, Germany and Canada as well as conducting the Roxbury Latin School chorus in appearances at Pops.

We really look forward to an exciting, productive year."

The Quincy Choral Society is open to all area singers who desire to be part of a group which enjoys fine choral singing and the sociability that goes with it.

A Christmas concert is planned for early December, an appearance at the City of Quincy Christmas festival, a concert in March and, finally, a program of light "POP's" style music in late spring.

For more information, call Hugo Lira in Milton at 698-9047 or Andy Nelson in Wollaston at 479-6343.

Garry Brennan On Footlight Parade Committee

Garry Brennan of Kidder St., Quincy, is serving on the Public Service Committee for the fourth annual Footlight Parade, a benefit for the Boston Theatre District.

The event returns for an encore to the Boston Park Plaza Hotel Friday, Oct. 8, at 9 p.m.

The annual event focuses on the Theatre District tenants (theatres, shops, hotels and restaurants) and highlights the significant role theatre plays in Boston's cultural and social life.

There'll be dancing to the beat of two bands, but the evening's entertainment will be provided by the guests, costumed as their favorite characters of stage and screen, as they promenade down an illuminated runway before a panel of distinguished judges to compete for dozens of prizes donated by area merchants.

Open Auditions For 'A Romantic Comedy'

Curtain Call Theatre of Braintree announces open auditions for Bernard Slade's "A Romantic Comedy" Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 7 and 8, at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse, Faxon and Commercial Sts. The production will be directed by Tommie Stevens.

Two men and four women of various ages are needed. For more information, call 848-8246.

3 Residents Participate In 'Moon Mission'

Three Quincy residents, Chris Baughman, Nancy Cunningham, and David Meleedy, were among 30 junior volunteers who participated recently in simulation of an Apollo moon mission at Boston's Museum of Science.

The event marked national Space Awareness Week.

The volunteers had nine months training for the simulation which included blast-off to splashdown using the museum's full scale Apollo spacecraft models, computers and other equipment.

CP Fashion Show A Hit

DINNER AND FASHION SHOW were held recently at Sons of Italy Social Center, Quincy, by Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore. The third annual event was sponsored by the Women's Committee. Mrs. Janice Walsh escorted Stephanie Greene down the runway. (Quincy Sun photos by Stephen O'Gara)

'Meet the Candidates' On Cable Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television, Cable Channel 3, will offer a variety of public affairs programming during the week of Sept. 6.

"Meet the Candidates" will premiere Sept. 6 at 7 p.m. Taped at Tobin Towers in Quincy Aug. 18, the program provides a look at candidates Andrew Card, Michael Dukakis, Gov. Edward King, and John Sears.

John Lakian was invited, but did not attend the forum.

Quincy's Council on Aging sponsored the program, and Brian Buckley served as moderator.

Community producer Ron Iacobucci has produced "Campaign '82", an informational program dealing with the current gubernatorial campaign.

It will feature Steve McGrath, Ward 5 city councillor and Quincy coordinator of the King campaign, as well as Paula Golden, local Dukakis campaign coordinator.

Viewers can watch this program Friday, Sept. 10 at 2 p.m. and Monday Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Women's Fitness Program To Begin Sept. 13

The Quincy Recreation Department announces registration for its nine week Women's Body Fitness Program which begins Monday, Sept. 13.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Anita Argyle, will be conducted Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings at the Fore River Clubhouse, Quincy Point.

There are two separate groups of instruction at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first serve basis at the Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Course fee must be paid at the time of registration.

Kidney Association To Hold Benefit Dance

Plans for a benefit dance and drawing to be held in October will be discussed at a meeting of the Kidney Transplant and Dialysis Association, Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting, as well as the dance, will be held at the Morrisette Legion Post, 54 Miller St., West Quincy.

Chance books will be distributed at the meeting. Volunteers are welcome.

The dance will be held Saturday, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m.

Acknowledgements are slow in coming, speak up at an opportune time. Friend may be carried away with self. It could be time to suggest that he/she ends this indulgence.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Leadership role is yours this week, the key is to set a super example. Health worries should be investigated. This is not the time to play the martyr.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Try your hand at writing fiction. You can really shine in this area. Bargaining, though, is not a current strength. Better to shop at reliable spots and pay retail prices.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Reunions and reconciliations are accented this week. Loved one may make some unreasonable financial demands. Arrange a discussion before making any sacrifices.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Transportation may pose minor headaches, so allow for additional travel time through week. Communication network is becoming unmanageable. In romance, though, it's all very smooth sailing.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Do it yourself projects, such as moving, may not be worth the headache. Travel is favorably aspected for you and family. Also highlighted are creative and literary activities.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Partnership activities can bring profitable results and some social fringe benefits. Time is right to toughen your stand on a controversial family matter. Work rival can be crafty.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Artistic pursuits are accented, with the emphasis on experimentation. Agreements arranged now are binding. Glamorous moments alternate with the humdrum during this unpredictable week.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
The ham in you is peeking out, and the week accents involvement in dramatic and public speaking roles. Spend quiet times with partner, reviewing short-term goals and outlining expectations.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Political debates heat up quickly, be prepared to question your challenger's logic. Domestic conflict eases, financial bonanza arrives by Wednesday. Friend becomes more supportive.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Delayed projects are reactivated — several at one time. Announcements don't receive the anticipated reaction, whether positive or negative. Weekend repair jobs are highly time consuming.

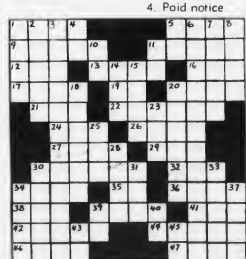

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
It's the kind of week in which everyone's opinions are changing. Still, a somewhat shaky relationship is stabilizing. Also on tap are favorable opportunities for buying, selling, bartering.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
When you're in love you give your all. You're not only compassionate but self-sufficient and meticulous. Sometimes life's countless details hold you back. Opportunities to increase earnings open up early in '83, so long as you see the forest as well as the trees.

BORN THIS WEEK
September 2nd, writer Cleveland Amory; 3rd, actor Alan Ladd; 4th, industrialist Henry Ford II; 5th, actress Raquel Welch; 6th, actress Jo Anne Worley; 7th, actor Peter Lawford; 8th, actor Peter Sellers.

Susan Stanziani Honored For Leadership

Susan T. Stanziani, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanziani of 94 Merrymount Rd., has been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders as a Suffolk University student.

She will be listed in the 1982 edition of Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges.

The Suffolk University campus nominating committee and editors of the annual directory have included Miss Stanziani for listing because of her academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

She joins an elite group of students selected from more than 1400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states and several foreign nations.

At Suffolk her main extracurricular activities include the Gold Key Society, cheerleading, Democratic club, political science club, pre-law association, President of the Sociology club, and Psychology club.

She has also been active in honor societies including Alpha Kappa Delta, Delta Alpha Pi Dean's Honor Society, Phi Sigma Tau Honor Society, Pi Gamma Mu, Psi Chi, Psychology Honors, Sociology Honors and Humanities Honors.

Miss Stanziani is a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School.

Stolen Car Damaged

A 1974 Ford Torino, reported stolen Sunday by Robert J. Pocius of Brackett St., Quincy Center, was recovered Monday on Sandy Beach, spray painted, its windshield smashed and the interior damaged.

Terence Lynn Candidate For County Commissioner

Terence W. Lynn, president of an insurance appraisal firm and chairman of the Braintree School Committee, has announced his candidacy for Norfolk County commissioner.

Lynn, 38, who is one of three candidates for the Democratic nomination, said he is running because he believes that the commissioner's office should be more responsive to the voters of the county.

He said he feels his knowledge of real estate, insurance and construction and his financial and administrative experience would be of value in making county government more effective.

A product of the Milton school system, he was graduated from the University of Vermont and attended Suffolk Law School, Suffolk Graduate School of Business and Administration and Wentworth Institute.

He is president of Korchin and Lynn Public Fire Loss Adjusters, Inc., of Braintree. He is a member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers and the National Association of Public Insurance Adjusters.

TERENCE W. LYNN

Lynn has served as an alternate member of the Braintree Zoning Board of Appeals and has been active in the town's Little League baseball, Youth Hockey and St. Clare's church basketball teams. He and his wife, the former Jane Gullivan of Milton, have three children.

He's Been Working For You For 17 Years!

That's Right!

Atty. Nicholas Barbadoro has been working in the Norfolk Superior Court Clerks office for 17 years. He's a dedicated and innovative public official who knows the law and knows our court system.

The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts voted unanimously to appoint him Clerk of Courts. The highest court in the Commonwealth chose Nicholas Barbadoro because he's been doing the job so well. Now he needs your help, he needs your vote to stay on the job.

Sun Pledge Center Raises $29,482 For Jerry's Kids

By HENRY BOSWORTH

We were down, but up, too.

The Quincy South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon pledge center based at The Quincy Sun raised $29,482 over the Labor Day weekend.

That's down from last year, reflecting the economic times.

But with some $32,000 realized in pre-telethon events, it brings the committee's figure so far this year to $61,482 with money still coming in from a number of events.

And, it puts the pledge center and committee well over the half-million dollar mark for the six year total which was the goal for this year.

The six year total (so far): $532,491. (The five-year total was $470,984).

That puts us on the road to the $1 million mark.

It was a long, hard weekend, but it was worth it to the 200 volunteers who worked the various shifts at the pledge center over the 24-hour period. It is now heading for 9 p.m. Monday as this is being written and some of us are still here: Aldo Saluti, Peter and Norma Gacicia, Tom McDonald, Rita Kelleher, Joe and Vera Sullivan, Deputy sheriffs Steve Finegan and Mike Marinucci.

Telephone pledges amounted to $24,246 and the fishbowl receipts were $5,236.

It was an historic year for the pledge center. For the very first time, activities were televised live over The Quincy Sun Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems on Labor Day.

And, good friend, WJDA was here again this year broadcasting live Labor Day.

The figures on the tote board shown here changed upward. Pledges went up to $24,246 and fishbowl receipts to $5,236, bringing the weekend total to $29,482.

Only 33% Turnout Seen

Court Clerks Race Top Local Battle

There may be excitement around the state over the primary elections Tuesday, Sept. 14, but the races apparently have failed to enthrall the voters of Quincy.

City Clerk John M. Gillis forecasts a turnout of about 33 per cent of Quincy's 47,154 registered voters for the primary that has only one race of high local interest.

"There are no real local fights," said Gillis. "There's the governor's race, lieutenant governor, clerk of courts. That's not enough to excite more than one out of three voters, which is about average."

The only race with a strong local flavor is that for Norfolk County Clerk of Courts, where eight Democratic candidates, two of them from Quincy, are fighting over a vacancy.

The job opened up when John Concannon of Braintree resigned to become a judge in Boston Juvenile Court.

The Quincy candidates for the post are Nicholas Barbadoro, the longtime assistant clerk who was named to fill Concannon's unexpired term last summer, and Joseph LaRaia, City Councillor and former Mayor.

The others in the race are Robert Bloom, assistant clerk at Quincy District Court; Robert O. Flynn, assistant clerk at Stoughton District Court; William G. Bergin of Needham; Michael J. Joyce of Braintree, Elizabeth

E. Laing, also of Braintree; and Paula O'Brien-Killion of Milton.

There is no Republican candidate for the clerk's post so the winner of the Democratic primary will face Martha (Marti) Monell of Brookline, a probation officer at Quincy District Court, who is running as an independent, in the November general election.

A former Quincy man, Joseph E. McLaughlin of Weymouth, who once worked in the Quincy Planning Department, is one of three candidates for county commissioner.

Since George McDonald, one of the three current commissioners, is from Quincy and no community

McCauley Sees Vindication But:

Eaton Will Continue Job Fight

By TOM HENSHAW

A federal judge has ruled against ousted Water Supt., Owen Eaton in his bid to regain his job but Eaton does not plan to go quietly.

"This is not a total victory for the city," said his attorney, Deirdre Harris. "The judge did not decide any of the Civil Service issues. We intend to pursue remedies on the state level now."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he sees the decision by Judge Robert Keeton as a vindication of his administration's layoff procedures.

"An impartial federal judge has put them under a microscope and found there is no evidence to show we have picked on anyone who worked against us in the last campaign," said the mayor.

"We have tried to do the job the right way, impartially with no politics involved, and the judge confirmed that we have done it."

Harris saw it differently.

"The judge made no rulings regarding Mr. Eaton's claims under state law," she said. "He just held that the evidence we presented did not rise to the level of a federal constitutional violation."

She said she was hampered greatly by the attitudes of city workers in gathering evidence to support Eaton's claims.

"I feel it is unfortunate that I met with a great deal of resistance in talking to people," she said. "Many city workers told me they were afraid they would lose their jobs. They changed their stories."

Harris said she felt that a quote attributed to City Solicitor William Golden by the Patriot Ledger would have the effect of "chilling the rights" of city employees.

Golden was quoted as saying, "This shows that it's going to be a lot easier to file a case against the McCauley administration than it is to win a case."

That, said Harris, shows "an insensitivity to the rights of city employees."

Eaton lost his job as water superintendent when the Water and Sewer Divisions were combined and the new top job went to Russell Eranio, then sewer superintendent.

Eaton charged that he was

Walpole Escaper Sought In Quincy

Quincy Police were on the lookout Tuesday for Leroy Chasson, 33, serving life in MCI Walpole for the 1977 slaying of a Quincy man, who escaped Monday with the aid of a gun-toting woman in a nurse's uniform.

Chasson, who had addresses in a number of places including Weymouth, fled under an exchange of gunshots from Norwood Hospital where he was taken for treatment of a stab wound, possibly self-inflicted.

He was serving a life sentence for first degree murder in the stabbing death of Paul Melody, 20, of Quincy, son of a Boston police officer in a dispute at Pageant Field.

Storage Robbed

Janet M. Staley of 1071 Southern Artery reported to police Monday that a chain saw, an electric drill, a sander and a tennis racket were stolen from a storage bin in the basement of her apartment building.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley plans to ask the City Council for an as yet undetermined amount of money at its Sept. 20 meeting to pay for an update of recently certified property revaluation figures.

The new 100 per cent real value figures, the results of 18 months work by P.R.C. Jacobs of McLean, Va., were approved by the state last week.

The next step in the process, said

McCauley, will be to negotiate a final payment to Jacobs for its services, which were fulfilled well after the contractual deadline.

"We have $110,000 with which to pay Jacobs," said McCauley. "What is left after we negotiate a settlement will be applied to getting an update of the figures."

The Jacobs figures are based on values as of Jan. 1, 1981.

Once a settlement is reached with Jacobs he said the Jacobs computer tapes will be turned over to Municipal Appraisal Service Corp. of Fall River to be updated. They bid $180,000 for the job.

McCauley estimated that the entire update procedure, including the mailing of impact notices to taxpayers and holding hearings on their protests, will take until March 1, 1983.

Second half tax bills should be in the mail by April 1, he said.

4 Stores Negotiating For Sears, Touraine Buildings

some sort in four to six weeks.

Two of the prospective tenants are interested in the Hancock St. level of the Sears Building and one is negotiating to lease the lower level that fronts on the Parkway.

The fourth firm is interested in the Touraine building next door.

The buildings are managed by the Boston firm of Meredith and Grew for the Faxon estate.

Lydon said the interested tenants are chain-type operators who need to clear leases with real estate department and boards of directors before coming to a firm agreement.

Tozzi To Coordinate Special Education

Louis P. Tozzi, former mathematics and special education teacher, has been named acting coordinator of special education in the Quincy Public Schools for the 1982-83 school year.

He replaced Dr. Patricia B. Del-Val, who has been granted a leave of absence for a year to return to a special education teaching position.

Tozzi, author of a workbook series on "Mathematics and Sports", is former chairman of the Chapter 766 (special education) TEAM at Central Junior High School.

He is perhaps best known as track coach at North Quincy High School for which he was named coach of the year by Boston newspapers in 1976 and 1981.

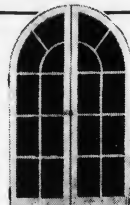

Citywide Parents Council To Meet

The Citywide Parents Council will hold its first meeting of the 1982-83 school year Monday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Media Center of Central Middle School on Hancock St.

All Quincy residents are invited to attend the council meetings which are held on the second Monday of every month throughout the school year.

Finn Stresses Liquor License Responsibility

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

In light of recent tragedies involving drinking and driving, Police Chief Francis Finn stressed the responsibilities of those granted one day liquor licenses for social functions Tuesday.

"It's a very serious responsibility now," Finn told applicants at the License Board meeting.

"The person whose name is on the license is responsible for seeing that people do not leave inebriated."

Finn said that if an auto accident should result, the person in whose name the license was issued could be held liable.

Those granted liquor licenses at this week's meeting were:

- D. Denton Davis, chairman of the City of Presidents Cup Committee, a one day malt license for Sunday, Sept. 12, at the McIntyre Mall.

- Committee to Re-Elect Governor King, a one day all alcoholic license for a reception Friday, Sept. 10, 6:30 to 11 p.m. at 2 Heritage Drive.

- Committee to Elect Joseph LaRaia Clerk of Courts, a one day all alcoholic license for today (Thursday) 8 p.m. to midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas hall.

- Quincy Youth Soccer League, a one day all alcoholic license for a dance Saturday, Sept. 11, 8 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

- Emerald Society of the Boston Police Department, a one day all alcoholic license for Friday, Sept. 10, 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus hall.

- Mary Dawson, a one day all alcoholic license for a fund raiser Saturday, Oct. 2, at the National Fire Protection Association, Batterymarch Park, to benefit Martha Donaghue who was injured in a gymnastics accident.

- Brian Buckley, a one day all alcoholic license for a testimonial for Gerald Phelan Tuesday, Sept. 14, 7:30 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Some Beaches Unhealthy Over Labor Day Weekend

Healthwise, a number of Quincy beaches were not in the best condition for the Labor Day weekend.

Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey reported prior to the holiday that nine of the city's saltwater bathing beaches had coliform bacteria counts over the standard 700 in a sampling taken Monday.

They were Mound St. 1,200; Town River Yacht Club 7,500;

Post Island Rd. 3,500; Heron Rd. 5,000; Merrymount 1,200; and Wollaston Beach at Rice Rd. 8,500; Sachem St. 8,000; Channing St. 4,500 and Milton Rd. 4,000.

Dr. Hussey said a sampling was taken Tuesday, but the results would not be known until later in the week.

The beaches were not closed to swimming, she said, but they were not in the most healthful condition due to pollution.

Court Clerks Race Top Local Battle

in the county is permitted to have more than one commissioner, there is no Quincy candidate.

Others in the race are the incumbent, David C. Ahearn of Norwood, and Terence W. Lynn of Braintree.

The races that have aroused the most excitement statewide are those for governor on both the Republican and Democratic ballots and lieutenant governor on the Democratic side.

The Democratic governor's fight between Gov. Edward J. King and former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis is a repeat of the struggle in 1978 when King wrested the nomination away from then Gov. Dukakis.

King won in Quincy in 1978 by a margin of 11,726 over Dukakis' 9,477. A third candidate in that race, Barbara Ackerman of Cambridge, drew 1,024, mostly from the Dukakis side.

This year it's King and Dukakis head to head with no third candidate.

On the Republican ballot, the only contest is that for governor, where Rep. Andrew H. Card Jr. of Holbrook, veteran Boston politician John Sears and Westwood businessman John Lakan are contesting for the prize.

The Democratic fight for the nomination for lieutenant governor includes John F. Kerry of Newton, Evelyn Murphy of Brookline, Louis Nickinello of Natick, Lois G. Pines of Newton and Samuel Rotondi of Winchester.

Unopposed on Tuesday's ballot are candidates for:

U.S. Senate - Edward M. Kennedy of Barnstable, Democrat; Ray Shamie, of Walpole, Republican.

Lieutenant Governor - Leon J. Lombardi of Easton, Republican.

Attorney General - Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy, Democrat; Richard L. Wainwright of Brockton, Republican.

Secretary - Michael J. Connolly of Boston, Democrat; Jodie DeRoma Dow of Brookline, Republican.

Treasurer - Robert O. Crane of Wellesley, Democrat; Mary J. LeClair of Mashpee, Republican.

Auditor - John J. Finnegan of Boston, Democrat; Michael S. Robertson of Berkley, Republican.

Congress - Brian J. Donnelly of Boston, Democrat.

Governor's Councillor - Peter L. Eley of Quincy, Democrat.

State Senator - Paul D. Harold of Quincy, Democrat.

State Rep., 1st Norfolk - Michael W. Morrissey of Quincy, Democrat.

State Rep. 2nd Norfolk - Thomas F. Brownell of Quincy, Democrat.

State Rep. 3rd Norfolk - Robert A. Cerasoli of Quincy, Democrat; Gerard E. Lawler of Weymouth, Republican.

District Attorney - William D. Delahunt of Quincy, Democrat.

Register of Deeds - Barry T. Hannon of Braintree, Democrat.

The 47,154 registered voters in Quincy breaks down to 29,382 Democrats, 6,573 Republicans and 11,199 unenrolled.

By TOM HENSHAW

Delahunt Endorses Barbadoro For Clerk

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt has endorsed Nicholas Barbadoro for the post of clerk of courts in Norfolk County.

Barbadoro, who lives in Quincy, was appointed during the summer to fill out the term of John Concannon, who resigned to become a judge in Boston Juvenile Court.

A long time assistant clerk of courts, he is seeking the Democratic nomination for a full term in the top job in the primary election Sept. 14.

"It is critical to law enforcement to have a person with experience and expertise in the clerk's office," said Delahunt in his endorsement.

"Nick Barbadoro has that expertise, that experience and has made a career committed to the office of clerk of courts. It's an honor to vote for him."

Cerasoli Supports King

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has announced his endorsement of Gov. Edward J. King for reelection in the Sept. 14 primary.

"I am supporting Gov. King because his stand on the issues have more consistently represented the interests of my constituents than his predecessor."

Cerasoli listed some of those issues as the death penalty, mandatory sentences for serious drug offenders, raising the drinking age and the outlawing of drug paraphernalia.

He said King is "the first chief executive in recent memory to bring the residents of Quincy more meaningful property tax relief" plus generous amounts of state aid.

Raymondi Backs Rotondi

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli of Quincy is one of the favorite Democratic legislators of the Citizens for Limited Taxation.

C.L.T., which shepherded Proposition 2½ into law, gave Cerasoli a 76 per cent rating on votes related to Prop 2½, the sixth highest among 124 Democrats.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey got 56 per cent and Rep. Thomas F.

Brownell 41 per cent ratings. The average score for all state reps was 52 per cent, for Democrats 44 per cent, for Republicans 84 per cent.

The ratings are based on what C.L.T. called 25 key roll call votes.

'Campaign '82' On Cable Ch. 3

"Campaign '82" an informational program dealing with the current gubernatorial campaign, will be shown tomorrow (Friday) at 2 p.m. and Monday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m. on Quincy Community Television, Cable Channel 3.

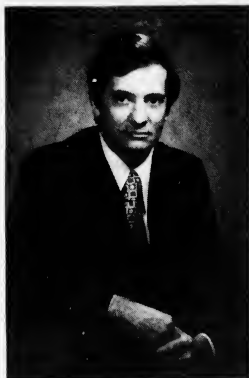

The program will feature Stephen McGrath, Ward 5 city councillor and a supporter of Gov. Edward J. King, and William Golden, city Solicitor and a campaigner for former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

LaRaia Fund Raiser

The Committee to Elect Joseph J. LaRaia Clerk of Courts will hold a fund-raising reception Thursday, Sept. 9, from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

Tickets at $5 per person are available by calling LaRaia headquarters at 471-9668 or 471-7049 or at the door.

ADULT BASIC EDUCATION

A program for adults with less than a high school education for improvement of knowledge and skills in the following areas: Reading, Writing, Spelling, Math, Social Studies, and Science. When individuals have become proficient in the five (5) areas, applications may be made to take the high school equivalency examination. The high school equivalency diploma is recognized as being equal to a four-year high school diploma by business, industry, the Civil Service Commission, the United States Armed Forces, licensing bureaus and institutions of higher learning. Classes will be held at the Quincy High School Method Center and the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

Fall River Firm To Update Assessment Figures

Municipal Appraisal Service Corporation of Fall River has been chosen by the city to update assessment figures at a cost of $18,000.

The Fall River firm, which was second lowest of three bidders, was chosen because it has the personnel and the computers to do the job, according to Assessor Patricia Ceriani.

Municipal Appraisal, which recently completed revaluation in Weymouth, was the unanimous choice of the three member board of assessors, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The mayor said he will ask that funds for the assessment be appropriated at the Sept. 20 city council meeting.

Some of the $100,000 that the city held back from PRC Jacobs which did the original revaluation may be used to pay for the new assessment, according to McCauley.

The March 1983 bills will reflect the new property values.

Estimated tax bills, which will be due Nov. 1, are scheduled to be mailed by the end of this month.

Social scientists used to worry that when women went to work they'd have the same heart problems as men. Not so. Physiologist studying data from the famed Framingham Heart Study reports that working women do not have any higher rate of coronary heart disease than stay-at-homes.

To help dieters eat less and lose weight, some doctors have reduced the size of the stomach, or disconnected part of the intestines. Danish doctors have devised a simpler alternative: passing a balloon by tube into the stomach and blowing it up to partially fill the space.

What does your headache mean? Headaches of one woman in Oregon signal the onset of geological activity, such as the eruption of Mount St. Helens. Doctors theorize that she is sensitive to electromagnetic waves that may result from changing pressures in the earth's crust.

Judge Keeton dismissed Eaton's complaint that he was deprived of his right of due process and denied him injunctive relief on the free speech and political association charges.

The defendants in the case were the city of Quincy, Mayor McCauley and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson as individuals.

Still pending is a Civil Service hearing in December into whether or not the new Sewer, Water and Drain Department was set up properly by simply establishing a budget for it.

Civil Service has contended that an ordinance is also necessary.

Judge Keeton ruled that Eaton "failed to establish his claim that he has been deprived of property without due process of law."

"Plaintiff's property interest in his employment with the city of Quincy, the precise characteristics of which are determinable under state law, was and is protected by remedies under state law.

"On the record before me, I cannot determine that those remedies are so flawed that plaintiff will be denied due process even though he takes reasonable steps to pursue them."

On the free speech and political association charges, Judge Keeton said Eaton "failed to satisfy the requirement of showing that he will suffer irreparable injury if the relief he seeks is not granted."

'Day Of Joy' Sunday At Bethany Church

Bethany Church will celebrate a "Day of Joy" Sunday with the opening of the church school and welcoming back of the children.

At the 10 a.m. worship hour in the sanctuary a "Service of Joy" will be led by the ministers, with songs, guitar, prayers, readings, poems and brief meditation.

All children, youth and teachers of the church school will attend the first portion of this special service.

Everyone planning to attend this 10 a.m. worship is requested to bring a bunch of garden flowers, or a potted plant, along to church to add color and beauty to the service.

New and continuing church school pupils are requested to come a half-hour early at 9:30 a.m. to register for the 1982-1983 school year.

Registration will take place in the large hallway outside Allen Parlor in the Parish House. New students will be welcomed and enrolled, as well as, returning pupils.

A special congregational meeting is scheduled for 11 a.m. in the sanctuary to act on a proposed change in the by-laws.

At 12:30 p.m. a bus will leave from Bethany Church for an "Apple Picking Picnic" at Doe Orchards, Harvard. All ages are invited, families and singles.

Children must be accompanied by an adult. The bus is free.

Those going on the bus trip are requested to bring their own picnic lunch to eat and share. There will be a stop for home-made ice cream on the return trip.

Reservations are necessary for the bus. Call the church office 479-7300.

The Houghs Neck Congregational Church Sunday School Rally Day will be held Sunday, Sept. 12.

Family worship service led by Dr. Peter V. Corea and Rev. Alicia Corea will begin at 9:30 a.m., followed by Sunday School registration of children age 3 through grade 12.

Fellowship and refreshments will be shared in Fellowship Hall. Rally Day is sponsored by the Board of Christian Education.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers, one a mail subscriber, to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the weeks five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

Only one member of a household is eligible to compete in any one week and no one is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This weeks Quincy Quiz:

1. One of the vanished veterans organizations in Quincy is the Paul J. Revere GAR. What does GAR stand for?
2. The number of housing units in Quincy is about: 23,000? 35,000? 50,000?
3. What is the name of the president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce?
4. What well-known Quincy landmark is located in 1237 Hancock St.
5. What is the name of the football coach at North Quincy High School?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Franklin C. Jay is Quincy's treasurer and tax collector.
2. The oldest member of the Quincy City Council is Theodore P. DeCristofaro.
3. Watkins St. is in the Wollaston section of the city.
4. False. Herb Fontaine is the news director of WJDA.
5. Roxie's Market is located at 379 Southern Artery.

Wollaston Facility Granted 1 Day Alcohol License

The Quincy License Board granted a one-day all alcoholic license Tuesday for the Wollaston Recreational Facility even though it had adopted a policy of not issuing such licenses until February, 1983.

"They've done a very fine job with the beer and wine license," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "We haven't had any difficulties."

The one-day license was issued to the South Shore Rotary Council for its annual Golf and Tennis Tournament Wednesday, Sept. 15, with an 11 p.m. closing.

"Their (the Rotary's) reputation is impeccable," said John Nourse, facility administrator.

Nourse credited the License Board with playing a large part in helping the facility turn a deficit into a surplus when it issued a beer and wine license Feb. 16, 1982.

"Without the beer and wine license, we'd still have a deficit," said Nourse. "We're over the hump, and we should never have a deficit again."

The facility had long sought an all alcoholic license, but because of neighborhood and other opposition changed the application to a beer and wine license which was granted.

The board adopted a policy April 6 that "no one day all alcoholic licenses be issued for any group activity on Wollaston Recreational Facility for at least one year from the date of issuance of the wine and malt license."

But Finn pointed out, "the traffic (for this event) will be when kids are in school."

He suggested the board give the facility "an opportunity to try this once and see if they get along as well with the neighbors."

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action Tuesday morning at its first meeting of the fall season.

Bottle Bill Committee To Meet Thursday

The Quincy Committee To Save the Massachusetts Bottle Bill will hold an open meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Parks Dept., 100 Southern Artery.

Purpose of the meeting will be to coordinate the efforts of the committee on behalf of the deposit legislation, which will appear on the November referendum as Question 4.

A majority of the voters must approve the law before it can go into effect on January 1983.

The Quincy Committee is planning a city-wide clean-up Sept. 25 to highlight the need for a Massachusetts Bottle Bill, as well as several other pro-Bottle Bill activities before the election.

Citizens interested in joining the committee or volunteering a few hours of time, are asked to call Clara Yeomans at 773-5306 or Mary Quinn at 471-6974.

Fires Take 6,823 Lives, Cause $6.6-B Damage

Destructive fire took a toll of an estimated 6,823 lives and $6,676,000,000 in property damage in the United States in 1981, the Quincy-based National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) reports.

Total number of fires attended by fire departments last year was 2,893,500.

Fire fatalities in the general "civilian" population — not including fire fighters — not including 6,700, a 3 percent increase over 1980, Fire fighter deaths in the line of duty totaled 123, down 8 percent.

NFPA's analysis of the nation's fire problem appears in the September issue of Fire Journal, the Association's bimonthly magazine for its membership. NFPA is the nation's independent, non-profit center of technical and educational information on all phases of the fire problem.

Youth Baseball Registration For 1983 Sept. 11

Registration for the Quincy Youth Baseball Leagues' 1983 season will be held Saturday, Sept. 11, from 9 a.m. to noon at North Quincy K. of C. Hall, corner of Hancock Street and Hollis Avenue, North Quincy.

Anyone who played Junior Farm, Triple A, International or 12-year-old Junior League must register as well as any 8-15 olders wishing to join the program. Application fee is 50 cents. Information on tryout dates will be issued on registration day.

'Special Constables' For Plaza Parking Garage

Two fulltime and two parttime city workers have been assigned to gate and maintenance duty at the city-owned parking garage at Quincy Center Plaza as an anti-crime measure.

Personnel Director Donald Hansen said plans are to have the four sworn in as special constables sometime this week to give them power to make arrests in and around the garage.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley recently got a letter from the State Department of Education, whose offices are in the Plaza, citing an incident of violence against a woman employee near the garage.

McCauley said the hiring of the four new employees, all of whom had previously been laid off from other city jobs, had been in the works prior to receipt of the letter.

"There was only one incident but that is one too many," said the mayor. He said the letter informed him that "a woman had signed an affidavit that a guy had lunged at her in the walkway to the T station."

At the time, the garage was covered by the city's General Services Department on an overtime basis.

The first of the new employees, Herbert Driscoll, who had been laid off as a painter in General Services, went to work at the garage full time Aug. 18.

He was joined on Aug. 30 by Joseph Cote, a former employee of the Park Department.

The two parttime workers also were added Aug. 30, Robert Morgan, laid off by the Building Department, and Richard Tapper, a former custodian in the School Department.

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Money actually is still coming in. Even as this is being written the phone rang. On the line was Ron Kaufman, former Quincy boy now political director of the Republican National Committee. He called in a $25 pledge from Springfield, Va.

Over 1800 pledges were handled here. And the youngsters came by the hundreds to feed the fishbowl.

It really renews your faith in humanity. There are so many nice people. Give them a worthy cause like the fight against muscular dystrophy and they are there to help you.

Money is still coming in. George Parker of the Yellow Cab Co. of Quincy who has always been generous when it comes to Jerry's Kids couldn't make it to the pledge center Monday. But he was in early Tuesday with $400 in checks — a $200 check from Yellow Cab and a $200 personal one.

So many things happened so fast and so many people were in and out of The Sun office Labor Day I'll never remember everyone by name. But I'll never forget what all of you did. People like:

Norma and Peter Gacicia, the Bryan VW Post's Tom McDonald, Rita Kelleher, Joe and Vera Sullivan who are still here trying to figure out the final figures and put the place back together again... Ken Runge, who has been with us all the way each telethon the past five years but couldn't this year because of business commitments over the weekend. But he called in a $50 pledge... John Poreca of Vesco, Inc. who donated a $400 game-program computer as a prize to help bring money to the fishbowl. In past years he donated three microwave ovens and a color TV set. His wife, Joan, each year helps man the phones... Arthur Chandler of the Wollaston Theater, who for the fourth year donated 100 tickets to that theater as prizes and again helped work the phones... Young Joey DiChristofaro of Sumner St., Quincy Point, who came in two weeks before the telethon started with $15.51 for the fishbowl... And Katherine Ryan of Edinboro Rd. also of Quincy Point, another early bird who donated $10 Friday... Dorothy Newton of Howe St., Quincy, who phoned in the first pledge — $25 — a couple of hours before the telethon started...
